Board of Trustees receives student government report

By CHRIS LAWLER

Resource Center on campus and to efforts to purchase new vans for the Center for Social Concerns. The report, entitled Building Bridges: The First Year of Studies and Beyond, contains suggestions to both Student Government and the Board of Trustees for extending the effectiveness and scope of the First Year of Studies Program. The First Year of Studies is unique and effective, and our recommendations tie in very nicely with the program," said Massoud. First Year of Studies (FYS) is one of the few programs of its kind among national universities. The responsibilities of the First Year of Studies are to arrange the academic programs for the first-year students and to provide the guidance and support services such as writing assistance, tutoring and collaborative learning sessions.

After such a structured first year, the transition to the sophomore year is often problematic. Advising after the first year is conducted through the college of one’s chosen major, and can be confusing and unsatisfying. Academic support resources also become scarce, especially in the area of writing assistance. After the required First Year Composition class, the College of Engineering and Business Administration have no further writing requirements, while the College of Arts and Letters requires only one upper-level writing intensive course.

See TRUSTEES / page 4

Co-exchange brings ND men to Saint Mary's

By SARAH MAGNESS

Five minutes into class the door opens and a man comes in. He has just rollerbladed, biked or taken the shuttle to Saint Mary’s for class. When a professor calls the name “Jon” during roll call on the first day of class, heads就會 turn to see the voice that responds. The deep voices belong to some of the 46 Notre Dame students who take part in the co-exchange program with Saint Mary’s College.

Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame share a long history of a co-exchange program for many classes and sometimes even majors.

When Notre Dame eliminated the education department, the options for students wanting to study education switched to the other side of U.S. 31. They could either choose another major or declare themselves an education major and study at Saint Mary’s. "I realized that becoming a teacher would suit my personality well," said junior Matthew Marsters-D’Urso. "I first heard of the program at Saint Mary’s after I read an article in The Observer. I want to become a high-school English teacher, and I can do this through the classes I take at Saint Mary’s."

The co-exchange program also offers male students the chance to learn in a different environment, one that is slanted classroom ratio of sometimes 20:1, many male students said. "I only realized that becoming a teacher would suit my personality well," said junior Matthew Marsters-D’Urso. "I first heard of the program at Saint Mary’s after I read an article in The Observer. I want to become a high-school English teacher, and I can do this through the classes I take at Saint Mary’s."

The co-exchange program also offers male students the chance to learn in a different environment, one that is.

See LIFE / page 4

Respect Life Week

Week focuses on prayer, peace

By DAVID SARACINO

The Notre Dame/Saint Mary’s Right to Life Club is sponsoring a series of prayer and service activities in celebration of “Respect Life Week.”

We want to promote a message of love and hope, and show that we are an organization based on love and caring," co-president Sainath Snyder said. The week’s activities are presented as prayer and service rather than demonstration in order to provide a peaceful message and avoid hostility. "The success of this week is something you can’t measure. You’ll never know the hearts you can touch," Snyder said. "But, with the amount of people involved, I believe it will be successful."

The activities began on Friday with a mass graveyard, Cemetery of the Innocents. Members of the club displayed 4,400 crucifixes in the Hesburgh Library Mall representing the number of abortions which occur each day. "It was shocking. The display of all those crosses really made me think," said Saint Joseph county student Freshman Geoff Smith said. "I had no idea how many abortions occur each day."

Tomorrow, the club will take a trip to St. Joseph county hospital where participants will receive a tour of the hospital, which is presented as an alternative to euthanasia. They will see what services are provided for the patients and find out how they can help in the future. On Wednesday, the club is sponsoring a baby shower for an expectant mother living at Hannah’s House, a local refuge for women seeking alternatives to abortion. "It’s one thing to just say ‘Women should never have abortions, no matter what the situation,’ Here, we are backing this up with service and by caring for them," policy director Laura Antkowiak said. As a peaceful demonstration against capital punishment, the club and Amnesty International’s Notre Dame chapter will be holding a prayer service at the Indiana state prison in Michigan City, Ind., for inmates on death row. It will be a "peaceful gathering, not a demonstration," according to publicity director Amy Szwedz.

Other activities include a Litany of the Saints/Prayer service at Stonehenge tonight at 10 p.m. The group will also meet at the Grotto at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, to review the Stations of the Cross around St. Joseph’s Lake.

Membership in the club is not limited to those crosses really made me think," said Saint Joseph county student Freshman Geoff Smith said. "I had no idea how many abortions occur each day."

Tomorrow, the club will take a trip to St. Joseph county hospital where participants will receive a tour of the hospital, which is presented as an alternative to euthanasia. They will see what services are provided for the patients and find out how they can help in the future. On Wednesday, the club is sponsoring a baby shower for an expectant mother living at Hannah’s House, a local refuge for women seeking alternatives to abortion. "It’s one thing to just say ‘Women should never have abortions, no matter what the situation,’ Here, we are backing this up with service and by caring for them," policy director Laura Antkowiak said. As a peaceful demonstration against capital punishment, the club and Amnesty International’s Notre Dame chapter will be holding a prayer service at the Indiana state prison in Michigan City, Ind., for inmates on death row. It will be a "peaceful gathering, not a demonstration," according to publicity director Amy Szwedz.

Other activities include a Litany of the Saints/Prayer service at Stonehenge tonight at 10 p.m. The group will also meet at the Grotto at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, to review the Stations of the Cross around St. Joseph’s Lake.

Membership in the club is not limited to Notre Dame students who take

See LIFE / page 4
The last column I wrote in this space was entitled "Long Week." At that point the week was only half over. The week didn't get any shorter.

Like that. Anyway, when I thought about what to say about it, I figured I'd just write about a CD I was sent this weekend. I'm a new member of the BMG music club. So, believe me, I'm no Scene critic, but I thought I'd write a personal response to the song. I hear this band is a "fluff" band. I guess what to write about, I figured I'd just talk about the inside column. My grandfather gave me a big dictionary. His brother and sister-in-law were tragically hit by a drunk driver last week. His brother is now in a coma. His brother's wife isn't.

I once asked why I became "moralized" in my last column. My last column was a big disappointment even in college. I wasn't sure what the word meant exactly, so I used the word morally. To think about or express moral judgments or reflections (American Heritage). If that's what it really means, then it seems to me that we are always thinking and reflecting on our moral judgments. Aren't we? I once read somewhere that the unexamined life is not worth living. Or something. Anyway...

I read an inside column from Friday's paper. It's about cancer and promotes the upcoming Domen run benefitting breast cancer research. If you have time, run it. It's a good cause.

I worked at a camp once and met a 13-year-old girl. She was going to come back to work at the camp this summer. She didn't. I wonder what it's like to be the head honcho? I wonder what I'd do if they all did just what I said.

I've said, last week was kinda long. I wrote a column for Thursday's paper that included an email. Ironically, I received another e-mail from Friday's paper. It was about cancer and promotes the upcoming Domen run benefitting breast cancer research. If you have time, run it. It's a good cause.

I read an inside column from Friday's paper. It's about cancer and promotes the upcoming Domen run benefitting breast cancer research. If you have time, run it. It's a good cause.

A jury of seven men and five women was selected to hear the trial of Terrence Evans, the man charged with murder in connection with the death of an Onondaga County, were called in groups of 14 to be questioned by both the prosecuting attorney and the defense team in the historical appellate trial room on the fourth floor of the court building. This is the entire goal is to prevent minors from getting alcohol with a counterfeit ID, altered ID or by having an adult get it for them. The program was developed by the century council, a national nonprofit organization dedicated to reducing underage drinking.

The education department disburse students loans and grants to millions of students each year. Students fail to receive financial aid assistance checks on time, most of them will be unable to register for classes. The education department noted that only four of the education department’s 11 critical financial aid computer programs are Year 2000 compliant. Among these noncompliant programs are the Pell Grant and Federal Family Education Loan Programs.

The key factor contributing to this Barry of the Ferguson was the paucity of the department's Year 2000 project manager position, which suffered continual turnover, said Joel Willenborn, director of the general accounting office's office of information resources management.

Witherspoon discussed testing time plans and scenarios which may threaten the ability of financial aid office staff to receive help from the education department after 2000. The same problems face all who deal with the Year 2000 problem.

"(Horn's) report projects that the education department will not be compliant until at least 2003," Hornest said.

The education department disburse students loans and grants to millions of students each year. Students fail to receive financial aid assistance checks on time, most of them will be unable to register for classes. The education department noted that only four of the education department’s 11 critical financial aid computer programs are Year 2000 compliant. Among these noncompliant programs are the Pell Grant and Federal Family Education Loan Programs.

The key factor contributing to this Barry of the Ferguson was the paucity of the department's Year 2000 project manager position, which suffered continual turnover, said Joel Willenborn, director of the general accounting office's office of information resources management.

Witherspoon discussed testing time plans and scenarios which may threaten the ability of financial aid office staff to receive help from the education department after 2000. The same problems face all who deal with the Year 2000 problem.

"(Horn's) report projects that the education department will not be compliant until at least 2003," Hornest said.

The education department disburse students loans and grants to millions of students each year. Students fail to receive financial aid assistance checks on time, most of them will be unable to register for classes. The education department noted that only four of the education department’s 11 critical financial aid computer programs are Year 2000 compliant. Among these noncompliant programs are the Pell Grant and Federal Family Education Loan Programs.

The key factor contributing to this Barry of the Ferguson was the paucity of the department's Year 2000 project manager position, which suffered continual turnover, said Joel Willenborn, director of the general accounting office's office of information resources management.

Witherspoon discussed testing time plans and scenarios which may threaten the ability of financial aid office staff to receive help from the education department after 2000. The same problems face all who deal with the Year 2000 problem.

"(Horn's) report projects that the education department will not be compliant until at least 2003," Hornest said.
Bradley: U.S. should 'embrace idealism' in world affairs

By CHRISS LAWLER

The Observer • CAMPUS NEWS

The balance of power in the world has shifted since the end of the Cold War, according to former U.S. Senator Bill Bradley.

The lecture Friday was the third in a series of five lectures by Senator Bradley at Notre Dame this fall and dealt with changing U.S. economic policies after the Cold War.

Over the last decade, America has been in a period of political ascendancy, partly due to our own successes and partly due to others' failures. Germany, Asia and Brazil have also become more powerful, while the former Soviet Union, once a great superpower, has declined.

"The Russian people have lived through an economic depression worse than the Great Depression," said Bradley.

In many ways, said Bradley, the 20th century was one extended war. The two World Wars followed by the 45-year long Cold War denuded real political debate and instead created a culture of what the Senate termed "politics against something," the modern anti-Communist movements. For some, the end of the Cold War was disconcerting, government and military personnel involved in spy and intelligence systems may soon be able to project force.

"With this in mind, Bradley outlined five new international realities. First, there is no longer a clear division between domestic and foreign policy - they continually intermingle and affect each other.

Second, economic, social and military policy all interact and influence one another. To use an example given by Bradley, a military built on a bad economy can't project force.

Next, there is an increasing shift of power worldwide flowing away from government and to the private sector. In many countries, Bradley said, CEOs and corporations are bigger than government and control all the financial resources.

The fourth reality is that the world has entered a period of so-called democracies in charge, and the final reality is the U.S. has tremendous power and no real enemies in the world with enough power to challenge it.

In response to these realities, Bradley stated four principles which he feels should be adhered to when deciding U.S. actions. The U.S. should "unashamedly and unabashedly embrace idealism" in order to keep hope alive for people around the world. We should convey our ideals by example; for "without a good example, we become just another nation among many.

Bradley's third point was that the U.S. should "act." First, he said, we should acknowledge the legitimacy of human security and "follow policies which bestred on protecting the greatest number of people possible.

Finally, Bradley said that we should not be accountable for our actions so that the world will be a more stable place.

The U.S. holds two major advantages over the rest of the world which keep it from being threatened our economy, which is the most efficient in the world, and our military technology.

"The Gulf War was a harbinger to the future and a farewell to the past," said Bradley. "We are increasingly involved between machines.

Because of this, a country would need to be wealthy and very technologically advanced to even challenge the U.S. The only countries which fit these criteria are Japan and Russia, and as long as they stay democratic, the U.S. has nothing to worry about. But also, Bradley stressed that our missile systems may soon be able to protect other countries from aggressors.

Bradley advocates a policy of complete engagement and relating to the rest of the world. Only by taking an active interest in the issues and problems facing other governments will the U.S. maintain its dominant position.

In conclusion, Senator Bradley outlined six objectives for the United States. The U.S. must maintain its military pre-eminence in the world, ensure a strong international economy by breaking down trade barriers and prevent the emergence of a dominant country on the Eurasian continent by maintaining good relations and close working relationships.

As long as we remain dependent on sources of oil in the Persian Gulf, we must protect our interests there. We must pre-empt terrorism and reduce weapons of mass destruction, and finally, we must use our unique status to actively broker peace. Senator Bradley identified Japan, China, Russia, Germany and Mexico as the most important countries for U.S. foreign policy.

"Bradley summed up by saying, "Idealism should guide our effort and our actions should match our ideals."

In a question and answer session at the end of the lecture, Bradley also disclosed that he would make his decision whether to run for President in the next election by the end of this year.

Got something to say, tickets to sell or friends to greet?

Get your message out with Observer classifieds.

At the heart of ministry is relationship

=Apostolic Volunteer Program=

WE WILL HOLD AN INFORMATION SESSION AT THE CSC
MONTGOMERY, OCTOBER 5 & TUESDAY, OCTOBER 6
7:00 p.m.

APOSTOLIC VOLUNTEERS
(708) 524-5855
kinkacy@email.dom.edu
mryanapon@aol.com
WWW.Sinimanna.org

=Sinimanna, Dominican Constitution=

A Benefit for the Catherine Peacock Fund, Inc.
for Breast Cancer Research
3 & 6 MILE RUNS, 2 MILE WALK
AND PANCAKE BREAKFAST
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 10
11:00 - STEPAN CENTER
T-SHIRTS TO ALL FINISHERS
REGISTER IN ADVANCE AT RECSPORTS
$6.00 IN ADVANCE AND $7.00 DAY OF RACE
STUDENT AND STAFF DIVISIONS
SMC
continued from page 1
It isn’t all pressure, however: Male students from Notre Dame also describe the classroom setting at Saint Mary’s as laid back and group-oriented. The success of the class is dependent upon participation, they said.

Saint Mary’s students also cite stress and cons of males in their classes.

The women tend to agree that the male students are an overall positive contribution to the classroom through their points of view and participation.

“I think it can be positive,” said freshman Jennifer Seia, who takes an acting class which four male attend. “They can also make some students self-conscious to certain extent.”

Some women said they thought that occasionally having one or more men in the classroom would benefit them after graduation.

“It is definitely a positive experience because the real world continues from page 1 experience because the real world

room could benefit them after for all undergraduates.

 restarting now!

Classes are starting now!

Call today to reserve your seat.

The next class starts 10/15!

KAPLAN
1-800-KAP-TEST
www.kaplan.com

LSAT

KAPLAN

40 YEARS OF BUILDING FUTURES. ONE SUCCESS STORY AT A TIME.

SEJ would like to unveil its latest discoveries in the future of investments.

“Our respect for individual entrepreneurship puts responsibility for career development in your hands.”

CHALLENGE YOURSELF TO DEVELOP:
- Client Relationship Skills
- Project Management Expertise
- Investment Product Knowledge

We are ready in all the following positions:

BUSINESS
- Product Development
- Management
- Marketing
- Sales
- Client Services

TECHNOLOGY
- Software Development
- Software Application Support
- Information Technology

RESUME DROP
Tuesday, October 5, 1998 at 6:00 p.m.
Alumni Room, Morris Inn

We just haven’t
Hired them yet.

SEI Investments
The science of results.
www.sel.com

Resume Drop
October 5 and 6, 1998
Information Session
November 1, 1998 at 6:00 p.m.
Alumni Room, Morris Inn

Interviews
November 2, 1998
CROATIA

Pope visits war-torn Balkan peninsula

ASSOCIATED PRESS

SPLIT

On a seaside beach packed with pilgrims, Pope John Paul II sought Sunday to heal the wounds of war by visiting the worst ethnic cleansing in Croatia, and urged the international community to "provide its timely help" to end the Kosovo conflict.

Hundreds of thousands of Bosnian Catholics jammed a beach outside this Adriatic coastal city for the final Mass of the 10-day trip to Croatia. Scores of fishing and pleasure boats anchored offshore sounded their horns when the pope arrived from the capital, Zagreb.

Adding to the estimated 500,000 people in attendance were Croat pilgrims from neighboring Montenegro, the smaller of two remaining Yugoslav republics, who streamed in when the border crossing was opened Saturday night for the first time since war ended in 1995, state-run Croatian television reported.

"Cracks are today called to give a new face to their country, above all by committing themselves to the renewal in society of the ethical and moral values undermined by past totalitarianism and by the recent violence of war," the pope said.

"It is an urgent task, for without values there can be no true freedom or democracy." The frail 78-year-old pope appeared in generally good health, though the long trip took its toll on the ailing pontiff.

The big crowd was quiet as the pope faced to their country, above all by committing themselves to the renewal in society of the ethical and moral values undermined by past totalitarianism and by the recent violence of war," the pope said.

"It is an urgent task, for without values there can be no true freedom or democracy." The frail 78-year-old pope appeared in generally good health, though the long trip took its toll on the ailing pontiff.

The big crowd was quiet as the pope faced to their country, above all by committing themselves to the renewal in society of the ethical and moral values undermined by past totalitarianism and by the recent violence of war," the pope said.

"It is an urgent task, for without values there can be no true freedom or democracy." The frail 78-year-old pope appeared in generally good health, though the long trip took its toll on the ailing pontiff.

The big crowd was quiet as the pope faced to their country, above all by committing themselves to the renewal in society of the ethical and moral values undermined by past totalitarianism and by the recent violence of war," the pope said.

"It is an urgent task, for without values there can be no true freedom or democracy." The frail 78-year-old pope appeared in generally good health, though the long trip took its toll on the ailing pontiff.

The big crowd was quiet as the pope faced to their country, above all by committing themselves to the renewal in society of the ethical and moral values undermined by past totalitarianism and by the recent violence of war," the pope said.
New York congressman Peter King and Patrick Hennessy of the Irish Embassy spoke Friday about the need for psychological as well as political cooperation to achieve a peaceful settlement on the Northern Ireland conflict.

"I believe it's going to work," King said about the Good Friday Peace Accord. "It's a tremendous psychological step forward.

He explained that one of the benefits of the accord is the breaking down of certain mindsets which result from the tendency of both Catholics and Protestants in the North to stay in their communities, never understanding the conditions of their neighbors.

The agreement seeks to put institutions and structures in place to run things on a joint basis," Hennessy said. This means equal access to education, housing and employment. The establishment of the North-South Council is one such structure which will be put in place as a result of the agreement.

There is also a specific provision to ensure adequate representation and protection of human rights. During this period, provisions did occur during this period.

"There were undercurrents in Northern Ireland, Great Britain and the United States which culminated in bringing about a settlement," King said.

"There is now a correct diagnosis of the problem," said Hennessy. He described it as a conflict between two minorities: the unionist and nationalist and mainly Catholic minority on the island, and the national and mostly Catholic minority within Northern Ireland. A gap between the two groups has narrowed to approximately 25 percent to 45 percent respectively. "You have to get away from the winner takes all mentality."

He explained that progress should be focused "so much to reduce the gap between cultures but to get each community to recognize the importance of both."

The January 1994 granting of a visa to Sinn Fein leader, Jerry Adams, by President Bill Clinton was the "final breaking down of a barrier between the U.S. government and Sinn Fein," according to King.

"That really did break that log-jam," he added. Clinton said that in recognizing Sinn Fein in such a way, Clinton caused both sides to re-evaluate their relative position. As a result, Sinn Fein was a symbol in the process that could attract support from both sides, he said.

"Once the U.S. made its commitment to stay involved, that was Jerry Adams' trump card to convince the IRA to agree to a cease fire," said King. Prior to the visa, the IRA was reluctant and lacked confidence in lasting support from any government. The action by Clinton and the commitment of Secretary of State George Mitchell in the process quelled many of those fears.

Adams and Sinn Fein were recognized as legitimate by Clinton and the U.S. government, thus forcing the Unionists to recognize them as well. King described Blair as "totally committed to reforming British policy in Northern Ireland."

Hennessy described the relative cohesion of the parties as a "zone of stability to create an environment where issues of sovereignty can be debated in a rational way.

Clinton's subsequent visits to the North island, and the nationalist and mainly Catholic minority within Northern Ireland. A gap between the two groups has narrowed to approximately 25 percent to 45 percent respectively. "You have to get away from the winner takes all mentality."

He explained that progress should be focused "so much to reduce the gap between cultures but to get each community to recognize the importance of both."

The January 1994 granting of a visa to Sinn Fein leader, Jerry Adams, by President Bill Clinton was the "final breaking down of a barrier between the U.S. government and Sinn Fein," according to King.

"That really did break that log-jam," he added. Clinton said that in recognizing Sinn Fein in such a way, Clinton caused both sides to re-evaluate their relative position. As a result, Sinn Fein was a symbol in the process that could attract support from both sides, he said.

"Once the U.S. made its commitment to stay involved, that was Jerry Adams' trump card to convince the IRA to agree to a cease fire," said King. Prior to the visa, the IRA was reluctant and lacked confidence in lasting support from any government. The action by Clinton and the commitment of Secretary of State George Mitchell in the process quelled many of those fears.

Adams and Sinn Fein were recognized as legitimate by Clinton and the U.S. government, thus forcing the Unionists to recognize them as well. King described Blair as "totally committed to reforming British policy in Northern Ireland."

Hennessy described the relative cohesion of the parties as a "zone of stability to create an environment where issues of sovereignty can be debated in a rational way.

Clinton's subsequent visits to the North
The University of Notre Dame welcomes

Vinko Cardinal Puljic
Archbishop of Sarajevo

Recipient of the 1998 Notre Dame Award

Members of the University community and the general public
are invited to the ceremonies
marking the conferral of the award,
Wednesday, October 7, 1998

7:30 p.m.  Presentation of the Notre Dame Award
Auditorium, The Hesburgh Center for International Studies

8:15 p.m.  Public Reception for Cardinal Puljic
The Great Hall, The Hesburgh Center for International Studies

Music by the Notre Dame Liturgical Choir

'Please join us in honoring a man of peace
An open invitation for open minds.

What will be your statement?
To swing a hammer on top of the Berlin Wall and help entrepreneurs break through...
to see a pony on a shirt and help it influence culture...
to move a computer company from dorm room to boardroom.
Make a mark with your mind.

MINDS. WIDE OPEN.
www.gs.com
Gerald Ford rebukes Clinton

Bush, Carter express concern about Lewinsky sex scandal

Associated Press

NEW YORK

Republican leaders are raising eyebrows over a call by former President Gerald Ford for Congress to rebuke President Clinton.

Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott told ABC it would take things "out of order" to issue a rebuke before determining what, if any, offenses the president has committed.

House Judiciary Chairman Henry Hyde told NBC he doesn't see much chance of punishing Clinton with a rebuke. Hyde's panel will be about Lewinsky.

"Let all this be done without partisan exploitation or mean-spiritedness. Let it be dignified, honest and, above all, cleansing. The result, I believe, would be the first moment of majesty in an otherwise-squally year," Ford said.

Ford said an apology would be inadequate and a fine would trivialize Clinton's misconduct.

He said the House Judiciary Committee should finish a preliminary inquiry into possible grounds for impeachment by the end of the year. Afterward, he said, the House might consider his proposal as a substitute for proceeding with the impeachment process.

"Imagine a very different kind of Presidential appearance in the closing days of this year, not at the rostrum familial to viewers from moments of triumph, but in the well of the House. Imagine a President receiving not an ovation from the people's representatives, but a harshly worded rebuke as rendered by members of both parties," Ford said.

Clinton has broken faith with the electorate. "At 85, I have no personal or political agenda, nor do I have any interest in 'rescuing' Bill Clinton," said Ford, who pensions Richard Nixon in 1974 from any possible criminal charges after he resigned in the face of impeachment. "But I do care, passionately, about rescuing the country I love from further turmoil or uncertainty."

In a separate report, special counsel independent counsel Kenneth Starr said he was not troubled by the President's role in the Monica Lewinsky scandal.

"Gerald Ford is a man who has been there, who understands a situation like this and understands the importance of deferring to constitutional standards under all circumstances," he said.

Last month, two former presidents spoke out on Clinton's behavior.

Jimmy Carter said he had explored and been deeply embarrassed, and said Clinton's behavior with Lewinsky did not rule out the possibility of a rebuke.

"Gerald Ford is a man who has been there, who understands a situation like this and understands the importance of deferring to constitutional standards under all circumstances," he said.

Ford predicted the House would vote to impeach, the Senate would not "impeach" the President, and he welcomed Ford's comments as a "harshly worded rebuke."

Former President Gerald Ford said an apology would be inadequate and a fine would trivialize Clinton's misconduct.

At 85, I have no personal or political agenda, nor do I have any interest in 'rescuing' Bill Clinton, but I do care, passionately, about rescuing the country I love from further turmoil or uncertainty.

Gerald Ford
Former President

BRAZIL

Cardoso edges close to election victory

Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO

Facing an uncertain economic future, Brazilians appeared to be sticking with the incumbent for the first time in their history Sunday and re-elected Fernando Henrique Cardoso as president.

With 28.9 million votes, or 27 percent of the total counted, Cardoso had 51.3 percent and former labor leader Luiz Inacio "Lula" da Silva of the Workers Party had 33.9 percent.

According to exit polls conducted by the respected Ibope polling institute, Cardoso should win with 56 percent of the vote compared to 29 percent for da Silva. Ibope questioned 54,000 voters nationwide.

Experts consider exit polls more accurate than early voting.

"It's very good for Brazil that the president has received this mandate from the Brazilian people and that he can now do what is needed to protect the wealth of the country and the Brazilian people," Foreign Minister Luis Felipe Lampreia told reporters.

The apparent outcome was a surprise for observers, given that Cardoso was a 67-year-old sociologist, was the overwhelming favorite in the Feb. 21 runoff, and was economics minister from 1987 until his resignation earlier this year.

He belonged to the centrist Radicals, one of four parties in the governing coalition that shares the cabinet.

The popular Delamuraz took Switzerland into the World Anti-Doping Agency, but suffered a setback in 1992 when the Swiss electorate voted against joining a loose European free trade grouping. The government then froze an application to join the more closely knit 15 nation European Union, which surrounds the country.

Delamuraz left office in March this year after announcing he would stand down, for health reasons, as he was no longer certain he could carry out the duties.

Last year, he underwent an operation for liver cancer. He had heart operations in 1992 and 1995.

Delamuraz is survived by his wife, Catherine, and their son and daughter. Details of funeral arrangements were not immediately available.

THE CUSHWA CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF AMERICAN CATHOLICISM PRESENTS

"Apologia Pro Vita Sua: The Debate About Incarnational Humanism"

Michael Novak

Chair in Religion and Public Policy at the American Enterprise Institute in Washington, D.C., and author of many books, including The Unmeltable Ethnic, The Spirit of Democratic Capitalism and Will It Liberate?

Tuesday, October 6, 1998, 7:30pm

Auditorium, Hesburgh Library

Responding to Mr. Novak is Eugene R. McCarragher, assistant professor of history at the University of Delaware. In March, 1998, he presented a paper for the Cushwa Center entitled: "They Were Simply Not My People: Michael Novak, Catholic Social Thought and Nationalism from 1960-1975."

THE CUSHWA CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF AMERICAN CATHOLICISM PRESENTS

"Apologia Pro Vita Sua: The Debate About Incarnational Humanism"

Michael Novak

Chair in Religion and Public Policy at the American Enterprise Institute in Washington, D.C., and author of many books, including The Unmeltable Ethnic, The Spirit of Democratic Capitalism and Will It Liberate?

Tuesday, October 6, 1998, 7:30pm

Auditorium, Hesburgh Library

Responding to Mr. Novak is Eugene R. McCarragher, assistant professor of history at the University of Delaware. In March, 1998, he presented a paper for the Cushwa Center entitled: "They Were Simply Not My People: Michael Novak, Catholic Social Thought and Nationalism from 1960-1975."
Deborah Gaines, after finishing a cigarette outside the Preterm Health Services Clinic in Brookline, Massachusetts, steps inside the clinic where she is to receive an abortion of her week fetus. The bullets explode in the clinic lobby and a crazed gunman is now chasing Gaines out of the clinic, firing at her. She jumps through a gate. The gunman yells to her, "Sorry I missed you." Gaines has recently brought a lawsuit against Salvi and seeking the death penalty. The killing of the unborn, the violence against Salvi and seeking the death penalty, the federal prosecutor's office, the National Organization for Women and Notre Dame Law School's first woman graduate. Olivez says one: "The poor cry out for justice, and we respond with legalized abortion." Olivez was ambushing the fact that in the United States, abortion is often offered as a quick and dirty solution for poverty. A not insignificant Polish philosopher, who resides in Rome, has said that we are living in a "Culture of Death." The extent of this "Culture of Death" is well illustrated by the events surrounding Preterm Health Services: The killing of the unborn, the violence wrought by Salvi, Sallie's desire for the death penalty, the federal prosecutor's possibly seeking the death penalty.

Maureen Kramlich is a "Double Domer" a member of the University of Notre Dame Class of 1997 and the Notre Dame Law School's first woman graduate. The Poor Cry Out for Justice, and WE RESPOND WITH LEGALIZED ABORTION."

— Graciela Olivez

Since Vivian's birth, Gaines has held several jobs, but she continues to struggle financially and hopes that winning the lawsuit will secure her some financial security.

When Gaines found out that she was pregnant with Vivian, her fourth child, she was on welfare and had just started studying for her G.E.D. She was hoping that she would get a job soon.

Maureen Kramlich is a "Double Domer" a member of the University of Notre Dame Class of 1997 and the Notre Dame Law School's first woman graduate. The Poor Cry Out for Justice, and WE RESPOND WITH LEGALIZED ABORTION."

— Graciela Olivez

Since Vivian's birth, Gaines has held several jobs, but she continues to

The Poor Cry Out for Justice, and WE RESPOND WITH LEGALIZED ABORTION."

— Graciela Olivez

Since Vivian's birth, Gaines has held several jobs, but she continues to
A Call for Unity

Another Side of the Battle for the Truth

By DENYING AN ARTICLE OF FAITH, WE IN EFFECT DENY HER [THE CHURCH] AUTHORITY AND MAKE OURSELVES JUDGES OF MORAL "RIGHTEOUSNESS," WE ARE BECOMING EITHER PROPONENTS OF A DEMOCRATIC CHURCH OR OF RELATIVISM.

"whatever you bind," and because the Church calls for obedience in matters of doctrine, faith, and morals, we need to be loyal in all.

We as Catholics cannot, then, discriminate which of the Church's beliefs or teachings are "not" faithfully transmitted. The Church's authority is not "imperfect," nor is the Church's tradition ever 'in error' because He, her Bridegroom, and the Church, her Spouse, are "true" and "good." For, as St. Thomas Aquinas--doctor of the Church--taught, he who professes faith cannot reject one, even an article of faith (II-II, 5.3. B), for then it is not asssert to God's Revelation. Each and every one of man's questions, which is most palatable, rejecting Church positions in particular, is not a "view" but the TRUTH ... truth as revealed to us in the Scriptures, and taught by Jesus, His Master, and His Church.

Sacred Scripture and the Living Tradition of the Church, then, cannot be defied or altered by our own opinions, we will draw directly from the Catechism and other authentic documents. As St. Thomas Aquinas taught, the Church follows perfectly the words of Jesus, the Lord. It is true that the Church is fallible, but rather faith precedes understanding.

We as Catholics cannot, then, discriminate which of the Church's beliefs or teachings are "not" faithfully transmitted. The Church's authority is not "imperfect," nor is the Church's tradition ever 'in error' because He, her Bridegroom, and the Church, her Spouse, are "true" and "good." For, as St. Thomas Aquinas--doctor of the Church--taught, he who professes faith cannot reject one, even an article of faith (II-II, 5.3. B), for then it is not asssert to God's Revelation. Each and every one of man's questions, which is most palatable, rejecting Church positions in particular, is not a "view" but the TRUTH ... truth as revealed to us in the Scriptures, and taught by Jesus, His Master, and His Church.

Sacred Scripture and the Living Tradition of the Church, then, cannot be defied or altered by our own opinions, we will draw directly from the Catechism and other authentic documents. As St. Thomas Aquinas taught, the Church follows perfectly the words of Jesus, the Lord. It is true that the Church is fallible, but rather faith precedes understanding.

We as Catholics cannot, then, discriminate which of the Church's beliefs or teachings are "not" faithfully transmitted. The Church's authority is not "imperfect," nor is the Church's tradition ever 'in error' because He, her Bridegroom, and the Church, her Spouse, are "true" and "good." For, as St. Thomas Aquinas--doctor of the Church--taught, he who professes faith cannot reject one, even an article of faith (II-II, 5.3. B), for then it is not asssert to God's Revelation. Each and every one of man's questions, which is most palatable, rejecting Church positions in particular, is not a "view" but the TRUTH ... truth as revealed to us in the Scriptures, and taught by Jesus, His Master, and His Church.

Sacred Scripture and the Living Tradition of the Church, then, cannot be defied or altered by our own opinions, we will draw directly from the Catechism and other authentic documents. As St. Thomas Aquinas taught, the Church follows perfectly the words of Jesus, the Lord. It is true that the Church is fallible, but rather faith precedes understanding.
Special effects reign at theaters

This week's top two films at the box office rely heavily on special effects. Scene reviews 'Antz' and 'What Dreams May Come,' as Hollywood grapples with technology and good filmmaking.

"Antz"
Director: Tim Johnson
Starring: Woody Allen, Sharon Stone, Jennifer Lopes and Gene Hackman

(Out of five shamrocks)

By JOEY LENISKI
San Jose Cat.

Where exactly do humans fit on the evolutionary totem pole?
For most simple organisms, like the many members of the insect species, their life cycle will run the gamut between creation, construction, preservation, and finally death. They are not burdened with the gifts of love, reason, accountability, morality or aesthetic appreciation. Driven by their duty to the colony, they labor tirelessly to complete their never-ending tasks, ignorant to the concern for others or their own preservation in what amounts to a cold, single-minded existence.

Sounds like your run-of-the-mill business major, does it not? Though simple organisms themselves, those of the business world equally the grand de-evolution of creatures who have the abilities to transcend the mundane world but choose instead to muddle through as sprockets in the great assembly-line of life. Somewhere, however, is a wondrous world where he went wrong.

This is the underlying premise of "Antz," a surprisingly entertaining yet subtly powerful animated film by the artists at DreamWorks.

The movie follows the insouciant and rambunctious Z, a worker ant voiced by Woody Allen, in a colony of millions and millions of little scurrying insects, one struggles with his place in the larger picture, doubting his own significance and asking "why?" in a society without questions.

His world is turned upside down when he happens to meet the beautiful Princess Bala (Sharon Stone) in the "common bar" and shares with her the little Uma and Travolta two-step of "Pulp Fiction." Z is smitten, which leads him on a headstrong but head-wringing mission to gain the princess' favor. Through a series of wacky times and turns, Z ends up being caught in a much larger conflict with General Mandible (Gene Hackman) and his plans for the future of the colony. This leads him on a series of adventures, including war with the termites, his escape from the colony and his quest for the legendary "Insectopia."

Although not a Disney film, this is still an animated film, so the plot conveniently favors the protagonists and serves up an obligatory happy ending. But there are two things about this film that do not keep it mired in the conventions of modern cartooning.

The first is the absolutely breathtaking special-effects work, a style similar to the computer graphics which first swayed audiences in "Toy Story." Here the animation is not always incredibly smooth, and sometimes the viewer remembers that this is technology artificially-created in a lab. But aside from those moments, the film is nothing short of magical. Duplicating everything from flowing water to modern cinematic effects, this movie redeems the bounds of the animated realm — even the once forsaken by Pixar Animation and "Toy Story."

Did you ever wonder what it looked like to ride on a person's shoe when you were one centimeter tall? The spectacular attention to computer graphics is that it can transport the viewer anywhere, transform them into anything and open up entire worlds for them to see. That experience is indelible throughout the film.

The second aspect of the film is one that overshadows the young target audience — the social commentary comparing the hierarchy of ants to the human mentality in society. The movie is filled with witty hints, astute and sarcastic remarks which are humorously ironic coming from the mouth of a bug ("I am struggling to find my inner maggot.") Therefore, many of the statements turned my focus away from what was happening on screen and towards the audience members surrounding me — watching the busy little ants carrying 10 times their own weight, climbing up and over obstacles as they work towards an unclenr, unreachable goal and we laugh at their lack of direction and individuality.

This film could go to work, make the world safe for capitalism for eight hours, drive home, turn on the television for three hours, then go to bed and prepare for the next day — and the next and the next. "Antz" makes us laugh at ourselves and the inane manner in which we create, construct, resist and procreate like our primitive cousins. It reminds us that on the highway of evolution, humans seem to have veered off course that shady-looking back-country dirt road which is inevitably leading us back where we came from.

"What Dreams May Come"
Director: Vincent Ward
Starring: Robin Williams, Cuba Gooding, Jr. and Annabella Sciorra

(Out of five shamrocks)

By JENELLE WILLIAMS
San Jose City

Soul mates? This one has been done before.
True to form, the protagonist in any movie with such a plot must have all the bounds, real and metaphysical, to be with his one true love. As he combats good and evil, the women of the audience swoon, and the men wonder why they did not just stay at home and watch the Notre Dame versus Michigan tape again.

But wait.
Although "What Dreams May Come" may fit the stereotypical "chick flick" genre in some form, it possesses enough creativity to keep the plot rolling and the audience interested. Of course, Robin Williams, Cuba Gooding, Jr. and stunning visual effects do not hurt either.

Robin Williams plays Chris, the doting husband and father who expertly balances his home life with his job as a pediatrician. His life seems to have no real problems — he is married to the only woman he has ever loved, they live in a great home and he has great kids who somehow transform them into anything and open up entire worlds for them to see. That experience is indelible throughout the film. The second aspect of the film is one that overshadows the young target audience —

"What Dreams May Come" stars Robin Williams as a man searching for his wife in the afterlife.

Anything, that is, except what Chris really desires, his Annie. And thus, the journey — the search — begins.

This film does not solely focus on the power of the male-female and husband-wife relationships. It also examines theories on the power of love and its multiple capacities for human motivation and relationships on a greater scale.

Tired cliches, such as, "never give up" are used not only to express determination, but also to add to the disquieting dream quality of the movie as a whole. These blunt statements of the overall theme, strategically placed to capture attention, are seemingly random.

The only theme which stays present from start to finish, and ties the movie together into our coherent film is the role of relationships in human life. This does not grasp hold of the emotions, it at least provides food for thought.

If nothing else, Robin Williams delivers another passionate performance. He portrays Chris, an ordinary man on an extraordinary mission, as no other actor could. Without being overly dramatic, he is able to express intense feelings and powerful determination.

Cuba Gooding, Jr. in his role as the spiritual guidance counselor, adds tidbits of humor to an otherwise tear-jerking movie. Stellar acting by Vincent Ward, Robin Williams, and Cuba Gooding, Jr. is anything but.

"What Dreams May Come" stars Robin Williams as a man searching for his wife in the afterlife.

The film does not solely focus on the power of the male-female and husband-wife relationships. It also examines theories on the power of love and its multiple capacities for human motivation and relationships on a greater scale.

Tired cliches, such as, "never give up" are used not only to express determination, but also to add to the disquieting dream quality of the movie as a whole. These blunt statements of the overall theme, strategically placed to capture attention, are seemingly random.

The only theme which stays present from start to finish, and ties the movie together into one coherent film is the role of relationships in human life. This does not grasp hold of the emotions, it at least provides food for thought.

If nothing else, Robin Williams delivers another passionate performance. He portrays Chris, an ordinary man on an extraordinary mission, as no other actor could. Without being overly dramatic, he is able to express intense feelings and powerful determination.

Cuba Gooding, Jr. in his role as the spiritual guidance counselor, adds tidbits of humor to an otherwise tear-jerking movie. Stellar acting by Vincent Ward, Robin Williams, and Cuba Gooding, Jr. is anything but.

"What Dreams May Come" stars Robin Williams as a man searching for his wife in the afterlife.

The film does not solely focus on the power of the male-female and husband-wife relationships. It also examines theories on the power of love and its multiple capacities for human motivation and relationships on a greater scale.

Tired cliches, such as, "never give up" are used not only to express determination, but also to add to the disquieting dream quality of the movie as a whole. These blunt statements of the overall theme, strategically placed to capture attention, are seemingly random.

The only theme which stays present from start to finish, and ties the movie together into one coherent film is the role of relationships in human life. This does not grasp hold of the emotions, it at least provides food for thought.

If nothing else, Robin Williams delivers another passionate performance. He portrays Chris, an ordinary man on an extraordinary mission, as no other actor could. Without being overly dramatic, he is able to express intense feelings and powerful determination.

Cuba Gooding, Jr. in his role as the spiritual guidance counselor, adds tidbits of humor to an otherwise tear-jerking movie. Stellar acting by Vincent Ward, Robin Williams, and Cuba Gooding, Jr. is anything but.
Irish Out of Reach

By BILL HART
Assistant Sports Editor

The Observer/John Daily

They say that revenge is a dish best served cold. So perhaps it was fitting that the weather for Saturday’s football game between Notre Dame and Stanford, who beat the Irish last season, would be much cooler than in previous weekends.

But while the temperature dropped for most fans in the stadium, the members of the Irish football squad never showed it, using 21 first-quarter points to triumph over the Cardinal, 35-17.

"It was fun to be ahead early in the game," head coach Bob Davie said. "We were pretty consistent and we’re getting better."

The Irish gained momentum right on the opening possession, racing 65 yards on eight plays to draw first blood. The drive was capped by a 22-yard run into the end zone by quarterback Jarious Jackson, the longest of his career.

"I had great blocking from the receivers, the wingbacks and everyone," Jackson said about the play. "The hole was just wide open."

It was the first touchdown in the first quarter for the Irish this season, but, as it turned out, it would not be the last.

After the defense prevented the Cardinal from gaining a first down, Jackson and the offense found themselves once again with excellent field position. The team put it to good use, charging 60 yards in four plays to give the Irish their second TD of the game.

Moments later, Stanford quarterback Todd Husak was pressured by Deveron Harper into a fumble, which was recovered by Brad Williams at the Cardinal 1-yard line. Williams took two offensive plays for fullback Jamie Spencer to scamper in six yards for the score. "The hole was just wide open."

It wasn't until the fourth quarter that the Stanford offense finally came alive. An interception by safety Aaron Forcht gave the Cardinal the ball on the 30-yard line, close to their best field position of the day. Losses of three minutes later, the visitors had their first touchdown of the game, with Stanford punter Kevin Miller hitting a 42-yard punt to push the lead to 13-10.

"We had to let Stanford know they were in the game," Davie said, "especially when you have a lead like that," defensive coordinator Greg Mattison said.

"It makes it a lot easier to call defenses when you have a lead like that," defensive coordinator Greg Mattison said about the first quarter. "Our offense was doing a great job, and I think it’s going to continue to get better. We just need to do our part." Even in less than perfect situations the Irish offense found a way to score. After falling to reach a first down in their first possession of the second half, Stanford punter Kevin Miller hit a 42-yard punt that was downed on the Notre Dame 1-yard line. Still, Jackson patiently led the Irish down the field in a 99-yard, 13-play touchdown drive that ate up seven minutes of the clock and pushed the lead to 20-10.

The Irish "red zone" offense remained perfect, scoring touchdowns on all four possessions inside the Stanford 20. Notre Dame has scored all 18 times it has been in the "red zone," scoring 13 touchdowns and five field goals.

Irish vs. Cardinal ... Parked by the Irish Defense...

Jarious Jackson racked up over 260 yards of offense and was simply too much for the Cardinal.

Senior tailback Autry Denson and the Irish avenged last year’s loss to the Stanford Cardinal with a 35-17 thrashing.

It was just the start of an impressive game of the season, with seven receptions for 113 yards and a touchdown. In a second-quarter drive, Johnson caught a pass for a nine-yard gain while sitting on the ground. "Jarious said he waited for me and he put it on my numbers," Johnson said about the play. "He knew I would come open." The connection between the two players prompted some to question whether

see REVENGE/ page 3

PLAY OF THE GAME

Jarious Jackson racked up over 260 yards of offense and was simply too much for the Cardinal.

QUOTE OF THE GAME

"We had to let Stanford know they were in our house." - Defensive coordinator Greg Mattison

STAT OF THE GAME

The Irish "red zone" defense remained perfect, scoring touchdowns on all four possessions inside the Stanford 20. Notre Dame has scored all 18 times it has been in the "red zone," scoring 13 touchdowns and five field goals.
Jackson shakes things up for offense

By BRIAN KESSLER

On Saturday, Irish quarterback Jarious Jackson proved that he has more in common with Elvis Presley than just sharing the same hometown of Tupelo, Mississippi. Jackson demonstrated that just like Elvis, he too can be king. Jackson was king of the field as he rushed for 100 yards and threw for 163 more in Notre Dame's 35-17 win over Stanford.

"I came pretty much focused," Jackson said. "Coach Sanford talked to me about how we need to turn around as an offensive unit this weekend. We focused on that all week. We wanted to get the offense going.

"I thought I did all of that and more as he jumpedstarted an Irish offense that put up 21 first-quarter points and opened the third quarter with a 99-yard drive.

"I think I played pretty good," Jackson said. "I'm happy with my performance because we won. I could care less about stats as long as we win."

The stats were too impressive to overlook, however. Jackson clearly played the best game of his short career and is already being compared to great BC teams' running quarterbacks like Tony Rice.

"I've seen what those guys have done and it hasn't really dawned on me yet," Jackson said. "But I want to prove to everyone that I am just as good."

Jackson was the first Notre Dame quarterback to run for 100 yards since Rice achieved the same feat against Duke on Nov. 18, 1989.

Jackson carried the ball 18 times for 100 yards and three touchdowns. He also showed the ability to break tackles and elude defenders.

Early in the first quarter, the senior quarterback hurdled a Stanford defender before sprinting for a career-high, 22-yard run for an Irish touchdown.

Later in the quarter, he flashed his athleticism by keeping his balance as he turned and then reversing the field for a 21-yard gain when it looked like he would only be able to gain a couple of yards. He also added touchdown runs of five and seven yards.

Jackson was all over the field, diving for the extra yard and taking on tacklers.

"I give everything I got on every play," Jackson said. "You can call me kamikaze, but I try to make something happen on every play."

Everyone knew Jackson could run the ball, but on Saturday, Jackson demonstrated that he can be a passing threat as well.

In his first three games, Jackson made some good throws, but was mostly erratic. He's getting everyone on the field.

"We notice Jarious from the second he steps in the locker room, where he's getting all the offensive linemen together, all the backs together, and he's getting everyone on the same page," tri-captain Mike Rosenthal said. "When Jarious plays with confidence we play with confidence. He's our leader on the field. We know he's going to go out and make plays."

Starkweather showed why he could improve to be. He's steady, he's even keeled, he's a leader by example," Davie said. "I'm pleased with his progress."

"I'm doing more talking, getting up there in rank with Rosenthal, but I'm not the only one that carries this team," Jackson said. "We work together as one unit."

As the man behind center, his biggest challenge will come next weekend when he leads the Irish down to Tempe, Arizona, to take on the Sun Devils.

"I think the next step for him is to go into that hostile environment with the crowd noise, with the problems with the snap count, with the problems with the communication and do it on the road," Davie said. "A win in Arizona would be great at this point for our team," Jackson said. "We want to keep winning. We're definitely going to focus even harder on the road."

Jackson is definitely hoping to get a big win as king can last at least one more weekend.

SCORING SUMMARY

1st Quarter
ND - Jackson 22-yard run (Sanson kick) 0-7
ND - Jackson 18-100, Denson 20-88, Spencer 10-80, Fisher 2-15
ST - Wire 19-76, Fasani 2-6, Lacey 2-4, Stevenson 1-2
2nd Quarter
ND - Jackson 22-yard run (Sanson kick) 7-7
ND - Jackson 18-100, Denson 20-88, Spencer 10-80, Fisher 2-15
ST - Miller 25-yard field goal 0-10
3rd Quarter
ND - Jackson 7-yard run (Sanson kick) 7-10
ND - Jackson 5-yard pass from Husak (Husak pass failed) 7-10
4th Quarter
ST - Stewart 5-yard pass from Husak (Husak pass failed) 7-10
ST - Fasani 1-yard run (Davis pass) 7-17

STATISTICALLY SPEAKING

Scoring 1st 2nd 3rd 4th
Notre Dame 21 7 7 0
Stanford 3 0 0 14
Team Statistics ND ST
First Downs 25 20
Rushed Yards 309 63
Passing-Yards 163 284
Sacks-Yards lost 2-19 1-6
Passes 15-11-1 50-29-0
Punts 3-82 4-159
Fumbles-Lost 1-1 2-2
Penalties-Yards 7-51 7-49
Time of Possession 32:06 27:54
Individual Statistics
Rushing ND - Jackson 18-100, Denson 20-88, Spencer 10-80, Fisher 2-15
ST - Wire 19-76, Fasani 2-6, Lacey 2-4, Stevenson 1-2
Passing ND - Jackson 15-11-1-163
ST - Husak 41-25-0-226, Fasani 8-4-0-58
Receiving ND - M. Johnson 7-113, O'Leary 1-16, J. Johnson 1-16, Holloway 1-9
ST - Pitts 8-112, Davis 7-78, Wire 7-29, Allen 4-41

GRADING THE IRISH

Quarterback: A
Jackson showed why he has drawn so many comparisons to Rice. The only difference was that Rice was a running back with an option. Occasionally and Jackson looked like a tailback who could also pass. He'll be the next step from the Purdue cupboard and run the offense to near perfection.

Running backs: B+
After watching Irish game tapes Sanford figured it was just the Amy Denison show, but fullback Jamie Spencer's rumbling will give future opponents something to think about.

Receivers: B+
Malcolm Johnson caught everything thrown to him even when he was on his back, exploiting the worst pass defense in the land. The fact that no other receiver had more than one catch confirmed.

Defensive Line: B-
Solid but not spectacular effort. Randle's center steps and Swenson's trenches. Weaver looks like he'll be a player and Bryant was a more active.

Linebackers: B
Minor looked more like himself although he still isn't 100 percent. Howard racked up 11 tackles including one for a loss.

Defensive Backs: B
Giving up 284 yards in the air isn't all that great but the Irish defense closed out the first nine yards a completion. Driver's eight tackles shows he's developing a knack for being around the ball. Williams appears to be turning into a darn good corner.

Special teams: C
Hunter the Punter had a rough day averaging just 27.3 yards a kick and knocking one in the punting box from the 35. But he'll be fine. Scoring five touchdowns gave the kickoff coverage a lot of work and it looks like the Irish need it.

Coaching: B-
Davie had the squad ready to go and they took care of business in a struggling football team. Colletto had one of his best games days among the Notre Dame press box letting Jarious be Jarious and picking opportune times to pass.

Overall: 3.1
Good performance against a subpar team. There is room to improve and the staff and team knows this better than any of us. Next week will be one of the most pivotal of the season.
Fans' spirit provides proof of right remedy for Irish

By JOEY CATAVO
Assistant Sports Editor

After the first weekend in October last season, the Notre Dame football team endured the longest airline flight of their lives — even though a great deal of them made the trip to Ireland several years ago to play Navy.

The team hit rock bottom after the Stanford Cardinal crushed the Irish, 33-15, giving them their fourth consecutive loss. But this weekend it was their loyal sons dishing out the grief.

"Anytime you lose it crushes you and it hurts," Stanford head coach Tyrone Willingham said after his team's 35-17 victory over the Irish Saturday. "I think this [Irish] players are down behind the scoreboard itself. Evidence came in half as they deal with the anxiety of their season..."

Opposing team a double-digit opponent.

"That guy just runs great routes. It was really nice to see us just go out there and play football," Davie said. "It certainly sounds like Davie has that cliché embedded in his players' minds.

"We'll find out next Saturday in Tempe if it will be put into action.

"Fans' spirit provides proof of right remedy for Irish...

Davie and his staff are trying to instill into the team that the the next game is the biggest game."

"Every ball game we play is a big game," Davie said. "This one was the biggest one because it was today. Now ASU is the biggest game.

"I'm looking at it as it's one game season every week," tri-captain Mike Bowers said. "We want to go 1-0 every week.  We need to play a good game on the road.  Right now Arizona State is the big game because it's our next game, "

"I'd love to be 4-0, but I realize we could be 2-2. I'll probably get in trouble for saying it but 3-1, we'll take it."

Bob Davie:

"It's all about attitude. Coach Davie said 'why can't we be like other teams, like Florida? Why can't we come out and shut somebody down from the start?' We came out to play and that's all it was."

Defensive coordinator Greg Mattison:

"I tried to refresh their memories. I felt to walk off that field last year at Stanford. We had to let Stanford know they were in our house."

Offensive coordinator Jim Collett:

"You can't have the ball much closer than your own goal line but to drive it to that far, that's a great accomplishment. Those kids have gone 99 and two-thirds yard one game and 80 yards to win last week. So there's the courage and the heart in there and we just have to keep getting better with execution."

Linebacker Kory Minor:

"It was really nice to see us just go out there and play football and explode on a team like we did. We're capable of playing great football when we want to. I think this game really showed that if we can be consistent and do that all year, we'll be fine."

Jackson's three touchdowns were the must by an Irish running back since Paul Hornung had three in 1956.

Notre Dame's 21 first quarter points are the most since the Irish scored 21 against Rutgers in 1996.

The Irish offense remained perfect in the "red zone" with four more successful attempts on Saturday. Notre Dame has scored 13 of 13 red zone field goals in it's 18 trips inside the opponent's 20-yard line.

Notre Dame has not had three players rush for at least 80 yards since the 1995 Air Force game when Randy Kinder (121), Denise (110) and Marc Edwards (84), Jackson (100), Denson (88) and Spencer (80) accomplished that feat.
Notre Dame
35
Stanford
17
Notre Dame Stadium
October 3, 1998

Photos by John Daily, Meg Kroener and Jeff Hsu
"King Kong"

Director: Ernest Schoedsack and Merian Cooper
Starring: Robert Armstrong, Fay Wray, Bruce Cabot, Victor Wong and Frank Reicher

By CHRISTIAN A. PIERCE
Scene Movie Critic

What little-kid has not called their parents into their room at least once to check and see if any monsters are under the bed?

Visions of monsters occupy the imagination of us all at one time or another, and some opt to share these visions with the world. These pulp fiction authors have filled libraries and film archives with their dreams, but only a few creatures are remembered throughout the ages. One such monster is King Kong, who was popularized in a film by the same name in 1933.

Due to the superb filmmaking by directors Merian Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack, "King Kong" has become an icon of the monster film genre. In fact, this piece was recently cited as one of the 100 most influential films of all time by The American Film Institute (AFI). Many may doubt the credibility of AFI after seeing that "King Kong" made the cut, but this film deserves the accolades, if not for any other reason, for its technical achievements.

Most critics would argue that a focus on special effects detracts from quality filmmaking. "King Kong" seems an exception, as these film pioneers made innovations which would forever change special effects. The directors and technicians heightened the quality of special effects, using a mixture of camera tricks and newly designed technology in constructing the fictional Kong. The use of stop-motion photography is unparalleled for 1933. By today's standard of computer generated imaging, the effects in "King Kong" appear comical. For 1933, this film was considered cutting edge.

The film unfolds in its dramatic conclusion. Explorer Carl Denham (Robert Armstrong) is a filmmaker planning a top secret expedition. He plans to journey with a large ship and crew to a far-off island where a horrific creature is rumored to live. Denham hopes to film the beast in relation to a lovely actress named Ann Darrow (Fay Wray). The expedition locates the island and the creature, but plans go awry.

The beast falls in love with the beauty, but due to social limitations can not have the fair maiden. King Kong then captures Miss Darrow and takes her to his lair. The crew pursues the beast, but Kong retaliates in brutal fashion. One man from the rescue party, John Driscoll, (Bruce Cabot) who loves Miss Darrow, survives the wrath of Kong and leads the audience in safety. The film does not end with the heroic rescue, however, as Denham still wants to capture Kong.

The remaining crew members succeed and bring Kong back to New York City, a popular city for monsters and some opt to share these visions with the world. These pulp fiction authors have filled libraries and film archives with their dreams, but only a few creatures are remembered throughout the ages. One such monster is King Kong, who was popularized in a film by the same name in 1933.

Due to the age of the piece certain representations of ethnic groups and women may offend some viewers. Simply remember that this film arises from a different era and the viewer will discover how drastically opinions have changed. But, the mastery of Cooper and Schoedsack still allows "King Kong" to rest at the peak of the monster film genre. Enjoy this film and respect the technical advances made by these film pioneers — their Kong is an immortal monster that can be feared by us and generations to come.

Upcoming Releases

At the theaters

Holy Man (Oct. 9)
Beloved (Oct. 16)
Practical Magic (Oct. 16)
Bride of Chucky (Oct. 16)

At the video store

Lost in Space (Oct. 6)
A Perfect Murder (Oct. 6)
The X-Files (Oct. 13)
Hope Floats (Oct. 20)

Source: Hollywood.com

Top Ten

Weekend at the Box Office

Movie Title/(Gross Sales)
1. Antz ($16.8 million)
2. What Dreams May Come ($16.1 million)
3. Rush Hour ($15.0 million)
4. A Night at the Roxbury ($10.0 million)
5. Ronin ($7.2 million)
6. Urban Legend ($7.9 million)
7. There's Something About Mary ($3.6 million)
8. One True Thing ($2.7 million)
9. Saving Private Ryan ($1.7 million)
10. Simon Birch ($1.5 million)

Source: AP Online

Last Week's Video Rentals

Video Title
1. City of Angels
2. Titanic
3. The Wedding Singer
4. Jackie Brown
5. The Big Lebowski
6. Good Will Hunting
7. Primary Colors
8. Wild Things
9. U.S. Marshals
10. The Apostle

Source: Billboard Online

Last Week's Video Sales

Video Title
1. Titanic
2. Lady and the Tramp
3. Pocahontas II: Journey To A New World
4. Austin Powers
5. The Exorcist — 25th Anniversary Special Edition
6. Playboy's Playmates Revisited
7. Spice World
8. Spawn
9. Jerry Springer — Too Hot For TV!
10. Boogie Nights

Source: Billboard Online
Leyritz's homer lifts Padres
Associated Press

SAN DIEGO Reggie Jackson was Mr. October. Jim Leyritz is becoming Mr. October Jr.

Leyritz, a member of the New York Yankees' World Series hero from 1996, hit another clutch playoff home run Saturday night, this one a tiebreaking shot in the sixth inning of the Yankees-Angels playoff game at Anaheim.

For Game 4, San Diego started a lefty, a strategy San Diego manager Tony La Russa said he wanted to see if Leyritz, who homered for the third straight game, was at his best.

Leyritz's biggest postseason home run came in the 1996 World Series when he smashed a dramatic three-run, eighth-inning shot against John Smoltz. Leyritz homered against the New York Yankees for the third straight inning, giving him six home runs in only 34 postseason at-bats.

Leyritz, whose stance is described by Tony Gwynn as "funky," has six home runs among his 10 postseason hits in the last four seasons.

"I've always said that I get paid for April and October," Leyritz said Saturday night. "I don't play a whole lot in between. That's the time of year I like to play. I really enjoy those times, enjoy that press and the attention. If you do well, you get the benefits.

Leyritz's shot to left off Scott Erickson in Saturday's sixth inning was the first since July 27 and began a three-run inning after Ken Caminiti and Greg Gagne homered earlier in the game.

An inning earlier, Leyritz hit his first of three Yankees homers in the fifth inning inning of the victory over Baltimore that clinched the AL pennant in 1996.

On Thursday in Houston, he had a pinch-hit, two-run homer off Billy Wagner with two outs in the ninth inning that stayed just barely to tie the game at 4-4. The Padres came back to win 5-4 in the bottom of the inning.

"No matter what my dad does I will do well," Leyritz said. "I'm really happy that we've won.

Leyritz was acquired in a trade with Boston on June 21. Leyritz said before joining the Padres he kept hitting home runs, "I've already, in postseason, been worth the million dollars we spent on him for this contract," general manager Kevin Towers said. "He's been worth every bit of that.

"I'll call him King forever because he's that type of player, towers said.

Gwynn chuckled when he saw Leyritz standing in his new stance. "His front leg is straight and his back leg is bent. I don't know how he gets it to work, but it's working," Gwynn said.

When Leyritz was with the Yankees, Don Mattingly nicknamed him "The King" after one home run.

"It's kind of a playful thing," Leyritz said. "I really don't like it at all. She says, 'You're not the King until you've got a ring on the back of your jersey.'"

Winning the World Series would be a fitting end to Leyritz's career. Leyritz, who ended his career with the Yankees, is likely to become a free agent this winter.

One Night Radio Auction Proceeds benefit the Catherine Peachey Foundation, Inc. for Breast Cancer Research. For more information, call Re/Max at 1-619-580-1600.

Proceeds benefit the Catherine Peachey Foundation, Inc. for Breast Cancer Research. For more information, call Re/Max at 1-619-580-1600.

For Game 4, the Yankees led 4-4 but Leyritz homered for the third straight inning, giving him six home runs among his 10 postseason hits in the last four seasons.

"I've always said that I get paid for April and October," Leyritz said Saturday night. "I don't play a whole lot in between. That's the time of year I like to play. I really enjoy those times, enjoy that press and the attention. If you do well, you get the benefits.

Leyritz's shot to left off Scott Erickson in Saturday's sixth inning was the first since July 27 and began a three-run inning after Ken Caminiti and Greg Gagne homered earlier in the game.

An inning earlier, Leyritz hit his first of three Yankees homers in the fifth inning inning of the victory over Baltimore that clinched the AL pennant in 1996.

On Thursday in Houston, he had a pinch-hit, two-run homer off Billy Wagner with two outs in the ninth inning that stayed just barely to tie the game at 4-4. The Padres came back to win 5-4 in the bottom of the inning.

"No matter what my dad does I will do well," Leyritz said. "I'm really happy that we've won.

Leyritz was acquired in a trade with Boston on June 21. Leyritz said before joining the Padres he kept hitting home runs, "I've already, in postseason, been worth the million dollars we spent on him for this contract," general manager Kevin Towers said. "He's been worth every bit of that.

"I'll call him King forever because he's that type of player, towers said.

Gwynn chuckled when he saw Leyritz standing in his new stance. "His front leg is straight and his back leg is bent. I don't know how he gets it to work, but it's working," Gwynn said.

When Leyritz was with the Yankees, Don Mattingly nicknamed him "The King" after one home run.

"It's kind of a playful thing," Leyritz said. "I really don't like it at all. She says, 'You're not the King until you've got a ring on the back of your jersey.'"

Winning the World Series would be a fitting end to Leyritz's career. Leyritz, who ended his career with the Yankees, is likely to become a free agent this winter.

One Night Radio Auction Proceeds benefit the Catherine Peachey Foundation, Inc. for Breast Cancer Research. For more information, call Re/Max at 1-619-580-1600.

Proceeds benefit the Catherine Peachey Foundation, Inc. for Breast Cancer Research. For more information, call Re/Max at 1-619-580-1600.

For Game 4, the Yankees led 4-4 but Leyritz homered for the third straight inning, giving him six home runs among his 10 postseason hits in the last four seasons.

"I've always said that I get paid for April and October," Leyritz said Saturday night. "I don't play a whole lot in between. That's the time of year I like to play. I really enjoy those times, enjoy that press and the attention. If you do well, you get the benefits.

Leyritz's shot to left off Scott Erickson in Saturday's sixth inning was the first since July 27 and began a three-run inning after Ken Caminiti and Greg Gagne homered earlier in the game.

An inning earlier, Leyritz hit his first of three Yankees homers in the fifth inning inning of the victory over Baltimore that clinched the AL pennant in 1996.

On Thursday in Houston, he had a pinch-hit, two-run homer off Billy Wagner with two outs in the ninth inning that stayed just barely to tie the game at 4-4. The Padres came back to win 5-4 in the bottom of the inning.

"No matter what my dad does I will do well," Leyritz said. "I'm really happy that we've won.

Leyritz was acquired in a trade with Boston on June 21. Leyritz said before joining the Padres he kept hitting home runs, "I've already, in postseason, been worth the million dollars we spent on him for this contract," general manager Kevin Towers said. "He's been worth every bit of that.

"I'll call him King forever because he's that type of player, towers said.

Gwynn chuckled when he saw Leyritz standing in his new stance. "His front leg is straight and his back leg is bent. I don't know how he gets it to work, but it's working," Gwynn said.

When Leyritz was with the Yankees, Don Mattingly nicknamed him "The King" after one home run.

"It's kind of a playful thing," Leyritz said. "I really don't like it at all. She says, 'You're not the King until you've got a ring on the back of your jersey.'"

Winning the World Series would be a fitting end to Leyritz's career. Leyritz, who ended his career with the Yankees, is likely to become a free agent this winter.

One Night Radio Auction Proceeds benefit the Catherine Peachey Foundation, Inc. for Breast Cancer Research. For more information, call Re/Max at 1-619-580-1600.
Mistakes plague 49ers, Bills hold on for upset

Associated Press

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Steve Young and San Francisco's offense were finally contained — by the most unlikely opponent, the lowly Buffalo Bills.

Bob Johnson overshadowed his counterpart, completing 19 of 27 passes for 254 yards and one touchdown as the Bills built a big lead, then held on for a 26-21 victory Sunday over the suddenly mistake-prone 49ers.

San Francisco (3-1) entered the game ranked first in the NFL in rushing, passing and total offense but was held to just 56 yards passing and 105 total yards in the first half, when they turned the ball over three times.

The 49ers looked poised for a miraculous comeback in the fourth quarter, when they scored all their points. They recovered their onside kick after Young's 21-yard TD pass to J.J. Stokes pulled them within five points with 1:03 left.

But they were called for offsides — tying an NFL record with 22 in the game — and the Bills recovered the second onside attempt.

"Three turnovers in the first half and all those penalties," Young said. "That first-half is almost like you want to just go back out and call a do-over. Even the onside kick, one last gap to win it, we were offsides. It just wasn't meant to be."

The Bills entered the contest with just one victory in their last 10 games, worst in the league over that span, but they dominated the 49ers from the beginning.

"Everyone counted us out from the start," Bruce Smith said. "There were many doubters and that's all right. In life you're going to have people that don't respect you. But San Francisco is a good football team, a great football team. They're the best offensive team in the league right now."

The Bills (1-3) wasted no time in taking advantage of San Francisco's secondary, which was without Marquez Pope. They came out picking on cornerbacks Darnell Walker and Antonio Langham, who struggled against Buffalo's passing attack even though it was missing its top receiver, Andre Reed.

Johnson found Eric Moulds for a 50-yard reception on the game's first play and Buffalo took a 3-0 lead on Steve Christie's 24-yard field goal 2:30 into the game.

Johnson had 164 yards passing in the first half, 87 of them to Reed's replacement, Kevin Williams. Garrison Hearst's fumble late in the first quarter gave Buffalo the ball on the 49ers' 30-yard line and Antonio Smith's 6-yard scoring run made it 10-0.

Another San Francisco miscue, a fumble by kickoff returner R.W. McQuarters, put the Bills in San Francisco territory again. Johnson took advantage by tossing a 5-yard touchdown to Quinn Early for a 17-0 lead.

After getting down to the 49ers' 1-yard line on their final possession of the first half, the Bills had to settle for Christie's 19-yard field goal with three seconds left for a 20-0 halftime lead.

San Francisco had 12 first-half penalties and tied the NFL record with 22 penalties for 178 yards. Brooklyn and the Chicago Bears had 22 penalties in separate games in 1944.

"It's unbelievable to have that many penalties in a game," said Buffalo coach Wade Phillips, who got his first win as the Bills head coach. "I thought our guys played tremendous and our defense was all over the field making plays."
The Observer • SPORTS

ND/SMC RIGHT TO LIFE PRESENTS:
RESPECT LIFE WEEK
LITANY OF THE SAINTS/
PRAYER SERVICE
MONDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1998
10:00 PM.
STONEHENGE
PLEASE JOIN US!!!!!!

Volleyball continued from page 24

The two teams began the match very evenly, getting off to a 5-5 start in game one. The Irish capitalized on several errors by the Scarlet Knights to win game one 15-7. Notre Dame controlled game two from start to finish, only allowing Rutgers to score one point. The balanced attack of the Irish kept the Scarlet Knights from becoming a threat. Rutgers came out on fire in game three. Treadwell's serving helped engineer a Notre Dame comeback, but Rutgers eventually won out. They defeated Notre Dame 17-15 to win the match.

Notre Dame began its first dual match season hoping for the best against the best. The Irish optimism against Stanford, the NCAA defending national champions, was obliterated Friday with a 5-2 loss. Under that type of pressure, some responded pretty well to that," said head coach Bobby Bayliss.

The men's tennis team lost the edge early in doubles, giving up the first point of the match before dropping four of six singles matches. In two of the three doubles matches, Notre Dame fell short by the score of 8-6.

Part of the problem in doubles can be attributed to inexperience in pairs, Bayliss said. Senior Brian Patterson and junior Ryan Sachire fell in their first pairing as did first time partners Matt Daly and freshman Casey Smith. The one Irish win in doubles came at No. 3, where senior Andy Warford and freshman Aaron Talarico combined for a tight 9-8 win.

The loss "was a combination of a lot of things," Bayliss said. "The level of competition was really high. The real moment of truth comes when a team can jump back in." The No. 1 spot "has not been pressed enough in practice," he said.

Ironically, the top singles player for Stanford suffered the worse loss. Sachire, ranked eighth nationally, decisively defeated Stanford's Ryan Wolters, the sixth-ranked player in the nation.

In two straight sets, all-American Sachire pummeled Wolters 6-2, 6-1. "Ryan was very overpowering," Bayliss said. "It was the best case scenario for him — indoors, on home court, in front of a packed crowd. He knew he was capable of beating Wolters." Sophomore Matt Daly also saw his first win of the season, defeating Scotty Scott 5-7, 5-4 (before the match was retired) at the No. 5 spot.

Co-captains Patterson and Warford faltered at No. 2 and 3, each losing in two sets. The Cardinal clinched a key win off of Patterson's hesitation at No. 2. "Opportunities arose, but he was a little reluctant to pull the trigger," Bayliss said.

Warford was so dominated by Alex Kim's forehand that he wound up spraying both sides of the court.

The Irish also saw three-set losses from rookies Casey Smith at No. 4 and Andrew Laflin at No. 6. Notre Dame, however, knew the match would be one of the season's toughest. Even with an 0-1 start the Irish are not disappointed.

"We know where the bar is," Bayliss said. "and now we've just got to meet it."

The Irish will be back in action tomorrow at Illinois State.
Wall Street Forum

Your opportunity to learn more about:

- Merrill Lynch
- Morgan Stanley Dean Witter & Co.
- Bank of America
- Salomon Smith Barney
- Cigna
- BT Alex Brown
- Goldman Sachs
- Robert W. Baird
- Summit Partners Venture Capital
- Credit Suisse First Boston

Wednesday, October 7th, 1998
College of Business Administration
Jordan Auditorium
3:00-10:00 pm

All Students Welcome!

Today is the last day to submit your resume (COBA 102) to be included in the resume book given to all firms attending the forum

For more information call:
Professor John Affleck-Graves at 631-6370
On Friday, the driving rain didn't prevent the Irish from pouring it on. Notre Dame scored early and often, as five different Irish players scored.

The Irish put four goals on the scoreboard before the 20-minute mark. Gerardo scored the game winner at 9:43, although the goal was mistakenly credited to Erikson.

Butler goalkeeper E.B. Larson was unable to gain control of the ball and Gerardo put the loose ball into the left corner from 15 yards out. Following the goal, the team celebrated in fashion, running toward the stands and sliding on the wet field.

"It was definitely time for us to have fun out there," Erikson said. "We're trying to make each goal special."

Streiffer struck next at 13:59, when she launched a shot into the upper middle part of the net after Butler failed to clear an Irish corner kick. The Irish continued their efficiency on corner kicks when Erikson headed in a Jen Grubb corner kick at 16:25.

"This was a good weekend for me," Erikson said. "I started to turn around my play and have more fun out there."

Boxx got in the mix with her third goal of the season when she scored from the top of the box off a Streiffer pass.

Ileft closed out the scoring at 59:55 when she tapped in a ball that Gerardo headed off the right post.

The defense was steady, allowing just six shots on the evening.

"We played great in the back," Petrucelli said. "It gives me confidence for the rest of the year to know that it's tough to score goals on us."

With the two victories, the Irish now stand 10-1 on the season and 5-0 in conference play.

"We gained some confidence in these games and it feels good," Petrucelli said. "I think we need that."

"We have tough games every weekend," Erikson said. "Being challenged is what's going to pull this team together."

The Observer/Bret Hogan

WOMEN'S SOCCER SCHEDULE

OCT. 9 AT BOSTON COLLEGE
OCT. 11 AT PROVIDENCE
OCT. 16 AT CONNECTICUT
OCT. 18 AT SETON HALL
OCT. 23 AT MICHIGAN
OCT. 25 AT ST. JOHN'S
OCT. 30 VS. WISCONSIN
NOV. 1 VS. SYRACUSE

AUDITIONS

ND Opera
Thurs, Oct 8 3:30-6:00 pm
Annenberg Auditorium
Please bring one aria or song (from memory) and music for the pianist. An accompanist will be provided.

Roles open for Soloists and Chorus for Spring Semester ND Opera Production.

Sign-up sheet posted in 105 Crowley.
Call 631-6201 for more information.

AUDITIONS

COMPUTER ENGINEERING • COMPUTER SCIENCE • PHYSICS • CHEMICAL ENGINEERING • MATH • ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING • MECHANICAL ENGINEERING • BUSINESS ANALYSIS

Internet: www.rayjobs.com • E-mail: resume@rayjobs.com
U.S. citizenship may be required. We are an equal opportunity employer.

Raytheon has formed a new technological superpower—Raytheon Systems Company, composed of four major technological giants: Raytheon Electronic Systems, Raytheon E-Systems, Raytheon Tl Systems and Hughes Aircraft. The new Raytheon Systems Company is driving technology to the limit. And we're looking for engineers who want to push the envelope. Break new ground. Make their mark.

At Raytheon, you'll take technology—and your career—to the highest possible level. You'll take it to the Nth. We'll be visiting your campus soon. Contact your career placement office now to schedule an interview, or check out our website at www.rayjobs.com. If you are unable to meet with us, please send your resume to: Raytheon Resume Processing Center, PO Box 660246, MS-201, Dallas, TX 75266.

We have many exciting opportunities available and we would like to talk to you.

COMPUTER SCIENCE • PHYSICS • CHEMICAL ENGINEERING • MATH • ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING • MECHANICAL ENGINEERING • BUSINESS ANALYSIS

TAKE TECHNOLOGY TO THE NTH POWER.

When something is too extreme for words, it's to the Nth degree. And that's the level of technology you'll experience at Raytheon.

Raytheon has formed a new technological superpower—Raytheon Systems Company, composed of four major technological giants: Raytheon Electronic Systems, Raytheon E-Systems, Raytheon Tl Systems and Hughes Aircraft. The new Raytheon Systems Company is driving technology to the limit. And we're looking for engineers who want to push the envelope. Break new ground. Make their mark.

At Raytheon, you'll take technology—and your career—to the highest possible level. You'll take it to the Nth. We'll be visiting your campus soon. Contact your career placement office now to schedule an interview, or check out our website at www.rayjobs.com. If you are unable to meet with us, please send your resume to: Raytheon Resume Processing Center, PO Box 660246, MS-201, Dallas, TX 75266.

We have many exciting opportunities available and we would like to talk to you.

Raytheon

Internet: www.rayjobs.com • E-mail: resume@rayjobs.com
U.S. citizenship may be required. We are an equal opportunity employer.

Raytheon Systems Company, composed of four major technological giants: Raytheon Electronic Systems, Raytheon E-Systems, Raytheon Tl Systems and Hughes Aircraft. The new Raytheon Systems Company is driving technology to the limit. And we're looking for engineers who want to push the envelope. Break new ground. Make their mark.

At Raytheon, you'll take technology—and your career—to the highest possible level. You'll take it to the Nth. We'll be visiting your campus soon. Contact your career placement office now to schedule an interview, or check out our website at www.rayjobs.com. If you are unable to meet with us, please send your resume to: Raytheon Resume Processing Center, PO Box 660246, MS-201, Dallas, TX 75266.

We have many exciting opportunities available and we would like to talk to you.
Our students support these local United Way agencies; shouldn't we?

You know the reputation our students have for investing their time and talents in community service — and that reputation is well deserved. By graduation, more than 75 percent of our students have been involved in social service, many of them with the local United Way-supported agencies listed here.

Those of us — Notre Dame faculty and staff — who make our permanent homes here can invest in our community too. We will have the opportunity to do just that in a few days when the 1998 Notre Dame United Way Campaign kicks off. Shouldn't we demonstrate the same kind of support for these agencies that our students do during their brief stays here?

It's so easy, really. All we need do is decide what we can afford to give — however much that is — then list that amount on our United Way pledge cards and return them.

Consider the impact: The agencies listed here provide emergency food, clothing and living assistance to people in crisis; day care, tutoring, and role models to children and young people; shelter to the abused; health care and support services to the disabled, the elderly and the ill; treatment, education and hope to the addicted; counseling and care to struggling families.

In overwhelming numbers, our students embrace these efforts, enriching these programs with their time and talents — and enriching themselves in the process of giving.

Can we do less?

Join our students on the United Way/Notre Dame team and pledge your support.

Watch for kick-off information here and in your campus mail.
Managing to block a shot in the third period, Cotnoir and Tyson Fraser each especially throughout the game, gave strength to the team's advantage in the face-offs were about even for the game, the Irish controlled the game, high-lighted by Dame's fourth line. The group, when the Badgers were on the power play, when the tide of Wisconsin, in particular the zone. Clark's play helped Dame's second line, along with wingers Joe Dusbabek and Dan Carlson, while also seeing action on both Irish power plays. Irish sophomore Ryan Dolder scored the first goal of the game, sparkling the beginning of Dame's second line, along with junior S. ean Borega, who sat out with a minor knee injury. Cornelius, the absence of junior Nathan Molina, played a steady game in his own end, staying home and crisp passes. For the Irish was the play of the young players: "It has to be tough playing your first game - exactly what a fourth line is usually called to do. Another positive in the game for the Irish was the play of the Irish was the play of three freshmen, each in their first collegiate game. Defenseman Sam Cornelius saw significant playing time in the absence of junior Nathan Borega, who sat out with a minor knee injury. Cornelius, paired with junior Sean Molina, played a steady game in his own end, staying home and crisp passes. David Inman entered Dame's second line, along with wingers Joe Dusbabek and Dan Carlson, while also seeing action on both Irish power plays. Brian Urick described Inman's play: "Dave is more of a finesse player with a good shot. He also did a great job on the power play." All in all, Urick was impressed with the poise of the young players: "He has to be tough playing your first game in front of a crowd like that against a top-10 team like Wisconsin. But they (the freshmen) weren't intimidated at all, confident, in fact." Fighting off intermittent rain and temperatures hovering in the mid-60s, the Saint Mary's golfers worked their way to a fifth place MIAA conference finish at Olivet College Saturday. Albion College won the match with a team score of 347. The result ranks the Belles fifth in the conference with three matches to go in their inaugural season. The Belles finished with a team score of 417, led by freshman Mary Clare Hathaway. Hathaway turned in the team's best round, shooting a 99. "I had to play with a more relaxed swing because of the cold weather," Hathaway said. "I couldn't kill the ball. The weather makes you think about how to play smart golf — you have to consider the decisions you make more carefully." Hathaway was the only SMC player to break the 100-stroke barrier Saturday, a goal that Pekarek has stressed throughout the season. "We've been struggling to keep our scores there and be consistent," said Pekarek. "In one match, though, three of our top four girls had scores under 100. "If we can keep our scores low, we can run as one of the top three teams (in the MIAA conference)." The Belles tee off against Kalamazoo College today at noon, beginning the first of three matches left in the season. For Pekarek and the team, a top-three conference finish is a goal that is attainable. "Our strategy is to focus in on our short game," said Pekarek. "If we can shave even a few strokes off our scores, we can get some of these girls under 100." One of the players Pekarek will look to is junior Melissa Nelson, who has shown improvement over the course of the season. "She's taken 20 strokes off her score this season," said Pekarek. "She's been shooting in the low 100s, and I think she can break 100 this season. She's someone who is going to be an important part of the team next year."

---

Hockey continued from page 24

Cotnoir and Tyson Fraser each managed to block a shot in the closing seconds, sealing the game for the Irish.

"In those last 57 seconds," Kerr said, "we never got it out, but they never got a good shot. It was a little nerve-racking but we managed to get through it."

The disciplined defensive play which kept Wisconsin at bay in the second half of the game was highlighted by Dame's dominance in the face-off circle. Although face-offs were about even for the game, the Irish controlled 13 of 17 face-offs in the third period, many of which were in their defensive zone.

Sophomore defenseman Ryan Clark used his size and strength to the team's advantage throughout the game, and especially in the third period. Clark took Wisconsin's offensive players out of the play deep in the offensive zone. Clark's play helped Dame stem the offensive tide of Wisconsin, in particular when the Badgers were on the power play.

Irish sophomore Ryan Dolder scored the first goal of the game, sparking the beginning of a good night for Dame's fourth line. The group, which included sophomore Chad Chipince, created numerous scoring chances through good forechecking and played a solid defensive game - exactly what a fourth line is usually called to do.

Another positive in the game for the Irish was the play of three freshmen, each in their first collegiate game. Defenseman Sam Cornelius saw significant playing time in the absence of junior Nathan Borega, who sat out with a minor knee injury. Cornelius, paired with junior Sean Molina, played a steady game in his own end, staying home and crisp passes.

David Inman entered Dame's second line, along with wingers Joe Dusbabek and Dan Carlson, while also seeing action on both Irish power plays. Brian Urick described Inman's play: "Dave is more of a finesse player with a good shot. He also did a great job on the power play." All in all, Urick was impressed with the poise of the young players: "He has to be tough playing your first game in front of a crowd like that against a top-10 team like Wisconsin. But they (the freshmen) weren't intimidated at all, confident, in fact."
Turtle Creek Apartments

Will start handing out our application and informational packets for the 1999-2000 school year starting MONDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1998, between the hours of 9am & 6pm, Monday thru Friday and 10am & 5pm on Saturdays. Applications must be picked up in person at the Turtle Creek leasing office only and cannot be mailed. Apartment availability is on a first come, first serve basis with the approved application sets. Thank you.
Associated Press

RANKINGS

Format:
1)Ohio State 4-0 1,768
2)Nebraska 5-0 1,687
3)UCLA 3-0 1,673
4)Tennessee 5-0 1,541
5)Kansas St. 4-0 1,519
6)Florida 4-1 1,326
7)Georgia 4-0 1,313
8)Florida St. 4-1 1,235
6)Florida 4-1 1,326
5)Kansas St. 4-0 1,519
4)Tennessee 4-0 1,541

Southern California's Fowler still No. 1, Michigan 8th at quarterback

Kevin Faulk’s 88 yards on 17 carries proved not to be enough as No. 12 Georgia narrowly upset No. 6 LSU 28-27 on Saturday.

The Bulldogs added another first quarter score on a 1-yard run by Olandis Gary and Ronnie Bradford had a 1-yard touchdown in the second quarter.

Herd Tyler was almost as accurate for LSU, completing 11 of 15 for 169 yards and two touchdowns in the first half, 16 of 26 for 205 yards overall.

LSU’s three first-half scores were a 20-yard run by Ronde Meade in the first quarter, a 5-yard pass to Kyle Kipp in the second and a catch by Reggie Robinson.

"Going into the game, I felt the team which played technically better would win," LSU coach Gerry DiNardo said. "I felt both sides would play hard, and that’s what happened. They just played better.

The Tigers tied it at 21 with 14 seconds left in the half when Larry Foster bolted a pass in the end zone, bumping it off Bailey and Robinson made a diving catch grabbing the ball just above the turf for the touchdown.

Each team punted only once in the first half. LSU scored on all but one drive in the half. Georgia on all but two — one of which was a 14-second drive at the end of the half.

Georgia obviously wanted to keep the ball away from Kevin Faulk, allowing LSU to start first-half drives on their 36, 34, 20 and 43-yard lines rather than kick to Faulk.

Faulk’s first return was a 36-yard run of the opening kick of the second half. He finished with 88 yards rushing on 17 carries. He had 50 yards on returns.

This is the second straight year Georgia has opened 4-0. It’s also the second straight year they beat the No. 1 team. Last year they defeated then-sixth-ranked Florida State 37-17.

SOUND Bite

"This was a game we wanted to keep the ball away from Kevin Faulk. We didn’t want them getting on the board, giving them touchdowns.

The Tigers tied it at 21 with 14 seconds left in the half when Larry Foster bolted a pass in the end zone, bumping it off Bailey and Robinson made a diving catch grabbing the ball just above the turf for the touchdown.

Each team punted only once in the first half. LSU scored on all but one drive in the half. Georgia on all but two — one of which was a 14-second drive at the end of the half.

Georgia obviously wanted to keep the ball away from Kevin Faulk, allowing LSU to start first-half drives on their 36, 34, 20 and 43-yard lines rather than kick to Faulk.

Faulk’s first return was a 36-yard run of the opening kick of the second half. He finished with 88 yards rushing on 17 carries. He had 50 yards on returns.

This is the second straight year Georgia has opened 4-0. It’s also the second straight year they beat the No. 1 team. Last year they defeated then-sixth-ranked Florida State 37-17.

For next up for ND

Fourth quarter drought forces Devil loss

Los Angeles

He fanny Oahite returned a blocked punt 14 yards for a touchdown early in the fourth quarter Saturday, putting No. 21 Southern California ahead for the first time since tying the score at 14-14 in the second quarter.

J.B. Redmond had a school-record 50-all-purpose yards and scored a touchdown on the Sun Devils (2-3, 1-2 Pac-10), who were outscored 22-0 in the final period.

Redmond scored on a 2-yard run with 5:03 to play in the third quarter, putting ASU ahead 24-13. Courtney Jackson intercepted a pass by Mike Van Raaphorst near the end of the previous series to give the Sun Devils the lead.

Redmond, a junior tailback, ran for 144 yards on 33 carries and surpassed the 200-mark in all-purpose yards for the first time this season.

He had 254 all-purpose yards and a touchdown in a season-opening loss to Washington that dropped the Huskies from their No. 8 preseason ranking.

The Trojans drew within three points on the first play of the fourth quarter when freshman quarterback Carson Palmer threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to K. Jay Howard and a 2-point conversion pass to Ted Incarnato.

Palmer, who replaced Van Raaphorst near the end of the third quarter, was 4-of-7 for 69 yards and a touchdown and was sacked three times.

Soward caught a 27-yard pass from Van Raaphorst in the opening minute of the third quarter to cut ASU’s lead to 17-13.

The Sun Devils lost starting quarterback Ryan Kealy 1 1/2 minutes into the game on a hit by USC’s Chris Claiborne. Kealy sustained a mild concussion and didn’t return.

Elliot, a redshirt freshman, stepped in and nearly threw an interception on his first pass. But he settled down, and completed a 4-yard touchdown pass to Kenny Mitchell with 11 seconds left before halftime, extending ASU’s lead to 17-7.

Elliot was 16-of-32 for 157 yards with one interception and was sacked six times.

Van Raaphorst, whose brother, Jeff, was MVP of the 1987 Rose Bowl for Arizona State, was 11-of-23 for 191 yards with one interception and two sacks.

He rushed for his first career touchdown — an 8-yarder that tied the game 7-7 in the second quarter, and returned to play the final minute of the game.

UP NEXT FOR ND

Fresno State tames Tigers

Baton Rouge, La.

If Quincy Carter gets better with experience, Georgia is in for a great start.

The freshman played an almost flawless game Saturday night, completing 27 of 34 for 318 yards and five touchdowns in Georgia’s 42-7 victory over 14th-ranked Louisiana State.

Carter stated the biggest game of his young career Saturday by leading Georgia (4-0, 2-0 Southeastern Conference) to touchdowns on its first three possessions and 436 total yards.

"His play made guys,” LSU nose guard Anthony McFarland said. "That’s his job. It’s my job to hit him and his job to make plays. He did his job better than I did mine.”

Georgia needed a big offensive game after its vaunted defense, which had given up just one touchdown and two field goals in the first three games, allowed LSU (3-4, 1-3) to score three first-half touchdowns.

The one thing we told our team at halftime was we couldn’t get down on our defense, our defense has been carrying us all season long," Georgia coach Jim Donnan said.

The Bulldogs went back ahead 24-13. Courtney Jackson intercepted a pass by Mike Van Raaphorst near the end of the previous series to give the Sun Devils the lead.

Redmond, a junior tailback, ran for 144 yards on 33 carries and surpassed the 200-mark in all-purpose yards for the first time this season.

He had 254 all-purpose yards and a touchdown in a season-opening loss to Washington that dropped the Huskies from their No. 8 preseason ranking. ASU fell out of the rankings the following week with a 26-6 loss to Brigham Young.

The Trojans drew within three points on the first play of the fourth quarter when freshman quarterback Carson Palmer threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to K. Jay Howard and a 2-point conversion pass to Ted Incarnato.

Palmer, who replaced Van Raaphorst near the end of the third quarter, was 4-of-7 for 69 yards and a touchdown and was sacked three times.

Soward caught a 27-yard pass from Van Raaphorst in the opening minute of the third quarter to cut ASU’s lead to 17-13.

The Sun Devils lost starting quarterback Ryan Kealy 1 1/2 minutes into the game on a hit by USC’s Chris Claiborne. Kealy sustained a mild concussion and didn’t return.

Elliot, a redshirt freshman, stepped in and nearly threw an interception on his first pass. But he settled down, and completed a 4-yard touchdown pass to Kenny Mitchell with 11 seconds left before halftime, extending ASU’s lead to 17-7.

Elliot was 16-of-32 for 157 yards with one interception and was sacked six times.

Van Raaphorst, whose brother, Jeff, was MVP of the 1987 Rose Bowl for Arizona State, was 11-of-23 for 191 yards with one interception and two sacks.

He rushed for his first career touchdown — an 8-yarder that tied the game 7-7 in the second quarter, and returned to play the final minute of the game.
Finally, after wandering over hill and dale, our pilgrims found a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma.
Irish play spoiler in Badger home opener

By TED BASSANI
Spokes Writer

Saturday marked the dedication of the Kohl Center, the new Wisconsin hockey facility, but the Notre Dame squad was more than happy to spoil the party. Starting right where they left off at the end of the 1997-98 campaign, the Notre Dame hockey team notched its first big road win of the season in against the Badgers.

An enormous crowd of 13,303 who shot Notre Dame 31-18, but fail to overcome a greater performance by the Irish goal-scorer Forrest Karr.

With a one-goal lead after one period of play, the Irish found themselves down a man for much of the opening minutes of the second period. As a result, Wisconsin controlled the offensive play, outshooting the Irish 12-0 to start the second period.

"When you start out killing a penalty, you tend to get defensive. They were playing in front of a big crowd, and managed to get some momentum," Karr said.

But Karr was up to the challenge, stopping 11 of the Badgers’ first 12 shots. During that early, second-period barrage, Wisconsin’s Dan Bjornie netted the equalizer some seven minutes into the period. Less than three minutes later however, Irish senior Aniket Bhadphale, who led the team in goals last season, backhanded in the game-winner on a rebound shot in front of the net.

The play from that point on consisted mainly of missed opportunities on both sides, perhaps due to both teams’ rustiness following the long off-season. However, the ice surface became a factor as well however.

"With a crowd of 13,000 or so, the place starts to get hot. When that happens, the ice surface softens up and gets slow and slushy, and as a result, the puck starts bouncing a little bit more," senior captain Brian Erickson said.

Despite the conditions, Wisconsin managed to put together an offensive attack in the final minutes of the third period. Most of the play was on the Notre Dame end, but the Irish were able to limit Wisconsin’s quality chances with some key defensive plays. The Badgers took a time out with 37.3 seconds remaining in the game to set up a furious last gasp assault. Unfortunately for the Badgers, Notre Dame defenders Benoit our.

NOTRE DAME HOCKEY SCHEDULE

OCT. 9 VS. LAKE SUPERIOR STATE
OCT. 10 VS. WESTERN MICHIGAN
OCT. 16 AT FERRIS STATE
OCT. 17 AT LAKE SUPERIOR STATE
OCT. 23 VS. OHIO STATE
OCT. 24 AT WESTERN MICHIGAN
NOV. 6 AT BOSTON COLLEGE
NOV. 7 AT NORTHWESTERN
NOV. 13 VS. BOWLING GREEN
NOV. 14 VS. MICHIGAN
NOV. 20 VS. WESTERN MICHIGAN

Kevin Faulk's 88 yards proved to be too little as Georgia upset LSU at Tiger Stadium.

Hockey vs. Lake Superior State
Friday, 7 p.m.

see HOCKEY / page 20

see VOLLEYBALL / page 16

Kevin Faulk's 88 yards proved to be too little as Georgia upset LSU at Tiger Stadium.

Hockey vs. Lake Superior State
Friday, 7 p.m.

see HOCKEY / page 20

see VOLLEYBALL / page 16