Smith: Next summer to be busiest for construction

By MATTHEW LOUGHRAN

Director of Facilities Engineering Mike Smith, discussed, among other things, plans for a new bookstore, more parking spaces and an expanded campus map.

Smith said that last summer was going to be the busiest, with the stadium and the new dorms, but it looks like this summer will be even busier. "We are planning an enlarged map of the campus."

Created three years ago, the map gave a basic outline of construction planned to fulfill the Colquoy for the Year 2000. He indicated that many of the projects that University President Father Edward Malloy outlined in the Colquoy are either in the planning stages or are in the midst of construction.

Smith reminded construction on Notre Dame Stadium, renovation of the South Dining Hall and the erection of the new dorms south of the South Quad.

The council asked about Holy Cross Drive and the main circle. "Why is that road so winding and narrow?" asked Father Pat Sullivan, an ex officio member. Smith answered that the road was constructed with the intention of keeping people from speeding around the area surrounding the new dorms.

"When people hit a straight section of the road, they speed up," he said. "The speed limit on that section of road is 20 mph but that seems slow on a wide, straight street."

Smith also addressed concerns about the width of the road. "We do not design the campus for two days a year that everyone is moving in or out. If we did that, we would have to pave over the whole campus," he said.

The council expressed concern over the lack of funding for a performing arts center planned for construction just south of DeBartolo Hall. "A hotel is nice, and a new bookstore is nice. But we have to have those already and we have no performing arts center for any kind, and I think that is kind of embarrassing," said Father George Rozum, rector of Alumni Hall.

Smith explained that the funding for the center has not materialized but that it is still high on Malloy's list of priorities.

---

Election '96 discussion works to educate voters

By APRIL MONAHAN

With Election '96 being the first opportunity for most students to vote, the Student Academic Council's forum, entitled, "Be an Educated Voter," gave students at Saint Mary's College an academic chance to focus on the issues surrounding this year's presidential and Indiana congressional races, as Nov. 5 quickly approaches.

Throughout the forum, which took place last night in Stapleton Lounge, most audience members realized that their political awareness was not as high as they thought. Individuals who spent time behind the scenes in Republican and Democratic campaign offices spoke on the respective ideologies and platforms.

Two panels were selected from each political party to present contrasting views of the parties. Scott Pelach, Democratic, and Steve Schmidt, Republican, are campaign managers from opposing tickets running for Congressional seats in Indiana.

Swaying from the expected discussion of the ideological differences between Republicans and Democrats, the discussion focused on the Congressional race in Indiana, much to the dismay of out-of-state voters.

As the congressional race took center stage at the night's forum, "friendly mudslinging" between the panelists ensued.

---

Breast cancer focus of October

Special to The Observer

This month, distinguished alumni, students, faculty and staff at Notre Dame will promote breast cancer awareness with a comprehensive array of campus-wide programs and activities.

Regis Philbin, a 1953 Notre Dame graduate and host of "Live with Regis and Kathie Lee," former Notre Dame football coach Ara Parseghian, and others who have contributed recipes to the cookbook, "Joy of Cooking: A Cure," will take part in a book signing from Oct. 10 to 12 at the Hammes Notre Dame Bookstore in recognition of Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

All proceeds from the book sales support breast cancer research at Indiana University.

Kim Wagner, a registered nurse at the Indiana University Breast Care and Research Center, will deliver a talk titled "This Is Not Just Your Mother's Disease" during a brown-bag lunch today at 11:30 a.m. in the LaFortune Ballroom. She'll discuss breast cancer awareness and how one can participate in research.

Conference Speaker Dr. George Sledge, professor of medicine in the IU Division of Hematology/Oncology, will discuss the science of the disease. Dr. Julie McCaskill Stevens, director of the IU Breast Care and Research Center, will address early detection.

After the seminar, a candlelight vigil at the Grotto will honor the memory of those who have battled breast cancer.

Notre Dame women's athletic teams will recognize Breast Cancer Awareness Month by wearing t-shirts promoting breast cancer awareness during pre-game warmups and in practice sessions throughout October.

Notre Dame breast cancer awareness campaigns are a joint effort of several campus and community groups, including The Catherine Peachey Fund. Based in Warsaw, Ind., the fund was established to help breast cancer patients with medical expenses.

---

This is Not Just Your Mother's Disease

A talk delivered by Kim Wagner, a nurse at the IU Breast Care and Research Center, will be held on Oct. 8 at 11:30 a.m. in the LaFortune Center Ballroom.

"Collaborating for a Cure" Seminar with opening address by Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C. will begin at 7 p.m. on Oct. 9 in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium.

---
Relearning to look up

In my last column, I was harmonizing upon the differences between high school and college — the drastic, yet welcome changes experienced by all my fellow freshmen. I spoke of parties, homework, parties, football, and more parties with gorgeous-eyed enthusiasm. I wanted to take advantage of my newfound freedom. Finally... NO PARENTS!

Meanwhile, the first few weeks of abandon have flown by like a one-way freight train, and I have finally started settling into what everyone calls college life. I know that if I turned around I would notice a tsunami-sized wave of papers, reading, and midterms lapping at my heels.

Everyone else is in the same situation. No one gets to sleep before 2 a.m. anymore.

Nights of Jolt and Mountain Dew insomnia are starting to take their toll. Bleared eyes, pillow-pressed faces, and jittery nerves herald the sequel to “The Night of the Living Dead.” Backpacked students bundled up in sweats and flannels are beginning to resemble minstrels of a familiar descendant — Quasimodo.

It wasn’t till this weekend that I realized I haven’t seen the sky for days. During my stupor, the earth could have shifted its orbit and I wouldn’t have noticed. When my friends started asking, “Where is the Golden Dome?” I was forced to realize that something was wrong — not because they were kid-ding, but because I seriously didn’t know why.

When you asked, what made me raise my eyes again? Who gave me such an upbeat attitude? Well, the key to this topic? Well, freshmen, you may kill me, but yes... it was my parents.

Just the other day, I had communicated myself from the family of my youth. I had renounced my dependency and, although I would miss what I would lose, I would not lose. Ahh... foolish pride.

A different kind of visit from my dad and younger brother, Tom, proved the instrument of my undoing. Flying in from a two-day trip, they presented to my old dorm, Notre Dame for a short visit. I had dinner and tour and spent the day together,初创 thing for a couple hours. What I thought would be a ho-hum walk of campus, tours turned into one of the most family-daughter bonding experiences. My dad, a ‘64 graduate of Notre Dame, navigated the campus like an old pro, weaving around familiar buildings and marvelling at the world Congress. Yes, we saw the Grotto, St. Mary’s lake, the Dome, the Rock, and all the common tourist attractions, but this time I was seeing it all for the first time.

I still see my dad prancing down the steps of LeConte as if it were the first time a young boy turned — the freshman that I once was. Tom, a junior at his at his shock of seeing a bored girl trudging out of his old dorm room. “Sorry, papa, it’s a women’s dorm now.”

He reminisced on his earlier years at Notre Dame; his dorms he had stayed, the fun he had — and I reflected on my past few weeks. No, I’m not surcuming to homesick-ness. It just begins to look up — to watch the seasons change, to probe the last blue sky for the first white snowflake, to navage the constant northern star on our Golden Dome.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

---

Two IRA car bombs strike British army headquarters

LISBURN, Northern Ireland

Bomb ers struck at the center of Northern Ireland’s security Monday, detonating two car bombs outside the British army’s heavily defended headquarters, raising the fears the province could again become a battleground between the IRA and pro-British paramilitaries. Thirty-one people were wounded.

There was no claim of responsibility. Whether the attack was carried out by the Irish Republican Army or by another anti-British group might determine whether the province’s pro-British parmilitaries call off their own cease-fire — and send Northern Ireland back into retaliatory violence.

The first bomb went off without warning in a parking lot inside Thiepval Barracks, the main camp for the 18,000 army troops in the British-ruled province.

A second detonated 20 minutes later near the base’s hospital, apparently to ambush passing soldiers, medical staff and people wounded by the first bomb.

As flames and black smoke billowed from the blast site, soldiers and paramedics hauled off the wounded on foam mattresses. Some of the people injured in the second blast included medical staff attending to the victims of the first.

The army said 21 of the injured were soldiers and 10 civilians — including the three most seriously hurt. One man was critically wounded and four received serious head, chest and leg wounds. The less seriously wounded included an 8-year-old girl who was treated for shock and released.

Tape reveals married Diana’s rump

Princess Diana was videotaped during her marriage to Prince Charles while she was in bed, stripped down to her underwear and riding on his back, a British tabloid reported Tuesday.

The Sun said the 80-second, black-and-white tape appears to show Diana and a man identified as Hewitt at Highgrove, Prince Charles’ country mansion 100 miles west of London. It did not say what time the videotape was shot, but Hewitt has said he spent weekends at Highgrove while Charles was away, before Charles and Diana’s separation.

The couple divorced in August. The Sun said that in the videotape Diana is wearing a lace gown and kissing on a sofa. Diana then climbs onto Hewitt’s back and he crawls around the floor on all fours, the paper said.

Fuhrman: ‘Ashamed’ of racial epithet

LOS ANGELES

Mark Fuhrman, in his first interview since the O.J. Simpson trial, said he was “ashamed” of using a racial epithet, but denied he framed O.J. Simpson for murder.

‘That’s what I am. I’m not a racist,’ Fuhrman tells ABC’s “PrimeTime Live” in the interview airing Tuesday. “What they call me a liar for had nothing to do with the case about two people being killed to death with a knife. Nothing.”

The remarks were first in public since the revelation that the former LAPD officer said the word “nigger” in a transcript. Members of the black-majority jury have said Fuhrman’s lies about the racial epithet weighed in their decision to acquit Simpson of the June 1994 murders of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman.

Last week, Fuhrman pleaded no-contest to felony perjury and was sentenced to probation.

Board to change harassment policy

LEXINGTON, N.C.

The school board that punished a 6-year-old boy for kissing a girl on the cheek voted Monday to revise its sexual harassment policy. No board members voted against it.

“I’m not satisfied,” said an irate Jackie Prevette, mother of Johnathan Prevette, after the nine-member Lexington school board voted unanimously, without discussion, to allow school officials more latitude in implementing the policy. Her next move? “Legal action,” she replied. Johnathan, a first-grader, was suspended from school for kissing a classmate last month. “You need to change this policy that is not appropriate and so that they administer the crime,” Mrs. Prevette told board members before the vote.

“I do not think to this day that a kiss on the cheek, whether the girl wanted it or not, had anything to do with sex. I think it was a friendly kiss,” Mrs. Prevette said.

Snapple summer siege falls short

CHICAGO

They came, they drank, they didn’t buy. Quaker Oats Co. spent $20 million this summer giving away millions of Snapple grapefruit-iced tea in hope consumers would sample the drink to entice consumers into buying.

Not this time. Snapple, the soft-drinks division of Quaker, sold more than 400 million bottles of its 16-ounce Snapple grapefruit-iced tea in hope consumers would sample the drink to entice consumers into buying more bottles of the drink, a Snapple grapefruit-iced tea in hope consumers would sample the drink. Quaker Oats Co. spent $20 million this summer giving away millions of the drink in hope consumers would sample the drink to entice consumers into buying.
SAB plans spook fest

By ALLISON KOENIG
News Writer

The Saint Mary's Student Activities Board is bringing "Dead Man Walking" to campus this week. The film will be shown in Carroll Auditorium on Thursday at 7 p.m. followed by a reception in Haggar Parlor.

Ligda and Jessi Lentych, with the help of their committee, are scheduling a day-long murder-mystery game involving the whole campus. Ligda and Lentych hope to use familiar faces around the SMC campus as suspects, such as President Hickey, bookstore staff members, or dining hall personnel.

Students who do not participate in the murder mystery game will not be left out of the Halloween festivities. A cookies and candy party will take place in Haggar Parlor on Halloween night.

The Board also addressed the importance of keeping committee members involved and interested. Rachel Tenyer, the temporary SAB adviser, submitted some pointers to the Board regarding its interaction with committees.

Tenyer, the former hall director of Holy Cross, is no stranger to the workings of committees. "I've had this information for a long time, and it's been very useful," said Tenyer.

"Much of SAB's work could not be completed without the involvement of the committee members," according to SAB Coordinator Lori McKeough.

McCartan named chair of Saint Thomas More

Patrick McCartan, managing partner of the law firm of Jones, Day, Reavis & Poe and a trustee of the University of Notre Dame, has been appointed chairperson of The Order of Saint Thomas More, an organization comprised of alumni and other benefactors who contribute $1000 or more annually to the Notre Dame Law School.

McCartan received his bachelor's degree from the University in 1956, graduating from the Notre Dame Law School in 1959. He subsequently served as law clerk to the U.S. Supreme Court Justice Charles Whitaker. He was elected to the University's Board of Trustees in 1989 after serving for 10 years on the law school's advisory council.

One of the nation's preeminent trial lawyers, McCartan directs the 20 worldwide offices of Jones, Day, Reavis & Poe from the firm's headquarters in Cleveland. He is a fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers and the International Academy of Trial Lawyers, as well as an honorary overseas member of the English Commercial Bar.

McCartan is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and the U.S.-Japan Business Council. He also serves as a trustee of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, the Kulas Foundation, Ursuline College and Gilmour Academy. In 1994, he received the Archbishop Edward F. Hoban Award for Distinguished Service to the Diocese of Cleveland.

Founded in 1869, the Notre Dame Law School is the nation's oldest under Catholic auspices and consistently ranks among the top five nationally in surveys of student satisfaction.

ATTENTION SENIORS

CLASS DINNER DOWNTOWN

October 8th @ BRUNO'S
6:30 PM
$3 PER PERSON
PRICE INCLUDES PIZZA AND SODA

Brought to you by the Class of 1997

Celebrate a friend's birthday with a special Observer ad

Digging in...

The Observer/Kevin Dalum

Notre Dame maintenance crews spent most of Monday afternoon attending to a water pipe leak on South Quad.

Security Beat

FRI., OCT. 4
12:37 p.m. Security and Notre Dame Fire Dept. responded to a fire alarm at CCMH.
5:29 p.m. A University employee was transported to St. Joseph Medical Center for treatment of an allergic reaction.
8:29 p.m. A Pasquerilla resident was transported by Security to St. Joseph Medical Center for treatment of a sports injury.
5:26 p.m. A University employee was cited by Security for minor possession of alcohol.
10:30 p.m. Security discovered damage to a construction fence near the construction site for the new dorms.

SAT., OCT. 5
7:04 p.m. Five Stanford Hall residents were cited by Security for minor possession of alcohol.
10:30 p.m. Security discovered damage to a construction fence near the construction site for the new dorms.

SUN., OCT. 6
1:48 p.m. A student Hall resident was transported by Security to St. Joseph Medical Center for treatment of a sports injury.
5:18 p.m. Security discovered the theft of 8 car stereo speakers from a vehicle parked in the D2 parking lot.
7:46 p.m. Security discovered damage to a vehicle parked in the D2 parking lot.

Correction

An article in Monday's Observer misidentified the last name of one of the recipients of a Rotary International Scholarship. The correct name is Beth Swiney.
Pope awaits surgery

By FRANCES D'EMILIO
Associated Press Writer

ROME

Pope John Paul II had a battery of hospital tests Monday — including heart checks and a CT scan — on the eve of a scheduled appendectomy.

The 76-year-old pontiff to cancel a morning Mass, is scheduled for surgery on Sunday night.

The pope's blood pressure was fine too, Maseri said.

The pope's blood pressure was fine too, Maseri said.

John Paul also had a CT scan of his abdomen — repeating the test from August — to cover all bases, said Dr. Cerrando Colagrande, a radiologist who urged the pope last month to have the appendectomy.

After another CT scan in August, the medical team said there was no sign of any abdominal tumor. The orange-size tumor removed in 1992, was described by the Vatican as benign.

The CT scan was repeated "to be scrupulous," said Colagrande. "Everything is fine too, Maseri said.

The pope's appendectomy, Jo h n P a u l's do cto rs of his abdom en — repeating the surgeon, said the pontiff was in excellent spirits and "not at risk, especially for a patient like John Paul, because previous surgeries, could complicate the operation.

An electrocardiogram and an eco-doppler, which helps determine any narrowing of arteries, showed no problems, said cardiologist Attilio Maseri. "We know that his heart is OK," he said.

The previous surgeries, could complicate the operation.

One student said she was "surprised by the campaign managers' passionate support of their candidates." Others agreed that the panels "present their parties' platforms with an air of professionalism.

While the two panels did provide general information about the political parties, neither answered specific questions on the presidential candidates in length, even following national discussion sparked by Sunday night's debates.

In addition, Adrienne Sharp and Megan McHugh spoke on their experiences working at the Republican and Democratic National Conventions in San Diego and Chicago, respectively.

The evening ended with questions posed to the two panels. Each were asked to give their parties' view on what Schmidt called the "four basic issues" — taxes, spending, crime, and Medicare.

The Student Academic Council, which sponsored last night's forum, felt that it would provide interested students with information needed to cast an intelligent vote.

Genevieve Morrill, who helped organize the forum, was pleased. "I thought the panels did a good job. And they tried to address all of the questions asked."

If you see news happening, call The Observer at 1-5323

ACADEMIC YEAR SEMESTER IN LONDON

AEROSPACE OR MECHANICAL ENGINEERING MAJORS interested in going to London for their fifth semester come to:

Room 356 Fitzpatrick Hall

Thursday, October 10

7:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Law Fair

Wednesday, October 9
10:00-2:00 p.m.

Center for Continuing Education

Representatives from approximately 60 law schools will be available to answer questions and to distribute application materials and bulletins.

Sponsored by the Notre Dame Prelaw Society
Avalanche hits Nepal, two Americans dead

By BINAYA GURUACHARYA

KATMANDU, Nepal

Two American climbers missing after an avalanche hit a Himalayan peak died of suffocation after being buried under heavy snow, the leader of the expedition said Monday.

Debbie Marshall, 31, of Glenwood Springs, Colo., and Rich Davidson, 46, of Los Alamos, N.M., were killed Friday while climbing Mount Annapurna IV in northwest Nepal, said Cleve Armstrong, the leader of the expedition.

Armstrong, 54, survived a harrowing night of heavy snow to be rescued Sunday by a Nepalese army helicopter and taken to Katmandu for treatment. He was badly dehydrated and had internal bleeding after trying to scale the 24,715-foot mountain.

He said the avalanche struck between 4:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. as the team rested after working on the most technically difficult portion of the climb, between camps at 14,500 feet and 21,000 feet.

"They had suffocated in their sleep ... the heavy snow collapsed their tent," said Armstrong.

Armstrong said he tried to dig through the snow around the tents to reach the two climbers, but it was too deep.

"Hoping to hear any sign of life, I dug out the snow frantically," he said. "I reached Rich's body and felt that he had no pulse and saw black blood coming out of his mouth."

Nearby, he said he found Marshall's body in the same state and called the base camp by radio to give the bad news.

Armstrong said he survived by continuously digging out the snow that was falling around his tent. When the rescue helicopter came, they left "the bodies buried there," he said.

On a separate expedition, a Japanese climber was reported missing Monday. Nepalese officials said Matsasugo Konishi, 58, had climbed the world's seventh highest peak, 26,775-foot Mount Manaslu, but did not return to base camp.

Marshall last spoke to her husband, Chuck Marshall, said in Denver. "Debbie's not one of those who go out and finds a dangerous mountain to climb."

"For me climbing is almost like an addiction. You have to do it every so often to get an adrenaline fix, " she said before leaving.

"It was supposed to be an easy mountain, very low risk," her husband, Chuck Marshall, said in Denver. "Debbie's not one of those who go out and finds a dangerous mountain to climb."

Armstrong said she was aware of the high death toll in the Himalayas which would have put the first American women on the summit.

"Everyone has an obligation to serve God, " she said before leaving.

Before setting off, Marshall trained hard in Colorado, where she had conquered 26 of the state's 54 mountains higher than 14,000 feet.

"I've always been outdoor-oriented and enjoy the thrill and adrenaline rush of climbing," she said before leaving.

During her 10 years of climbing, she had scaled Alaska's 20,300-foot Mount McKinley, and Mount Aconcagua in Argentina, the highest mountain in the Western Hemisphere at 22,800 feet.

The expedition to Annapurna IV was to raise money for programs to combat Alzheimer's disease. Marshall was one of three women on the expedition, which would have put the first American women on the summit.

Marshall was aware of the high death toll the Himalayas had taken this year.

"It's something that runs through my head a lot," she said earlier of the trip's dangers. "For me climbing is almost like an addiction. You have to do it every so often to get an adrenaline fix."

Happy 21st

Tom (Frog)

If you didn't go out last night, you will tonight, you wuss!!

CHICAGO FORUM

BUS TRIP

Friday, October 11

Most of the 178 ABA-approved

law schools will be represented

• Meet in Main Circle at 9:45 a.m.
• Planned return to ND by 7:00 p.m.
$10 round trip

Sign up in 101 O'Shaughnessy
by Wednesday, October 9.

NOTE: Does not constitute an official excused absence from missed classes.
Scientists uncover AIDS strains

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON

Scientists are discovering the AIDS epidemic is far more diverse in America than previously thought, and they are scouring the globe for AIDS strains to ensure that U.S. tests for the disease are able to detect every type.

Doctors here were not too worried in 1994 when France first sounded the alarm that an exotic, hard-to-diagnose strain of AIDS was spreading. Then doctors found the first U.S. case in July.

Then last month, scientists uncovered a second U.S. resident infected with this rare type of HIV, named Group O. Meanwhiie, in interviews last week, researchers said they also are investigating a small cluster of New Yorkers with signs of still different AIDS strains never before seen in this country.

"We will now treat these problems as a global village: A case anywhere is a case here, and we will move more quickly" to hunt down, said Dr. Jay Epstein, the Food and Drug Administration's blood chief.

AIDS symptoms appear similar worldwide even though the HIV virus is genetically different from country to country. Tests to detect HIV are designed to recognize a region's most common strains. The concern is whether they'll also catch any rare foreign strains.

Take the HIV type named Group O, thought to lurk only in West Africa until a woman in France was diagnosed in 1994. Doctors didn't find the first U.S. case until July, a Los Angeles woman. Her infection had gone undiagnosed by routine AIDS tests, which miss Group O once in every five cases.

Last month, Abbot Laboratories filed an F.D.A. application to sell the nation's first upgraded AIDS test designed to better catch Group O infections -- just as federal health officials discovered a second case in July.

Both Group O patients found in the United States apparently were infected in their native West Africa, said Dr. Patrick Sullivan of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

High court protects judges from taxation

By RICHARD CARELLI

WASHINGTON

The Supreme Court, saying its hands were tied by potential conflicts of interest, shielded some federal judges Monday from having to pay certain taxes imposed on most Americans.

Four justices who might have a financial stake in deciding themselves from considering the case. Their action kept the court from gaining a quorum of six justices to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The result is a victory for 16 federal judges who sued the government in 1989 over tax laws that took effect in 1983. The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

High court protects judges from taxation

By RICHARD CARELLI

WASHINGTON

The Supreme Court, saying its hands were tied by potential conflicts of interest, shielded some federal judges Monday from having to pay certain taxes imposed on most Americans.

Four justices who might have a financial stake in deciding themselves from considering the case. Their action kept the court from gaining a quorum of six justices to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The result is a victory for 16 federal judges who sued the government in 1989 over tax laws that took effect in 1983. The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.

Monday's action, although not a precedent-setting decision, had the effect of upholding a lower court's ruling that said it was illegal to begin requiring federal judges to pay Medicare and Social Security taxes in 1983 and 1984.

The order, one of more than 1,500 issued as the court began its 1996-97 term, was extraordinary. Court officials could not immediately say how many of the 16 judges to take the case, and thereby sealed the outcome in a way that could benefit them financially.
Holtz to play-calling what OSU fans are to class

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The fans grumbled about another lost season. Ron Powlus graciously accepted defeat and the disappointment of an unfair college football. The Buckeyes spot and taunted their hosts. And Lou Holtz tried to make excuses.

For many Irish fans, perhaps the most startling revelation from the OSU debacle, though, is that the beloved Holtz was outcoached by John Cooper. Cooper is the Steve Spurrier, the Hunter Simpson of college football. Cooper is a coach who has proven that no matter how much talent his team has, he can lose anywhere. Besides Notre Dame, he has only won one major game at Ohio State (against Michigan), and that saved his job. Cooper is a coach who kept Notre Dame in the game even though the Buckeyes dominated. He outcoached Holtz two years in a row.

The great humanitarian, showing his sympathy for the vulnerability of the Buckeye offense, an offense so truly Irish one would have to invent a new word to describe it, was not able to coach at the college level. His performance, said, “Derrick Mayes-like hands,” Holtz’s claim to fame. “But we just weren’t good enough.”

Coaching duties are much more extensive than simply getting a team to play well on Saturday. Coaches have the responsibility to foster development of their players, on the field and off.

Even a young Powlus, clearly upset by the loss, refused to adjust. Only the simplest plays can be run — no short, quick patterns, and nothing over the middle. Wide receiver routes take too much time to develop and are easy to defend, allowing defenses to blitz and sack Powlus at will.

What can we expect from the inventor of the free safety offense, an offense so truly Irish one would have to invent a new word to describe it? Holtz claimed we could not run the ball on the Buckeye defense. No decent defense will allow more than 126 yards on the ground with the selection Holtz calls. In the first three quarters, 19 runs, of which only ten were by the quarterback, accounted for 57 yards. The 11 runs towards the sideline averaged 66 yards, twice as much per carry. Running Denson up the middle is a brilliant game plan, considering he can fake to the outside. Holtz said, “But we just weren’t good enough.”

The predictable play-calling allowed the Buckeye defense to wreak havoc on Ron Powlus. The offensive line cannot be blamed for the massive assault — the Buckeyes once sent eight men blitzing, too many to block. The Irish, though, refused to adjust. Only the simplest plays can be run — no short, quick patterns, and nothing over the middle. Wide receiver routes take too much time to develop and are easy to defend, allowing defenses to blitz and sack Powlus at will.

That Holtz ran the ball in the fourth quarter to cut back the clock, wouldn’t want Holtz to give his team a chance to win. “The players played their hearts out,” Holtz said. “But we just weren’t good enough.”

Coaching duties are much more extensive than simply getting a team to play well on Saturday. Coaches have the responsibility to foster development of their players, on the field and off.

Their players, on the field and off. One can forgive Jerry Faunt for not being able to coach at the college level precisely because he remains one of the most decent people in sports. Unfortunately, for Irish fans, we cannot say the same thing of Holtz. Holtz said of the loss, “I think so much of it has to do with confidence.”

The great humanitarian, showing his uniquely Buckeye roots, tried to develop this confidence in his team by calling Jim Sansom “foul ball” and Jearius Jackson “fourth-string quarterback.” Holtz said of the receivers, “There were a couple of plays where we could have come away with something big, but we didn’t.” If we had Derrick Mayes, we’d probably make some of those plays.

Even a young Powlus, clearly upset by his team’s performance, said, “Derrick Mayes is an outstanding receiver, but I don’t want to answer questions about him any more. He’s not on this team, and our [receivers] do a great job.” Powlus, a Notre Dame epitome of Holtz’s poor coaching. Sports Illustrated featured a recent article on all the pressure the media has placed on Powlus.

Yet remember back to training camp before his first game. Remember Holtz, not the media, touting Powlus as the best quarterback ever. Holtz, not the media, created the pressure and lofty expectations. Like Minter, Powlus was then forced into situations and plays which he could not handle. Powlus, a slow, immobile quarterback, needs to set his feet to throw well. Holtz, though, calls options and roll-outs which Powlus cannot handle. When Powlus injured his arm last season, everyone called Powlus fragile. But the injury was Holtz’s fault, forcing Powlus to roll out and exposing him to unnecessary hits. Powlus could be a great NFL quarterback, but with no help from Holtz.

The players’ true feelings towards Holtz shined through last year. The players carried Bob Davie off the field after the Texas game, showing not only love and appreciation for one coach, but indirectly castigating an absent coach. Holtz’s egomania drove him to return for Ohio State, costing the Irish a victory.

The New York Times reported last week that if Barry Switzer is fired in Dallas, Jerry Jones top candidate is Lou Holtz, if he’s willing to leave Notre Dame. Let’s just hope Troy Aikman can run the option and that Emmitt Smith can play without. Holtz has nothing left to prove in college, except maybe win some more games and develop players’ self-confidence.

Greg Herczeg
Sophomore
Dillon Hall

Holtz to play-calling what OSU fans are to class

Coaching duties are much more extensive than simply getting a team to play well on Saturday. Coaches have the responsibility to foster development of their players, on the field and off.

Their players, on the field and off. One can forgive Jerry Faunt for not being able to coach at the college level precisely because he remains one of the most decent people in sports. Unfortunately, for Irish fans, we cannot say the same thing of Holtz. Holtz said of the loss, “I think so much of it has to do with confidence.”

The great humanitarian, showing his uniquely Buckeye roots, tried to develop this confidence in his team by calling Jim Sansom “foul ball” and Jearius Jackson “fourth-string quarterback.” Holtz said of the receivers, “There were a couple of plays where we could have come away with something big, but we didn’t.” If we had Derrick Mayes, we’d probably make some of those plays.

Even a young Powlus, clearly upset by his team’s performance, said, “Derrick Mayes is an outstanding receiver, but I don’t want to answer questions about him any more. He’s not on this team, and our [receivers] do a great job.” Powlus, a Notre Dame epitome of Holtz’s poor coaching. Sports Illustrated featured a recent article on all the pressure the media has placed on Powlus.

Yet remember back to training camp before his first game. Remember Holtz, not the media, touting Powlus as the best quarterback ever. Holtz, not the media, created the pressure and lofty expectations. Like Minter, Powlus was then forced into situations and plays which he could not handle. Powlus, a slow, immobile quarterback, needs to set his feet to throw well. Holtz, though, calls options and roll-outs which Powlus cannot handle. When Powlus injured his arm last season, everyone called Powlus fragile. But the injury was Holtz’s fault, forcing Powlus to roll out and exposing him to unnecessary hits. Powlus could be a great NFL quarterback, but with no help from Holtz.

The players’ true feelings towards Holtz shined through last year. The players carried Bob Davie off the field after the Texas game, showing not only love and appreciation for one coach, but indirectly castigating an absent coach. Holtz’s egomania drove him to return for Ohio State, costing the Irish a victory.

The New York Times reported last week that if Barry Switzer is fired in Dallas, Jerry Jones top candidate is Lou Holtz, if he’s willing to leave Notre Dame. Let’s just hope Troy Aikman can run the option and that Emmitt Smith can play without. Holtz has nothing left to prove in college, except maybe win some more games and develop players’ self-confidence.

Greg Herczeg
Sophomore
Dillon Hall

Holtz to play-calling what OSU fans are to class

Coaching duties are much more extensive than simply getting a team to play well on Saturday. Coaches have the responsibility to foster development of their players, on the field and off.

Their players, on the field and off. One can forgive Jerry Faunt for not being able to coach at the college level precisely because he remains one of the most decent people in sports. Unfortunately, for Irish fans, we cannot say the same thing of Holtz. Holtz said of the loss, “I think so much of it has to do with confidence.”

The great humanitarian, showing his uniquely Buckeye roots, tried to develop this confidence in his team by calling Jim Sansom “foul ball” and Jearius Jackson “fourth-string quarterback.” Holtz said of the receivers, “There were a couple of plays where we could have come away with something big, but we didn’t.” If we had Derrick Mayes, we’d probably make some of those plays.

Even a young Powlus, clearly upset by his team’s performance, said, “Derrick Mayes is an outstanding receiver, but I don’t want to answer questions about him any more. He’s not on this team, and our [receivers] do a great job.” Powlus, a Notre Dame epitome of Holtz’s poor coaching. Sports Illustrated featured a recent article on all the pressure the media has placed on Powlus.

Yet remember back to training camp before his first game. Remember Holtz, not the media, touting Powlus as the best quarterback ever. Holtz, not the media, created the pressure and lofty expectations. Like Minter, Powlus was then forced into situations and plays which he could not handle. Powlus, a slow, immobile quarterback, needs to set his feet to throw well. Holtz, though, calls options and roll-outs which Powlus cannot handle. When Powlus injured his arm last season, everyone called Powlus fragile. But the injury was Holtz’s fault, forcing Powlus to roll out and exposing him to unnecessary hits. Powlus could be a great NFL quarterback, but with no help from Holtz.

The players’ true feelings towards Holtz shined through last year. The players carried Bob Davie off the field after the Texas game, showing not only love and appreciation for one coach, but indirectly castigating an absent coach. Holtz’s egomania drove him to return for Ohio State, costing the Irish a victory.

The New York Times reported last week that if Barry Switzer is fired in Dallas, Jerry Jones top candidate is Lou Holtz, if he’s willing to leave Notre Dame. Let’s just hope Troy Aikman can run the option and that Emmitt Smith can play without. Holtz has nothing left to prove in college, except maybe win some more games and develop players’ self-confidence.

Greg Herczeg
Sophomore
Dillon Hall
Multimedia Magazines and

By JASON HUGGINS
World Wide Web Correspondent

To catch the attention of today's "MTV generation," publishing companies have to perpetually outdo each other by capitalizing on the "next big" thing. Right now, publishing on CD-ROM and the World Wide Web seems to be the "next big" thing. And Marinex Multimedia, New York, NY, is one of the leaders in this hi-tech industry.

Marinex Multimedia is a huge communications company specializing in electronic publishing. Marinex currently publishes "The Biz: The Entertainment CyberNetwork" (www.bizmag.com), "The East Village: a CyberSoap" (www.theeastvillage.com), and "Trouble & Attitude," a CD-ROM, video, and other visual material specializing in electronic publishing. Marinex cur-Marinex Multimedia, "It's a sort of participatory journalism." But Flakkin remembers an initial response to the format that was less than favorable. "In the beginning it was like talking to a wall," he remembers about publicists' reactions to his requests for interviews. "Now they see it as a respectable wave of a future medium. This is the first medium that is global 24 hours a day."

Another source of Web entertainment is Marinex' s popular cyber-the East Village: it's a CD-ROM only format to target an upscale 18-34 market. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the "East Village," the first CD-ROM-only format to target an upscale 18-34 market. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marinex Multimedia is a third cousin to the East Village. Marvin...

Showbiz Sites

The life of Eve Ramsay, a 24-year-old female journalist in the form of diary entries of the characters in action in various social circles, can be read as a running, downloadable textual history of events in the life of Eve Ramsay, a 24-year-old female journalist in the form of diary entries of the characters in action in various social circles. The book is a collection of articles that cover the life of Eve Ramsay, a 24-year-old female journalist in the form of diary entries of the characters in action in various social circles.

"Baywatch's" Pamina Anderson

In the cover of the premier issue, the magazine does not uncover the "bare facts." There are a lot of women in bikinis and short-skirts, but the nudity would be fine with what's in a PG-13 movie—not that much. Men's magazines, or even "Baywatch" itself, feature more skin.

"Trouble & Attitude" contains a surprisingly diverse collection of articles complete with both video and text. What other magazine would have Brazilian martial arts video-clips, interviews with jazz and blues greats, video recitals by New York taxi-drivers, and a in-depth cover-story on Jack Nicholson? "Trouble & Attitude" is a small attempt to update the mainstream men's magazine for the digital age.

With current entertainment news, cheesy melo-dramatic soap operas, or nude cleaning ladies, Marixxx Multimedia will definitely get your attention.

JHS has growing, sister-in-law, information. You are now a fully computerized person. In Canada's Magical Secrets (www.magical.com/secrets), a virtual magic shop operated out of the village of Islington, have even more to lose if salable secrets fall into the hands of nosy infidels. Customers, therefore, must join the store's "Secret Society" and take an online oath "to protect the integrity of the magical arts" before gaining access.

"We face the same danger that software vendors face with unauthorized copying and distribution," claims James Riss, founder of Magical Secrets. "But with a low enough price for our secret documents and enough customers, the problem is manageable."

But the Society of American Magicians (SAM), the premier magician's organization, isn't taking any chances with honor systems. While SAM maintains a Web page, it is merely an advertisement for Spider Networks, the society's direct-dial BBS. Even though many of the society's files are available to the general public, private secrets and SAM news features can only be accessed with a membership number.

Of course, secrecy and copyright issues are similar to your experiences while you are awake. On the other hand, non-REM sleep is a time period in which hormonal and regulatory systems are at rest, and the stress response is minimal. The time he/she goes to bed and wakes up in the morning, rather, is the period in which you experience dream life—characterized by a high level of activity. During REM sleep, the heart rate, blood pressure, and breathing rate are elevated, and sleepers are more likely to require the use of professional medical services. Moreover, REM sleep is a time period in which hormonal and regulatory systems are at rest, and the stress response is minimal.

Medical researchers believe that the best sleep is the appropriate blend of REM and non-REM sleep. Such sleep allows you to feel well-rested and enables you to function in your fullest capacity.

There are some factors which are common stealers of sleep. Most experts would agree that the number one cause of sleep difficulties is stress. Most often sleeping difficulties will go away whenever the stressful situation also exits the person's life.

Yet another cause of sleeping difficulty is shift work or irregular sleeping patterns. When a person is constantly changing the time he/she goes to bed and wakes up in the morning, the body's biological rhythms are disrupted. Such biological rhythms help to signal a person to remain alert and awake at times when such rhythms should be falling into a restful sleep. Thus dormant sleeping problems arise. To avoid such sleeping problems, there are several things that you can do:

■ Don't use your bed for anything but sleep.
■ Don't nap during the day.
■ Avoid caffeine, nicotine, and alcohol in the evening.
■ Go to bed and wake up at the same time every night.
■ Check with your doctor if you have trouble staying awake.

If you cannot fall asleep within thirty minutes of actually going to bed, don't force yourself to sleep. Instead, do something relaxing, such as listening to soothing music or reading an enjoyable novel. Remember to always try to clear your mind of all that and do not use bedrooms as a time to solve your daily problems.

Larry Ward is a junior science pre-professional major. He can be e-mailed at Lawrence.A.Ward.25@nd.edu.
wildcats’ defense switched signals on Wolverines

by ric k gano

associated press writer

The observer

we were moving in certain directions.

as and a result they were able to capi-italize on that early, ’90s Northwestern coach Gary Barnett said Monday, two days after his team dramatic 17-16

come-from-behind win over the Wolverines.

“we changed some signals out and dummied some of them,” Barnett said.

defensive end Casey Dailey said

Michigan coach Rod Payne, whom he called one of the most intelligent players he’d been around, was able to

Northwestern’s defensive scheme and relay it to his teammates.

“He was like a quarterback,”

Dailey said. “He’d let Fitz (linebacker

Cam Barnett) make his call and then he’d make his. They were waiting for signals. They were diagnosing our defense.”

Barnett said one “dummie” call in the fourth quarter — when the Wildcats called out a defense they really hadn’t seen before — led to defensive end chris Loezowski’s tackle on Michigan running back Fred Smith in the fourth quarter.

Northwestern jumped from No. 22

Tuesday to No. 15 in the AP poll behind Michigan, a school the Wildcats have not faced in seven years.

“I could barely believe the poll, from now or forever,” Barnett said.

classifieds

NOTICES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ad Type</th>
<th>Text</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Attention all LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, and QUESTIONING students. For times and locations, call the Q-Dash at 1-800-446-8355.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Sac re d Heart Golden Medallion of Jesus and His Lost Exposures. One with 5 small child­</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>... confiscated items. Call Sunbreaks 1-800-446-8355.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Going to central PA along 80, have 1542!!! Send for Air Force Call Brian 287-4876.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Bulletin Board outdoor. Find near 1-800-446-8355.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>The Rodger Smith car at 634-1519.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Call Mary at x3599.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>NEED 3 Rutgers GA’s (206)621-3485</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Bring ing co-workers for Notre Dame game to South Bend. Call Colleen at 288-0494.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Need Washington Tix-Stud or GA. Student. Call Meghan @232-7839.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Need Wash mon Tix-Stud or GA. Student. Call Laura @ (219)284-4396.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>I still need 4 Wash GA’s — face value! Call me at 216-995-1902.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Need W ashington GA’s — face value! Call me at 216-995-1902.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Wanted 2 WASH GA’s. Will pay cash or trade. Call Carol 1275-3845.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>ND- SMC EVENTS. Rent. Full kitchen, living room, two bedrooms. Near campus. 219.287.6797 Ends, JPW &amp; grad. 2 miles from campus. 219.287.6797.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Garden home in – led to defensive end Keith K eith — called out a defense they weren’ t really</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>... K eith fourth quarter — when the Wildcats called out a defense they hadn’t really seen</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| Asterisk * | ... and his going for a victory in the week.

wildcats’ defense switched signals on Wolverines

by ric k gano

associated press writer

The observer

we were moving in certain directions.

as and a result they were able to capi-

italize on that early, ’90s Northwestern
coach Gary Barnett said Monday, two days after his team dramatic 17-16
come-from-behind win over the Wolverines.

“we changed some signals out and dummied some of them,” Barnett
said.

defensive end Casey Dailey said

Michigan coach Rod Payne, whom
he called one of the most intelligent players he’d been around, was able to

Northwestern’s defensive scheme and

relay it to his teammates.

“He was like a quarterback,”

Dailey said. “He’d let Fitz (linebacker

Cam Barnett) make his call and then he’d make his. They were waiting for signals. They were diagnosing our defense.”

Barnett said one “dummie” call in the fourth quarter — when the

Wildcats called out a defense they really hadn’t seen before — led to defensive end chris Loezowski’s

tackle on Michigan running back Fred Smith in the fourth quarter.

Northwestern jumped from No. 22

Tuesday to No. 15 in the AP poll behind Michigan, a school the Wildca ts have not faced in seven years.

“I could barely believe the poll, from now or forever,” Barnett said.

classifieds

NOTICES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Ad Type</th>
<th>Text</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Attention all LESBIAN, GAY, BISEXUAL, and QUESTIONING students. For times and locations, call the Q-Dash at 1-800-446-8355.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Sac re d Heart Golden Medallion of Jesus and His Lost Exposures. One with 5 small child­</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>... confiscated items. Call Sunbreaks 1-800-446-8355.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Going to central PA along 80, have 1542!!! Send for Air Force Call Brian 287-4876.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Bulletin Board outdoor. Find near 1-800-446-8355.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>The Rodger Smith car at 634-1519.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Need Washington Tix-Stud or GA. Student. Call Meghan @232-7839.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Need Wash mon Tix-Stud or GA. Student. Call Laura @ (219)284-4396.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>I still need 4 Wash GA’s — face value! Call me at 216-995-1902.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Wanted 2 WASH GA’s. Will pay cash or trade. Call Carol 1275-3845.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>ND- SMC EVENTS. Rent. Full kitchen, living room, two bedrooms. Near campus. 219.287.6797 Ends, JPW &amp; grad. 2 miles from campus. 219.287.6797.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>Garden home in – led to defensive end Keith K eith — called out a defense they weren’ t really seen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>... K eith fourth quarter — when the Wildcats called out a defense they hadn’t really seen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Asterisk *</td>
<td>... and his going for a victory in the week.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Blue and Gold runner-up to regional rival Michigan

By WILLY BAUER
Sports Writer

Coach Joe Plane predicted it would be a two team race. He was correct.

The results though did not favor Plane's cross-country runners as the University of Michigan edged the Irish for first place at the Notre Dame Invitational. Michigan tallied 61 points, eight better than Notre Dame's final score.

Notre Dame was in prime position to win the meet after fifteen runners had crossed the finish line. Four Irish runners finished in the top 15, and needed one more in the next ten to win the meet. Jason Rexing again performed well, being the first of the Fighting Irish to cross the finish line, as he came in fifth place. Matt Althoff was separated from Rexing by one runner, in seventh place. Derek Selling was the third Notre Dame runner in the top 10 at ninth, giving the Irish a good shot at winning the meet. Joe Dunlop crossed in fifteenth place putting the Irish a few points ahead of the Wolverines, with the crucial fifth finisher to be the deciding factor in the race.

Michigan had four top 17 qualifiers, however the Wolverines' last finisher came in 11 places before the Irish's fifth finisher, Scott Grace, to seal the meet. The Irish needed Grace to finish in 24th place to secure a razor thin victory or 25th to tie Michigan.

"Grace had a nerve problem (so he could not run as well)," explained Plane. "It (the meet) went fine," said Plane. "We had them beat through four runners. Mike Conway keeps improving but Ryan Maxwell didn't have as good of a race as he should have. You can't blame the loss on one runner, you may have to blame me. Maybe I didn't have them prepared enough. However, each guy would say he could have run better. We'll run better against Michigan the next time we face them."

The Irish "B" team also came in second place in the Gold division race. Sophomores Tony Arle and Tim Englehardt finished seventh and eighth respectively, separated by one hundredth of a second.

Notre Dame has this weekend off to prepare for possibly it's biggest test of the season at the Arizona Invitational. Notre Dame's ninth place national ranking may be in jeopardy after this weekend's close finish. The Irish will face tough competition in the next two meets, the upcoming Arizona Invitational and the Big East Championships.

Center for Continuing Education

TUESDAY
OCTOBER 8
1996
11:00 A.M. TO 4:00 P.M.

Arts & Letters

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
Summer Engineering Program
Foreign Study in London, England

INFORMATION MEETING:
Wednesday, October 9, 1996
Room 356 Fitzpatrick Hall
7:00 p.m.

ALL ENGINEERING STUDENTS WELCOME!

Diamond Importer and Jewelry Manufacturer looking for

CAMPUS REP
to earn extra income by distributing catalogs and taking orders
Call Gordla Knox
1-800-922-0090 or email to sapeck@interaccess.com

SPRING BREAK
16th Full-Year!

1-800-SUN CHASE
ALL SIX TROPICAL DESTINATIONS

4-300-340-4000

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND
PANAMA CITY BEACH
HILTON HEAD ISLAND
SOUTH BEACH
Hilton Head

DINNER
All-You-Can-Eat
Alumni-Senior Club
Papa John's Pizza
$3.00 at the door

Class of 1999
Class of 1999
TUESDAY
OCTOBER 8, 1996
6:00 - 8:00 p.m.

The Observer • SPORTS
Pettitte gets call for Game 1

By RONALD BLUM
Associated Press

NEW YORK

Andy Pettitte, 3-0 against Baltimore this season, was picked to start Tuesday’s opener of the AL playoffs against Scott Erickson.

David Cone, who pitched Game 1 of the first round against Texas, will pitch the second game on Wednesday against Mike Mussina.

Pettitte, who walked six against Texas in Game 2 of the first round, had a 3.76 ERA this season in four starts against the Orioles that covered 26 1-3 innings, and he’s 5-0 against Baltimore this year, was picked for Game 1 of the first round, had a 3.76 ERA this year, was picked for Game 1 of the first round.

By RONALD BLUM

NEW YORK

Andy Pettitte, 3-0 against Baltimore this season, was picked to start Tuesday’s opener of the AL playoffs against Scott Erickson.

David Cone, who pitched Game 1 of the first round against Texas, will pitch the second game on Wednesday against Mike Mussina.

Pettitte, who walked six against Texas in Game 2 of the first round, had a 3.76 ERA this season in four starts against the Orioles that covered 26 1-3 innings, and he’s 5-0 against them over the last two seasons. Baltimore was just 24-25 against left-handed starters this year.

In Cone’s only appearance against Baltimore this season, he was tagged for six runs and nine hits in five innings on Sept. 19, the second game of a doubleheader split.

Overall, the Yankees were 10-3 against the Orioles, including 6-0 at Camden Yards.

"Obviously, in the back of our minds we can say we’ve done something there before so maybe that will mean something," Cone said. "But in the playoffs, to me it’s a wash."

Dwight Gooden, taken off the roster for the Texas series, still may have the best 1-2 combination since Rick Honeycutt and Dennis Eckersley with Oakland in the late 1980s or Don Davis and Rich Gossage with the Yankees in the late 1970s and early ‘80s.

"We knew that if we could just get a couple of runs, our bullpen would shut them down and we would have a chance," Williams said.

Weathers, acquired from Florida on July 31, may have gotten the key outs of the series. With Texas leading 4-3 in the fourth inning of Game 4, the Rangers put runners on first and second with no outs. Weathers relieved Brian Boehringer and faced Juan Gonzalez, who already had five home runs in the series.

Gonzalez struck out on a 3-2 pitch and Will Clark hit into a double play.

"It was probably the single most impressive outing in the bullpen we’ve had in the series," Wetteland said.

"It in the eighth and ninth, they’ve got some guys coming out there who are blowing cheese," the Rangers’ Bean Palmer said Saturday after New York’s series-clinching win.

New York’s relievers allowed just two runs and nine hits against the Rangers. The performance allowed the Yankees to overcome a 4-1 deficit in Game 2, a 2-1 ninth-inning deficit in Game 3 and a 4-0 deficit in Game 4.

"The bullpen was the difference in this series," Yankees manager Joe Torre said. "We won three close games and our relievers got them all."

As the Yankees slumped to a 27-30 from July 28 on, Yankees manager Joe Torre said, "We would be without them," said Bernie Williams, who led the Yankees in the late 1980s and early ‘90s.

"We knew that if we could just get a couple of runs, our bullpen would shut them down and we would have a chance," Williams said.

Weathers, acquired from Florida on July 31, may have gotten the key outs of the series. With Texas leading 4-3 in the fourth inning of Game 4, the Rangers put runners on first and second with no outs. Weathers relieved Brian Boehringer and faced Juan Gonzalez, who already had five home runs in the series.

Gonzalez struck out on a 3-2 pitch and Will Clark hit into a double play.

"It was probably the single most impressive outing in the bullpen we’ve had in the series," Wetteland said.

"It in the eighth and ninth, they’ve got some guys coming out there who are blowing cheese," the Rangers’ Bean Palmer said Saturday after New York’s series-clinching win.

New York’s relievers allowed just two runs and nine hits against the Rangers. The performance allowed the Yankees to overcome a 4-1 deficit in Game 2, a 2-1 ninth-inning deficit in Game 3 and a 4-0 deficit in Game 4.

"The bullpen was the difference in this series," Yankees manager Joe Torre said. "We won three close games and our relievers got them all."

As the Yankees slumped to a 27-30 from July 28 on, Yankees manager Joe Torre said, "We would be without them," said Bernie Williams, who led the Yankees in the late 1980s and early ‘90s.

"We knew that if we could just get a couple of runs, our bullpen would shut them down and we would have a chance," Williams said.

Weathers, acquired from Florida on July 31, may have gotten the key outs of the series. With Texas leading 4-3 in the fourth inning of Game 4, the Rangers put runners on first and second with no outs. Weathers relieved Brian Boehringer and faced Juan Gonzalez, who already had five home runs in the series.

Gonzalez struck out on a 3-2 pitch and Will Clark hit into a double play.

"It was probably the single most impressive outing in the bullpen we’ve had in the series," Wetteland said.
Veteran first baseman agrees to two-year extension

Associated Press

CHICAGO

After a career-year with the bat, Mark Grace agreed Monday to return to the Chicago Cubs for at least two more seasons, agreeing to a $9.35 million contract with a team option for 1999.

Grace, a two-time All-Star and three-time Gold Glove first baseman, finished in the NL’s top 10 in hitting this year for the seventh time in his nine major league seasons, all with the Cubs.

Under the deal, the Cubs will increase Grace’s 1996 salary from $4.15 million to $4.6 million, thus avoiding having a $450,000 signing bonus appear on their payroll in 1997, when there could be a luxury tax.

Grace will get $4.3 million in 1997 and $4 million in 1998. The Cubs have an option for 1999 at $4.1 million, which would increase to $4.6 million if he’s in the top five of MVP voting or wins the Silver Slugger award. If the Cubs don’t exercise the option, they would pay a $600,000 buyout.

Under his current contract, Grace could have exercised a $4.6 million player option for next season. If he had done that, the Cubs would have had a $5.25 million team option for 1998.

Grace, 32, batted a career-high .331 — fifth-highest in the league — with 29 doubles, nine homers and 75 RBIs. He lifted his lifetime hitting average to .309.
WOMEN’S CROSS COUNTRY

Irish defend turf, continue to dominate competition

By MARIO ARCE
Sports Writer

The Irish women’s cross country team once again proved to be invincible as they found themselves undefeated and atop the medal stand after last Friday’s Notre Dame Invitational at the Burke Golf Course. The women were first with 88 points among the 18-country teams again.

“Invitational at the Burke Golf Course. The women were first and atop the medal stand after once again led the squad and improved her three-races. Deeter ran away from the field early in race to break her two-week-old record by 12 seconds. Joanna is one of the team’s third finisher, improving 15 seconds from two weeks ago, only to finish behind the all-Americans and two all-conference selections.

“The important thing for Nicole is for her to run with confidence,” said Connelly. “Once she runs confidently and comfortably she’ll be able to compete with the nation’s best.”

Senior Heidi Reichenbach found herself as the team’s third finisher, improving 15 seconds from two weeks ago. Reichenbach’s improvement should not be measured from one meet to the next, but from her success this season to the disappointment of her last. Reichenbach has been on the team for four years, running only for herself and to hopefully someday make the varsity team. As a junior Reichenbach ran in only one meet, and on the junior varsity level, finishing with a time of 21:53. This year she has stepped it up for the Irish with a time of 17:51.

“This summer I got to the point where I was coming up to my last year, my senior year,” Reichenbach said. “I wanted to be remembered as a varsity runner and not just another runner on the team.”

Reichenbach was not the only other member on the team to step it up for the Irish as Kelly Peterson finished 28th in the race with a time of 17:50. Mieke Walsh also ran well for Notre Dame finishing 33rd with a time of 18:07.

---

O-line
continued from page 16

men are very important as far as that is concerned."

And while just who will comprise that starting five unit remains a mystery, what is known is that the job will go to whoever wants is most in practice this week.

“We’re just trying to look for some chemistry this week and get back on track,” said Bidder, who may lend his services at left tackle this week. “If they need me to step in, I feel like I could do that now.”

He may get his chance. After all, right now is all that matters for the Irish.

A season hangs in the balance, and the Irish can’t afford to get pushed around right now.
HAPPY BIRTHDAY IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your efforts to give it all out in one go may not produce the hoped-for results. Expect the unexpected: a flurry of opportunities may perhaps over the December holidays. Burnish your wings so that the new spring may come boost early this year. A new career opportunity could make your life more fulfilling. Put off making a romantic commitment until next spring. Property values could increase greatly by this time next fall. Conclude a real estate deal as soon as possible.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DAY: across Saturday Starlet Weaver, the Rev. Jesse Jackson,entrepreneur Rupert Rose Barnet, comedian Shelford, actor Michael Caine, actor/director/producer Talbot HW.

AREA (March 21-April 19): Do not be afraid to proclaim yourself. You are your own best representa­tion. Can appear distant and shut off from family news. An unnecessary inci­dent could lead to a disagreement with a neighbor.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): An excellent day to try something totally different! Change your routine and do some shopping. Getting together with living friends will make the evening hours special.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Lighten up! Taking yourself too seriously will prevent others from knowing the real you. If you need to talk, approach a friend or family member.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): You need to develop greater ease in dealing with strangers or authority figures. Be gracious to those who have been less fortunate than you. Romance may be more swept than in the recent past. Enjoy!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Prac­tical jokes have a way of backfiring. Keep sense of humor firmly planted.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The field in romance may suit you totally different! Change your rou­tine and make the evening hours special.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be aware of plastic surgery. Look for ways to boost your produc­tivity at the office. Deal tactfully with new or overworked colleagues.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Often do not help you in your erotic ventures. Avoid attacking everything you know. An air of mystery makes you more attractive to the opposite sex.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your social circle widens, but it becomes apparent that a friend or relative holds new appeal. Be sure to get everything in writing. A sudden inflammation could end quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Admit you are a bit over the top in hoping to catch up on the latest news. You may have trouble chang­ing between two admirers. Take some time for yourself. An SOE for family mem­bers about.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are at your liveliest today. Let down your very observant front and feel for a breath. Intellectual pursuits bring great satisfaction while increased activity boosts your energy levels.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have more authority than in the past. Single men may have a new career demands in your relationships. New­ways can be found to please your appointer. Guard your resources. Con­sider experts before making any new decisions.

OF INTEREST

"A Prayer for the Condemned" lecture on the death penalty will be given by Joe Ross, C.S.C., tonight in the Walsh Hall Chapel at 7:45 p.m. This book is included in the Living Out the Gospel of Life series for Respect for Life. The event will feature N.D. Voices of Faith Gospel Choir. Refreshments will be provided.

Fall 1996 Spades Tournament will be held tonight in the Forgotten Ballroom at 7:15 p.m. Sign-up cost of $5 per team will take place until the first hand is played in the Game Room. Prizes will be awarded.

Inner City Teaching Corps representatives will be at the Center for Social Concerns today at 4:30 p.m. and will be general informational session.

Folk Singer Charlie King will be on campus today from 4-6 p.m. in the Notre Dame Office. Concert is free. Tonight at 7 p.m., King will perform at the Broadway Christian church in a concert benefitting the Center for the Homeless. A donation of $3.00 is requested. Call the Center for Social Concerns with any questions.

MENU

Notre Dame
North
- Beef Noodle Soup
- Chicken and Dumplings
- Garden Quiche
- Rotini Pasta Primavera
- Baked Cod with Herbs

South
- Cream of Mushroom Soup
- Caprici Fried Steak
- Neopolitan Style Spaghetti
- Parsley White Potatoes

St. Mary's Pasta Primavera
- Buffalo Chicken Breast Sandwich
- Parsley White Potatoes

Wanted: Reporters, photographers and editors. Join The Observer staff.

Intramural Entry Dates

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>October 3-10</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I H Volleyball</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Co-Rec Basketball</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Campus Badminton</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Deadline October 10</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sign up a team in the RecSports office.

to bring your student ID with you whenever you are using any of the athletic facilities on campus.

631-6100
Questions abound for struggling offensive line

By DYLAN BARMMER
Assistant Sports Editor

As Lou Holtz tries to shake the bitter memories of the loss to Ohio State, there are many areas of his football team that need to be addressed.

Can this team bounce back from the crushing blow they received at the hands of the Buckeyes?

Do the Irish have the speed and depth at the wide receiver position to keep them in the game against top-notch competition?

Can this team regain the form on the ground that led them to a 9-3 finish last season?

It is this last question mark which brings forth yet another area of his football team that need to be addressed. Can the Irish offensives succeed in the absence of injured star Friday Pettigout and occasional un-inspired play from Akers and Chris Cleverenor have left Moore and company looking for answers.

"The offensive tackle position is an area we need to look at," commented Holtz after the Ohio State game. "There is a possibility that Luke Pettigout or Tim Riddler could start at left tackle. We are going to find some answers in practice this week."

"We're just always looking for the five best kids," commented Moore, who is still uncertain as to who will man the tackles when the Irish take the field against the No. 16 Washington Huskies this Saturday. "We're just looking for the five kids who are going to go out and know their assignments, and function properly. All the line- men are giving a good effort, but we just have to get better."

The Irish offensive line will certainly have to get better if they are going to stop the likes of Huskies Jason Chorak and Ink Aleaga this weekend.

Junior strong-side linebacker Chorak, dubbed the "Croatian sensation," picked up two sacks in the Huskies' 27-6 stifling of Stanford last Saturday, bringing his season total to six sacks in just four games. Chorak has also collected 9.5 tackles for loss this season, and is part of a Husky defensive unit ranked 20th in the nation against the run.

If the Irish need any further proof of the Husky defensive unit's prowess, they need only ask BYU's Steve Sarkesian, who was sacked eight times in Washington's 29-17 win over the Cougars earlier this season.

Both Chorak and inside linebacker Joyce may have won any of those games."

"All were heartbreakers," commented Joyce. "They [Calvin] just didn't make mistakes."

After battling it out in back- to-back matches, the Belles found themselves on the court again. This final game was against a strong Kalamazoo squad and would become a tough five-set match. The Belles lost the first two sets but regrouped for the third and fourth and earned the match.

The scores speak for themselves.

Saint Mary's head coach Julie Schroeder-Beck said, "We couldn't have won any of those games."

"All were heartbreakers," added assistant coach Jennie Joyce.

They played hard. They fought harder. They never gave up, but that just wasn't enough for the Saint Mary's volleyball team to emerge from the Kalamazoo Triangular on Saturday with a winning record.

The Belles compiled a 1-2 record on Saturday, defeating Defiance 15-12, 15-9, 15-4 in their first match, but losing their next two matches to Calvin College 13-15, 14-16, 11-15 and Kalamazoo 6-15, 10-15, 13-11, 12-15.

The scores speak for themselves.

I believe the Calvin College game was the deciding factor in this match. We were up 2-1, 24-18, but lost by just three points. We played hard, but in the end we were Kalamazoo who pulled out the win."

The Belles are now 13-10, and will be facing Lake Forest at 7 p.m. on Wednesday.