Guide takes goals to entire student body

Notre Dame Student Government is taking Guide to the masses.

Today Student Government begins a campaign to increase responses to the troubled course guidebook by asking students to take evaluation forms directly to their classes.

According to Student Body President Jonathan Patrick, Student government will distribute a letter to University professors tomorrow asking for their cooperation in assembling class evaluations for The Guide.

Unlike past editions that asked for the active participation of professors in distributing Guide forms, this year’s effort will rely chiefly on student motivation to administer and collect evaluations according to Patrick. The letter requests that instructors who do not want to be evaluated call the Student Government office by this Friday. If a professor is not contacted, they will receive the highest number of votes. There are currently two nominees, Milos and Niki Milos. President: Paulette Raczkowski, Niki Milos.

The University of Notre Dame will receive a $1 million grant from the Dr. Scholl Foundation of Chicago to establish an endowed associate professorship in the department of romance languages and literatures.

“We are most grateful to the Dr. Scholl Foundation for its timely and generous grant,” said Notre Dame President Rev. Edward Malloy. By enabling us to take our first major steps toward the establishment of a doctoral program in romance languages and literatures, it addresses one of our most crucial fundraising priorities.”

A female graduate student was accosted by an unidentified male yesterday afternoon on Bolla Road, according to Chuck Hurley, assistant director of Notre Dame Security.

At about 2:45 p.m., the student was walking along Bolla Road between Janiper Road and O’Hara-Grace Graduate Residences, when a vehicle heading west on Bolla pulled over alongside the student. The vehicle is a “light-colored, square-shaped, older model,” according to a report submitted by the student to security.

The car’s driver — described as a white male, 19-22 years old, with short, light brown, curly hair — then rolled down his window. Thinking that the driver was going to ask for directions, the student approached the car, at which point the driver asked her to perform an unspecified sexual act, according to the student’s report.

In response, the student walked away from the car and reported the incident to security.

Security is currently investigating the incident, Hurley said.
It's the final countdown

I'm not going to lie to you. We are embarking on a break in our three-week academic journey. Yes, kids, we basically haven't read but were supposed to. We have three weeks to read everything we haven't read but were supposed to. We have three weeks to calculate those journeys we were supposed to have been writing daily. We have three weeks to finish those three-page book reports, finish two group projects, and memorize those equations.

In any estimation of things, it's absolutely necessary to take study breaks. And indeed, I do. So I'm going to continue suggestions for study breaks that we'll all need to be taking within these next few weeks. Here it goes:

• If there's snow out there, have a snowball fight. If there's no snow out there, imitate one. Play pretzels, paper wads, and the like. Chase squirrels. I've never tried it, but I hear it's a good time.
• Go buy the Cliffs Notes. You might as well just make your books because you probably won't open them anyway, and there's no need to carry around the excuse of a sightseeing guide.
• Go to Meijer and stock up on cafefein. Be sure to buy it and any product containing excessive amounts of sugar.
• Back off for some of us to forget when we get so interested into our studying, but it really is important. It's even necessary.
• Call a friend who will be going abroad too and get yourself a bit of his or her address. Or throw a bash for some of your finest who will be elsewhere next semester. But don't forget to bring them fares well.
• Play on e-mail or the internet for a while. (Remember this. Everything in moderation.)
• If you're really on top of things, you could stage your own Christmas or do a little Christmas shopping. But if you don't have a lot of time, just shut off work for a moment. Or something. You can shop when you get home. (Do they make belated Christmas cards?)
• Consume a lot of vitamin C, just in case.
• And my personal favorite: sleep. Don't do excessive amounts of sugar. ed beverages and any product containing excessive amounts of sugar. ed beverages and any product containing excessive amounts of sugar. ed beverages and any product containing excessive amounts of sugar. ed beverages and any product containing excessive amounts of sugar.

Medical researchers are optimistic about the Food and Drug Administration's approval of a new drug to fight one of the most lethal forms of leukemia. Promyelocytic leukemia is fairly rare, affecting about 2,500 Americans a year, according to the FDA. But it is one of the most aggressive forms, causing sudden and serious internal bleeding and very rapidly advancing to become life-threatening. Standard therapy is the cancer drug ara-cytosine, but it fails 75 percent of the time, said Dr. Ray Warren of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center. CSC honors former ND professor with citation

The University of Notre Dame's Center for Social Concerns has honored a former Notre Dame faculty member with a special award. Rev. Michael Himes, now a professor of theology at Boston College, received the center's Social Concerns Award during ceremonies at Notre Dame last month.

The citation praised Himes, a popular teacher at Notre Dame from 1987-93, for his "insights, joy and humor," and for the manner in which his teaching, preaching and way of life reflect the biblical text (Matthew 10:8), "What you receive as a gift, give as a gift."

The citation also expressed gratitude for the recent publication of the book "Doing the Truth in Love: Conversations about God, Relationships and Service," which Himes wrote in collaboration with a group of center staff members, Notre Dame students and alumni.

Ordained a priest of the Diocese of Brooklyn in 1972, Himes holds a doctoral degree in the history of Christianity from the University of Chicago. Before coming to Notre Dame, he had served as dean of the Seminary of the Immaculate Conception in Huntington, N.Y.

He is the co-author (with his brother, Kenneth) of "Fullness of Faith: The Public Significance of Theology" and of the video series "The Mystery of Faith: An Introduction to Catholicism."

Greenspan: Budget future dim

WASHINGTON A failure by Congress to reach a balanced budget agreement could lead to a "sharp increase" in the cost of mortgages and other interest rates, Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan said Monday.

"I think the reaction could be quite negative" in the financial markets, Greenspan said at a Senate Banking Committee hearing.

For months, Republicans have been making the argument that failure to work out a budget deal could hurt the financial markets, and ultimately raise the cost of borrowing for consumers. Greenspan's comments, made in response to questions by Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, served to further bolster the GOP's arguments.

Greenspan's remarks came as Republicans and Democrats said they planned to begin negotiations Tuesday on a seven-year budget-balancing package. The first session will probably be held in the Capitol in the evening, following a White House meeting between President Clinton and congressional leaders of both parties on Bosnia and the budget.

Administration and congressional Republican officials, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the talks' opening session would focus on who the negotiators will be and how the bargaining over spending and tax cuts will be structured. So far, Republicans have said they want four negotiators on each side while Democrats have insisted on more.

Republicans, frustrated by the administration's refusal to provide a detailed proposal of its own for eliminating deficits, said they would begin the bargaining by pressing White House officials for such specifics.

"I'm sure that's where we'll start, asking that question," said House Majority Leader Dick Armey, R-Texas, following a meeting of GOP leaders.

Greenspan said expectations of a balanced-budget agreement had lifted the financial markets in the past year, playing a major role in a two percentage point decline in long-term interest rates.

That progress could be reversed if the budget talks fail, he warned, which could lead to a "sharp increase in long-term rates."

Noting the rapid growth of some entitlement programs such as Social Security and Medicare, which exceed the growth of the tax base, Greenspan said the programs "must be reined in" as part of a balanced-budget agreement.

In their Nov. 19 agreement to fully reopen the federal government, administration officials agreed to Republican demands that the two sides try to craft a seven-year budget-balancing measure.
Various student government members in charge of finding volunteers in each college and major to hand out forms to their classes. Patrick says schedules of volunteers will be compared and arranged to try to cover the broadest spectrum of classes possible.

"This is not a huge commitment. It will take no more than a half an hour," he said. Volunteers would be asked to pick up the form from Student Government later this week, and administrate the evaluations during the final three days of class. Students would collect and return the forms during the study days.

Guide organizers hope to reach over 475 classes with this method. Freshman year classes, along with lab courses, discussion groups and required courses with only one section will be omitted, Patrick said.

"We want to hit as many classes as possible so that students will be actually choosing from," he stated. Patrick said he believes that professors on the whole will support this effort, based on feedback organizers have received. "I think a lot of professors support the idea, the philosophy behind The Guide," he said. Organizers have worked very hard to allay faculty concerns about the student run project, he said.

"It reflects positively on the relationship between students and professors if we have a candid evaluation process," said Patrick. Student support is key to the success of The Guide, Patrick said. "Students can help the project out by volunteering to take the packets to class, talking the effort up among their friends and by filling out the forms conscientiously," Patrick said.

"This is well within student's reach," Patrick said of the project. "Together we can make this a reality." The student professor and course evaluation book has faced numerous obstacles in its three plus year existence.

Clinton seeks support for Bosnian plan

Associated Press

WASHINGTON [Clinton's prime-time address kicked off an intense administration campaign to break down opposition to what Pentagon planners regard as the most dangerous U.S. military operation since the Persian Gulf War.

Clinton tried to assuage fears that the operation would evolve into a major conflict, what critics refer to as "mission creep." No fewer than four times, he described the operation in narrow terms — "limited, focused" — and said it would have "realistic goals that can be achieved in a finite period of time.

The American troops would be part of a 60,000-man NATO force enforcing a 600-mile long separation zone between the warring factions. Headquartered in Tuzla in northeastern Bosnia, the Americans would be deployed in a mountainous, mine-strewn countryside in harsh winter conditions.

The dangers would be compounded by the bitter ethnic rivalries and suspicions that tore apart Yugoslavia. To some in Bosnia, the NATO troops are more likely to be seen as an unwelcome occupying force than as peacekeeping soldiers.

As of Monday there were no new developments and no suspects, said Officer Noreen Murray, a Police Department spokeswoman. "The case is being aggressively investigated. There is no determination at this time that this was anything other than a burglary," she said.

Even that, however, offered echoes of 1972, when a team of burglars hired by President Nixon's re-election committee broke into Democratic Party headquarters at Washington's Watergate hotel complex and rifled files.

The Watergate burglary and ensuing White House cover-up mimics Watergate

The mission comes on the heels of an agreement signed in Dayton, Ohio, last week to stop the bloodiest fighting in Europe since World War II, claiming 250,000 lives. He said the war had "challenged our interests and troubled our souls.

"We must turn our backs on Bosnia now," Clinton said. "So I ask all Americans — and I ask every member of Congress, Democrats and Republicans alike, to make the choice for peace. In the choice between peace and war, American must choose peace.

Clinton said the Bosnia mission "can succeed because the mission is clear and limited. Our troops are strong and very well prepared.

And yet, Clinton acknowledged, "the deployment of American troops is risky and this one may well involve casualties.

Clinton has promised to seek Congress' support for the mission, but has made clear he will invoke his powers as commander in chief to deploy the forces if lawmakers resist. It appeared Congress would defer to the president — and let him shoulder the responsibility as well.

Dole urged his colleagues to "keep an open mind and not Monday empty mind" about Clinton's speech.

Canada proposes plan to prevent secession
By DAVID CRARY
Associated Press

Seeking to head off another secession attempt, the federal government proposed Monday to recognize Quebec formally as a distinct society and offered to give it a veto over constitutional change.

The widely expected initiatives have been rejected in advance by Quebec's separatist government, which has lost an independence referendum Oct. 30 and intends to repeat a breakaway attempt within the next few years.

Still, Prime Minister Jean Chrétien hopes the gestures toward Quebec will persuade a majority of voters in the French-speaking province that their interests will be served if they remain in Canada.

Chretien announced his plan at a news conference after briefing members of his ruling Liberal Party. The package is likely to win approval easily because of the large Liberal majority in the House of Commons.

The plan includes:
- Recognition in a Commons resolution that Quebec is a distinct society within Canada that includes a French-speaking majority, a unique culture and a tradition of civil law.
- Passing a law in Parliament giving four regions — Quebec, Ontario, the Atlantic provinces and the Western provinces — a veto over any constitutional change.
- Withdrawing a federal government from job training, leaving this program in the hands of provincial authorities.
- None of the changes would be entrenched in the Constitution.

"The initiatives I am announcing today are substantial," Chrétien said. "They are not constitutional in nature because the government of Quebec has stated categorically that it does not want to participate in constitutional discussions."

Sailing accident claims three

WELLINGTON, New Zealand — For years Judith and Michael Sleavin dreamed of sailing around the world on a yacht with their two children. On Monday, authorities were just beginning to understand why that dream had become a nightmare, with Judith the only survivor.

At least five cargo ships were reportedly sailing through stormy waters where the California family's yacht, Melinda Lee, was hit and smashed to bits with three lives lost.

Marine authorities have yet to determine which ship collided with the ill-fated boat north of New Zealand before dawn Friday.

Mrs. Sleavin, 43, of Hermosa Beach, Calif., was found washed up in an inflatable raft on the east coast of the North Island on Sunday. She was hysterical, rescued, and later hospitalized with cuts and two cracked vertebrae.

Her husband Michael, 42, and her children, Benjamin, 9, and Anna Rose, 7, fared worse — they were last seen at sea. Benjamin went down with the ship after it was struck. Anna and Michael were tossed from their raft in high winds and heavy rains and never seen again.

Mrs. Sleavin told rescuers that the Melinda Lee was hit about 30 nautical miles northeast of Cape Brett about 2 a.m. Friday. She had been on watch that night while her husband and the children slept below deck.

"The couple — he's a salesman, she a civil engineer — had been away from the United States cruising on their yacht with their children since early 1993. The family expected to be gone for about five years, the Los Angeles Times reported in today's editions.

"This was their dream — to sail around the world with their children," Richard Lull of Hermosa Beach, a family friend, told the Times.

Planes set out Sunday looking for the U.S.-registered Melinda Lee, overdue on a voyage from Tonga, after Mrs. Sleavin was found at Deep Water Cave, near the Bay of Islands tourist area.

Mrs. Sleavin, who has not spoken to the media since the rescue, told police a large cargo ship bore down on their boat, one of eight yachts sailing as a flotilla from Tonga to New Zealand.

Retired Sausalito salesman Chris Wagner, 55, and his wife Nedra, of Sausalito, Calif., said their yacht Magic Carpet was part of the group. They tracked five cargo ships in the area with radar in the hours before the collision.

Wagner said he radioed each ship to be on the look out for yachts "but only one responded.

Radio New Zealand reported that officials were investigating whether a Russian-registered ship, Kapitan Byankin, was involved. The ship's captain, Alexander Asonaric, told New Zealand Press Association: "I don't know of any accident."

Pope calls vote a loss for families

VATICAN CITY

Ireland's vote in favor of legalizing divorce was a defeat for the family, not the Roman Catholic Church, the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said Monday.

It was the first official comment from the Vatican since the referendum Friday. Pope John Paul II had appealed to Irish Catholics to pray for its defeat.

Papal spokesman Joaquin Navarro also told RAI state television that it would be wrong to call the vote a defeat for the church.

He said it was "very significant" that Ireland was so divided over the issue. A recount confirmed that only 51.4% "yes" votes provided the margin of victory for the 1.6 million ballots cast.

Subway firebombing imitates recent movie scene

By TOM HAYS

NEW YORK
There were no arrests and few leads in the torching of a subway token booth on Monday, but Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole and police officials pointed the finger at one alleged culprit: Hollywood.

"That just may be an eerie and frightening coincidence, but coming only a few days after the movie was released, it offers a powerful reminder of the influence Hollywood has over our society and our culture," Dole said while campaigning in Iowa for the Republican presidential nomination.

"Those who work in Hollywood's corporate suites must also be willing to accept their share of the blame," Dole said later on the Senate floor. "Is this how they want to make their livelihoods? Is this their contribution to society?"

A statement from Columbia Pictures, which released the film, said its makers were "appalled and dismayed" by the real-life fire. But a Columbia spokesman, Ed Russell, wouldn't comment on whether the studio acknowledged a possible connection.

"That just may be an eerie reference," Dole said while campaigning in Iowa for the Republican presidential nomination.

Model death points to others

By ANNIE SHoomAN
Associated Press

TORRANCE, Calif.
A photographer pleaded not guilty Monday to a charge of murdering a model whose body was found buried in the mountains and a newspaper reported that police wondered if they had a serial killer on their hands.

Pictures of women who look dead were found in the home of photographer Charles Rathbun, the Daily Breeze of Torrance reported.

"We may be looking at a serial killer," the newspaper quoted a source as saying.

Rathbun, 38, was arraigned Monday on a charge of third-degree murder. He pleaded not guilty and bail was set at $1 million.

The shackled defendant, banded on both wrists after a jail suicide attempt with a razor blade, listened intently as Municipal Court Judge Benjamin Aranda asked if he understood the proceedings. "I understand," Rathbun said softly.

A Jan. 5 hearing was ordered. The judge granted defense requests that Rathbun be permitted to shower, shave and make calls to his family and attorney.

Deputy District Attorney Stephen R. Kay, who co-prosecuted Charles Manson, will prosecute Rathbun.

Linda Sobek, a former Los Angeles Raiders cheerleader, vanished Nov. 16, leaving a message saying she was going on a modeling assignment, but not giving details. Family and friends had said she worked with Rathbun before.

Rathbun was arrested Wednesday after trying to shoot himself at his home. On Friday, he led investigators to Sobek's body, buried in a shallow grave in the Angeles National Forest.

He said she died accidentally when he struck her with a sport utility vehicle while trying to show her how to drive it in "doughnuts," a series of tight spins.

The Daily Breeze, however, said Sobek was apparentlyphyxiated.

"At the present time, that report is premature," said Craig Harvey, a coroner's office spokesman.

Coroner's office officials earlier had discounted Rathbun's claim that Sobek was struck by a vehicle. The newspaper quoted its source as saying dozens of photographs of women found in Rathbun's Hollywood clearly portray death, although there was no blood or weapons shown.

Police were attempting to contact all the models in the photos to make sure they were all right, the newspaper said.

The Police Department in Hermosa Beach, where Sobek lived, referred reporters to the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, which was leading the homicide investigation.

Prayer Vigil in Opposition to the Execution of Gary Burris

Law School Lounge

Gary Burris will be the second person to be executed in the state of Indiana within the past year. His execution is scheduled for 12:01 AM on Wednesday, November 29. Please join for prayer and reflection at the time of his execution. Some thoughts will be provided by Dean David T. Link, Father Richard V. Warner CSC and members of the Notre Dame Coalition to Abolish the Death Penalty and Amnesty International.

Everyone is welcome! For additional information contact John Blakely, Law School Box 212.

Also, there will be a group of students making the forty-five minute drive to the Indiana State Prison in Michigan City for an on-site protest. Please contact Art Cody, Law School Box 19, if interested.

Finally, Governor Evan Bayh has the authority to stop this execution. Please join the many others who have voiced their protest. His fax number is (317)232-3443.
Aristide promises to abide by schedule

By MICHAEL NORTON

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti

After a week of uncertainty that unnerved local politicians as well as top U.S. officials, President Jean-Bertrand Aristide promised Monday to abide by elections to choose his successor. "I am leaving on Feb. 7," the Rev. Jean-Vve Urfie quoted Aristide as saying in an interview with Libete, an independent Creole-language weekly newspaper that the priest founded and directs. Urfie said Aristide also cleared up doubts about the election, saying they would be held as scheduled Dec. 17. The interview is to be published Wednesday.

Still, in a contradiction that has left many perplexed, Haiti's Cabinet is to consider a resolution Wednesday calling for Aristide to cancel the election and stay in office to make up for the three years he lost in exile.

Aristide himself has stirred the confusion. Last week, he said he agreed with the resolution, which came from a national conference monopolized by his supporters. At the same time, the president says he would not violate the constitution, which bars consecutive terms as president.

Victor Renard, one of 14 presidential hopefuls, has called upon Aristide to spell out his intentions.

The Clinton administration has reacted coolly to suggestions that the election plans be changed.

"President Aristide has said that there will be an inauguration of a new president next February," National Security Adviser Anthony Lake said Sunday on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley." "We expect the elections to take place ... We expect him to leave."

On Monday, White House press secretary Mike McCurry said the administration recognizes the "enormous pressure" on Aristide to remain in office. "But at the same time, we hope that our persuasiveness has some role too," he added.

Aristide was deposed in a coup in September 1991. The United States led the military intervention that restored Aristide in October last year, and has pressured Aristide to step down to complete Haiti's first peaceful, democratic change of leaders in two decades.

The United States has also intervened to stem a resurgent flood of Haitians trying to flee the country's poverty.

More than 50 percent of Haiti's 7 million people are jobless.

Forty-seven Haitians desperate to reach U.S. shores drowned off the north coast of Haiti, Radio Metropole reported Monday.

The private station said they drowned Friday night when their sailboat capsized.

Recipe for a disastrous holiday season

Let's say, just as an example, you recently got a part-time job from some big, nameless corporation who likes to hire desperate "will work for food" fools like yourself for the Christmas rush. And let's say you come down with flu-like symptoms the weekend before you begin to work on a regular basis.

But now that you finally have got the job you needed at the beginning of the semester, you can't not work because of some silly little sniffles and coughing. Thus you put up a few over-the-counter antihistamines and wind up with your brainpan floating approximately ten feet above your body during your entire eight-hour shift. This is after you've already walked back and forth a mile in campus for three hours of class that day. A decent shower in the dorm is out of the question. Your apartment still has no effective way of heating itself, what with electric baseboard heaters and no walls between the kitchen, dining room and living room, and with a huge single-pane glass sliding door for the outside wall. It was just a day ago that you took notice of the four-inch-thick mold residue clinging to the sides of the windows, hidden by the blinds.

Instinctively, you head for the fridge to get what else, a beer. And on your way, you pass the bathroom, you get an idea that there is a small waterfall gurgling from the toilet tile to the hallway linoleum, cascading gently from underneath the lid to form rivulets about your ankles. And, for some reason, it is another two to three minutes before you think to call out to your roommate, "Uh, I think we have a problem." And by the time either of you have figured out what is going on, the raging river has deepened to two inches between the tub and the sink cupboards and is on the verge of snarling your bicycles near the outside door. Luckily, the water has been partially absorbed by the rugs on the living room floor and at the edges of your bedrooms, but still the water comes and your five bath towels and three extra bed sheets seem to recall that the maintenance men haven't been coming to do the job you've been paid. Your roommate, whose name you never quite remember, has also shown up hour after hour in your apartment, and his apartment simply has no effective way of heating itself, what with electric baseboard heaters and no walls between the living room and the bedroom, and with a huge single-pane glass sliding door for the outside wall. It was just a day ago that you took notice of the four-inch-thick mold residue clinging to the sides of the windows, hidden by the blinds.

Dear Editor:

As a person who strongly believes that there comes a time to grow up and assume a responsible role in the world, I am not familiar with Notre Dame's Creative Writing program. However, after reading Matthew Apple's petulant bratty temper-tantrum directed against every benefit and privilege that this society has given him, I am convinced that the Creative Writing graduate program does not teach its students to present consistent arguments. I am also disturbed by Apple's utter lack of truth for other individuals. During his tantrum, Apple acknowledged that the Eurocentric speaking peoples were the best of the combat before Christopher Columbus was even born. Apple implied that this Eurocentric war was justified, because, among other things, "it was the principle means by which the US government acquired personal prestige and a sense of responsibility for themselves as adult members of society."

If Apple wants to believe that personal prestige is as important in war as it is in other domains, then he is certainly entitled to do so. However, it is wholly inconsistent for him to then claim that US government's heartbreakings—but necessary—war on the Civil War as simply designed "to keep United States" brainless, hormonally rabid youth occupied." I am also disturbed by Apple's utter lack of truth for other individuals. During his tantrum, Apple acknowledged that the Eurocentric speaking peoples were the best of the combat before Christopher Columbus was even born. Apple implied that this Eurocentric war was justified, because, among other things, "it was the principle means by which the US government acquired personal prestige and a sense of responsibility for themselves as adult members of society."

Tigers (0-1) were vying for their first in-state rivals for the 11th time second half and 55-47 with 8:45 remaining for a 70-67 victory Monday night. Simpkins made two with 1:05 remaining points at halftime, 49-40 early in the second half. Booth made a free throw and Duane Pointer at the buzzer, and the Cavaliers, who started slowly in their season-opener before beating Tennessee-Martin 84-65 last Friday night, missed 13 of their first 15 shots. Many from in close, against the Tribe (0-2) and trailed 9-2. Harold Drayer’s 3-pointer after 6:47 made it 9-5, but the Cavaliers really took off when Metheny entered the game after two minutes. B.L. Armstrong missed a 3-point try for Golden State with three seconds left, but Toronto’s final shot missed, and the Cavaliers escaped with a win by a pair of free throws. Mufin had the ball with 2.3 seconds left and hit the shot clock, giving the Raptors their third straight victory.

“We didn’t come out to play,” said Tim Hardaway’s. “We can’t take the Raptors lightly. They’re an expansion team, they’ve got a lot of guys who know how to win.”

Damen Steadumaire, who laid up the putts up 100-18 points and dished off 10 assists.

“We moved the ball around really well in the first half but seemed to have trouble finding open man in the second.” said Willie Anderson, who scored 17 points in the first half and finished with 26. “But give them credit. They wouldn’t let us pull away. Tim Hardaway had 29 points and 10 assists for the Warriors. Mullin scored 24 points and pulled down a team-high 15 rebounds.

Golden State shot 36 percent, while the Raptors shot 34 percent. Toronto was 5-for-11 on 3-pointers.

Oliver Miller injured his left foot in the third quarter and was taken to hospital for precautionary X-rays.

A second 3-pointer closing out the first quarter, breaking a 22-22 tie. That bucket began an 18-2 run.

SMC focus on Notre Dame Invitational

By LAURIE KELLEHER
Sports Writer

After taking sixth in the Wabash Invitational on November 11, the Saint Mary's swimming and diving team will compete in the Notre Dame Invitational this Thursday through Saturday.

The Belles are ready to take on strong teams such as the Bobcats of Ohio University and the University of Kansas Lady Jayhawks.

This meet has been the primary focus for the Belles this semester. While the competition will be stiff, they are prepared to swim at their best and let the competition push them.

"The Notre Dame invitational is our focus this semester," said coach Whaley. "The girls have been training very hard and have broken down. Now that we are resting a little I definitely expect to see great improvements.

"This is my first three day meet," said sophomore Betsy Wright. "It sounds pretty tiring, but since I'm only swimming one event per day can focus on that event.

The sixteen events are spread over three days. The top sixteen swimmers come back for finals on each of the evenings. This format can be a setback for the Belles because it is very tiring. However, they believe that the rest they were able to get will help them keep their strength.

"The Notre Dame meet format of the rather young season.

Wright and teammates are hoping to have a decent amount of swimmers make it to finals so they can score points and make a respectable showing in the final standings.

The meet will be at Rolfs Aquatic Center Thursday, Friday, and Saturday mornings at 9 and evenings at 6. "I think we're ready to get in the pool and reap the benefits of all our hard work," Wright said. "My teammates and I are very excited and looking forward to it.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. Doug Graber, who led six seasons to turn around the Rutgers football program, was fired Monday as coach of the Scarlet Knights. University President Francis Lawrence announced that Graber had been relieved of his duties effective immediately. Rutgers Athletic director Fred Gruninger said a search had begun for a new coach.

"Doug Graber has been an ongoing uniting force for our football program," Lawrence said. "We are indebted to him for his efforts and wish him the greatest success in the future.

Rutgers finished the season Friday with a 41-38 loss to Boston College. The team, expected to be Graber's best in his new Brunswick, was 4-7 and 2-5 in the Big East Conference.

In six years, Graber had only two winning seasons, his best being 7-4 in 1992. Overall, his record was 29-36-1.

Graber did not attend the news conference, but in a telephone conference call from his office said he did not feel he'd been mistreated.

"There's no bitterness involved," he commented. "I am a big boy and I understand clearly what the bottom line is. I wish Rutgers nothing but the best.

"A lot of coaches when they leave a program hope they lose every game. I'm doing nothing but cheering for Rutgers because when they are successful I know deep down in my own mind that at least I've had some part of it."

Graber had two years left on his contract, which pays him a base salary of $154,150 per year. University officials said no financial arrangements had yet been discussed.

Published reports in recent days said Rutgers officials were already conducting conversations with potential candidates for Graber's job.

BALTIMORE Pat Gillick returned to base- ball Monday as general manager of the Baltimore Orioles, one of the few jobs that could lend him a major league manager's title. Gillick was general manager of the Toronto Blue Jays from their initial season in 1977 through 1994, producing World Series champions in 1992 and 1993. He was elevated to executive vice president in September 1994, serving in an advisory capacity.

"When I backed off four man jobs, I kind of figured I'd never get another," Gillick said. "But I was kind of idle, not really doing anything and way I gave me a major-league, yes, you did retire too early." She was part of the push.

Gillick, 58, signed a three-year deal Monday after a week of discussions and stand-off negotiations with owner Peter Angelos. "I had some other opportunities to get back into baseball with Arizona and Tampa Bay, but I didn't want to wait for two years," he said. "I wanted to get back into a situation that was possible with an ownership that wanted to win. I see those qualities here in Baltimore." Gillick built the expansion Blue Jays from scratch, and finally produced a champion after years of work. He expects much quicker results in his new job.

"What really convinced me to come back, had to be close to winning," he said. "With the proper additions, we can be right there challenging for the Eastern Division title." Gillick fills the void left by the resignation of Roland Hemond, who stepped down from the job last month. His name rarely came up during the interview process, but it appears as if Gillick will now team up in the Orioles organization in 1963. The two played together as minor league players in the Orioles' organization in 1963.

Gillick signed with the Orioles in 1958 and tried in vain to make it to the majors as a pitcher before calling it quits in 1963.

"I never made to Memorial Stadium, except as a spectator," Gillick noted. "But it sure will be great to be a part of Camden Yards."

Johnston, on the other hand, enjoyed tremendous success as a player with the Orioles. He and Gillick will now team up in an effort to get Baltimore into postseason play for the first time since 1983.
have a role on the team and gained a better perspective. It enabled me to get back to the position, the difference is evident.

I look at now and I think how stupid I was not to have her there for two years," Petrucci added. "She has come forward and scored key goals. Every time we needed a goal, she scored one. She's been a clutch player for us.

That score extended her streak to nine consecutive games with a goal as she slipped the ball between the legs of UConn goalkeeper Amy Schwarz early in the second half. After receiving a ball in the box from midfielder Cindy Daws, defender Kate Sobrero found Van Laecke cutting through a gaping hole in the Connecticut defense.

"Sobrero (Sobrero) laid a great ball into me and I was unmarked and shot it and it went through the keeper's legs," Van Laecke said.

"It's too bad we didn't show the team we were today," Tsantris commented. "We're a young team and that happens. There were times we were starting to get into a rhythm and we were stopped. We definitely did not play at the pace we wanted to." It was a shame that Connecticut could not show what kind of team they were. Perhaps the Huskies will need to score not only a few goals, but we'll also need to win against the Irish in October. That night now seems like a distant memory after Notre Dame won the games that counted, shutting out Connecticut in the following two contests with solid team defense.

"You have got to remember that six weeks ago we gave up five goals to this team," Petrucci noted. "They were running all over us. We had people free and we had people confused.

"Today we were very organized. We never broke down defensively. We were solid from the front to the back. Everyone of our players played well defensively."

"They're a better defending team than they were earlier," Tsantris commented. For the 16th time this year, the Irish defense gave the scorekeeper little work to do on the visitors' half of the scoreboard. Jen Renola and Ashely Scharff provided an iron curtain in front of Renola with seven saves, while Scharff effectively started the Irish attack as she has this season. One of Renola's saves included a diving stop on a Tammy Barnes one-timer to keep the shutout intact.

"I thought Ashley did a good job of stepping up and playing ball and our marking backs did a great job of sticking to them," Petrucci remarked.

In the first half, however, Notre Dame executed and scored some clear, brilliant play during a few passes backs to Renola who was forced kick it instead of picking the ball up. Each led to easy situations as the Huskies were given additional opportunities on the offensive end.

"That's definitely going to be something we work on this week," Renola said. "It's nice to have that option back when they're running with their back. I did layoff it in the second half, so we're going to work on it so we won't do that to layoff it this weekend."

The other key components of the defense, Sobrero and Kate Fisher also had outstanding games. Sobrero covered the entire field, even showcasing a few offensive moves, while Fisher turned away a number of Huskie chances including a stellar one-on-one play against UConn forward Ginny Woodward in the second half that thwarted any offensive opportunity.

"I never thought that they were going to score," Renola commented.

Kate Sobrero and the Irish dribbled past the Huskies of Connecticut into their second straight Final Four.

The Gender Studies Program, therefore urges the Administration to consider gay and lesbian students officially published by the American Sociological Association this autumn.

To The University Community:

Last spring when the decade-old controversy about recognition of GLND/SMC came to crisis, the Gender Studies Program provided appropriate educational leadership with its Critical Issues Roundtables on Teaching American Sociophilosophy. Discussion of the issues at this forum led to the conclusion that the university administration is obliged to give official recognition of GLND/SMC as a student group, a conclusion that is consonant with the resolutions made by every democratically elected body on campus [Faculty Senate, Student Senate, Campus Life Council, Hall Presidents Council, Graduate Student Council, Graduate Theological Union].

We write today to remind the university community that the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student life appointed by Vice President O’Keefe last February 6, 1995 to research the issue is still at work, and that the committee is operating under the restriction that the recognition of GLND/SMC cannot be considered. The anomalous character of this committee allows it to work in virtual secrecy; the university community has no right of access to its minutes; its members are bound by confidentiality. The committee has published only fragmentments of its findings and offered nothing yet to the campus in the way of solving the problem of the administration's official recognition of gay and lesbian students on this campus. The tragic politics of closeting was the subject of artistic and critical exploration in the film premier of Roy Cohn/Jack Smith and scholarly roundtable which the Gender Studies Program organized on September 8 and 9, 1995.

Time drags on. As the committee continues to deliberate, Notre Dame's cherished claims to be a community ethically bound by social justice further erode. Witness the ethical condemnation of Notre Dame's policy on gay and lesbian students officially published by the American Sociological Association this autumn.

The Gender Studies Program therefore urges the Administration to consider that they might be mistaken in ignoring the views of the University's gay and lesbian students; to recognize GLND/SMC as a student group; let social justice and intellectual integrity, and not administrative politics, be the basis of this university policy.

Respectfully,

Irish goaltender Matt Eistler earned the victory on Friday night against Lake Superior State. He held a usually seen him play. He is leading the charge for the seniors so far this year."

This game marked the second game of the season, a 1-0 victory for the Irish over the Lakers. The Irish dropped their game on Saturday night, losing 2-1 to Lake Superior State. Saturday’s game was much closer than Friday’s, with the Lakers leading 1-0 after the first period. The Irish didn’t have the same success against the Lakers as they did against the Lakers on Friday night.

The Irish have struggled in recent games against the Lakers, losing both their games this season against the Lakers. The Irish have also struggled against the Lakers in previous seasons, winning only one game against them in the last five years. The Irish are hoping to continue their recent success against the Lakers and improve their record this season.

The Irish will play their next game on Saturday night against the Lakers. They are hoping to bounce back from their Saturday loss and continue their recent success against the Lakers.
Fast starters ready for Big East

Look out Big East. Here they come.

After strong showings in wins against Indiana and Bowling Green, the Notre Dame women’s basketball team now anxiously awaits the first Big East conference game in Notre Dame basketball history as they prepare to take on the Scarlet Knights of Rutgers Tuesday night at 7 p.m. at the JACC.

The Knights present quite a challenge. They opened up their season with a 69-67 upset of 12th-ranked Penn State.

Led by the junior backcourt combination of Liz Hanson, a two-time Atlantic 10 All-Conference pick and last year’s co-MVP, and Amy Roynders, the women from Rutgers should provide a good preview of what is yet to come for the Irish in the rough and tough Big East.

“We don’t know what to expect,” said junior guard Beth Morgan. “It’s our first Big East game, and they’re coming off a big win.”

Based on their first two performances, though, the Irish seem to be up for such a challenge. Last Friday, they tumbled down to host Assembly Hall in Bloomington and defeated the Hoosiers 82-73. Juniors Katryna Gaither and Morgan, who hail from Bloomington and whose father coaches the IU baseball team, paced the team with 31 and 22 points, respectively.

Lisa Furlin led the Hoosiers with 22 points and 9 rebounds. They didn’t stop there. On Sunday, the Irish women handled Bowling Green without problem, winning 92-67. Once again, Gaither and Morgan, along with a stellar 18 point, 11 rebound performance from senior captain Carey Poer, led the Irish. Gaither finished with 16 points and 12 rebounds, while Morgan scored 13.

Also, freshman Sheila McMullen continues to impress, this time by pouring in a team-high 19 points.

Irish in the Orange?

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Editor

If Northwestern is the Cinderella of the 1995 college football season, then Virginia Tech has to be that pumpkin that can magically be turned into a carriage. The question is, will the Hokies get an invitation to an Alliance Bowl before the stroke of midnight?

But strangely enough, Notre Dame's bowl direction is tied pretty closely to Virginia Tech's. Barring catastrophe and a Florida loss to Arkansas in the SEC Championship Saturday night, the Gators will face top-ranked Nebraska in the Fiesta Bowl January 2.

In the 6th spot in the poll and being the highest-ranked bowl-eligible team remaining, the Irish should be the choice of the Orange Bowl, which has the third pick overall.

In the new Alliance system, all conference ties to the three major bowls are gone. That opens the possibility of a matchup the Orange Bowl has never seen in a bowl capacity—Notre Dame versus Miami. With no more conference ties, the Orange Bowl has the opportunity to host some teams that haven't been here in a while in matchups we've never had.

Irish in the Orange Bowl would likely send Notre Dame back to Tempe, Ariz. to face the Cornhuskers. You could throw a dart to pick the other two games, since they'd be of such little bearing on the national championship.

And with the major bowls being on different days now, television ratings take a back seat to economic concerns of the bowl games as well as the cities.

A real wrench could be thrown in if Arkansas can pull the upset over Florida. That would likely send Notre Dame from the picture, as the Hoakies would serve as the Big East pick. Notre Dame could then end up facing either Florida State or the SWC Champion, the winner of Saturday's Texas-Texas A&M struggle, in the Orange Bowl on January 1.

"Virginia Tech is the more attractive option because they beat Miami," Sugar Bowl executive Jerry Flomig said.

"They're also ranked higher."

And they would be an attractive draw for their own kind. The Hokies are known to have a large conglomerate of fans that travel along with the team. And with the major bowls being on different days now, television ratings take a back seat to economic concerns of the bowl games as well as the cities.

Gottlieb contributed seven assists off the bench with only one turnover.

"We're in a position where the young players are getting pushed into the lineup because of injuries," stated head coach John MacLeod.

"We're in a position where the young players are getting pushed into the lineup because of injuries," stated head coach John MacLeod. "We're going to walk into a team that's really fired up - not a pleasant task."

That task will be made less pleasant by the matchup problems the Irish are likely to encounter, especially with the large Hoosier frontline of Brian Evans, Todd Lindeman, and Andrae Patterson.

Evans, the senior leader of the squad, had a strong showing in Anchorage, averaging 24.7 points and 5.7 rebounds per contest. The unenviable task of guarding him falls on Kyle, who gives up four inches, 40 pounds, and four years of experience.

"Brian Evans knows how to score, and Indiana knows how to get him the ball," warned MacLeod. "He's really at set­ ing his guy up for screens, and Antonio, because he's eager and aggressive, sometimes puts himself in a bad spot."

Another bad spot for the Irish is Assembly Hall, where they haven't won since 1973. While the red sweaters will be out in force, an early test in a hostile environment will prove a reliable yardstick how Notre Dame will fare in Big East road wars.

"This is a major test," said MacLeod. "Everytime, anytime, you play Indiana, you have a war. When you play Indiana, you're going up against the elite."

Injury update: Thanksgiving provided the Irish the opportu­nity to give thanks that the injury plague has stopped, at least temporarily. Only Pete Wilcher, who gives up four inches, and Derek Manner (foot) will not suit up against the Hoosiers.

Gary Bell overcame his pre­season ailments to contribute six points and five rebounds on Saturday, but his conditioning is still questionable. Chasing Evans through a maze of screens should certainly give him a workout.

Baffling backcourt: After a strong exhibition showing against Athletes in Action, guards Ryan Hoover, Admore White, and Keith Kurowski were victims against Akron.

The trio accounted for a combined 14 points, and will need better production to counteract the Hoosier duo of Sherron Wilson and Neil Reed. Hoover and Kurowski both went for 16 in Notre Dame's 80-79 overtime victory over Indiana last year.

IU senior Brian Evans possesses one of college basketball's sweeter strokes. Freshman Antoni Wyche will be trying to contain him tonight.

Celebrate a friend's birthday with a special observad.
Notre Dame superior

The quest has finally come to an end. The Notre Dame hockey team entered last weekend's two game series with No. 1 ranked Lake Superior State in search of an identity, national recognition, and most of all, a CCHA victory. And with the Lakers falling four notches in this week's poll, the Irish apparently found what they were looking for.

The 1993-94 National Champions confidently strutted into the Joyce Center, playing their best hockey of the season. However, after being shocked 6-3 on Friday and after being outplayed in a 3-1 victory on Saturday, the Lakers quickly succumbed home with their tails between their legs.

"There is no question that Lake State is a very big hockey team," said head coach Dave Poulin. "It was good to get a win like this under our belts. It gives the players a sense of confidence that they can win every time out."

After starting the season out slowly, the seniors have picked up their level of play in the last four games. That was certainly the case on Friday as a pair of seniors, Jay Matushak and Brett Brunfinks, found the back of the net in the all important second period to seal the victory for the Irish.

"The key for us right now is that more players are playing than at any other point in the season," said Poulin. "Brett Brunfinks is playing as well as I've

"I wasn't looking for a goal, but that's what I got," Matushak said. "It was good to get a goal on the road with us playing our best hockey of the season."

Senior Jay Matushak notched a goal in Notre Dame's 6-3 upset of Lake Superior State.

"I thought scoring first was a really important thing," Irish head coach Chris Petrucci said. "We had played very well defensively and I think they (UConn) knew it was going to be tough for them to get a goal. Once we got one, it stung them a little bit."

"Maybe the first goal took something out of us," UConn head coach Len Tsantiris admitted.

For Vogel, the goal could not come at a better time.

Julie Vogel, once seldom used, got the Irish on the board first in a 2-0 victory over Big East rival Connecticut. The win secured a Final Four berth.

Vogel, Van Laecke lead Irish into Final Four

Last season, Julie Vogel sat out her entire junior year after undergoing pre-season back surgery.

At the same time, Amy Van Laecke was battling for a starting spot in the defensive end after transferring from Arkansas. It's funny how things change over time.

For the second straight NCAA tournament game, Vogel and Van Laecke provided the one-two punch as they each scored a goal in Notre Dame's 2-0 victory over Big East rival Connecticut. The Irish will now embark on their second straight trip to the national seminals to face 13-time NCAA champion North Carolina this Friday night in Chapel Hill.

With the offensive firepower Notre Dame possesses, any Irish soccer fan thumbing through the media guide at the start of the year would not have selected this duo to be responsible for four of the seven goals in tournament play.

Since each was inserted in the lineup in the middle of the year, however, they are making their presence known.

"I just couldn't have asked for anything better," Vogel said. "It's been a great opportunity."

With twenty minutes expired in the first half, Vogel supplied the only goal Notre Dame needed Sunday as she came free at the far post and headed in a Holly Manthei corner kick for her fourth goal of the year. The goal off the set play complemented a strong defensive effort by Vogel who along with the entire defense kept the Huskies off balance all day.

"I was a lot more worried about them scoring than myself scoring," Vogel added. "Everyone kind of misjudged the ball and it was a great service by Holly."

"I thought scoring first was a really important thing," Irish head coach Chris Petrucci said. "We had played very well defensively and I think they (UConn) knew it was going to be tough for them to get a goal. Once we got one, it stung them a little bit."

"Maybe the first goal took something out of us," UConn head coach Len Tsantiris admitted.

For Vogel, the goal could not have been sweeter after spending the beginning of the year on the bench.

"It was really hard since I had never been on the bench before," Vogel said. "However, I realized I could
