WVFI will announce move to FM

By BRAD PRENDECAST
Editor-in-Chief

WVFI-AM will announce Wednesday that it is one step closer to joining the FM radio band, according to a source familiar with the station’s push for the change, said senior Carol Jones, a founding member of the group. “The student voice will not only be heard by those present here today, but will resound in the years to come. Tonight we made history.”

Logged in The College history books with official recognition as a campus organization is The Alliance, the organization that it is one step closer to joining the campus ministry that truly pioneers Saint Mary’s has made me more month of deliberation. The Alliance first proposed its constitution at the March 3 BOG meeting, and was tabled until the March 19 meeting. At this meeting, BOG members formed an internal research team to seek out unbiased information to educate the members of BOG, in order for them to make an informed decision on the question of official recognition of The Alliance.

The research team reported answers to previous questions on campus ministry opinion, verification of club advisor, Catholic documents and the laity of the Catholic community. The president was in favor of The Alliance’s constitution and approved club recognition at Saint Mary’s College starting now, and continuing into the 1997-98 academic year. “I feel very confident in the decision that the women of BOG have made. I had this confidence even before I knew the result of the vote because of the hard work, long hours and research that was put into making this decision. I have the utmost confidence in their decision.”

The Alliance met last night to plan tonight’s forum, which will target increased awareness about the non-discrimination clause and discussion around campus,” said J.P. Cooney, College Democrats co-president.

Last Spring, the Ad Hoc Committee on Gay and Lesbian Student Needs recom-
I dare you

Apathy and cowardice. Are these the salient features of the future leaders of our country? I'm sick of death of people who don't know or don't care what's going on. Hair Hona? How does one act? How can one be saved? Let them argue about it. Welfare reform? I don't really know anything about it. That's why I don't vote. I don't care — it has no immediacy to my life. But in two years will you care if the U.S. joins a war of intervention? If there are no priests there, will it affect me? Women in the priesthood? What will you do? You'll complain. It's what you do. You'll blame it on someone else. You'll blame it on the politicians — when you never voted in the elections. You'll blame it on everybody and anybody but yourself.

But you are the one at fault. Because you never cared to inform yourself and you were too afraid to find out. It is important.

These aren't far-distant problems. The "real world" is fast approaching, as any senior will tell you, and the real world will begin to affect each and every one of you, if it hasn't already. Have you taken a stand on anything? Or are you afraid that you'll be labeled a geek, a prude, or — horror of horrors — an activist?

Taking a stand isn't always a popular thing to do — it takes courage to put your personal convictions out where anyone can attack them and you. But you never have to be afraid to speak the truth, and you must be ashamed of that truth as long as you act on your convictions.

We're already in a world where we have disposed hundreds of opportunities for service — but service without knowledge does little good. Each and every one of us will be called upon to make ethical decisions — ethical decisions that can't be made if one is uninformed.

Beyond that, it is your responsibility to use your convictions in a Church, a country, and a world.

I dare you:

1. To work from, something to help you make ethical decisions, and something to say when someone asks you, "What do I do?"
2. To become a part of the ordination of women as Catholic priests.

Catholic church razed by arsonists in Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland A rural Roman Catholic church was burned to the ground today in the third attack on a Catholic church in three days. The recent series of church burnings began two weekends ago when a Baptist church in east Belfast was badly damaged. Arson attacks were carried out on Protestant homes the following Tuesday in the mainly Protestant Tyrone.

Today, the Church of the Immaculate Conception, near Tandragee, a predominantly Protestant town, was already consumed.

"When we first crested the hill around 3 a.m. Tandragee, 40 miles south-west of Belfast, has strong connections to the Protestant Order, the province's dominant Protestant fraternal group."

The area's Anglican minister, the Rev. Brian Harper, arrived at dawn to comfort Catholic parishioners who had come expecting to attend 9 a.m. mass. Harper said he cried at the sight of the burning ruins.

"It's a shell. The sacristy's walls are still standing but the roof has come down. Bishops have asked the clergy to go around the town," Harper said. "The people who did this — it was deliberate — have absolute — no conscience at all."

On the following Saturday the attack on the Protestant homes; two Catholic churches in towns west of Belfast were set on fire; one was razed.

The church burnings coincide with the approach of the summer "summer vacation" period. Protestant-Catholic relations traditionally deteriorate during the parades.

For the past 30 weeks, a Protestant mob has menaced weekly services at a Catholic church in Ballymena, 20 miles northwest of Belfast, to protest Catholic marches against Protestant parades.

Gore celebrates gradual improvements

BETHESDA, Md.

No dood is too small to earn someone a pat on the back from Vice President Al Gore when it comes to improving government. Decisions to recycle marine uniforms, mount a safety campaign for New Jersey highway workers and even put up a number on a federal building so people can find it are being praised by Gore as "signs the era of better government has begun." Gore, chief of the bureaucratic housecleaning, gave a pep talk Monday to more than 600 federal workers and private sector workers meeting to discuss ways to make government more efficient. Claiming early success in the drive to answer phones faster, cut red tape and be polite, he said the effort to treat people like customers "will amaze the benchwarmers" who doubt it can be done. Most federal agencies set standards for customer service under the National Performance Review started early in the first Clinton-Gore administration. By their own first accounting, they have made inroads in achieving public satisfaction. According to a customer survey by 150 agencies, powered by GSE, the U.S. Customs Service has been answering all calls within a minute.

McVeigh team discrédits confessions

DENVER

Two prospective jurors in the Oklahoma City bombing trial Monday said they had heard a news report of Timothy McVeigh's purported confession, but dismissed it as unworthy of belief. "I kind of thought it was something made up," said one of the Oklahoma City newspaper reporters who heard the report. "I don't believe in the so-called 'confession.' " Another candidate said all he could remember was that it was "a story about a confession that wasn't true, or nobody knows whether it was made." The responses related to a report in The Dallas Morning News — "Cabinet on its Informal Record" — that McVeigh told his defense team he alone drove the truck in the bombing, and decided on a décidé on a decision to save the life of a jury, according to a court order to ensure a "holy count." The report prompted a vigorous media response by McVeigh attorney Stephen Jones, who lashed out at the report, "I don't believe in the so-called 'confession.' " He said the defense team was "screwing the government" and making "bad decisions" that his conscience can live with. "I'm not a government official, I'm not even learning, not just knowledge but compassion."

Having convictions doesn't mean you have to scramble from the rooftops. It doesn't mean you will be the only person from every service club on campus. What it means is that you have a base of support, something to help you make decisions, and something to say when someone asks you, "What do I do?"

And then some people will get involved.

Some people will work for change. Many people on this campus already are. They should be our role models as individuals who are part of a Church, a country, and a world.

It's hard work to support a conviction; it's a dangerous game to speak those convictions out loud. It's hard work to support a conviction; it's a dangerous game to speak those convictions out loud. Apathy and cowardice.

New York:

Stories about dangers in the sea and in the air, about hopes and fears generated by new AIDS treatments, about abuses in federal housing for American Indians and in a ruthless regime in Afghanistan — all captured the 1997 Pulitzer Prizes in journalism. Monday's Times-Picayune of New Orleans won two awards, including the public service prize for a series examining how overfishing and pollution are devastating the oceans. The Seattle Times also won two prizes, including the local reporting prize for "Boston's Blood on the Streets," examining Boston's burgeoning AIDS epidemic. Frank McCourt took the prize for biography with "Angela's Ashes: A Memoir." The Times-Picayune's public service prize went to a series on homelessness and "Solutions to Trouble." The national reporting prize went to The Wall Street Journal for coverage of the emergence of powerful new drugs that have proved surprisingly effective against AIDS.

Breweries come under fire for ads

Seattle, New Orleans papers win big

NEW YORK

Stories about dangers in the sea and in the air, about hopes and fears generated by new AIDS treatments, about abuses in federal housing for American Indians and in a ruthless regime in Afghanistan — all captured the 1997 Pulitzer Prizes in journalism. Monday's Times-Picayune of New Orleans won two awards, including the public service prize for a series examining how overfishing and pollution are devastating the oceans. The Seattle Times also won two prizes, including the local reporting prize for "Boston's Blood on the Streets," examining Boston's burgeoning AIDS epidemic. Frank McCourt took the prize for biography with "Angela's Ashes: A Memoir." The Times-Picayune's public service prize went to a series on homelessness and "Solutions to Trouble." The national reporting prize went to The Wall Street Journal for coverage of the emergence of powerful new drugs that have proved surprisingly effective against AIDS.
The faces belong to men, women and children. They come from every race, class and culture. They speak of spirituality, careers, childhood, shock, marriage, strength and pain. They also speak about living with AIDS.

Project Face to Face is a visiting exhibition composed of masks and words, which opened today in the LaFortune Ballroom. Taped interviews with each person are set up under the mask display, enabling an observer to look into a person's face while hearing their story. "The stories are not just about AIDS. They're about the common bonds of being human. I don't think you'll hear any repeating stories in the exhibit," said Jason Dilley, the contributing artist.

All of the persons represented in the exhibit are living with AIDS. Although the disease serves as the common thread for the exhibit, there is much to learn about besides the disease itself.

Notre Dame is one of 10 colleges and universities that the project will visit this spring. "Many teenagers and young adults haven't met or worked with people with AIDS. Of the seven Notre Dame volunteers who helped set up the exhibit, none of them had ever met someone with AIDS. That's indicative of why visiting colleges is so important," Dilley said.

"I don't personally know anyone with AIDS, but now I feel as though I do. These are actual people," freshman Darnel volunteers who helped set up the exhibit, none of them had ever met someone with AIDS. Of the seven (Notre Dame) volunteers who helped set up the exhibit, none of them had ever met someone with AIDS. That's indicative of why visiting colleges is so important," Dilley said.

"The stories are not just about AIDS. They're about the common bonds of being human. I don't think you'll hear any repeating stories in the exhibit," said Jason Dilley, the contributing artist.

Sophomore Pete Casaro listens intently to the voice of an AIDS victim at the 'Face to Face' exhibit yesterday.

Raul Gutierrez said, "AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he continued.

"AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he continued.

Raul Gutierrez said, "AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he continued.

"AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he continued.

"AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he continued.

"AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he continued.

"AIDS needs to be exposed at Notre Dame because ... it's one of those things we don't talk about here," he concluded.

Today at 2 p.m., Dilley will make a mask of a community member's face who has AIDS. He will demonstrate mask-making techniques in LaFortune during the course of the week. The exhibit can be viewed today through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., and also Friday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

The University Libraries of Notre Dame invite you to search our newest online reference database, FirstSearch.

FirstSearch is a collection of over 60 databases covering a wide range of academic disciplines. For example, with FirstSearch if your area is the sciences, BIOSIS, GenSci Abstracts, MEDLINE, GeoRef, GEORGE, and Environments are just a few of the indexes that can assist you with your research. Search business and economic literature by using the EconLit Database or the ABI/INFORM, a major index for articles related to business. Dissertation Abstracts, FactSearch, a database to current statistics on a variety of topics, and databases in the areas of the arts and humanities are readily available.

FirstSearch also gives you immediate access to the holdings of 20,000 libraries worldwide via WorldCat. In addition, newspaper articles, general periodicals, and some full-text materials can be accessed via FirstSearch.

After trying FirstSearch, the Libraries would appreciate your comments in two areas: the coverage and content of the indexes and the access software and its features. Also, after the trial period the University Libraries may choose to subscribe to one or more of the 60 databases. FirstSearch and an e-mail link to enter your comments can be reached through the Libraries' homepage.

The URL is: http://www.nd.edu/~ndlibs/iac.htm
by the funds are reportedly lacking rapid progress. Named head coach in 1964, Parseghian restored Irish foot-national prominence and won two consensus national championships.

- Antonin Scalia, associate justice, U.S. Supreme Court, doctor of laws. Nominated to the Supreme Court by President Reagan, Scalia took the oath of office in 1986 after Waiting for five years on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. His legal career included his private practice in Cleveland, faculty appointments at the University of Virginia and Chicago Schools, and government service as an assistant attorney general in the Justice Department.

- Ann Claire Williams, federal judge, U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, doctor of laws. A 1975 graduate of the Notre Dame Law School. Williams has been a member of the University's Board of Trustees since 1993-95 and won a Pulitzer Prize for leadership in the humanities from President and Mrs. Clinton in ceremonies early last year.

- Roman Herzog, federal president of the Republic of Germany, doctor of laws. Herzog was elected Germany's seventh president at the May 1994 federal convention. He served from 1983-1994 as the German vice president, and went on as president of the Federal Constitutional Court.

- Leon Lederman, director emeritus, Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory, and Pritzkler Professor of Science, Illinois Institute of Technology, doctor of science. An internationally renowned physicist for more than 40 years, Lederman was awarded the 1988 Nobel Prize in Physics.

- Cardinal Adam Maida, archbishop of Detroit, doctor of laws. Reserved archbishop of Detroit by Pope John Paul II in 1991, he was related to college students four years later, Maida has spoken forcefully against racism and assisted suicide and in support of ecumenism and the rights of immigrants.

- Arthur Martinez, chairman and CEO of Sears, Roebuck and Co., doctor of laws. Martinez was appointed the 12th chairman of Sears in 1995, after serving the previous three years as chair and CEO of the company's retail division.

- Barry Munitz, chancellor, California State University System, doctor of laws. As chief executive officer of the nation's largest senior system of public higher education, Munitz oversees 23 campuses with 335,000 students and more than 33,000 faculty and staff. He is immediately past chair of the American Council on Education, and serves with Notre Dame's President, Father Edward Malloy, on the Business-Higher Education Forum and the board of Campus Compact.

- Pan-Irane Amstutz, founder of the Ara Parseghian Medical Research Foundation and Notre Dame head football coach from 1964-74, doctor of laws. Parseghian has dedicated his life to the discovery of a cure for Niemann-Pick Type C disease, a rare and fatal genetic disorder that strick three of his grandchildren, including Michael, who died March 23 at age nine. The foundation has raised more than $5 million since 1994, and scientists supported said. "Looking out the window, I saw a man in plainclothes with a gun drawn.

Harris

continued from page 1

"It looked like he was about to shoot someone," he added.

Williams recalled. "That could've blown up both hous­
s. Noting the car's erratic path, Williams looked a proach the man's house and Norgle's.

"The guy jumped out of his car and just ran," Williams said. "It looked like he was about to shoot someone,"

"I just feel that, since we are Notre Dame students, campus security should help a little more — police, not as much with the off-campus residents," O'Rourke explained.

Norgle expressed heightened concern about the situation. "I just feel that, since we are Notre Dame students, campus security should help a little more — better policing, plus more concerns about the safety of the areas where students live," she asserted.

"We thought these areas were pretty safe," Norgle said. "First, my neighbors see people in their back yard at night, then this drug bust hap­pened. "It makes us wonder if we're secure here at all," she added.

WWFI

continued from page 1

release any further details.

Switching to FM would be the culmination of a plan that began several years ago. In the fall of 1994, WWFI's staff renewed its plan to attain FM status, a process that included demonstrating a professional commitment to the station.

Those steps were designed to meet FCC standards, which apply to FM stations but not to those on the AM band. Becoming an FM station would require WWFI to avoid any material not deemed appropriate for the airwaves, including songs with offensive or degrading language. If approved, the switch to FM would expand the station's listening area. The present AM current limits the station's reach to the Notre Dame campus, excluding Saint Mary's and the South Bend community. Approval from the University also has required that the station win greater support from student appointees. As recently as two weeks ago, current station manager Mike Flood announced measures to give air time to those that demographics prove is preferred by college students.

"We want to be more inclusive in the community," Flood said at the time. "We're shaking the stereotype that we play music that no one wants to hear."

This new policy, though recently finalized, is the product of developing on-air since January 1996, Flood said. He could not be reached for comment last night.

Other developments at the station along the road to FM status included massive staff cuts in November 1995 that were designed to streamline the station and bring greater communication and consistency among co-workers. WWFI officially filed its proposal to move to FM frequency in March 1996.

Three psychology graduates of Saint Mary's returned yesterday to talk to current undergraduates about post-graduation career options.

Three Saint Mary's graduates with majors in psychology returned to campus last night to participate in a panel discussion with current students. Rory Cavanaugh, Karen Genovese and Erin Kopfer discussed their current occupations and answered any questions regarding post-graduation career options.

All three women stressed the importance of researching possible job opportunities early on in order to narrow the amount of stress involved in seeking employment.

"Attending job fairs and researching possible job opportunities is helpful," said Cavanaugh, a sales assistant.

Kopfer said her internship at a local hospital gave her hands-on experience and exposed her to several different career opportunities. Kopfer currently works in Chicago as a recruiting administrator.

Kopfer believes her experience at a women's college contributed to her success in the business world. "Being assertive is definitely something you learn here, whether you realize it or not," said Genovese.

Cavanaugh, a graduate student at the Illinois School of Professional Psychology, advised students interested in graduate school to research their options and talk to current students within their program of interest.

"It is harder to talk to professors in graduate school," she said.

Genovese also offered personal insight in balancing schoolwork. "Stressing out in undergrad is completely worthless—it doesn't get you anywhere. Just relax and have fun!" Cavanaugh offered similar advice. "You really have to manage your time well, but things have a way of working themselves out."

PPE

The Concentration in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics

The Concentration in Philosophy, Politics, and Economics (PPE) is designed for undergraduates with special interests in the intersecting areas of political philosophy, political theory, and economic analysis. Many of our students go on to careers in law, public policy, or the academy.

PPE has three main attractions:

(1) PPE integrates different approaches to politics and justice in a way not usually possible merely with a second major (and also requires many fewer courses than a second major);

(2) PPE students interact closely with faculty members, both in classes and in advising and conversation (the student/faculty ratio in PPE's seminars and colloquia is about 10:1);

(3) PPE students develop an intellectual community among themselves, especially through the Justice Seminar, PPE's intensive gateway course.

Every year about twenty highly motivated and talented students are admitted to PPE; check it out to see if it is for you. You can contact one of PPE's student consultants for the insider view:

- Karla Arenas 4-4285 Arenas.1@nd.edu
- Michael Williams 288-0116 Williams.108@nd.edu
- Cristina Coronado 243-9172 Coronado.1@nd.edu

You can also contact Professor David O'Connor at O'Connor.2@nd.edu, or Professor John Roos at Roos.1@nd.edu.

APPLICATIONS and further information are available outside Professor O'Connor's office, 307 Decio. The application deadline is April 9. You may also apply electronically. Simply send Professor O'Connor an e-mail message, subject "PPE application," with the following information: name, address, telephone, e-mail, year you are in now, expected major, courses you have taken in philosophy, government, and economics, your GPA, and a statement of no more than 300 words of why you are interested in PPE and why PPE should be interested in you. Acceptance notices are sent by April 10.
Lecture focuses on making love

By CHRIS SHIPLEY

The physicality and spirituality of love were contrasted last night in the second of a three-part discussion series entitled "Reclaiming Human Sexuality." The forum, presented by Campus Ministry, featured speakers Fran Ferder and John Heagle who reflected on the ways in which love can be expressed in a relationship of respect, acceptance, and inclusiveness for the Saint Mary's community. The organization and its officers shall not discriminate on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, gender, disability, political affiliation, or sexual orientation.

The College's Board of Governance is the central student government organization which provides a forum for discussion of issues and policies that concern and affect students as well as the college community. BOG seeks to actively facilitate communication between all aspects of the Saint Mary's community, to make formal recommendations regarding issues and policies of the College in accordance with the concern of the student body.

The history of the revision process, why the revisions are necessary, why revision is a timely issue, and which legal and personal issues underlie the process.

The observer is now hiring for the following position: ILLUSTRATION EDITOR

If interested, please submit a one-page statement of interest and a brief (5-10 page) portfolio to The Observer office, 3rd floor LaFortune, by Thursday, April 10. Applications should be addressed to Ed Leader.

Questions? Call #4428.
Nanni extolls virtues of living in a community

By SARAH CORKREAN
Saint Mary's News Editor

explored the question based to live in community, Nanni said. But after they discussed together what annoyed each one of them, problems were resolved.

"We were forced to come up with a list of people who were not contributing to the community, and I was on everyone's list," laughed Nanni.

Living with the other Associates in Chile, I learned about my limitations which is critical to building an interdependency with others," he added.

"Participation may be low in some areas, but people are finding ways to volunteer in other areas of the community that are just as important," said junior Brenda Nolan.

"They need each other to help one another grow closer to God to become the type of Christians they want to become," he added.

Nanni noted that it is in the manner and attitude of the homeless that we are kept on track of not getting obsessed with material possessions.

Referring to an example of community, Nanni recounted the time his father was stricken with cancer in the hospital and a guest at the Center walked into his office and threw down an envelope and disappeared.

Inside the envelope was a $20 bill and a small wrinkled postcard of an elf looking to the stars.

"The guest wrote on an attached note: 'For all that you have done for me this is all I can give back. I have carried the post card for a long time on the street and I want to give it to you in your family's time of need.'"

With a tear in his eye, Nanni said that such an action is a perfect example of community — someone who had absolutely nothing found a way to give little community to others.

LOOKING FOR A SIMPLER FINANCIAL CHOICE?

Take the Direct Route with Direct Deposit and No-Fee Checking.

Don't get lost in a maze of requirements and endless fees. At NDFCU, we make it simple and affordable.

• No-Fee Checking
• No Monthly Service Charge
• No Minimum Balance Required
• No Per-Check Charge
• Overdraft Protection Available

A Better Choice to Make

(219) 239-6611 or (800) 522-6611

Independent of the University

FOR GRADUATION

May 10 - 18
• $6.75 per hour
• Flexible Schedule
• Free room / board

Housing contract Deadline: April 10th
Sign up: Monday - Saturday
10:00 am to 5:00 pm
Catering Employment Office
SDH/ Lower level

DEADLINE EXTENDED

WORK CATERING

FOR GRADUATION

$ $ $

$ $ $

College of Science Distinguished Scholar Lecture Series

Quantum Mechanics and the Limits of Scientific Knowledge

Dr. James Cushing
Department of Physics

April 8, 1997
7:30 PM
DeBartolo 131
Webster's defines a "cult" as any group accepted by the orthodoxy; thus the word "cult" always carried negative overtones, and often led those in the accepted religions to consider cult members odd, extremist, or simply insane. Historically, all Christian societies have suffered remants of pre-Christian belief systems, whose adherents sometimes worshiped secretively, sometimes openly, always persecuted.

The worship of the goddess Artemis or Diana in ancient Mediterranean civilizations remained prevalent until the advent of Christianity, after which the goddess worship is referred to as the Cult of Diana. Many historians and anthropologists see connections between the Cult of Diana and various forms of Mother Goddess or witchcraft belief. Outside the Mediterranean world in other parts of the world affected by Christianity, the ancient Irish claimed as their highest power the goddess Lugh, the light-bringer of the sun, and in various animal forms, all beliefs now relegated to the status of myth or transformed into saints by Roman Catholicism.

But have religious cults become associated with criminal death by suicide not only because of 20th century media? Even the tendency of cults towards apocalyptic cult or post-apocalyptic fervor is not new, not even in American history. Several groups of the latter half of the 19th century's "Great Awakening" predicted the end of the world on specific days, even changing the date twice when their predictions failed to come true. Time seems to have a way of ironizing images, including the manner of irrational images, including those promoted by modern cults.

Beliefs in UFOs, charismatic leaders who failed to come true, and the sense of change as promulgated by the Church fathers declared the divinity of Jesus, named Vesuvius, or Joshua, in the Greek, deciding the specific nature of his divinity by a vote.

Constantine became the first Christian emperor, and returned from the grave. How different was his Edict of Milan, passed in 313, which forbade persecution of any form of monotheism? Christianity itself was not baptized a Christian until he lay on his deathbed, throughout his life, he reigned as the head priest of the state religion of Sol Invictus, "the Invincible Sun," and in the interests of unifying the various factions of Mystery, Sol Invictus and Christianity.

In fact, it was at the Council of Nicaea in 325, presided over by Constantine, that the Church fathers declared the divinity of the man known as Jesus, named Vesuvius, or Joshua, in the Greek, deciding the specific nature of his divinity by a vote.

Constantine became the first Christian emperor, and the new Messiah, and upon the monarch's death, forged papers were produced which gave Christianity the status of official state religion and the right to anoint kings. Starting with the incorporation of the pagan religions of the Near East, up through the assimilation of the various pagan beliefs and iconography of Northern and Western Europe, Christianity today resembles more the ancient cults than it does its base in Judaism.

But Christianity is called a religion, not a mythology, and not a cult, because as a system of beliefs even its various sects have essentially the same basic orthodoxy, that of the Resurrection. Why, then, is the majority of the Western world fascinated by the seemingly irrational beliefs of what we call cults? Beliefs in UFOs, charismatic leaders who failed to come true, and the sense of change as promulgated by the Church fathers declared the divinity of Jesus, named Vesuvius, or Joshua, in the Greek, deciding the specific nature of his divinity by a vote.

Matthew Apple is a graduate student in the English Department. He can be contacted at mapple@darwin.cc.nd.edu or apple@macnally.com.

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame. The Observer is written, edited and designed by students and is independent of the policies of the administration of either Notre Dame or Saint Mary's. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either Notre Dame or Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either Notre Dame or Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either Notre Dame or Saint Mary's College.
VIEWPOINT

Adventurous outdoor recreation has become a popular trend to many, and it is often reported as "extreme." This movement has brought with it the desire to be "extreme," to see that such adventurous sport is unethical and hypocritical.

Suburbia: Relentlessly venturing into the wild

One need only watch some shoe commercial to see that such adventurous spirit is all over. The sports themselves damage the natural character of their setting, they become unethical and hypocritical.

Some might say that they partake in adventurous outdoor recreation, but the comforts and constraints of civilization are always with them. They are usually in a place that is peaceful and safe, but always there is a little whisper in the back of their mind that says, "will there be a steep drop from that angle?"

Riding a horse, and no longer wild nonetheless. Something of that character of the place is lost, something of that rare commodity, that sense that one is standing in a place that is immediate to time and always will be, a refuge from all that is angle-cut and sterile. It is no longer wild nonetheless. Something of that character of the place is lost, something of that rare commodity, that sense that one is standing in a place that is immediate to time and always will be, a refuge from all that is angle-cut and sterile.

For those students who do not have the good fortune to be appointed philosopher kings, this would be a valuable addition to a modern curriculum.
One look at Beck Hansen, and what you'll probably notice is a mop of light brown hair, big puppy dog eyes, and the gangly physique of an uncoordinated adolescent. One listen however, and you'll hear the winner of the Grammys for Best Alternative Music Performance and Best Male Rock Vocal Performance, Spin's Artist of the Year, and the man responsible for the platinum Odelay, Rolling Stone's Album of the Year. That's a lot of attention for a 26-year-old high school dropout from Los Angeles.

Music critics around the world almost universally label him as the meaning of cool, while the industry dubs him the definitive pop-icon of the 20-something generation. So what is the appeal?

Beck's sound seems about as ambiguous as the man himself. An undefinable mixture of folk, hip-hop, rap and blues, the music seems to extend in every direction from some knowing center. The listener can never predict where Beck's music or lyrics will venture, but a trip through Odelay—Beck's fourth album—will be sure to keep the soul grooving and the mindwheel spinning.

While "Devil's Haircut" and "Where It's At" were early radio favorites, there is no one bad track on the album. Each has its own flavor, its own ideology. Any critic who labeled Beck a one-hit wonder after the 1993 release "Loser," should listen to Odelay and beg for absolution.

A spokesperson from his label, Geffen, remarked of Beck in a recent Entertainment Weekly article, "What drives him crazy is people thinking of him as a goofball. He's very serious about his music, but he thinks there's too much angst in rock. He'd rather entertain.

And entertain he does. He currently finished touring with The Cardigans, and now totes both Germany's Atari Teenage Riot and The Roots along with him on this small venue tour. He wants to get close to the fans. He wants to bring coodness to his generation, reviving the retro-culture energy that seems to be flowing more freely each time he wears a cowboy hat or makes another MTV video.

But if one thing becomes apparent from following Beck's career and reading interviews after interviews — Beck is the media's underdog favorite — it's his frustration with banal lyrics, with being a slacker, with disposable culture, and the listener who doesn't really seem to listen.

In this vein of sincerity and eloquence, Beck explains his views on image in the newest Rolling Stone — the one with his boyish face blazoned across the cover. "People have this misconception that I put on different characters. But to me, there's a definite continuity in what I do. If there wasn't, it wouldn't work."

Beck certainly seems concerned with his image, but in the manner opposite of many of his contemporaries. He fears being portrayed as something he is not, of being misrepresented. He mentions his long-time girlfriend Leigh with affection, since she knew him and cared about him before anyone else or fame ever did.

And only a person like this could want to be dressed in a rhinestone suit while holding the reins of a white horse for a photo shoot. Beck admits to using and reinventing a number of different styles and samples, but he insists on taking them further, creating something dangerous and new.

What Beck decides to do with his talent in the future can only be imagined. Coming from a family where his Dad was a bluegrass musician and his mother was hanging out in Andy Warhol's circles, Beck definitely understands his ability to invent and risk.

Even after watching a few videos, listening to Odelay or reading the barrage of interviews and articles generated after the Grammys, it's still hard to understand what Beck is all about — maybe because Beck is the fusion of all of these things, a quantity needing to be experienced. No one can dispute that he's outgrown his "Loser" phase, but he's not the only one winning. Through the ingenuity in his music, Beck scores points for his entire generation.

---

Tickets

for tonight's show are still available. They can be purchased at the LaFortune Information Desk or at the door. Tickets for students are only $15, and are $18 for faculty, staff, and the general public. Doors open at 7 p.m. and the show begins at 8 p.m.
Tuesday, April 8, 1997

ACCENT

It's At

prove he isn't a 'Loser'

atari teenage riot

and the other attractions

Burn, Berlin, Burn!

atari teenage riot

(out of five stars)

the roots

illadelph halflife

(out of five stars)

E very once in awhile, a group comes along and makes a definitive recording which masters the style in a particular genre better than anyone. Philadelphia’s Roots have created masterpieces in the fusion of jazz and hip-hop with both their debut, Do You Want More?!!!??!, and their sophomore effort, illadelph halflife. The beats of the Roots move like a slow ride through Philadelphia’s streets reminiscent of another Philadelphian’s, The Fresh Prince, hit “Summertime.” Guest appearances by Q-tip on “Itali (The Universe Song)” and D’Angelo on “The Hypnotic” mark two of the albums better tracks. The Roots manage to avoid sounding cliched, blending their deep, ever-changing sonic backdrops. The backdrops combine R&B, jazz, and their own style of hip-hop to create an album that will remain as lasting a force as Grandmaster Flash, A Tribe Called Quest, or Dr. Dre. And while the Roots have been lost among the shuffle and hype of the East Coast vs. West Coast rap rivalry in recent months, their performance tonight should open more than a few eyes to the newest wave of rap; it will provide a welcome relief from the body assaulting music of Atari Teenage Riot and serve as a stellar warm up for Beck who samples unrepentantly from rap.

by Peter McGarty

and the other attractions

atari teenage riot

Burn, Berlin, Burn!

(at 5 stars)

the roots

illadelph halflife

(at 5 stars)

E in 1990 the Berlin Wall fell. I think it had something to do with politics and dissent and stuff like that — I don’t quite remember. All I know is that if Atari Teenage Riot’s LP Burn, Berlin, Berlin’s had been out back then, whoever wanted that wall down could have done the following:

1) Take 100 100-watt speakers and line them face up against the graffiti splashed cement. 2) Hook up a Bose stereo with a few thousand Deutschmark amp. 3) Lay out some chaise lounge chairs and frosty masses of Dunkleweiss bier. 4) Pop in the Atari Teenage Riot CD, kick back, and crank that volume knob full clockwise. 5) Press play.

ATR’s sonic blast would have torn through that wall like a wet Kleenex and chunks of mauer would have blown away like snot in a sneeze or the blast scenes in T2 and ID4. Burn, Berlin, Berlin’s is revolutionary music that incites seizures, fist-fights, palpitations, whiplash, the runs, and headbanging in their simultaneously frightened and adrenalized audiences. It’s music constructed after downsing extra-strong coffee brewed with Mountain Dew to wash away ten Snickers bars and grosses of Pixie-sticks. It’s Minor Threat and the Prodigy playing bumper cars, as drum machines click off at 180 beats per minute under scratchy samples of what sounds like Slayer, Sick Of It All, and Sonic Youth.

With song titles like “Destroy 2000 Years of Culture,” “Deutschland (Has Gotta Die),” “Riverbashing,” “Delete Yourself,” “Speed,” and “Into the Death” you won’t find ATR on VH1 anytime soon (although, ironically, they are playing here at Notre Dame). Alec Empire, the musical incubus behind ATR, grew tired of the sleepy, commercial techno scene in Berlin, and it shows as this bastard child wrecks havoc with eardrums and electronica until the acceleration knocks you to the floor — the new, true punk.

by Brent DiCrescenzo

E very once in awhile, a group comes along and makes a definitive recording which masters the style in a particular genre better than anyone. Philadelphia’s Roots have created masterpieces in the fusion of jazz and hip-hop with both their debut, Do You Want More?!!!??!, and their sophomore effort, illadelph halflife. The beats of the Roots move like a slow ride through Philadelphia’s streets reminiscent of another Philadelphian’s, The Fresh Prince, hit “Summertime.” Guest appearances by Q-tip on “Itali (The Universe Song)” and D’Angelo on “The Hypnotic” mark two of the albums better tracks. The Roots manage to avoid sounding cliched, blending their deep, ever-changing sonic backdrops. The backdrops combine R&B, jazz, and their own style of hip-hop to create an album that will remain as lasting a force as Grandmaster Flash, A Tribe Called Quest, or Dr. Dre. And while the Roots have been lost among the shuffle and hype of the East Coast vs. West Coast rap rivalry in recent months, their performance tonight should open more than a few eyes to the newest wave of rap; it will provide a welcome relief from the body assaulting music of Atari Teenage Riot and serve as a stellar warm up for Beck who samples unrepentantly from rap.

by Peter McGarty

Greetings from the East Coast

illadelph halflife

(out of five stars)

the roots

(out of five stars)
President's Student Council

November 17, 2003

Dear Students:

The Student Senate is currently working on plans to have the university's first-ever President's Student Council. This organization will serve as a link between students and the President of the University, and will provide an avenue for students to voice their opinions and concerns. We are excited about this opportunity to have a direct line of communication with the University's leadership. If you are interested in becoming part of this council, please attend the first meeting on Monday, November 24th at 5:30 pm in the University Center. Please bring your ID and join us as we discuss the details of the council.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

President's Student Council
University of Notre Dame
April 11-12 • Stepan Center

ALL-WEEKEND PASSES
Students, Faculty & Seniors: $6; General Public: $15

FRIDAY
Students, Faculty & Seniors: $3
General Public: $8

7:30 p.m. University of Notre Dame Jazz Band
8:15 p.m. Virginia Commonwealth Graduate Septet
9:00 p.m. Purdue University
9:45 p.m. Illinois Combo (Trio +2)
10:30 p.m. Virginia Commonwealth University

JUDGES
Trumpet: Lew Soloff
Bass: Marc Johnson
Saxophone: Nick Brignola
Drums: Louis Hayes
Piano: Sir Roland Hanna
Critics: Dan Morgenstern

SATURDAY
11:00 a.m. Free Clinic in Band Building
Students, Faculty & Seniors: Free
General Public: $1

1:00 p.m. Northern Arizona University
1:45 p.m. University of Notre Dame Combo
2:30 p.m. University of Iowa
3:15 p.m. N. Arizona University Combo

Students, Faculty & Seniors: $5
General Public: $10

7:30 p.m. Central Michigan Percussion Ensemble
8:15 p.m. Western Michigan University Combo
9:00 p.m. University of Michigan
9:45 p.m. Western Michigan University
10:30 p.m. Judges’ Jam

Don’t forget the CJF PREVIEW NIGHT Wednesday April 9 @ 7:30 pm in the Band Building ••• Free Admission & Refreshments
The Observer • SPORTS

Royals squeeze past Orioles
By CRAIG HORST
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Roberto Alomar heard boos, starting from the moment he was introduced. Jeff King heard cheers, for his home run, double and final, winning fly ball.

Alomar made his return to baseball after a five-game spit-suspension, but the Baltimore second baseman was gone by the time the Kansas City Royals won their home opener 6-5 Monday on King’s sacrifice fly in the ninth inning. Alomar went 2-for-3 and, still hobbled by a badly sprained ankle, left for a pinch-runner in the eighth inning.

It was Alomar’s first official game of the season. He was suspended for spitting in umpire John Hirschbeck’s face last September, but the penalty was delayed through the end of the eighth inning.

“I didn’t have too much to do yet,” said Alomar, his first hit being a double down the right-field line. “I think the after effects of that still had an affect on the way I was hitting.”

Alomar went 2-for-3 and, still hobbled by a badly sprained ankle, left for a pinch-runner in the eighth inning.

When the Royals hit, Alomar was first up and took a bad hop at the edge of the infield grass. He threw out a baserunner.

Brett’s lead-off hit in the bottom half.

Roberts took third on a hit-and-run play by Brett. King heard cheers, for his home run, double and final, winning fly ball.

Alomar made his return to baseball after a five-game spit-suspension, but the Baltimore second baseman was gone by the time the Kansas City Royals won their home opener 6-5 Monday on King’s sacrifice fly in the ninth inning. Alomar went 2-for-3 and, still hobbled by a badly sprained ankle, left for a pinch-runner in the eighth inning.

It was Alomar’s first official game of the season. He was suspended for spitting in umpire John Hirschbeck’s face last September, but the penalty was delayed through the end of the eighth inning.
Irish finish in top 10 at Kirk Bell Invitational

By GENE BRTALIK
Sports Writer

The team played an impressive first two rounds shooting a 294 and a 288 respectively (their highest two rounds of the year), and was in third place overall.

On the third day, the weather became extremely rough, resembling the conditions they played in last week. The team finished with a 309 in the round, ending up in fourth place overall. They finished four strokes behind third place Eastern Kentucky.

The top finisher for the Irish was freshman Todd Vernon.

"I am beginning to show signs of improvement from last fall," said head coach Bryan Weeks. "It is doing a good job filling in. A 69 is just what we need from the five spot," said Weeks regarding Vernon's play.

The top finisher for the Irish was senior Todd Vernon, finishing eighth in a field of 96, scoring a 320 for three rounds and finishing one stroke ahead of fellow co-captain Joel Hepler.

The team returns to action next weekend at the Purdue Invitational.
The Notre Dame men's tennis team improved its record to 15-4 with a victory over Purdue University on Saturday. The 11th-ranked Irish team came out strong after a much deserved rest.

The match played was the win against Ball State on March 22. The Boilermakers have fallen to the Irish in their recent meetings. Purdue, currently 10-4, faced an Irish team that has their sights set on the NCAA tournament in May. Notre Dame has participated in the NCAA tournament in each of the last six seasons.

The Irish opened the match playing hard and winning all three doubles matches by a score of 8-3. Junior Jakub Pietrowski and sophomore Brian Patterson pounded 22nd-ranked Cris James and Derek Bayliss. The Purdue pair had trouble keeping up with their Irish opponents, who made them scramble to all ends of the court. Pietrowski and Patterson continuously pounded their opponents, never giving them a chance to rest. Their record improves to an impressive 11-3 and they currently hold a national ranking of No. 10 in doubles. Coach Bobby Bayliss considers them the best doubles team in the Midwest, and feels they will definitely go up in the new rankings which come out next week.

Freshmen Trent Miller and Ryan Sachire also played an impressive match at No. 2 doubles.

The two freshmen have adapted well to college doubles play, compiling an overall record of 12-4 between the No. 2 and 3 spots this season.

"The whole team has been working real hard," said Sachire. "Putting in extra time lifting and training a lot. Coach Bayliss has really done a lot to keep the team working hard." Senior Ryan Simme and junior Danny Rothschild beat Bryan Harris and Jason Smith at No. 3 doubles. Since moving to this position the pair has compiled a 5-0 record. The pair is currently 12-9 in overall doubles play.

Sachire continued his hard work at the No. 1 singles spot. He defeated Purdue's Jordan 7-5, 6-4.

"I have to credit Coach Bayliss and Coach Zurcher for all they have done with me this year," Sachire commented. "They have helped me a lot. We always go out there with a no fear attitude."

Sachire is currently ranked 42nd in the country, up from previous rankings. "Sachire has a never quit, coming-right-at-you, let's-see-what-you-got-attitude," Bayliss said. "He plays without fear.

Pietrowski won in two sets over James. Pietrowski, currently 17-9 in overall play, has seen difficult opponents as of late. He has continued to pull through for the Irish giving them big wins in the No. 2 spot. He is still has not entirely recovered from his elbow injury last season.

At the No. 3 spot, Simme lost a close first set to Meyers, 7-6 and then fell 6-1 in the second set. Patterson improved his No. 4 singles record to 9-2. He easily defeated Greg Wesenberger 6-1 in the first set, but Wesenberger came back to take the second.

Patterson turned on the heat though and won the third, giving him the match. Reduschfeld lost in three sets to Jerad Harbaugh, but he has proven essential to the middle part of the lineup this season. His hard play has been overlooked, but he is one of the key players who deepens the Irish lineup.

Fifth-year senior and co-captain Marcos Magnano played in his first varsity match Saturday for the injured Eric Enloe. Magnano won the match in two sets 6-4, 4-6 over Steve Briandine.

"He stepped up and won one for the team," Bayliss said. His victory was a huge boost for the team. Enloe is expected to come to the Eck to play at 3:30 p.m.

"I expect a war," Bayliss continued. "They are the best team in the Big Ten. They are extremely aggressive, big strong guys.

They have lost some very close matches this year to teams in the top 10. The latest being against No. 9 Pepperdine last week.

Sachire acknowledged that every one has to be on their game to win. "The regional title could come down to this match-up," Sachire said.

Celebratethefriend's birthday with a special Observer ad.

The Cusack Center For the study of American Catholicism presents Catholic Intellectual Traditions and Contemporary Scholarship

Professor James Turner Department of History This Afternoon Tuesday, April 8 4:00 p.m. Hesburgh Library Lounge

TRANSFER ORIENTATION

Transfer Orientation for Fall of 1997 needs Chairperson (s)

All interested pick up an application in 315 LaFortune.

Application Deadline: April 11th 4:00 pm

Questions? Call: Giovana at 243-1451 Matt at 4-3451
Have something to say? Use The Observer classifieds.

Informational Meeting:
Wednesday, April 9th
8:00pm at the LaFortune Sorin Room
call Steve McMullen at 4-0600

The Accent Section is looking for people interested in the following paid positions:
Assistant Editors
Copy Editors
Music Editor

We are also looking for music critics, film critics, writers in general, and anyone interested in writing an advice column.

For information please contact Joey at 1-4540 and write a one page personal statement.

Team names draw attention
By BETSY BAKER
Assistant Sports Editor

There are many factors that motivate teams to play Bookstore Basketball. Some teams embrace the competition and the idea of becoming champions of one of the best athletic traditions at Notre Dame, while others just need to get in shape. Some teams like to go out and make a statement, whether it be with creative apparel or creative play, and still others just like to go out, play some ball, and have a good time.

Regardless of why a team is out on the court, there is one serious decision that goes into playing Bookstore Basketball — what to name the team. Although they are few and far between, some teams decide to let their playing speak for themselves and go nameless, receiving the ever-creative "Team 272" distinction. But for the most part, creating a team name for Bookstore takes more time and effort than practicing for the tournament itself, with many of this year's teams reflecting this.

Of course, every year brings the obvious references to the sexual regression that, as shown by the Bookstore names, apparently runs rampant at this University. It also pays testament to the student body's affinity to the latest — literally and figuratively — breaking news.

This year's teams pay much attention to the late rappers Tupac Shakur and the Notorious B.I.G., and other often infamous people that catch Irish eyes.

Then there is the men's basketball team. Regardless of the kind of performance the team has given in the past season — it could have won the National Championship for all Bookstore players care — it always seems there is someone who feels the Irish hoopsters deserve criticism and manifest this feeling in their bookstore name. A good example of that this year is the name "The Matt Gotsch Mel Plan." Another favorite choice of teams is to choose a name that actually has something to do with the team itself. Third-second "Malicious Prosecution" is made up of a group of law students, while No. 32 "All the President's Men" is made up of University president's father Edward "Monk" Malloy and four others closely related. Many teams feel the need to bring their or someone else's parents into the tournament. You know what they say — it's all in the name.

Bookstore Basketball

1. White Trash
2. Inverted Nickel
3. Fly, fata  Fly
4. Using the whole fist, Doc?
5. SFKZ. We still can't score
6. Forbidden Donut
7. Five guys The Observer says have stomach cancer
8. Yank my doodle, it's a daddy
9. Gotsch ShamGotsch
10. O.J., Pee Wee, and 3 other guys that got off

Wanted: Reporters, photographers and editors. Join The Observer staff.

Hit the books this summer.
(And be better prepared for fall.)

If you need to do some catching up or want to get a jump on fall, come to the Saint Mary's College for the delights of the University of Notre Dame campus. Credit earned is transferable.

Take advantage of exceptionally small classes, a dedicated and caring faculty, and your convenient location just west of the University of Notre Dame campus. Credit earned is transferable.

You'll enjoy summer activities even more, knowing that you're actually has something to do or someone to bring their or someone else's parents into the tournament, such as "Who's Your Daddy?" or "If we're not dancing with our janitors, we're probably dancing with your mother."

Still, others prefer the simple, yet witty approach, such as "Team," "Bye," or "47474.

Finally, there are the teams that leave us wondering and probably, because of this, will draw a crowd, such as "DOS GOLDKAMPs avec Duck Tags" or "Naked Women."

Overall, the Bookstore names are often prettier and more creative than the play itself, but that's one of the best parts about Bookstore Basketball — even if you can't play basketball, you can still get some recognition for playing in the tournament.

You know what they say — it's all in the name.
Despite chill, Irish bats are hot

By T. Ryan Kennedy

At present, things couldn't be more perfect for these bassebltin' Irish. The wind continues to swirl. One more chilly front has saturated South Bend.

If you see sports happening, call The Observer at 1-4543.

• To Support
• To Assist
• To explore common issues of being gay or lesbian at Notre Dame

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

MEETING FOR NOTRE DAME
LESBIAN AND GAY
STUDENTS GROUP

Today!!! Tuesday, April 8
For time and location of meeting, call 631-8041.

NDLGS Group Advisors: Fr. Tom Gaughan, C.S.C.
Sr. Mary Louise Gude, C.S.C.

All Meetings are private and confidential.

If you see sports happening, call The Observer at 1-4543.

If you see sports happening, call The Observer at 1-4543.

D-backs

continued from page 20

safeties, and it is these spots
that could be up for grabs.
Sandwich, who earned the starting role at strong safety before the 1996 campaign, was forced to move out to corner in order to allow some of the crowding at the safeties. If not, he figures to reclaim his starting job from a year ago. Edison, who is also returning from midseason
injuries, is expected to win
back his job as the starting free safety. Potential challengers
for the position are Guillbeaux
and Cooper.

The freshmen who will attempt to displace the more experienced defenders are Ronald Israel (6-1, 275) and Brock Williams (5-11, 175).

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

Intensive German and Russian
Summer Language Program

Complete your Language requirements by earning up to 9 credits in German and 5 credits in Russian.

Low tuition rates; 50% tuition reduction for recent ND graduates.

Contact: Summer School Director at 631-7282

seeing the faces of aids and hiv

April 7-11
Lafayette Ballroom
Free admission
11-4p, 7-9p April 11, 10am-12pm

the advantage, even against other teams that are accustomed to the kind of cold weather that continues to plague South Bend.

Much of this is due to the heavily favored balance of power on the side of the Irish.
Coach Mainieri's hard-nosed
philosophy is an advantage unto itself.

"That's part of the game," said Mainieri. "It's something we've had to deal with and it's something we'll have to deal
with in order to win."

Above all, Chicago State (7­ 18) and its thin 18-man roster is in town today for a 3 p.m.
show against a Notre Dame team that dresses some 30 players a game and has won 11 of 12 games.

Freshman Tim Kalita (0-1) will take the mound for the Irish, and for those who have forgotten or never knew to begin with, it was Kalita who stamped five of the first six batters he ever faced with the letter "K." He finished his debut last week with eight strikeouts, allowed some 27 home runs (to opponents' 10 surrendered), Wagner, Amerhein and Co. loom larger than life.

Kalita himself has inflicted his share of damage. "We've just got to keep swinging the bats," said Ust. "Any time you can put away a team in one inning, that's an instant confidence builder."

As for the weather, Notre Dame seems to always possess
the advantage, even against
other teams that are accustomed to the kind of cold weather that continues to plague South Bend.

Much of this is due to the
heavily favored balance of power on the side of the Irish.
Coach Mainieri's hard-nosed
philosophy is an advantage unto itself.

"That's part of the game," said Mainieri. "It's something
we've had to deal with and it's something we'll have to deal
with in order to win."

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

Intensive German and Russian
Summer Language Program

Complete your Language requirements by earning up to 9 credits in German and 5 credits in Russian.

Low tuition rates; 50% tuition reduction for recent ND graduates.

Contact: Summer School Director at 631-7282

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

D-backs

continued from page 20

safeties, and it is these spots
that could be up for grabs.
Sandwich, who earned the starting role at strong safety before
the 1996 campaign, was forced to move out to corner in order to allow some of the crowding at the safeties. If not, he figures to reclaim his starting job from a year ago. Edison, who is also
returning from midseason
injuries, is expected to win
back his job as the starting free
safety. Potential challengers
for the position are Guillbeaux
and Cooper.

The freshmen who will attempt to displace the more experienced defenders are Ronald Israel (6-1, 275) and
Brock Williams (5-11, 175).

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

D-backs

continued from page 20

safeties, and it is these spots
that could be up for grabs.
Sandwich, who earned the starting role at strong safety before
the 1996 campaign, was forced to move out to corner in order to allow some of the crowding at the safeties. If not, he figures to reclaim his starting job from a year ago. Edison, who is also
returning from midseason
injuries, is expected to win
back his job as the starting free
safety. Potential challengers
for the position are Guillbeaux
and Cooper.

The freshmen who will attempt to displace the more experienced defenders are Ronald Israel (6-1, 275) and
Brock Williams (5-11, 175).

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

Intensive German and Russian
Summer Language Program

Complete your Language requirements by earning up to 9 credits in German and 5 credits in Russian.

Low tuition rates; 50% tuition reduction for recent ND graduates.

Contact: Summer School Director at 631-7282

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

D-backs

continued from page 20

safeties, and it is these spots
that could be up for grabs.
Sandwich, who earned the starting role at strong safety before
the 1996 campaign, was forced to move out to corner in order to allow some of the crowding at the safeties. If not, he figures to reclaim his starting job from a year ago. Edison, who is also
returning from midseason
injuries, is expected to win
back his job as the starting free
safety. Potential challengers
for the position are Guillbeaux
and Cooper.

The freshmen who will attempt to displace the more experienced defenders are Ronald Israel (6-1, 275) and
Brock Williams (5-11, 175).

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

If you see sports happening,
call The Observer at 1-4543.

D-backs

continued from page 20

safeties, and it is these spots
that could be up for grab
DEAR EUGENIA: I have been divorced for two years after a 19 year marriage. I lost a relationship with my wife in 1995. I met a fellow here June 13, 1995 in Des Moines and I still hold her over her head. He seemed to as well. He has a large family. This relationship was ended Feb 1st in Vein. I met her Sept 1, 1996.

DEAD LOOKING FOR LOVE: Your connection to your Gemini lover appears to be at an end. I feel that you must in order to make such an existing, and not necessarily, a couple. You must find a way to let go of the past. Your feelings will not go away. I feel you need to be patient. You Actually reach the best before those from the signs of Scorpio and Pisces. Don’t give your heart away. Project yourself past your past and the ly in more back into your life at the end of the year or beginning of the year again, it will be as an other past partners. It is best not to forget the reasons why those individuals have not been in your life since your last encounter...

Aries March 21-April 20: Your emotions could be in the air at this time this year. So make sure you can work efficiently and stay in control of the way.

Taurus (April 21-May 21): Check your personal papers to make sure everything is in order. You will find that you are working to improve your financial situation. You can expect to have some problems, but you will watch your assets grow. Be too trusting and you stand to lose.

Gemini (May 22-June 21): You will have some brilliant ideas this year but you will also be undergoing. You need to pamper yourself. Your a ability to put a deal together will surprise others. Today, your ability to put a deal together w ill be successful and appreciated by loved ones.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): Continue to be successful in your work and educational pursuits will help all your personal plans. Do not interfere with your personal plans. If you are interested in any dubious financial deals. You must use discretion when talking to others.

Lilac (July 23-Aug. 22): You will be quick to respond to a plea for help. Take to the question by making comparisons. You may be under the water signs Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces. Don’t give your heart away. Project yourself past your past and the ly in more back into your life at the end of the year or beginning of the year again, it will be as an other past partners. It is best not to forget the reasons why those individuals have not been in your life since your last encounter...

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): This is the time to look for relations to get on your back. You will find that your anger and self-sacrificing share in spe cial activities that are taking place.

Dear Today: You’ll have some brilliant ideas this year but you will also be undergoing. You need to pamper yourself. Your ability to put a deal together will surprise others. Today, your ability to put a deal together will be successful and appreciated by loved ones.

IT MEANS NOTH ING AT ALL.

OK, WHO TOLD YOU THAT EVERY YEAR, I FISH YOUR SECRETARIES DAY CARD OUT OF YOUR TRASH AND SAVE IT FOR NEXT TIME?

Answer to Monday's Riddle:

DEAR LOOKING FOR LOVE: Your connection to your Gemini lover appears to be at an end. I feel that you must in order to make such an existing, and not necessarily, a couple. You must find a way to let go of the past. Your feelings will not go away. I feel you need to be patient. You Actually reach the best before those from the signs of Scorpio and Pisces. Don’t give your heart away. Project yourself past your past and the ly in more back into your life at the end of the year or beginning of the year again, it will be as an other past partners. It is best not to forget the reasons why those individuals have not been in your life since your last encounter...

Aries March 21-April 20: Your emotions could be in the air at this time this year. So make sure you can work efficiently and stay in control of the way.

Taurus (April 21-May 21): Check your personal papers to make sure everything is in order. You will find that you are working to improve your financial situation. You can expect to have some problems, but you will watch your assets grow. Be too trusting and you stand to lose.

Gemini (May 22-June 21): You will have some brilliant ideas this year but you will also be undergoing. You need to pamper yourself. Your ability to put a deal together will surprise others. Today, your ability to put a deal together will be successful and appreciated by loved ones.

Cancer (June 22-July 22): Continue to be successful in your work and educational pursuits will help all your personal plans. Do not interfere with your personal plans. If you are interested in any dubious financial deals. You must use discretion when talking to others.

Lilac (July 23-Aug. 22): You will be quick to respond to a plea for help. Take to the question by making comparisons. You may be under the water signs Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces. Don’t give your heart away. Project yourself past your past and the ly in more back into your life at the end of the year or beginning of the year again, it will be as an other past partners. It is best not to forget the reasons why those individuals have not been in your life since your last encounter...

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): This is the time to look for relations to get on your back. You will find that your anger and self-sacrificing share in spe cial activities that are taking place.

Dear Today: You’ll have some brilliant ideas this year but you will also be undergoing. You need to pamper yourself. Your ability to put a deal together will surprise others. Today, your ability to put a deal together will be successful and appreciated by loved ones.

IT MEANS NOTH ING AT ALL.

OK, WHO TOLD YOU THAT EVERY YEAR, I FISH YOUR SECRETARIES DAY CARD OUT OF YOUR TRASH AND SAVE IT FOR NEXT TIME?

Answer to Monday's Riddle:
Irish tracksters look ahead after weekend success

Men and women capture first and second place

By STEVE HARRIS

Sports Writer

The great ones make it look easy. No matter who the competition is or what odds they face, the best athletes find a way to rise to the top, displaying grace, style and efficiency no matter what obstacle lies in front of them.

That was once again the case for the Notre Dame track and field team last weekend. Although the squad fought hard all the way down to the wire, there was little doubt that the Irish wouldn't walk away victorious.

When it was all said and done, the men's team emerged victorious in the weekend's triangular meet between Miami (Ohio) and Butler. The women also looked impressive, placing second to Miami by just six points.

Leading the charge once again were hurdler Errol Williams and sprinter Chris Cochran. Williams placed first in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 14.0 seconds before racing to a victory in the 100-meter dash (10.8).

Cochran matched Williams, winning the 400-meters (48.30) and 200-meters (21.93) over his competitors from Miami and Butler.

Other winners for the Irish were Jason Hexing in the 1500-meter (3:52.4), Derek Seiling in the steeplechase (9:15.4), and Jeff Hojnacki in the 800-meter (1:51.6).

Jay Hofner captured the prize in the hammer throw (168.4), while javelin thrower Chris Smith (189-4 1/2) and shot putter Mike Fleisch (56-1-3/4) also came away on top for the Irish.

On the women's side, Alison Howard, Dominicine Calloway, and Nadia Schmidt emerged as double winners in their respective events, helping Notre Dame score 139 points on the day.

Howard won the 400-meter run in a stunning 54.66 before leaping 18 feet, 3 inches in the long jump. Not to be outdone, Calloway won the 100-meter (11.7) and 200-meter (24.25) despite tough competition from Miami.

Hurdler Nadia Schmidt sparked Notre Dame in the 400-meter and 100-meter hurdles with times of (1:00.30) and (14.5), respectively.

The Irish return to action next weekend at the Sea Ray Relays in Knoxville, Tenn., and at the Miami Invitational in Oxford, Ohio.

Secondary depth key for Irish

Veterans look to provide leadership on defense

By BRIAN REINTHALER

Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame football program has traditionally relied on its front seven for leadership on the defensive side of the ball. In 1997, however, it is the secondary whose experience will be the key factor in the defense's success.

Besides returning senior starters Allen Rossom, Ivory Covington and Jarvis Edison, the Irish have a plethora of younger talent with significant game experience.

"The younger guys are coming along just fine," said Rossom. "The whole secondary just has a lot of learning to do. When you see a guy make a mistake, you just make sure we point it out to him."

Due to injuries last season to Edison and sophomore A'Jani Sanders, players such as Betny Guilbeaux and Deke Cooper were given an opportunity to cut their teeth at the safety positions.

Of all the players who saw their first live action in 1996, Guilbeaux, a rising junior, was, by far, the most impressive. Guilbeaux led the team with four interceptions and finished third in the squad in tackles with 62.

Senior Ty Goode and sophomores Devron Harper and Lee Lafayette are additional backfield options for new defensive coordinator Greg Mattison.

Among the projected starters, Rossom and Covington appear to be the veterans to whom the secondary will look for leadership. Each recorded 50 or more tackles and neither missed a single game for the Irish in 1996.

"We have the added responsibility of being seniors," Rossom commented, "but it's not really going to put stress on the secondary (to lead the entire defense)."

With spring football well under way, the competition for starting positions has begun. Although the depth charts will not be finalized before the incoming freshmen are given a look in August, the backs with experience should be able to establish some job security during the spring.

The squad has tremendous depth at the

Spring Football 1997

The Observer will be profiling a different position on the Notre Dame football team each day this week.

Linebackers

Monday

Tuesday

Wednesday

Thursday

Friday

Special Teams

Defensive Line

Secondary

Wide Receivers

Men’s Tennis defeats Purdue

see page 16

Bookstore Basketball

see page 17