By MICHELLE S. PRIMEAU
News Writer

This Thursday, many smokers in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s communities will be going “cold turkey” as part of the “Great American Smokeout.” Programs on both campuses will be offering incentives for smokers to quit for one day. Smokers who turn in tobacco products will receive food items and voter aspects of politics,” explained Roos. Roos conveyed the belief that “as American citizens we have a duty to participate.”

By MELANIE CARMAN
News Writer

The Healing Arts Center, located in the Healing Arts Center on the campus last night to pray for unity, healing and an end to intolerance. Approximately 100 people joined the candle light procession around the campus.

Some Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students will “stomp their butts out” to participate in programs. Some of the programs include a free turkey sandwich for anyone who turns in tobacco products, including cigars and smokeless tobacco products. "We've separated the body and soul for so long that it is time to get in touch with the essence of life, that is the spirit," said Breitenbach.

Approximately four million Americans currently have Alzheimer’s Disease. This figure will rise to 14 million by the middle of the next century unless a cure or prevention is found, according to the Alzheimer’s Association. In order to treat these four million Alzheimer’s patients tomorrow, it is necessary today to promote awareness of and education about the disease. This is the focus of Kennedy’s speech. The Alzheimer’s Research Summit included a speech by Kennedy, who is currently overseeing a national study trying to effectively connect care to the victims of the disease.

The summit began with an introduction by John Weber, associate professor in Notre Dame’s marketing department. The day continued with a brief videotaped message from Nancy Reagan, wife of former president Ronald Reagan, a victim of Alzheimer’s Disease. Part of Mrs. Reagan’s message included the promotion of the Ronald and Nancy Reagan Research Institute, which is intended to advance research about Alzheimer’s and to educate and train the public about how to care for the victims of the disease.

Reagan’s illness illustrated that the disease can strike anyone, Kennedy said, helping to promote awareness of Alzheimer’s. "The fact that it happened to a president of the United States, a person who’s supposed to have so many resources, brings people to deal with reality," Kennedy explained.

The focus of Kennedy’s speech was the importance of preparing for the existence of Alzheimer’s in the 21st centu-

THE OBSERVER
Wednesday, November 19, 1997 • Vol. XXXI No. 57

Adminstration urges smokers to quit for ‘smokeout’

BY NICOLE SWARTZENTRUBER

In an effort to promote greater student involvement in political campaigning, Notre Dame’s government departments, College Democrats and College Republicans held an open forum last night.

The Obama Procession for peace.

The Healing Arts Center

Center offers corporate, spiritual counseling

By MELANIE CARMAN
News Writer

Nestled in a small, peaceful community overlooking the banks of the St. Joseph River, the Healing Arts Center on the River provides a holistic approach to healthcare, combining both traditional and complementary forms of healing.

The center, which opened in August of 1992, provides a wide range of services, including massage therapy, stress management, nutrition counseling, herbal therapy and spiritual mentoring. Classes are offered periodically to the community which promote relaxation of the mind and body.

Sister Judiean Breitenbach, executive director of the Healing Arts Center, is extremely proud of the progress the Center has made within the past two years. "Everything here is so dedicated to what they do and truly believes in the power of the mind," said Breitenbach. "It is amazing to watch the transformations people go through from just beginning our program to the finish."

In accordance with the center’s mission statement, the philosophy of the center recognizes each client as a self-healer. The statement also says that the center will provide each person or family with the choice of the best remedies in an atmosphere of acceptance and love.

"We’ve separated the body and soul for so long that it is time to get in touch with the essence of life, that is the spirit," said Breitenbach.

Traditional physicians’ methods for curing disease have been drugs and surgery; they have been known to downplay the mental abilities and factors such as faith, energy, and the spirit, said Breitenbach.

The Healing Arts Center bases its therapy around the conceptual model which acknowledges each person as a self-healer, although each has outside help, such as educational programs, social agencies, churches, physicians and environmental therapy.

The center employs several modalities, including spiritual and pastoral counseling, art therapy, acupuncture, massage therapy, “healing touch,” and “physician holistic health assessment.”

Karen Dupuis, director of marketing and development for the center, believes that people visiting the facility get the chance to relax in a peaceful setting, but she also believes that it is good for the mental healing therapists to make “house calls” within the sur-

see SMC / page 4

see SMC / page 4

see SMC / page 4

see SMC / page 4
North Carolina State project to go up with space shuttle

PHILADELPHIA, Penn

A University senior was shot and wounded last night during an attempted carjacking, police said. As of early this morning, the student remained hospitalized in stable condition. Although doctors at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania said the student’s wounds did not require surgery, they admitted the student for observation, according to police. The student was shot in the abdomen during the incident, and the bullet then went into the most fleshly part of his thigh," University Police Det. Cmdr. Tom King said. The incident began around 9:30 p.m., when the man whose name has not yet been released by police — was approached by a man while standing at the open trunk of his gray Ford Taurus. The man walked up to the student and ordered him to hand over his car keys, police said. When the student refused, the man dug out a short-barreled silver revolver and shot him. Witnesses told police that the man fled. Police and University officials stressed that Penn and Philadelphia police officers are searching for the assailant, whom witnesses describe as an approximately 5'6" black man in his early 20s.

TUCSON, Ariz

A UA graduating student has died in a car accident. The single $10 million gift sets new record

SOUTH BEND WEATHER

FRONT STATIONARY

FRONT

© 1997 AccuWeather, Inc.

The AccuWeather forecast for noon, Wednesday, Nov. 19

The daily South Bend forecast is based on conditions and high temperatures

Wednesday 41 30
Thursday 47 39
Saturday 38 32
Sunday 39 24

The Observer • INSIDE

Wednesday, November 19, 1997

Inside the Dome

Trenton 51 26
Lake 54 27
New York 53 26
Hackettstown 48 26
Morristown 48 26
Wildwood 54 27

The number of Hispanic students has remained the same, and American-Indian applicants have increased.

NATIONAL WEATHER

NORTHWESTERN University

Minority med school applications up

Minority students’ applications to medical schools in states affected by affirmative action bans are falling, but at Northwestern, applications are on the rise. A report by the Association of American Medical Colleges found that the number of minority students applying to medical schools in states with affirmative action bans is down seven percent. At NU, however, the number of minority student applicants is on the rise. In 1998, 342 African-American students applied. Applications are down seven percent. At NU, however, the number of minority student applicants is on the rise. In 1998, 342 African-American students applied.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn

A University senior was shot and wounded last night during an attempted carjacking, police said. As of early this morning, the student remained hospitalized in stable condition. Although doctors at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania said the student’s wounds did not require surgery, they admitted the student for observation, according to police. The student was shot in the abdomen during the incident, and the bullet then went into the most fleshly part of his thigh," University Police Det. Cmdr. Tom King said. The incident began around 9:30 p.m., when the man whose name has not yet been released by police — was approached by a man while standing at the open trunk of his gray Ford Taurus. The man walked up to the student and ordered him to hand over his car keys, police said. When the student refused, the man dug out a short-barreled silver revolver and shot him. Witnesses told police that the man fled. Police and University officials stressed that Penn and Philadelphia police officers are searching for the assailant, whom witnesses describe as an approximately 5'6" black man in his early 20s.

TUCSON, Ariz

A UA graduating student has died in a car accident. The single $10 million gift sets new record

SOUTH BEND WEATHER

FRONT STATIONARY

FRONT

© 1997 AccuWeather, Inc.

The AccuWeather forecast for noon, Wednesday, Nov. 19

The daily South Bend forecast is based on conditions and high temperatures

Wednesday 41 30
Thursday 47 39
Saturday 38 32
Sunday 39 24

The number of Hispanic students has remained the same, and American-Indian applicants have increased.

NATIONAL WEATHER

NORTHWESTERN University

Minority med school applications up

Minority students’ applications to medical schools in states affected by affirmative action bans are falling, but at Northwestern, applications are on the rise. A report by the Association of American Medical Colleges found that the number of minority students applying to medical schools in states with affirmative action bans is down seven percent. At NU, however, the number of minority student applicants is on the rise. In 1998, 342 African-American students applied. Applications are down seven percent. At NU, however, the number of minority student applicants is on the rise. In 1998, 342 African-American students applied.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn

A University senior was shot and wounded last night during an attempted carjacking, police said. As of early this morning, the student remained hospitalized in stable condition. Although doctors at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania said the student’s wounds did not require surgery, they admitted the student for observation, according to police. The student was shot in the abdomen during the incident, and the bullet then went into the most fleshly part of his thigh," University Police Det. Cmdr. Tom King said. The incident began around 9:30 p.m., when the man whose name has not yet been released by police — was approached by a man while standing at the open trunk of his gray Ford Taurus. The man walked up to the student and ordered him to hand over his car keys, police said. When the student refused, the man dug out a short-barreled silver revolver and shot him. Witnesses told police that the man fled. Police and University officials stressed that Penn and Philadelphia police officers are searching for the assailant, whom witnesses describe as an approximately 5'6" black man in his early 20s.

TUCSON, Ariz

A UA graduating student has died in a car accident. The single $10 million gift sets new record

SOUTH BEND WEATHER

FRONT STATIONARY

FRONT

© 1997 AccuWeather, Inc.

The AccuWeather forecast for noon, Wednesday, Nov. 19

The daily South Bend forecast is based on conditions and high temperatures

Wednesday 41 30
Thursday 47 39
Saturday 38 32
Sunday 39 24

The number of Hispanic students has remained the same, and American-Indian applicants have increased.
Snyder discusses Mexican coffee

By JESSICA LOGAN
News Writer

Mexico has always been valued for its coffee industry and is currently the fourth-largest producer in the world. While production of the crop is an established part of the Mexican economy, numerous changes have taken place within the Mexican coffee sector that have impacted the production of coffee.

Yesterday afternoon, Richard Snyder, a researcher who has studied the changing regulation of coffee in Mexico, discussed neoliberalism and the politics of the coffee sector. Snyder began his seminar by providing background concerning the regulation of coffee during the last several decades and then described recent changes in the regulation and their implications for the Mexican coffee sector.

According to Snyder, between 1973 and 1992 INMCAFE, the government-controlled Mexican Coffee Institute, intervened in the financing, processing, and marketing of coffee grown by small producers. However, in 1989, INMCAFE began to disband, spurring individual state governments to launch re-regulation projects and set up state coffee councils. Snyder described two types of state government re-regulation projects.

"The Crony Capitalist project's efforts are directed at turning the clock backwards to the time before the intervention of INMCAFE," he explained. The Crony Capitalist project has been instituted in the Mexican states Chiapas and Puebla. On the other hand, the Neocorporatist project is seeking to unite the largest coffee producers in the states of Oaxaca and Guerrero.

Snyder examined some political motives behind the re-regulation of coffee. One of the most obvious is Mexican leaders' impulse to take over regulation in an effort to secure votes. "Regulation policies have the potential to hold political support," he explained.

Snyder encouraged students to be aware of changes occurring in large institutions such as the Mexican coffee sector. "Students need to study the new institutions replacing those destroyed by neoliberal reforms," he said.

Richard Snyder of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign spoke yesterday on the re-regulation of the coffee industry in Mexico.

Snyder is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of California at Berkeley in 1997 and is currently an Academy Scholar at the Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies.

Novak says natural law bridges gap

A shared understanding of natural law can bridge religious gaps and link disparate cultures, according to author David Novak.

Though Judaism was the basis of last night's lecture, Novak, the chair of Jewish studies at the University of Notre Dame, said that natural law is a universal idea.

Because it is natural, it becomes the thrust of the doctrine of creation, he explained. The discovery of natural law comes from creation itself.

Therefore, Novak explained, this ideal could become a common link between cultures. Not only does natural law make Jewish natural discourse possible in an intercultural world, but it also becomes a bridge between two cultures," he said.

Novak believes that natural law lies at the junction of theology and philosophy, not possessed by either one exclusively. "It functions as a philosophical corretcor within a culture," he said. Novak also noted that no laws may contradict the laws of God. "God is God, the foundation of all foundations," he said.

According to Novak, the covenant selected what seemed humanly valid and elevated it to law to be followed. If cultures would realize their commonality in beliefs, multiculturalism could lead to superculturalism, thus erasing lines of moral division, he said. As natural law is the "way of the earth" and the "rectification of the world," it all boils down to the common good.

As cultures realize their overlapping beliefs, Judaism becomes less foreign and more understandable towards the move of a superculture.

Novak, according to Novak, the covenant selected what seemed humanly valid and elevated it to law to be followed. If cultures would realize their commonality in beliefs, multiculturalism could lead to superculturalism, thus erasing lines of moral division, he said. As natural law is the "way of the earth" and the "rectification of the world," it all boils down to the common good.

As cultures realize their overlapping beliefs, Judaism becomes less foreign and more understandable towards the move of a superculture.

Notre Dame Goes Cold Turkey

Join the Notre Dame Community for The Great American Smokeout on November 20, 1997

Turn in your tobacco products and receive a coupon for a FREE turkey sandwich

Tobacco products can be turned in at the following times and locations:

- Grace Hall - 10:00-10:45 a.m.
- Joyce Center Gate 2 - 11:00-11:45 a.m.
- LaFortune - 11:00 a.m.-2:30 p.m.
- Both Dining Halls - 11:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.
- Library Concourse - 1:00-1:45 p.m.
- Harley Main Lobby - 2:00-2:45 p.m.
- Building Services Break Room - 3:00-3:45 p.m.

Tobacco Cessation Materials will be available

This program is sponsored by IRISHHealth Faculty/Staff Wellness Program, Food Services and The Office of Alcohol and Drug Education

Food Services Turkey Specials for the Day

Huddle Mart (11 a.m.-3 p.m.): Turkey, dressing and vegetable $5.99
Allegro (10 a.m.-2 p.m.): Turkey sandwich & Soup $4.29
Greenfield's (11 a.m.-2 p.m.): After a morning of Cold Turkey, Come join us for a hot turkey lunch.
Kennedy continued from page 1

"Because of diagnostic improvements, some of the younger age group may be directly impacted by parents in their 30s, 40s and 50s," Kennedy said.

Kennedy made some suggestions regarding what people can do now to prepare for Alzheimer's in the 21st Century. In addition to promoting research and education and advocating the implementation of public policy that encourages advancement of Alzheimer's issues, Kennedy emphasized working together as a community to help patients.

"We have to pull together to pool resources and fill gaps that are not provided," she said.

Terry McFadden, anchorman for WNDU, also spoke. He commented that the gathering of some of the greatest minds in Alzheimer's research was an unprecedented event, especially in the Midwest.

McFadden's interest in the summit was also personal. Two of his grandparents suffered from Alzheimer's, and he discussed how Alzheimer's can profoundly affect its victims' families.

His own parents, for example, had a hard time year after year. "Hopefully, advanced research will prevent me from going through what my parents went through," McFadden said.

Yesterday's speech, "Setting the Agenda for the 21st Century," was held yesterday at as part of the Alzheimer's Disease Research Summit in Jordan Auditorium in the College of Business Administration.

Smoke continued from page 1

There in a visible place.

They add that smokers may find it easier to quit if they avoid the purchase of cigarettes by the carton and only buy a new pack after finishing the current pack.

Furthermore, buying a brand that the quitter doesn't particularly like can be helpful. Health Services also recommends that the quitter "make the habit awkward" by placing one's cigarettes in an unfamiliar pocket and not carrying a lighter or matches.

"It's important to have a day to support people in their effort to quit and to continue that support afterwards," Landry said.

Tobacco products can be bought at Notre Dame at Grace Hall from 10 a.m. to 10:45 p.m. and at the Joyce Gate from 11 a.m. to 11:45 a.m., at LaFortune and both dining halls from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., in the library concourse from 1 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. In the Harley main lobby from 2 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. and in the Building Services break room from 3 p.m. to 3:45 p.m.

The traveling information table at SMC will be in the lobby area at the Legacy College Center from 11 a.m. to 12 p.m., LeMans from 12:30 p.m. to 1:30 p.m., and Madaleva 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Politics continued from page 1

campaign coordinators for next year. He added that students can now find out what offices are up for reelection and personally contact incumbent politicians.

Roos urged students to remain persistent because "you can find someone who will talk to you." Most importantly, "students should get on board now," Roos stated. He advised that they compile a resume and start trying to make contacts this Christmas.

Roos suggested making a list of Notre Dame alumni, and considering prospects for the 2000 elections.

"I think the year 2000 is going to be an extraordinary campaign," Roos said. Roos advised students to pick a political party and go with it. "Nobody ever got hung for what they did at 19," Roos stated. "Just go with your gut, even if the odds aren't in their favor."

Roos encouraged all students to take advantage of the great learning experience offered in campaign volunteering. And he advised those government students dreaming of a life of campaigning to "think politically, and think ahead."

Coohey and Kihara spoke about the importance of student efforts to increase campus political activity and awareness.

SMC continued from page 1

rounding communities.

"We have had some inquiries as to our stress management programs being offered during finals week on the campus of Saint Mary's," said Dupuis.

"I think it will be a worthwhile and beneficial for the students of Saint Mary's to participate in the programs we have to offer.

The staff of the center also pride themselves on being multicultural, inclusive and communal.

"One of the biggest problems we face as a Catholic-run community, is the fact that people tend to differentiate between spirituality and religion," said Breitenbach. "By identifying with every culture and religious group, we want members of the community to feel comfortable with the therapies that we provide.

In the June 24, 1996, issue of Time Magazine, a poll reported that 82 percent of adult Americans said they believed in the healing power of personal prayer. Also, 73 percent said they believed praying for someone else can help cure serious illness, while 77 percent said they believed God sometimes intervenes to cure people who have a serious illness.

The Healing Arts Center does not attempt to be a not a scientific research facility, rather, it is purposely to be a service facility which offers holistic therapies in a quiet and peaceful environment.

Saint Mary's President Marlin L. Eldred is scheduled to visit and meet with Breitenbach early next month to discuss the possibility of forming classes on campus that would give students the opportunity to take advantage of what the Healing Arts Center has to offer.

Students can combine both traditional and complementary forms of healing to overcome any mental or physical challenges that they may encounter.

---

Junior Accountancy

Deadline to submit a resume for the Junior Accountancy Resume Book Tuesday, November 25, 1997

Career and Placement Services

Basement of the Hesburgh Library

---

Shear Phazes

"Contemporary Hair Styles 7 Days A Week"

1181 South Bend Ave.

South Bend, IN 46637

(219) 271-7674

Eurotan Tanning Beds

Receive $1 off

Receive 10
tanning sessions

for only $15

Expires 12/30/97

Expires 12/30/97

Expires 12/30/97

---

Spring Break

AS ALWAYS ALL YOU CAN EAT $2 WINGS EVERY WEDNESDAY

Major League Starts Tonight

NHL '94 Sign-Up is $5

Dart League Round 3 Schedule

9:30

Drunk Drivers vs Weasels

All-Right-We'll-Call-It-A-Draw vs Swedish Meatballs

That's Right v Sr-Bar Bikini Team

Daddy X v Team Callamari

10:00

Swedish Meatballs vs Weasels

Ask My Dog v Menudo

Da Bomb v Any Glen Will Do

Shite v A-HA-Yea
World News Briefs

Albright meets with Pakistani refugees

PESHAWAR, Pakistan

Against the backdrop of a dusty plain near this remote corner of Pakistan, Madeleine Albright listened intently as a group of luckless young Afghan women talked in similar tones about their fate as refugees. "We are tired of our lives in exile," one woman told the U.S. secretary of state Tuesday. Another spoke of the pain of being virtually destitute despite an advanced education in finance and economics. Another told how her life had taken a fateful turn the day thieves broke her window trying to escape.

As a woman and a two-time refugee herself, once from Nazism and once from communism, Albright could identify with these star-crossed Afghans — but only to a point. She, once from Nazism and once from communism, could identify with these star-crossed Afghans — but only to a point. As a woman and a two-time refugee herself, she said Tuesday, told reporters to slow down, talk in somber tones about their fate as refugees, for the accident happened. Children, who survived the plowed and were among about 15 women, all clad in traditional Islamic head covers, who met with Albright on a cloudless afternoon at the Nasir Bagh refugee village.

TWA crash

NEW YORK

New York divers and fishermen searched in the shallow waters of a river in New Delhi for more than 20 school children believed to be missing in Tuesday's bus accident that left 28 young passengers dead and 67 others injured, a local official said.

Sahib Singh Verma, New Delhi's chief minister told reporters at least 20 children were missing hours after the early morning accident. He said the bus was carrying nearly twice its capacity of 60, with 112 children ranging from primary to high school age, a curtain of school children, said teachers, when it plunged into the Yamuna River.

Witnesses said the driver was speeding and was in a race with another bus when the accident happened. Children, who survived the crash, told a local television network they had asked the driver to slow down, but he insisted. Verma said the bus toppled at 28 raising it from the earlier figure of 27.

Divers, police and volunteers in seven boats searched for more dead and injured. Divers harnessed nets to pull small children clad in school uniforms — girls in white tunics and blue sweaters, boys in white pants and shirts — from the shallow, muddy water, then draped them over their shoulders and ran to waiting ambulances. School officials visited homes to determine whether the school children may have swum to shore and walked home on their own.

The school had no list of the students traveling on the bus. Most of the injured were treated for minor injuries and released.

Four, including the driver, remained hospitalized Tuesday afternoon. The narrow corridors were crowded with waiting parents trying to find copies of the casualty list, inside, held by school children gathered and shouted slogans against the principal of the public school, which was located nearby, for allowing the bus to run overloaded.

"We have complained a lot of times (about overloading), but nothing was done," said Ravi Kumar who lost his daughter.

Kumar blamed the school principal for the accident, the Press Trust of India news agency reported. Verma launched an investigation into the cause of the accident and ordered the suspension of the school's principal and the police officer in charge of traffic in the area.

"If negligence is proven, strict action will be taken against those involved," the chief minister said.

Bus Crashes in India

Twenty-eight children killed, 67 others injured

Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India

Navy divers and fishermen searched in the shallow waters of a river in New Delhi for more than 20 school children believed to be missing in Tuesday's bus accident that left 28 young passengers dead and 67 others injured, a local official said.

Sahib Singh Verma, New Delhi's chief minister told reporters at least 20 children were missing hours after the early morning accident. He said the bus was carrying nearly twice its capacity of 60, with 112 children ranging from primary to high school age, a curtain of school children, said teachers, when it plunged into the Yamuna River.

Witnesses said the driver was speeding and was in a race with another bus when the accident happened. Children, who survived the plowed and were among about 15 women, all clad in traditional Islamic head covers, who met with Albright on a cloudless afternoon at the Nasir Bagh refugee village.

FBI: No foul play in TWA crash

NEW YORK

After scrutinizing more than 1 million pieces of wreckage, conducting 7,000 interviews and spending up to $20 million, the FBI officially ruled out the probe of the TWA Flight 800 Tuesday, saying the explosion was not caused by a criminal act.

Investigators also released a CIA video simulation of the jet's last minutes to back up the Board. The NTSB, which has hearings scheduled for next month, has indicated no probable cause will be declared until late 1998. TWA Flight 800 had just left Kennedy Airport for Paris on July 17, 1996, when its center fuel tank exploded, killing all on board.

Investigators also released a CIA video simulation of the jet's last minutes to back up the Board. The NTSB, which has hearings scheduled for next month, has indicated no probable cause will be declared until late 1998. TWA Flight 800 had just left Kennedy Airport for Paris on July 17, 1996, when its center fuel tank exploded, killing all on board.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has found no evidence of foul play in the July 17, 1996, crash of TWA Flight 800, which killed 270 people off Long Island.

"There is no evidence that a medical condition or drug abuse" caused the crash, FBI Director Louis Freeh said.

WASHINGTON -- FBI investigators have found no evidence of foul play in the crash of TWA Flight 800, which killed all aboard.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has found no evidence of foul play in the July 17, 1996, crash of TWA Flight 800, which killed 270 people off Long Island.

"There is no evidence that a medical condition or drug abuse" caused the crash, FBI Director Louis Freeh said.

WASHINGTON -- FBI investigators have found no evidence of foul play in the crash of TWA Flight 800, which killed all aboard.

Associated Press

NEW YORK

A rescue worker lifts the body of a young girl while the body of a boy lies on the deck of a boat. The boat was used to recover victims after a bus carrying more than 100 children lost control and plunged off a bridge into the Yamuna River yesterday. At least 26 passengers were killed and 67 injured.

H.P.S. Saran, a police officer at the scene of the accident, said the bus had been driving fast close to the edge of the bridge just before skidding on the sandy road, crashing through railings and plunging into the river.

Crises continue, Iraq rejects U.S. peace proposal

BAGHDAD, Iraq

Iraq is not a camp of refugees, Saddam Hussein's government told the United Nations Tuesday as it rejected a U.S. offer to ease economic sanctions and help end a crisis over U.N. weapons inspections.

Iraqi officials said the 3-week-old crisis will continue until the United Nations accepts Iraq's conditions for the resumption of U.N. weapons inspections in the country, including a balanced composition of the inspection team. Iraq says American inspectors dominate the team.

"We adhere to our requests and demands, because they are fair just and fully justified," said Foreign Minister Al-Saddam. Saddam expelled the six American weapons experts on the U.N. inspection team Thursday, prompting the remaining 68 non-American inspectors to withdraw in protest. The American moves have halted the U.N. program to monitor the disposal of Iraq's weapons of mass destruction and chemical weapons.

Until inspectors certify that Iraq is free of such weapons, the United Nations will not lift crippling economic sanctions imposed after Iraq invaded Kuwait in 1990, sparking the 1991 Persian Gulf War.

Iraq also began rationing cooking gas to the public Tuesday, fearing U.S. air strikes on the oil refineries that produce natural gas. In addition, thousands of Iraqis continued to gather at factories, forming "human shields" to lessen the likelihood of American strikes on those facilities.

About 2,500 women and children camped out at a weapons factory outside Baghdad on Tuesday. Children wrote "Down with America" in chalk on the factory floor, beeding a call by Iraqi law-makers who did the same thing on Monday on the sidewalk outside parliament.

"We want them (Americans) off our backs and we want the sanctions lifted," Leila Mohammed, 21, a college student, told reporters who government officials took on a tour of the factories.

U.S. National Security Adviser Sandy Berger said Tuesday that Washington favored improving an existing oil-for-food program that allows Iraq to sell some oil every six months to buy food and medicine.

"We are not a camp of refugees that Saddam Berger will give us small food,” said Leila Mohammed. "We will not accept it."

Berger said the U.S. position was not an inducement for Iraq to allow U.N. inspectors back, but said Washington would be in favor of allowing Iraq to sell more oil once Saddam "comes into compliance."
Facts and Figures on Poverty and America's Working Poor

- Fastest growing segment of homeless population: families and children.
- The growth in the number of working poor grew by 400,000 between 1980 and 1990, all of which were accounted for by the growth of female working poor.
- In 1992, 21% of all children were poor, with 46% of African-American children and 39% of Hispanic youngsters living in poverty.
- In 1993 the bottom 20% of households received only 3.6% of U.S. income while the top 20% amassed 48.2%, the widest gap since the Census Bureau started keeping track in 1947. The top 5% of households earn 21% of the income.

The Observer • PAID ADVERTISEMENT

Wednesday, November 19, 1997

Give away your coat... and

SHARE THE WARMTH.

Things are heating up again!

The Center for Social Concerns is gearing up for another successful run of Project Warmth. Last year, approximately 1600 coats were received which were later sent to sites all across the country, including the Appalachia region, reservations in the Dakotas, and places in need around the South Bend area.

Starting October 27, coats or jackets can be turned in at:

- Residence Halls
- Notre Dame Bookstore
- LaFortune Information Desk
- Alumni Association Office in 423 Grace
- St. Michael’s Laundry Distribution Center
- Center for Social Concerns

Also, look for sites in 257 Fitzpatrick, 100 Bond Hall, 204G COBA, 201 Hurley, 103 Law School, 370 CCMB & 137 O'Shag.

There will also be additional sites at concession trailers around the stadium during the football weekends of November 1 and 22.

Each donor will receive a 25% discount certificate to be used in purchasing a new GEAR for Sports jacket at the Notre Dame Bookstore.

Hall Competition

As Project Warmth heats up again, so do the prizes for the two dorms with the highest percentage of participation. The first place dorm will win $1000 and the second place dorm will win $500.

Now is your chance to make the big bucks!

Congratulations to last year's winner, Carroll, who had 116% participation and the second runner-up, Welsh Family (formerly Siegfried), who had 67% participation. The race is on for this year's winner!

Hammes Bookstore St. Michael’s Laundry

Center for Social Concerns Notre Dame Support Services

Student Government Student Activities

Alumni Association Community Service
Tomorrow's execution fuels panel discussion

By ARIANN BUTLER

In light of tomorrow's scheduled execution of Gary Burris, a Michigan City, Ind., inmate, last night's panel discussion on Christian perspectives towards the death penalty had particular relevance. Panel members included Scott Leaman, president of Amnesty International at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College; Maria Oropeza, the interim director of Multicultural Affairs; Garth Meintjes, associate director of the center for civil and human rights; Pam Cornell and Nora Meaney, Saint Mary's students who have corresponded with death row inmates; and Father Joe Lanzalaco Burris' spiritual advisor and a minister to other death row inmates.

Arguments opposing the death penalty and personal experiences with death row inmates were some of the many issues shared by the panel.

Meintjes argued that the death penalty ultimately does not deter violent crime. He supported this argument by describing countries who have abolished the death penalty and subsequently did not witness an increase in crime.

"The problem with the death penalty is that it lasts so long," Leaman said. Leaman expounded on the fact that once the death penalty is enforced, it is irreversible. He cited the cases of 23 executed criminals who, after their deaths, were later found innocent of the charges against them.

Leaman also brought up a particular irony in Burris' case; according to Leaman, while the State of Indiana cannot find Burris' birth certificate, a symbol of his existence in the world, the state does have the power to sentence him to death.

Meaney described her experience with the death penalty issue which has occurred on a very personal level. As part of a class assignment, Meaney wrote a letter to a death row inmate and subsequently carried on a correspondence for several weeks with that person.

She said that she was enlightened, through the letters of the prisoner, to see criminals as human beings, instead of only within the context of their crimes.

"I read about much fear and so much pain in those letters," Meaney said. "This is their tag." Lanzalaco said of the crimes the inmates committed. "They are known only for the most horrible thing they have done in their lives.

"We should speak in truth and act in truth whether we see truth or not," Meintjes concluded his arguments against the death penalty by noting that it costs the state more money to implement the death penalty than to keep an individual in prison for life.

Opposition to the Execution of Gary Burris

Indiana has reset the execution date for Gary Burris for November 20, 1997. Please join us in protesting this unnecessary spread of violence in our world!

"What you do to these men you do to God." --Mother Theresa on visiting death row

Should we just talk about saints or should we listen to their words and act on what we believe? The time to act is now! Please send letters and/or faxes to Governor O'Bannon letting him know that you oppose the death penalty in all cases. Urge the Governor to commute Gary's sentence to life in prison. He has the power to act—it is our task to let him know what action he should take!

Governor Frank O'Bannon
206 State House
200 W. Washington
Indianapolis, IN 46204
Fax: 317-232-3443

"We seek a society of justice, not vengeance and violence. We believe a determined, though compassionate, response to crime that forges the violence of the death penalty more consistent with respect for all human life. It will better protect the rights of all persons." --Joseph Cardinal Bernardin

If efforts to stop this execution are unsuccessful, a prayer vigil will be held in the Notre Dame Law School Lounge beginning at 11:30 PM, November 19, 1997. The vigil will be followed by a candlelight march to the grotto for further prayer and reflection. Please plan to come and stand with us as we create a witness for peace and nonviolence. Also, there will be a group making the 45 minute drive to the Indiana State Prison in Michigan City for an on-site protest. Please contact Sr. Kathleen Beatty at 631-6575 if you are interested in going with the group.

"Wherever there is distress which one cannot remove, one must fast and pray." --Mahatma Gandhi

In order to prepare ourselves for the prayer vigil, and to include those who are unable to attend, we are encouraging all who support us to fast the day preceding the execution. From 12:01 AM November 19 until after the vigil we will fast to bring unity to our group and our purpose and to remind ourselves that we are people fed by the spirit.

"We cannot do everything, and there is a sense of liberation in realizing that. This enables us to do something, and do it very well. It may be incomplete, but it is a beginning, a step along the way, an opportunity for the Lord's grace to enter and do the rest." --Archbishop Oscar Romero

We can make people stop and think! We can plant the seeds of change! Join us!

Sponsored by the Center for Civil and Human Rights
Clinton Finds Himself in Corner Again

President Clinton suffered his most severe legislative defeat since the collapse of his National Health Care proposal in 1994 last week when he failed to secure the necessary House votes to pass "fast-track" trade authority. Under the bill, Congress would only have the power to accept or reject a trade agreement, rather than amend it — much like the presidential veto operated before the adoption of the line-item veto. Clinton will be the first president since Ford to lack the authority to negotiate trade agreements without the threat of congressional amendments. The ramifications of fast-track's failure will be deep-felt. It will be difficult for the president to negotiate credibly given that each provision of a trade agreement will be subject to amendment. The negotiation process will be slowed markedly and trade partners will be hesitant to come to the table given the president's lack of authority. No doubt that the U.S. trade position will be damaged, though whether that is still out as to how much and what kind of effect it will have on the domestic and international economies.

One thing is certain, however; Clinton's political career is in peril. He has been forced to come home, and he faces a still challenge in the coming legislative session. The president who once saw his credits with salvaging a divided Democratic Party after the 1994 "Republican Revolution" (myself included), is politically crippled. He is no longer his party's legislative leader; and to make matters worse, the spirit of bipartisanship which he ushered in, is dissipating briskly.

Clinton pulled out all the stops on fast-track; failing less than 10 votes shy. Both he and Vice President Gore lobbied relentlessly to the last minute, resorting to offering his Democratic counterparts in the House direct White House assistance in the 1998 election. The 80 percent of House Democrats who opposed the President were unmoved by the enticement of his Democratic counterparts in the gubernatorial and mayoral elections two years ago. After a Republican sweep in the track, falling less than 10 votes shy. Both mates Democratic Party after the 1994 who several credit with salvaging a decision — the politics of the center will continue to prevail on fiscal issues such as taxes and spending. Nonetheless, the Left proved its potency by taking fast-track to the mat, and has secured the favor of labor and environmentalists, two vital interest groups in the approaching election season. The last time a fracture like this occurred in the Democratic Party was in the spring of 1994, when liberals in Congress chose to renounce their support of Clinton's National Health Security Act and pursue a single-payer model for delivery of health services. The moderate and liberal Democrats' inability to coordinate their efforts to procure expanded coverage for the uninsured resulted in a failure to achieve even modest reform of a deplorable system. This was not only a policy failure for the Democrats, but a major political one as well. The result was the loss of the House and Senate for the first time in decades.

The difference between the failure on health care and the withdrawal of fast-track is the Republicans gained a political victory by killing reform. The Republicans scored no such victory when fast-track died — in fact the issue also raised questions about the cohesiveness of their party. However, the fracture among Democrats is deeper and more critical. The upcoming legislative session, the mid-term election, and the inside polling for the 2000 presidential nomination may prove to be a struggle to navigate the Party's direction as it heads into the next century.

The stability and leadership of the Democratic Party seem wholly at stake. Though Dick Gephardt, the vocal leader of the liberal-wing, poses little threat of actually gaining the 2000 nomination, he and his liberal colleagues do hold a trump card of sorts in their back pockets — no nominee will pass muster without at least their grudging approval. Should Clinton fail to calm the Left's discontent and reaffirm some core Democratic principles which he appears to have abandoned, the breach in the party will intensify. Such a broadening of internal strife may result in another mid-term electoral debacle; and it may cost the Democrats the White House in 2000. The stakes for Democrats during the next legislative session are high. If Clinton continues to alienate the Left by declaring issues such as fast-track "no brainers" and accusing them of pandering to labor, he runs the risk of finally disjoining the very party he salvaged after 1994. Again embittered and weakened, Clinton faces the challenge of relevancy. With few allies among the Democrats and rising Republican partisanship, Clinton must make amends with the liberal base to successfully coordinate the Democrats' legislative and electoral efforts. The future of his party, and the legacy of his presidency, depend on him doing so.

J.P. Cooney

Cooney is a junior economics and government major living in Knott Hall. His columns appear on Wednesdays. He can be reached at J.P. Cooney 606nd.edu. The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
VIEWPOINT

CAN BUSINESS BE HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR HUMAN RIGHTS?

I'm writing regarding the former CEO of Texaco and the Global Climate Coalition, COBA as part of a series on business ethics.

Should business be investing money in a country whose human rights of its citizens and whose democratically elected government (who won 95 percent of the vote) calls for economic sanctions on the defacto ruling dictatorship? Well the human rights of their citizens and mining whether business is socially responsible?

I think of few groups with as doleous an environmental record as the Christian West. While European civilization was slowly developing, pieces of the biota were lost or greatly reduced, but the elasticity of the system preserved its general integrity. When European colonialism sweeps through the rest of the world, ecosystems hitherto isolated from conventions of European civilization were suddenly beset.

One might expect from Kheriaty's characterization that scores of unenlightened pagans would have been busy raping and plundering their environments in these uncivilized lands, engaging in murder insane and illogical ethical systems they held to be true. And then the Christian colonists would ride in on the white horse of reason and stop the destruction and deliver God's Creation from the clutches of the wicked. But lo! Such was not the case. Vast wildernesses, only slightly altered by indigenous groups, were thrust under the plow and the ax, and intricacies which had evolved over millions years were thrown into ruin by the (equiv) Christian colonists. The peoples whose cultures were destroyed by the colonists subsequently fell into the same trap of environmental idiocy.

In what I believe to be a great paradox, the wondrous work of God, a natural world of inestimable and incomprehensible beauty, was felled and rowed off and covered with concrete by humanity in a world without tigers and without humans and a beauteous and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Aaron Kheriaty writes, "without Christianity, our world would be better off with more animists than with fewer. Nature worship as a plow or something. That is God's plan and the only sane possibility. (Unfortunately, much of this ecological fad than a real conviction. Eastern and Native American religions and philosophy are more of a fad than a real conviction. Eastern and Native American religions and philosophy are more a world without tigers and without humans and a beauteous and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Aaron Kheriaty writes, "without Christianity, our world would be better off with more animists than with fewer. Nature worship as a plow or something. That is God's plan and the only sane possibility. (Unfortunately, much of this ecological fad than a real conviction. Eastern and Native American religions and philosophy are more of a fad than a real conviction. Eastern and Native American religions and philosophy are more
Taking a shot of sake at a bar does not count as a cultural experience. Neither does the Macarena. Culture is experiencing something foreign and remembering what happened the next day. And the next week. It will seep into your attitude and affect the way that you live your life and interpret new things.

Theatre is culture. Or at least part of it. The more diverse one's experiences are, from music to movies and theatre to dance, the more diverse the person.

It's time to steer from the monotony of the ethanol-polluted city of South Bend and take a road-trip to the theatrically-blessed city of Chicago.

The Windy City offers a multitude of shows in an array of venues to please any age. Some theatres are reputable and more traditional while others offer an unconventional twist to the theatre, but they all promise an enjoyable cultural experience.

Three decades ago, Gary Sinease had a hand in the founding of the Steppenwolf Theatre. The professional theatre company is currently hosting "Space," an up-lifting drama in which a man and woman challenge contemporary systems of thought to find new faith.

While the artists continue to starve at the Shubert Theatre, the Irish continue to dance in the Auditorium Theatre. "Riverdance," the spirited and popular celebration of Irish song and dance will have you bopping in your seats.

A Christmas Carol

Written & Directed by James Raj *

A Christmas Carol

The Merchant of Venice

Written & Directed by Stuart Ross

The Windy City offers a multitude of shows in an array of venues to please any age. Some theatres are reputable and more traditional while others offer an unconventional twist to the theatre, but they all promise an enjoyable cultural experience.

Three decades ago, Gary Sinease had a hand in the founding of the Steppenwolf Theatre. The professional theatre company is currently hosting "Space," an up-lifting drama in which a man and woman challenge contemporary systems of thought to find new faith.

While the artists continue to starve at the Shubert Theatre, the Irish continue to dance in the Auditorium Theatre. "Riverdance," the spirited and popular celebration of Irish song and dance will have you bopping in your seats.

A Christmas Carol

Written & Directed by James Raj *

A Christmas Carol

The Merchant of Venice

Written & Directed by Stuart Ross

The Windy City offers a multitude of shows in an array of venues to please any age. Some theatres are reputable and more traditional while others offer an unconventional twist to the theatre, but they all promise an enjoyable cultural experience.

Three decades ago, Gary Sinease had a hand in the founding of the Steppenwolf Theatre. The professional theatre company is currently hosting "Space," an up-lifting drama in which a man and woman challenge contemporary systems of thought to find new faith.

While the artists continue to starve at the Shubert Theatre, the Irish continue to dance in the Auditorium Theatre. "Riverdance," the spirited and popular celebration of Irish song and dance will have you bopping in your seats.

A Christmas Carol

Written & Directed by James Raj *

A Christmas Carol

The Merchant of Venice

Written & Directed by Stuart Ross

The Windy City offers a multitude of shows in an array of venues to please any age. Some theatres are reputable and more traditional while others offer an unconventional twist to the theatre, but they all promise an enjoyable cultural experience.

Three decades ago, Gary Sinease had a hand in the founding of the Steppenwolf Theatre. The professional theatre company is currently hosting "Space," an up-lifting drama in which a man and woman challenge contemporary systems of thought to find new faith.

While the artists continue to starve at the Shubert Theatre, the Irish continue to dance in the Auditorium Theatre. "Riverdance," the spirited and popular celebration of Irish song and dance will have you bopping in your seats.

A Christmas Carol

Written & Directed by James Raj *

A Christmas Carol

The Merchant of Venice

Written & Directed by Stuart Ross

The Windy City offers a multitude of shows in an array of venues to please any age. Some theatres are reputable and more traditional while others offer an unconventional twist to the theatre, but they all promise an enjoyable cultural experience.

Three decades ago, Gary Sinease had a hand in the founding of the Steppenwolf Theatre. The professional theatre company is currently hosting "Space," an up-lifting drama in which a man and woman challenge contemporary systems of thought to find new faith.

While the artists continue to starve at the Shubert Theatre, the Irish continue to dance in the Auditorium Theatre. "Riverdance," the spirited and popular celebration of Irish song and dance will have you bopping in your seats.

A Christmas Carol

Written & Directed by James Raj *

A Christmas Carol

The Merchant of Venice

Written & Directed by Stuart Ross

The Windy City offers a multitude of shows in an array of venues to please any age. Some theatres are reputable and more traditional while others offer an unconventional twist to the theatre, but they all promise an enjoyable cultural experience.

Three decades ago, Gary Sinease had a hand in the founding of the Steppenwolf Theatre. The professional theatre company is currently hosting "Space," an up-lifting drama in which a man and woman challenge contemporary systems of thought to find new faith.

While the artists continue to starve at the Shubert Theatre, the Irish continue to dance in the Auditorium Theatre. "Riverdance," the spirited and popular celebration of Irish song and dance will have you bopping in your seats.
Theatre’ Experience

By ARWEN DICKEY
Wednesday Night Television Correspondent

L ast week in the land of the Peach Pit, Joed tells Steve that he is the only guy she has slept with since her ex. Steve complains that he is not ready to be a father, and that Joed should get an abortion or give the baby up for adoption. Joed says that she is keeping the baby. Carly is the wrong person for Steve to talk to about Joed. Hello? Carly kept her baby. Steve decides to take a paternity test.

Brandon and Kelly pick up Erica at the police station, but decide not to press charges for the stolen items. Instead, they go back to Erica’s apartment to get what is left of the stolen goods. Not included is the pocket watch that Dylan gave Brandon. Back at the Beverly Beet, Brandon decides to write a story about Erica’s life on the streets, but doesn’t include her name. Then, Brandon gets a visit from the assistant district attorney, Deborah Mills, who wants Brandon to reveal his source. Brandon refuses.

At Erica’s apartment we find that Julie, the druggie roommate, has been beaten by the pimp, Rigg. Brandon calls the police, Rigg shows up, and Erica confronts him with a drugged, “No more.” The pocket watch is revealed, but Brandon lets her keep it because he thinks Dylan would have wanted her to have it.

Deborah Mills shows up at the Walsh house and informs Brandon that without the source of the article, he cannot prosecute Rigg, making Brandon an accessory and a felon.

David told his dad he is broke. He asks Donna for another chance, but she tells him to move out and take his stuff with him. Donna wants to get away from David’s packing and going to her parents’ boat on which Noah oh-so-conveniently lives.

Brandon and Kelly decide to bring Annie and Bailey to the beach house for a romantic evening. Brandon can’t pay, so he goes to the bike shop to meet Howie, who proceeds to hit Griffin in the face for not agreeing to sell his bike.

In the coming months, Charlie and Nina say a tearful goodbye although Charlie needs to get a paying job. In the end, they optimistically decide their relationship is over the “long haul,” but Nina admits she can’t handle it. She is in denial, and has a hard time coming to grips with the reality of the difficulties that Charlie will face in the future.

Griffin and Julia have a romantic evening at the museum. Griffin can’t pay Howie back all of the money at one time. Griffin goes to the bike shop and meets Howie, who promises to help Griffin in the face for not agreeing to hide his illegal money. Griffin comes in late for the wedding with a present on his face. Julia confronts him, and Griffin finally reveals he has been in trouble for a couple of months. Julia breaks up because Griffin lied to her. After all, she points out, they are not married, and there should be no fault in the marriage.

Then, there’s the whole cluster of famous restaurant chains that includes Hard Rock Cafe, Planet Hollywood, Carson’s Ribs, and the new Rainforest Cafe. Every one of these places is entertaining at least, even if the food itself might not be.

Some Chicago sports figures have also carved a name for themselves in the restaurant business. Michael Jordan’s place can’t be missed — especially with the larger-than-life image of him outside the building. Harry Caray’s restaurant is also worth a trip, he makes an excellent chicken parmesian.

All of these restaurants are moderately priced, and should be able to fit into a student budget. Some of these places may cater to more indulgent tastes, but they will all add to your complete Chicago theatre experience.

The Chicago theatre scene is not merely a place for snooty rich people. Everybody can enjoy the rich culture the city offers. And, it’s not terribly expensive. Some shows are free, and the rest are definitely over a dollar, but none are too expensive.

So, if you have no cash and need a cultural fix, you can still reap the cultural benefits of the bright lights and the big city.
Hawks keep streak with OT win

Associated Press

ATLANTA

Good Kriss scored seven points in overtime as the unbeaten Atlanta Hawks rallied from a nine-point deficit and then shut out the Washington Wizards in the extra period for a 94-99 victory Tuesday night.

Christian Laettner and Mitch Kupchak scored 24 points each for the Hawks, who are 11-0 when they start the final in the NBA. Gray, a rookie playing in place of Steve Smith, hit on a buzzer-beater that was sidelinied by back problems in the second half, finished with 14.

It was the second overtime victory this season for Atlanta, which has had only one double-digit margin of victory in 11 points in 19 streak. The Hawks won 10 straight overtime games dating to the 1994-95 season.

Mike D'Antoni, who made only one of eight shots through three quarters, scored 13 of his 20 points as the Hawks came back after trailing by 11 points with 2:20 left in the third quarter. Atlanta trailed throughout the second half until taking the lead in the final three minutes.

Red Strickland made two layups in the final 32 seconds to send the game into overtime. In the first quarter, the Wizards were outscored 9-0.

Strickland led the Wizards with 24 points, and Juan Dixon scored 20.

Besides 14 points, Mutombo had 11 rebounds and six blocks, while Laettner and Ty Corbin also had 11 rebounds each.

Smith, with a 20.1-point average entering the game, made only two field goals in nine attempts and one of two 3-point attempts for five first-half points.

Boston 122, Toronto 109

Dee Brown went 4-of-4 on 3-pointers in the final half as the Boston Celtics built a 23-point lead and cruised to their fourth straight victory Tuesday night, 122-109 over the stumbling Toronto Raptors.

The four-game winning streak, which includes two victories over the Raptors, is the Celtics' longest since they went from March 31 to April 9, 1995. Toronto has lost seven straight.

Brown finished with 16 points, all in the first half, and Walter McCarty scored a team-high 18 for the Celtics, who improved to 5-3 under first-year coach Rick Pitino.

Greg Minor came off the bench to score 15 points and Antoine Walker had 14 and a team-high 10 rebounds.

The Celtics took control early, going on a 13-0 first-quarter run and watching the Raptors commit 12 first-half turnovers en route to a 59-38 halftime lead.

John Wallace scored a career-high 30 points with 12 rebounds for the Raptors, who looked sluggish and uninterested in the wake of an announcement by general manager Kevin Thomas that he might bolt the club for a broadcasting job at NBC.

Doug Christie scored 23 points, helping cut the Celtics' lead to 113-105 on a layup with 1:22 to play. But that's as close as the Raptors would get.

Damon Stoudamire added 21 points and Walt Williams scored just nine, missing his first seven shots before finally nailing a 3-pointer with 1:15 left under three minutes to play in the third quarter.

classifieds

NOTICE

200 TICKET MART, INC.

7471 before 3 pm or 272-3753 after 4 pm. If you have two GA's for WV and can't get there, please leave your ID. #5237. Please call Jen @ 687-8435. Call Jenny @ 407-9450. Two WV GA's for sale. Call Jenny @ 887-8435. For Sale: 4 WV GAs. 243-2643

WANTED

NEED HOME FOR NEXT SEMESTER AND NEXT SCHOOL YEAR? 7773097

FOR SALE

FOR RENT

WALK TO CAMPUS

2-5 BEDROOM APARTMENTS

230-2935

ROOMS IN PRIVATE HOME FOR FOOTBALL WEEKENDS AND OTHER NON-NCM EVENTS.

471-6427

VERY CLOSE TO CAMPUS - 5 MIN. DRIVE OR 15-20 MIN. WALK.

THAT PRETTY PLACE Bed and Breakfast Inn has space available for football parents! 5 Rooms with private baths. $80-$90.

Monthly, 30 miles from campus. Toll Road. Exit #107.

1-800-444-9845.

3-2 & 2 BEDROOM DORMS HILLIARY'S

272-6551

6 DORM ROOMS NEXT FALL 272-6701

FOR NTWOD

FOR RENT

WALK TO CAMPUS

2-5 BEDROOM APARTMENTS

230-2935

ROOMS IN PRIVATE HOME FOR FOOTBALL WEEKENDS AND OTHER NON-NCM EVENTS.

471-6427

VERY CLOSE TO CAMPUS - 5 MIN. DRIVE OR 15-20 MIN. WALK.

THAT PRETTY PLACE Bed and Breakfast Inn has space available for football parents! 5 Rooms with private baths. $80-$90.

Monthly, 30 miles from campus. Toll Road. Exit #107.

1-800-444-9845.

3-2 & 2 BEDROOM DORMS HILLIARY'S

272-6551

6 DORM ROOMS NEXT FALL 272-6701

FOR NTWOD
Amos Zereoue looks to go from A to Z against ND

By BOB HERTZEL
The Dominion Post

It's against Notre Dame, it's on NBC across America. Is Saturday's game a Heisman showcase for West Virginia running back Amos Zereoue?

Not this year, of course. Even though he is the sixth-leading running back downplays such talk.

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.

"They're not just a good name any more. They're playing good football," Zereoue says.

"I didn't take any of my visits because I didn't have my scores," he said. "I regret that now because I could have had a lot of fun on those visits."

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.

"I'm ready to play football again," Zereoue pronounced Monday night.

"I didn't like standing on the sideline freezing my butt off," he admitted. "But he wasn't needed and the week to heal has him saying he'll be 110 percent by game time Saturday.

West Virginia will need him to be. Earlier this year it appeared that the Notre Dame encounter may be tarnished by the team's inability to win this year.

But under first-year coach Bob Davie they have steadily improved, winning four of their last five, including last week's upset of No. 11 LSU in Baton Rouge, to even their record at 5-5 and put themselves to be bowl-qualified with a victory over WVU.
Arizona, Tampa Bay complete expansion draft

The Arizona Diamondbacks made 26-year-old Brian Anderson their first round pick in Tuesday's expansion draft.

I choice, taking the rookie left-hander three weeks after he helped the Florida Marlins complete their five-year zoom from expansion losers to World Series winners.

"It's an honor," said Saunders, reunited with Tampa Bay manager Larry Rothschild, the Marlins' pitching coach until this month. "That tells me I must have done something right, that they wanted me before anybody else."

The Arizona Diamondbacks followed by choosing Anderson, a 25-year-old left-hander not protected by the Cleveland Indians.

"I enjoyed my time in Cleveland," he said. "I'm looking forward to being on a team that's just starting out."

Young pitching was at a premium early, and prospects far outnumbered veterans as both teams made 14 picks in the first round. Anaheim knuckleballer Dennis Springer (Tampa Bay) and White Sox catcher Jorge Fabregas (Arizona) were the only players over 27 years old taken.

Stars such as Fred McGriff, Eric Karros and Eric Davis were passed over. But there was a chance big-name players would later be among the 35 picks by each team, and that could set into motion a lot of trades.

NL Cy Young winner Pedro Martinez of Montreal, Marlins pitcher Kevin Brown and Cleveland third baseman Matt Williams were mentioned prominently in trade speculation. No deals were allowed to be announced, however, until after the draft ended, expected around 11 p.m. EST.

Boston pitcher Jeff Suppan and New York Mets pitcher Cory Lidle were taken in the opening round by Arizona, which will play in the NL West. Colorado outfielder Quinton McCracken and Houston outfielder Bob Abreu were picked by Tampa Bay, which will be in the AL East.

The cash-rich Diamondbacks, who signed free agent shortstop Jay Bell to a $34 million, five-year contract on Monday, were also closing in on free agent relief Roberto Hernandez.

The draft was held at the Phoenix Civic Plaza, right across the street from the Diamondbacks' new Bank One Ballpark. Unlike the NFL draft, which sparks wild cheers and boos from the fans' gallery, there was little reaction to the lesser-known picks by the 75 supporters from both Tampa Bay and Arizona.

At least baseball tried to make the fans feel comfortable, decorating the hall with palm trees and cactuses.

Tampa Bay, given the No. 1 pick when Arizona won the coin toss and elected to take the second and third choices, got off to a nice start with Saunders.

Bad Sex and the Good of Marriage

"Pastors who cultivate ambiguity about the immorality of non-marital sex do a serious injustice to all their people—not only those who still not marry, but also all those many more who will and who, with their children, will be harmed by their failure to understand how intercourse can be truly marital."

—Professor John Finnis

The Jacques Maritain Center presents

John Finnis, D.Phil.

Prof. Finnis has been Bioclini Professor of Law at Notre Dame since 1995, and is also Professor of Law and Legal Philosophy at the University of Oxford, where he has taught law and philosophy since 1967. He was one of the first two lay members of the International Theological Commission, and has worked extensively on the foundations of ethics, and on a wide variety of life issues.

World Hunger Coalition

Thanksgiving Baskets

World Hunger Coalition, Campus Ministry, & Food Services are working together to provide good Thanksgiving Meals for South Bend families who probably wouldn't get one otherwise.

But we need your help!

Monday, November 24th
3-6pm
Stepan Center

Help put the baskets together and be there when the families come to pick them up.

1/2 hr, 1 hr, whatever you can give

Questions: Call Karen @ x2297

Stepan Center • 8:00 p.m.
RecSports "Champion Student Award" recipients are selected by the Office of Recreational Sports. Honorees are chosen for their involvement in RecSports, including excellence in sportsmanship, leadership and participation.

Elizabeth Plummer is a junior from Fort Walton Beach, Florida. As a resident of PE, Plummer is an active member of many IH teams. During the fall, she is the signal-caller for the PE Pyros football team. As the seasons change, Plummer takes part in co-rec basketball, IH basketball and finishes the year as a member of the PE soccer team. She has also served as PE's athletic commissioner for one year, and has been a participant in Late Night Olympics. A Chemical Engineering major, Elizabeth hopes to attend medical school after graduation and pursue a career in orthopedics or general practice.

Recipients receive Champion merchandise from the VARSITY SHOP "Specializing in Authentic Notre Dame Sportswear" (Joyce Center)

www.nd.edu/~recsport
Upcoming Events & Deadlines

Faculty/Staff Family Tennis Clinic
Wednesday, November 19 - 6:30-7:45pm - Eck
Sponsored by Men's & Women's Varsity Tennis
Bring Your Own Racquet Free!

RecSports on the Web!
Check out the latest offerings, intramural standings, athletic facility hours, and much, much more at www.nd.edu/~recsport.

Sale!
20% off any Regular Priced Champion Jacket at the VARSITY SHOP "Specializing in Authentic Notre Dame Sportswear"

Look for this award to appear in the Observer every other Wednesday. Students selected receive Champion merchandise courtesy of Champion and the located on the second floor of the Joyce Center. The VARSITY SHOP is open Monday-Saturday 11:00am to 5:00pm and Sunday 1:00pm to 4:00pm. (Phone: 631-8560).
W. Hoops continued from page 20

defense made Butler work for every one of its points, holding the Bulldogs to just 24 percent shooting in the first half.
"To be honest with you, that's a big part of our offense," Butler head coach June O'Keeffe explained. "In the last four years, we have made more free throws than our opponents have attempted." "They did call a pretty tight game," McMillan said about the officiating. "But we have to work through that and realize how they were calling the game." Integral in the Bulldog comeback was the play of Sarah O'Connell. O'Connell picked up two quick fouls in the first half and only played five minutes, but in the second, she burned the Irish, finishing the game with 16 points in just 21 minutes of play. "I thought she was the difference in the second half," McGraw said. The Bulldogs could constantly be found at the free throw line, finishing the game by connecting on 23 of 33 attempts. "I thought the fouling was the key to the game, and it's something we'll have to work on," Peirick said. "But we're a physical team as are they." A constant force for Butler throughout the game was guard Jennifer Markow, who kept her squad close with 10 points in the first half. Markow was the game's high scorer with 20 points, half of which came from the foul line. Also scoring in double figures was freshman Kelley Siemon who continued to display that she will be a threat for the Irish in the post. Siemon finished with 11 points and five rebounds. "I thought Kelley did some good things," McGraw noted. "She continued to play aggressive which is very important for a freshman. She never got tentative defensively." In the post, which is where the Irish have the least experience, sophomore Julie Henderson took charge scoring nine points, collecting six rebounds, and handing out five assists. "I thought Julie had a great game," McGraw praised. "She really played like a veteran tonight." Freshman forward Ruth Riley also contributed in the paint with six points and six rebounds: "Ruth is really going to come along for us," McGraw explained. "She is getting stronger and is really improved from the beginning of practice." Notre Dame will now travel away from the friendly confines of the Joyce Center as its next four games are on the road. The Irish will challenge the likes of Duke and UCLA before their return home to host Big East rival Connecticut on Dec. 6.

Co-captains Sheila McMillen (20) and Mollie Peirick came up with key baskets in their season opener.

Chicago: City of Hope

January 6th-11th, 1998

The Seminar

• Five day seminar in the city of Chicago
• Focuses on the positive programs being implemented to aid underresourced neighborhoods
• Provides an opportunity for service in various educational arenas
• Emphasizes group reflections and prayer
• Earn one credit hour

APPLICATIONS DUE TODAY

For additional information please contact
Jennifer Weigel 243-2636
Christine Haley 243-8262

COME JOIN US

for SONG, PRAYER, & FELLOWSHIP

WHEN?

TONIGHT 7:00 PM
STANFORD/KEENAN CHAPEL

WHO?

EVERYONE WELCOME!
( Especially the NDE community and the participants of NDE #48.)

Let us continue to journey in faith. This is an opportunity to gather as a community of faith to share and to pray. We will also be presenting opportunities to participate in smaller faith sharing groups.

Marshall Field's Holiday Helpers

Marshall Field's is looking for energetic and talented people who can bring fun, cheer, mischief, and laughter to our guests. This is not a typical sales associate position but more a public relations position where some of the job functions would be:

• Serve guests and share holiday happenings throughout the store.
• Escort guests through the shopping experience with a holiday checklist
• Demonstrate "Random Acts of Kindness" for all guests and associates when not assisting guests with their holiday gift selections.
• Develop general knowledge of the entire store
• In an energetic, upbeat manner, provide a gift shopping service throughout the store either by accompanying the guest or utilizing the guest's shopping list
• Focuses on the positive programs being implemented to aid underresourced neighborhoods
• Emphasizes group reflections and prayer
• Earn one credit hour

Marshall Field's is looking for energetic and talented people who can bring fun, cheer, mischief, and laughter to our guests. This is not a typical sales associate position but more a public relations position where some of the job functions would be:

• Serve guests and share holiday happenings throughout the store.
• Escort guests through the shopping experience with a holiday checklist
• Demonstrate "Random Acts of Kindness" for all guests and associates when not assisting guests with their holiday gift selections.
• Develop general knowledge of the entire store
• In an energetic, upbeat manner, provide a gift shopping service throughout the store either by accompanying the guest or utilizing the guest's shopping list
• Focuses on the positive programs being implemented to aid underresourced neighborhoods
• Emphasizes group reflections and prayer
• Earn one credit hour

If you have the skills and abilities listed above and want to experience the wonders of the holiday season please contact Marshall Field's Human Resource Office at (219) 771-6204 and ask for Lydia
Associated Press

Pedro Martinez became only the second Cy Young Award winner to get traded when Montreal sent him to the Boston Red Sox on Tuesday night for two prospects.

Martinez, 26, went 17-8 with a major-league best 1.90 ERA and 305 strikeouts last season and made $3,615,000. Montreal, unwilling to pay the $6 million-plus salary he'll probably get in salary arbitration, decided to trade him.

Still, it's unclear how long Martinez will remain with the Red Sox. He is eligible for free agency after the 1998 season and on Monday night told the Expos he wouldn't sign a multiyear contract with Boston, a source told The Associated Press on the condition he not be identified.

Martinez, whose brother, Ramon, pitches for the Los Angeles Dodgers, has a 65-39 career record, becoming one of baseball's premier pitchers.

Boston has been without an ace since Roger Clemens left to sign with the Toronto Blue Jays after the 1996 season. The Red Sox sent Montreal top pitching prospect Carl Pavano and a player to be named later.

The Florida Marlins traded another key part of their World Series team Tuesday night, sending closer Robb Nen to the San Francisco Giants for three pitchers.

The deal was scheduled to be announced after the completion of the expansion draft Tuesday night. In return for Nen, the Marlins got right-handers Mike Villano, Joe Fontenot and Mike Pageler.

Nen had 35 saves last season. With San Francisco, he will replace Rod Beck and Roberto Hernandez, who became free agents after the season.

Florida didn't want to carry Nen's contract, which calls for him to receive $4 million next year, $5 million in 1999 and $5.5 million in 2000.
Grid
continued from page 20
our wide receivers."

In fact, the biggest defensive matchup will most likely be between the Irish receivers and
the West Virginia secondary.
The Mountaineers are led by junior defensive back Nate
Terry, the team leader in interceptions with three, who also does double time as a return
man.

As far as the Irish are concerned, while Davie is happy with the progress the team has made as of this point, he is still concerned with some nagging problems, that as he said, "will take longer to solve."

One of the major problems he cited was a lack of depth. The week off between the Navy and
LSU game gave the Irish a
much-needed chance to heal
some injuries and have the team
back 100 percent.

As of this week, senior safety
Benny Guilbeaux is one of the only question marks. However,
this could prove costly as Guilbeaux has been a key on defense for the Irish in the last two games.

Davie's main goal right now lies in trying to tone down the excitement from the win over the Tigers and tune out the thought of a possible bowl in order to stay focused for the last
two games.

"I think if we play as good as
we can play, we can play with anyone in the country," Davie
said. "That doesn't mean I'm just saying we can. We have to go out and play. The focus right now, and the goal right now is to be able to go play back-to-back
weeks and finish the season out
the right way."

In fact, the biggest defensive
matchup will most likely be between the Irish receivers and
the West Virginia secondary.
The Mountaineers are led by
junior defensive back Nate
Terry, the team leader in interceptions with three, who also does double time as a return
man.

As far as the Irish are concerned, while Davie is happy
with the progress the team has
made as of this point, he is still
concerned with some nagging
problems, that as he said, "will
take longer to solve."

One of the major problems he cited was a lack of depth. The week off between the Navy and
LSU game gave the Irish a
much-needed chance to heal
some injuries and have the team
back 100 percent.

As of this week, senior safety
Benny Guilbeaux is one of the only question marks. However,
this could prove costly as Guilbeaux has been a key on defense for the Irish in the last
two games.

Davie's main goal right now
lies in trying to tone down the excitement from the win over the Tigers and tune out the thought of a possible bowl in order to stay focused for the last
two games.

"I think if we play as good as
we can play, we can play with
anyone in the country," Davie
said. "That doesn't mean I'm just saying we can. We have to go out and play. The focus right
now, and the goal right now is to be able to go play back-to-back
weeks and finish the season out
the right way."

Applications
Call Michele Waslisi #
288-6863 or 631-5293
C S C
Make A Career
Out Of Spending
Other People's Money.

Please join us for an information session
Thursday, November 20
Alumni Senior Club
7:00-8:30 pm
Sponsored by Notre Dame
Career & Placement

MEDIA... It is what takes ideas from the conceptual and production stage, to our living rooms, malls, bars, and the broad outdoors. At LEO BURNETT, we make MEDIA our business.
Because what is an idea if it hasn't anyplace to go?
DID YOU KNOW?

The number of Americans who die each day from cigarettes...

...would be more than the amount of people who would die if two jet airliners collided in mid air and killed all of the passengers-every single day!

Office of Alcohol and Drug Education
On their way to another banner year

Same winning expectations as Irish start season

By JOE CAVATO
Associate Sports Editor

Before last night's tie-off of the women's basketball game, the 1997 Final Four banner was raised honoring the record-setting 1996-97 season and officially closing the book on it.

After the ceremony, the 1997-98 Irish took the floor and looked just as dominant in the early going. Head coach Muffet McGraw's squad got off to a good start in what was a terrific half in which Notre Dame built a 23-point lead over Butler before the Bulldogs stormed back in the second half to fall short, 71-65.

With Butler making its charge in the second stanza, McGraw was looking for someone to knock down the big shot as that 23-point lead had dwindled to four at 62-58 with four minutes left in the contest.

Last season, this situation would not have worried McGraw as she could turn to one of two 2,000 point scorers — Beth Morgan or Katryna Galiller — to hit the shot and put the nail in the coffin of the bulldogs, who are predicted to win the Midwestern Collegiate Conference.

Co-captains Sheila McMillen and Mollie Peirick stepped up to the challenge. McMillen, who finished with a team-high 17 points, sophomore guard Sheila McMillen led the Irish drive to the hoop all night.

Notre Dame 71
Butler 65

Maintaining Momentum

Irish look to build off of last week's convincing victory over LSU

By BETHY BAKER
Associate Sports Editor

After pouncing LSU 24-6 last Saturday, the Notre Dame football team appears to be back on track. The only problem is that there is nothing West Virginia would love more than derailing the streaking Irish.

As a result, the Irish face a physical team that uses the same kind of challenge as the Tigers, including a 7-2 record and a top-25 ranking. The No. 21 Mountaineers are a physical team that uses its running game to wear down opposing defenses, but they can also throw the ball effectively in order to catch opponents off guard.

West Virginia's offense is led by sophomore tailback Amos Zereoue, a first team All-Big East selection last year who was fourth in the nation in rushing prior to the Nov. 1 Syracuse game in which he was held to 71 yards on 16 carries. A threatening statistic to the Irish about Zereoue is that the 1997 Final Four banner was raised honoring the record-setting 1996-97 season and officially closing the book on it.

"I think all of us have the same type of scheme," Davie commented at his weekly press conference yesterday. "Two real big tackles, one nose guard, an one defensive tackle inside, both 300 pounds. They have a rush back that's really a good player, and their two corners will match up well against our two лучших.

"Peirick dished out eight assists and snared five rebounds while adding 12 points on very timely 5-of-9 shooting. "I just think that that is going to be more of my role this year, more of a scoring mentality," Peirick said.

In what promised to be a physical match-up, 51 fouls were called, and there were 63 total free throws attempted between the two teams. Butler lived at the charity stripe in the first half, getting 13 of their 24 first half points by way of free throws. A tenacious Irish defense Benny Guilbeaux is questionable for the West Virginia game.

Prepping for WVU

West Virginia, November 22, 2:30
Women's Swim at Arizona, November 21, 10 a.m.
vs. Nebraska, November 23, 3 p.m.
vs. Ferris State, November 20, 7 p.m.

Men's Basketball at Marquette, November 21, 7 p.m.
Women's Basketball at Duke, November 22
Basketball at Kalamazoo, November 21, p.m.
Swimming at Albuin, tonight, 7:30 p.m.

Expansion draft

see W. HOOPS / page 16

see page 14

see page 15