Profs offer ‘great books course’ to homeless

PLS pair take literature into South Bend

By KYLE ANDREWS

For eight weeks each semester, Center for the Homeless guests visit Notre Dame face-to-face with Homer, Plato and Shakespeare.

Their invitation comes from F. Clark Power and Stephen Fallon, two Notre Dame Program of Liberal Studies professors, who began a program in August through which participants earn University credit hours by attending a "great books" seminar.

"The people are really interesting and unique. There are as many different stories as people there," Power said. "There's an experience base that makes them different from Notre Dame students.

The group members' added life experiences contribute to many insightful comments that the average Notre Dame student would not be able to make, he explained.

All involved in the program want to emphasize that it is important to abandon stereotypes about the homeless.

"The program gives an opportunity to understand more about homelessness in the U.S. and how to address it," Power said.

Notre Dame students contribute to the program by providing child care and transportation.

"It's an incredible privilege to be able to participate in a program such as this," said PLS sophomore and volunteer Patricia Balhoff. "The students show a true zeal for learning."

The idea for the course came from an article written in Harper's Magazine by Earl Shorris, a University of Chicago great books program graduate. He saw the curriculum as a way to engage undergraduates in society, though some dubbed it an education for the elite.

But, Shorris said, "he thought education could empower a person, and therefore everyone should have the opportunity to study classic literature. He was encouraged to initiate a great books program for New York City's poor."

Power and Fallon decided that such an idea would be plausible in the South Bend area. They instituted the program with Lou Naam, director of the Center for the Homeless and a Notre Dame PLS graduate.

"The people are enjoying the experience of continuing their education. They're discovering that they enjoy learning. It helps them feel better about themselves and what they can do in the future," added Power.

The program began last semester with two eight-week seminars; currently, there is another seminar for students changes frequently are expected at the Center for the Homeless are constant in transition. Sturdy furniture was set for each free eight-week class.

By ANGELA WOGATZKE

Cushwa-Leighton lounge closes for renovations

By ANGELA WOGATZKE

Renovation of the after-hours study lounge in the basement of Saint Mary's Cushwa-Leighton Library began Monday.

The lounge may reopen by semester's end and feature new computers and a host of other improvements.

Since the project received a Board of Governance endorsement last year, added. printers will be connected to computers in the lounge, eliminating the need to wait for a printer in Leroy Cooper.

New furniture, end tables and lamps will create a more comfortable atmosphere for those in the lounge. The vending area will be located in the same place and will be updated to remain up-to-date with the rest of the changes.

"I think it represents a real commitment to the students of Saint Mary's," Cooper said.

The lounge renovation will continue throughout this semester, and although no date of completion has been announced, project leaders hope to open the facility by finals week.

The new furniture, which will house the Cushwa-Leighton lounge, was purchased for Saint Mary's students. The lounge's six computers and the lounge's vending machines will be updated to remain up-to-date with the rest of the changes.
The Observer • INSIDE

Wednesday, February 10, 1999

Students force negotiations regarding sweatshop conditions

WASHINGTON

Student activists signed an agreement with Student Affairs administrators shortly before 1 a.m. Tuesday ending an 85-hour sit-in by approximately 25 protestors in the office of Georgetown University President Leo O’Donovan, S.J. The details of the compromise will be announced at a rally scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday in Healy Circle.

The students had occupied O’Donovan’s office since 11:30 a.m. Friday in an effort to force the university to negotiate with them about issues related to working conditions in the factories that make collegiate apparel.

O’Donovan was out of town for the entire sit-in and is expected to return to campus Tuesday.

Several members of the Georgetown Solidarity Committee organized the sit-in and represented the students in negotiations with administration representatives, deans of students James Donahue, and senior associate dean of students Penny Rue.

The solidarity committee had been encouraged to seek a resolution to reject a controversial code of conduct released in November for apparel manufacturers.

The committee maintained that the code, the product of a task force created by representatives from 14 member schools of the Collegiate Licensing Company, did not and could not enough to counteract sweatshop labor practices. The licensing company acts as a go-between for clothing manufacturers and approximately 170 colleges and universities.

The Georgetown activists’ major concern this weekend was that the code did not require licensed companies to publicly disclose the locations of their factories. While the solidarity committee outlined several criticisms in a pamphlet distributed two weeks ago, disclosure became the students’ biggest concern and, they said, it was essential for achieving their other goals, which include improving wages and strictly enforcing compliance with the code.

“Anyone who has studied this issue will tell you disclosure is the most important thing that allows other things to happen,” Andrew Milmore (SFS ‘01), president of the solidarity committee said.

Gipper Be Gone

I have two bones to pick with the Gipper, that is, the anonymous author of Scholastic’s Carpe Diem for one, he’s not funny, and two, he’s tasteless.

The Gipp apparently believes that he is providing an opportunity for us “to have a good laugh at ourselves from time to time.” But in reading the last rendition of this column tradition I found little to laugh at.

Perhaps, if presented in the right light, a story of how a girl passing out at Mass could be funny. I tried my best to find the humor in the Gip’s storytelling, I really did, but my efforts were in vain. If you haven’t read this Campus Watch yet, pick up a copy of the most recent Scholastic and you’ll see what I mean.

First of all, passing out does not spice up much of anything — for the girl or the people that are around unless a number of friends are wailing in the wings, markers in hand but this is Mass, so let’s move on). She just passes out, and that’s that, Whoopsie.

Secondly, and I understand if it was simply a mathematical error made in haste, but I’m pretty sure the Mass has been around a whole 2000 years and not 1500 years as the Gipp seems to believe. No, the Mass wasn’t a six-century invention dreamed up by some innovative Christian go-getters.

Lastly, for most of the Catholes out there, the Mass is more than “a pretty boring cere­mony” as the Gipper Be Gipper states. It’s not some liturgical act that is missed by the Gipper Be Gipper and the Gipp in the Gipp’s storytelling. I really need to look at the books and see what it is that the Gipper Be Gipper was referring to.

This isn’t what I was looking for, and I’m sure the Mass has been around a whole 2000 years and not 1500 years as the Gipp seems to believe.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

THE ACCUWXATHER® forecast for noon, Wednesday, Feb. 10.

High Low Showers Rain Thunderstorms

Minneapolis 27 15
Rochester 29 16
Cleveland 23 13
Pittsburgh 27 16

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Today’s Staff

News

dark dodger

Viewpoint

dark dodger

Sports

Anthony Russo

Eddie Lull

Viewpoint Editor

Verses

Scene

Emman Malloy

Graphics

Joe Mueller

Lab Tech

Jeff Hsu

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during spring and winter breaks. The Observer is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press.

Insiders

Students rescue avalanche victims

HANOVER, N.H.

Seven Dartmouth alumni helped rescue exchange students after they were trapped under a snow-covered northern Vermont mountain by an avalanche Saturday. The four students from the University of California at Berkeley were sledging on a small hill at Donner Summit in northern California when they were hit by an avalanche and buried under six feet of heavy snow. After a four-hour struggle, one of the students, Harry Ehrlichberg, was able to free himself and seek help. He ran to a Dartmouth Outing Club cabin less than a quarter mile from the scene. Eddie Gilmartin, ‘91, one of the alumni staying at the cabin, said the student “pounded on the window and screamed for help.” The group gathered all available tools and ran to the scene. Using rakes, brooms, and mops as probes, they were able to free the other three victims, Derek Leech, Marisa Nelson, and Malcolm Russell Hart, after nearly two hours.

Dartmouth college

Move to earn bachelor degrees debated

GAINESVILLE, Fla.

Community college students will be able to earn bachelor’s degrees without moving to a four-year university campus if a proposed bill makes it through the legislature this year. When the session begins March 2, legislators are scheduled to consider the bill by Sen. Donald Sullivan, H-D. Petersburg, who is proposing students be able to earn four-year degrees on community college campuses. The bill, which passed through the Senate Education Committee last week, should have little trouble passing in the House, said Peter Dyga, legislative aide to Rep. Bob Casey, R-Gainesville. For the past several years, legislators and educational leaders have expressed concern that four-year degrees are not accessible enough and that four-year degrees are becoming too crowded. Casey, who heads the House Colleges and Universities Committee, has been studying the effectiveness and financial feasibility of joint-use facilities.
Valentine’s Day Ads

For only $20 you can tell your sweetheart how much you love him/her with a special Valentine’s Day ad in The Observer.

For example (shown actual size):

I Love You, Peggy Sme!

Associated Press

DETROIT

Tough competition and a trend toward consolidation has led to the end of 149-year tradition, and the company announced that its beer-brewing days are over. Miller Brewing Co., the nation’s second-largest brewer behind Anheuser-Busch, in Milwaukee, Monday agreed to buy No. 4 Stroh’s for $400 million.

“Over the years, we have had several opportunities to sell the business, but due to the family’s commitment to our brewing heritage, we felt none were compelling enough to pursue. "(We) concluded that it is the time to exit the beer business and focus on the family’s other ventures," said Gary Lemmon, vice president and chief executive officer of Stroh III, the company’s president.

Because the industry’s growth is sluggish, “The middle-tier segment is shrinking as it becomes harder to compete with the leaders,” said Analyst Frank Walters of M. Shanken Communications in New York, said the manufacturer of Miller and Anheuser-Busch 70 percent of the beer market.

“Stroh said the offers and competitive outlook of the industry led to the decision. "We concluded that it is the appropriate time to exit the beer business and focus on the family’s other ventures," he said."

The move is the latest in a shrinking beer industry, and it becomes harder to compete with the leaders."
U.N. vote may lead to Israel showdown

Associated Press

The Associated Press vote.

Thursday, February 10, 1999

Several Republican senators are expected to come out in favor of censure the president, both parties agree on a censure resolution. Meetings on a censure are expected to become intense immediately after the Senate renders a verdict on the impeachment charges of perjury and obstruction of justice. With 67 votes needed for conviction and removal of the president, both parties agree that acquittal is virtually certain.

Democratic Sen. Dianne Feinstein of California, has been drafting and redrafting censure language with the help of Republican Sen. Robert Bennett of Utah. They would not release their latest language, which likely would change again anyway.

Gramm has threatened to offer innumerable amendments to any such resolution, an approach that could amount to a filibuster, requiring 60 votes to overcome.

Censure of Gramm is a "covering your own approach"—letting those who want to acquit Clinton on impeachment still express disapproval of his behavior.

Washington Republicans expressed a willingness Tuesday to let President Clinton walk away from his impeachment ordeal with an acquittal, lending judgment of his conduct to history rather than any Senate-approved rebuke.

The Senate was 115-2 with five abstentions.

The vote followed a full day of debate Monday, but postponed been scheduled to conclude the debate Tuesday to let President Clinton walk away from his impeachment ordeal with an acquittal, lending judgment of his conduct to history rather than any Senate-approved rebuke.

The resolution was approved Tuesday by a margin of 93-3, but not enough to overcome a potential GOP filibuster. It calls for a conference of the signatories to the 1949 Geneva conventions by constructing new settlements in east Jerusalem and on other lands the Israelis captured in 1967.

But to have a such a measure considered in the 106-member Senate, supporters would need 60 votes to hurdle an expected standing action by Republican Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, the leading opponent of a censure resolution.

The Senate was 115-2 with five abstentions.

The resolution was approved Tuesday by a margin of 93-3, but not enough to overcome a potential GOP filibuster.

Several Republican senators are expected to come out in favor of censure the president, both parties agree on a censure resolution. Meetings on a censure are expected to become intense immediately after the Senate renders a verdict on the impeachment charges of perjury and obstruction of justice. With 67 votes needed for conviction and removal of the president, both parties agree that acquittal is virtually certain.

Democratic Sen. Dianne Feinstein of California, has been drafting and redrafting censure language with the help of Republican Sen. Robert Bennett of Utah. They would not release their latest language, which likely would change again anyway.

Gramm has threatened to offer innumerable amendments to any such resolution, an approach that could amount to a filibuster, requiring 60 votes to overcome.

Censure of Gramm is a "covering your own approach"—letting those who want to acquit Clinton on impeachment still express disapproval of his behavior. Gramm has said it's not allowed by the Constitution and would set a dangerous precedent for the future concerning the separation of powers.

Absent a hard nose-count, Republicans disagreed on the prospects for censure. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, said the proposal is "wanting as an option—alive but on life support." But Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., cautioned that "No one should be compiling a drip over censure; if anything, I believe we are picking up support on the both sides of the aisle."

At a meeting of GOP senators Tuesday morning, worries that Democrats would use censure as political cover after acquittal was "raised by some of the Republicans," said Sen. Spencer Abraham, R-Mich.

Democrat are aware of that thinking. Sen. John Breaux, D-La., said he needs no political cover. "I just had my election."
Family members of German victims from the February 1998 cable car crash in Italy are escorted to the court by US Marines in Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. Marine pilot Richard Abshy has been charged in the deaths of 20 people after his plane clipped an Italian ski lift cable a year ago.

Officer gives testimony in Marine’s trial

Avalanche kills two at ski resort

Avalanches buried chalets under deep snow today just north of the popular ski resort of Chamonix in the French Alps, killing two people, police said. Five people were missing. About 200 rescue workers, some using dogs, were searching for those believed trapped inside wooden chalets or under the snow in the villages of Le Tour and Montruc-le-Planet. Rescue efforts were expected to continue all night as snow continued to fall.

The force of the avalanche in Montruc ripped out trees and rocks. In Le Tour, France Info radio reported only the tops of some chalets were visible after the avalanche there. Police said five people were missing.

The main police department in the Haute Savoie region where the avalanches took place said two people died — a girl of 3 or 4 and a man in his fifties. Twenty people, including at least eight children, were pulled out of the snow alive.

Three people were slightly injured, police said. But they could not say whether the injured had been in Le Tour or Montruc, and their count apparently did not include the injured hotel workers in Montruc.

“We think there could be others inside the chalets or near the chalets who could be buried,” France Info radio quoted Michel Berg, secretary general of the Haute Savoie police forces as saying.

Police said two chalets were buried in the first avalanche in Le Tour and a second avalanche in Montruc hit many others. They said 11 chalets were buried in all.

The avalanches came during the first week of the French school winter vacation and followed heavy snowfall during the day in the valley — a popular destination for skiers. Roads in the area were blocked by snow, and some rescue used skis to get around.
Enrollment on the rise

Notre Dame, Saint Mary's female enrollment increases in recent years

By JESSICA DELGADO
New Writer

Women have become the dominant sex on college campuses during the last three years, comprising 55.5 percent of undergraduate students in 1995, according to nationwide studies.

It's a far cry from the late 1800s, when women accounted for 21 percent of undergraduates. Back then, preparing for their expected societal role took precedence over receiving a strong education.

"Republican education prepared girls for roles as wives and mothers," according to the Women's College Coalition. "Seminiaries educated unmarried women for the only socially accepted occupation, teaching."

This time in history gave rise to all-women colleges, which were unique because they finally offered women an equal opportunity to higher education, which had previously been reserved for men.

"They were trained in many of the traditionally male disciplines, but an all-women college became the only place that a woman could study science, mathematics, law and philosophy," according to the Women's College Coalition.

During times of national fiscal depression, the percentage of women in undergraduate programs reached an astounding 47 percent.

"Today there are more scholarships available, women are choosing to delay marriage in order to further their career, and the acceptance of women going to college has finally arrived," said Manu Derakhshani, professor of intercultural studies.

"You have to understand what was happening at this time," explained Susan Alexander, professor of sociology at Saint Mary's. "The first wave of the women's movement was in effect with a push for suffrage and a conscience focus on women's rights." While men were away at war this increased the opportunities for women in the classroom setting. But by the 1950s, the amount of women undergraduates had decreased to 31 percent. African-American women, however, made up an amazing 62.4 percent of undergraduates in black colleges.

At this time men were returning from the war and the women's place was consequently moved from the classroom back to the home.

By the 1970s, the second phase of the women's movement reached full momentum and issues like co-education became a reality. Not only were women pursuing college degrees, but many went further in their conquest and completed their master's degree or obtained a Ph.D.

"Today there are more scholarships available, women are choosing to delay marriage in order to further their career, and the acceptance of women going to college has finally arrived," said Manu Derakhshani, professor of intercultural studies at Saint Mary's.

As a possible result of these factors, in 1995 9 percent of female students received their Ph.D.s, as opposed to 18 percent during the first phase of the women's movement in the 1920s.

"You have to understand what was happening at this time," explained Susan Alexander, professor of sociology at Saint Mary's. "The first wave of the women's movement was in effect with a push for suffrage and a conscience focus on women's rights." While men were away at war this increased the opportunities for women in the classroom setting. But by the 1950s, the amount of women undergraduates had decreased to 31 percent. African-American women, however, made up an amazing 62.4 percent of undergraduates in black colleges.

At this time men were returning from the war and the women's place was consequently moved from the classroom back to the home.

By the 1970s, the second phase of the women's movement reached full momentum and issues like co-education became a reality. Not only were women pursuing college degrees, but many went further in their conquest and completed their master's degree or obtained a Ph.D.

"Today there are more scholarships available, women are choosing to delay marriage in order to further their career, and the acceptance of women going to college has finally arrived," said Manu Derakhshani, professor of intercultural studies at Saint Mary's.

As a possible result of these factors, in 1995 9 percent of female students received their Ph.D.s, as opposed to 18 percent during the first phase of the women's movement in the 1920s.

"You have to understand what was happening at this time," explained Susan Alexander, professor of sociology at Saint Mary's. "The first wave of the women's movement was in effect with a push for suffrage and a conscience focus on women's rights." While men were away at war this increased the opportunities for women in the classroom setting. But by the 1950s, the amount of women undergraduates had decreased to 31 percent. African-American women, however, made up an amazing 62.4 percent of undergraduates in black colleges.

At this time men were returning from the war and the women's place was consequently moved from the classroom back to the home.

By the 1970s, the second phase of the women's movement reached full momentum and issues like co-education became a reality. Not only were women pursuing college degrees, but many went further in their conquest and completed their master's degree or obtained a Ph.D.

"Today there are more scholarships available, women are choosing to delay marriage in order to further their career, and the acceptance of women going to college has finally arrived," said Manu Derakhshani, professor of intercultural studies at Saint Mary's.

As a possible result of these factors, in 1995 9 percent of female students received their Ph.D.s, as opposed to 18 percent during the first phase of the women's movement in the 1920s.

"You have to understand what was happening at this time," explained Susan Alexander, professor of sociology at Saint Mary's. "The first wave of the women's movement was in effect with a push for suffrage and a conscience focus on women's rights." While men were away at war this increased the opportunities for women in the classroom setting. But by the 1950s, the amount of women undergraduates had decreased to 31 percent. African-American women, however, made up an amazing 62.4 percent of undergraduates in black colleges.

At this time men were returning from the war and the women's place was consequently moved from the classroom back to the home.

By the 1970s, the second phase of the women's movement reached full momentum and issues like co-education became a reality. Not only were women pursuing college degrees, but many went further in their conquest and completed their master's degree or obtained a Ph.D.

"Today there are more scholarships available, women are choosing to delay marriage in order to further their career, and the acceptance of women going to college has finally arrived," said Manu Derakhshani, professor of intercultural studies at Saint Mary's.

As a possible result of these factors, in 1995 9 percent of female students received their Ph.D.s, as opposed to 18 percent during the first phase of the women's movement in the 1920s.
Evidence shows genders do not learn differently

By MEGAN DONAHUE
News Writer

Although there is an increasing number of women in higher education institutions today, the traditional competition between men and women still remains. According to "The Longest War: Sex Difference in Perspective," by Carol Tavris and Carole Wade, certain abilities and talents are perceived to be stronger in one sex than the other.

Supposedly, men tend to excel on tests of mathematical reasoning from the start of adolescence. By tenth grade, boys also begin to improve their spatial-visual abilities. On the other hand, women acquire language skills slightly earlier, excel on various verbal tests after age ten or 11, and do better on creativity tests.

General intelligence levels, though, show no difference between the two genders; also, each individual responds differently to tests and therefore this evidence applies only to some subjects.

"I don't see it's true," said Jeanne Day, Notre Dame psychology professor, in reference to the gender ability shift. "Perhaps certain skills are emphasized more in men than in women and vice versa." Day talked about research techniques and electromagnetic equipment, like MRI's and EBQ's. These can help detect patterns exhibited by individuals in their learning process and what they retain. For example, such tests could provide data about why girls may learn to talk earlier than boys, or whether boys develop math and spatial skills earlier.

Men are thought to excel in computer-based, science-based and math-based subjects. Here women are shown working in the LeMans computer lab.

A New York Times article stated boys still dominate America's technical and engineering schools. "They're saying that girls take math, but uh-oh. There's more boys in physics," said Diane Ravitch, a senior fellow at the Brookings Institute, as reported in the New York Times.

Notre Dame follows the national trend of how men and women compare in majors dominated by one gender. There are 7,875 undergraduates registered at Notre Dame for the 1998 school year, with 4,332 men and 3,553 women. The Office of Institutional Research at Notre Dame reported that, with even the removal of double majors, undeclared students and first-year students from the count, the numbers in each college mostly reflect the "liberal arts woman" and the "calculus man."

In the college of Arts and Letters, there are 1,079 men and 1,330 women. Within the college, the department of English surprisingly reverses the traditional trend by enrolling 956 men and 631 women.

In architecture, 80 are men, 68 are women, while business has 135 men and 640 women. The College of Science contains 469 men and 438 women.

"Pink-collarization" affects views of work-force

By SARAH J. HILTZ
Associate News Editor

Pink collars have some experts worrying.

With the recent increase of women attending college, some educational experts are concerned that the "pink collar effect," when jobs are feminized or are dominated by women that men no longer pursue those careers, may be causing the sacrifice of men's education in favor of women.

Traditionally, pink-collar jobs have been in nursing, elementary education and child care.

Kelly Everden, a registered nurse and graduate student in nursing at the University of Michigan, supports the notion that many people view nursing as a profession for women only. In her Oakland University graduating class of 120 students, only about a dozen were men.

"Everybody thinks that the male nurses are verts or that they're gay," Everden said, adding that male nurses often get mistaken for doctors.

Everden offered suggestions about why male nurses are not often taken seriously.

"People think women are better nurturers. They don't think men have the capability to care for people," she said. "Women have been brought up through history to take care of people," and this tradition has prevailed from men not being accepted as caregivers, according to Everden.

Education is also traditionally a female profession, especially with women as elementary and high school teachers.

Notre Dame senior Kevin Hughes, an education major, explained the boy-sided distribution of men and women in his education classes.

"I'm guessing there are 29 student-teachers at this time, and five of them are guys," said Hughes.

"At first, it was overwhelming," he said, adding that he is now comfortable with the ratio in his classes.

Males still dominate the nation's technical and engineering schools and obtain higher scores on many standardized tests, but these gaps are quickly narrowing.

This "Rosie the Riveter" propaganda poster honors women who made labor contributions during World War II.

The attraction of more women to traditionally male fields, like technology and engineering, may draw them away from nursing and elementary education, opening those doors for males and eventually evening the scales in all fields.

But the ratios do not yet reflect that. At Notre Dame, 65 percent of Romance Language professors, 49 percent of English professors and 43 percent of psychology professors are women. In the entire College of Engineering, only three percent of the professors are women.

Interested in writing for In Focus?

Call Lisa

@ 631-5323
Clinton may nominate Holbrooke

WASHINGTON  President Clinton moved ahead with plans to nominate Richard Holbrooke to be ambassador to the United Nations after Holbrooke agreed Tuesday to pay $5,000 to settle civil charges that he violated federal ethics laws.

"I will soon send to the Senate my nomination of Richard Holbrooke," Clinton said in a statement issued from the White House shortly after the federal lawsuit and settlement were filed simultaneously in U.S. District Court here.

The veteran 57-year-old diplomat denied in the settlement the federal lawsuit and settlement the Justice Department's allegations that he improperly contacted a U.S. diplomat on behalf of his employer, Holbrooke said he was acting as a special government employee asked to explain U.S. policy to Asian officials.

Holbrooke wasскидка on his 1997 dismissal from Holbrooke's position after the 1995 Bosnia peace accord and last fall's cease-fire in Kosovo, for the U.N. post formerly held by Energy Secretary Bill Richardson.

Holbrooke said in a statement Tuesday that he settled the suit "in order to allow my nomination to proceed."

"I now look forward to appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for the confirmation hearings," he said.

But Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who has taken no position on the nomination, appeared in no hurry to schedule hearings. Before hearings, "we're going to very closely examine the Justice Department report, to walk through their investigation step by step," said Helms spokesman Marc Thiemem.

Senate GOP sources, requesting anonymity, said Holms was likely to insist, as a condition of moving on the nomination, that the administration push for U.N. budget cuts and a reduction in the U.S. assessment for the United Nations.

Holbrooke resigned in February 1996 as assistant secretary of state for European and Canadian Affairs. In the next three months, the government said, he wrote James Laney, U.S. ambassador to South Korea, on CS First Boston stationery seeking official action by Laney.
Hog farmers try to beat meat prices, oversupply

Associated Press

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. —

Faced with an oversupply at large slaughterhouses that kept them struggling to stay in business, hog farmers Mike and Terry Strickland decided to take matters into their own hands. They began processing their own meat for sale to area businesses.

The brothers, who farm near this west Georgia town, grew about 6,000 of the state's annual marketable hogs on their 500-acre farm. While the Stricklands continue to produce hogs to be sold to large slaughterhouses that buy 2,500 hogs until rules are established for waste management.

"We are trying to ride it out," said hog farmer Chuck Walls of Gainesville who has a 700-hog farm near Commerce.

"We've lost somewhere around $130,000 last year, and it will take us about a year and a half to get it back. If our feed suppliers had not been good enough to stay with us, we probably would be out of business," Walls said.

Recently, a proposal to build a $100 million packing plant between Macon and Savannah was put on hold by the packer, said Fred Sandrock, head of the Sunbelt Pork Cooperative of producers from Georgia, the Carolinas, Tennessee and Alabama.

Soybeans drop below $5 per bushel

Associated Press

Soybean futures prices on Tuesday sank below $2 a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade for the first time since 1987 ahead of a government report expected to show weak global demand and cause inventories to remain at their highest in years.

Grains also retreated. On other markets, gold and silver tumbled, while palladium rose sharply.

The U.S. Agriculture Department early Wednesday was expected to increase its estimate of the amount of soybeans that will be left over before the next harvest after a dismal few months of export demand for bumper full-harvested crops.

The expected report pushed soybean prices for March delivery down 9 cents to $4.99 a bushel. The government last month said the surplus likely would stand at 190 million bushels, but market participants expected that figure to rise well above 400 million bushels as foreign countries lack adequate funds for purchases.

Further depressing prices for soybeans has been ideal growing conditions in Brazil, the world's second-largest producer behind the United States. The beneficial weather has boosted Brazil's 2000 harvest bumper competing crops, which the government could confirm in its predictions for foreign crops.
Truth is Freedom

In the phrase "free scientific inquiry" the word "free" is redundant. Thus said a certain author, whose name I do not want to remember — she said there is no such thing as an un-free scientific inquiry. Either it is free or it is not scientific. She argued against governmental control of research, but she was not aware that corporations, labor unions and even NGOs have agendas of their own and that they purport them through selective financing. But her point is well taken: science must be free to be scientific. She argued against governmental control of research, but she was not aware that corporations, labor unions and even NGOs have agendas of their own and that they purport them through selective financing. But her point is well taken: science must be free to be scientific. She argued against governmental control of research, but she was not aware that corporations, labor unions and even NGOs have agendas of their own and that they purport them through selective financing. But her point is well taken:

Gabriel Martinez

sent his hordes to "deal" with those who warn her children, and humanity in dishonesty, it has always been with the gift of a mind and with the mind.

The Successor of Peter and the bishops warn her children, and humanity in dishonesty, it has always been with the gift of a mind and with the mind. The darkness wants to deceive the theologian into thinking that they mean to impose upon a thin veil of knowledge, and the pursuit of knowledge — knowledge of the Truth. Truth is a sacred deposit, the truth about the mystery of man, the mystery of truth in human nature. It is not about setting limits on the Catholic university. But this is a disease that will lead to such full understanding. Therefore, sometimes she has had to take extreme measures against intellectual pride and intellectual dishonesty. The Church, therefore, is about holding those who sin against humility, the Church and those who Church.

hums and the sun in their demented logic, they claim men and women followed the dictats of what they construct as human nature. They stand for Darkness. They are Satan and his angels, and their organization is Hell.

Against Hell's Gates stands the Catholic Church. The Church holds in secret deposit, the truth about the mystery of man, the mystery of truth in human nature. It is not about setting limits on the Catholic university. But this is a disease that will lead to such full understanding. Therefore, sometimes she has had to take extreme measures against intellectual pride and intellectual dishonesty. The Church, therefore, is about holding those who sin against humility, the Church and those who Church.

sent his hordes to "deal" with those who warn her children, and humanity in dishonesty, it has always been with the gift of a mind and with the mind. The darkness wants to deceive the theologian into thinking that they mean to impose upon a thin veil of knowledge, and the pursuit of knowledge — knowledge of the Truth. Truth is a sacred deposit, the truth about the mystery of man, the mystery of truth in human nature. It is not about setting limits on the Catholic university. But this is a disease that will lead to such full understanding.

sent his hordes to "deal" with those who warn her children, and humanity in dishonesty, it has always been with the gift of a mind and with the mind. The darkness wants to deceive the theologian into thinking that they mean to impose upon a thin veil of knowledge, and the pursuit of knowledge — knowledge of the Truth. Truth is a sacred deposit, the truth about the mystery of man, the mystery of truth in human nature. It is not about setting limits on the Catholic university. But this is a disease that will lead to such full understanding.

sent his hordes to "deal" with those who warn her children, and humanity in dishonesty, it has always been with the gift of a mind and with the mind. The darkness wants to deceive the theologian into thinking that they mean to impose upon a thin veil of knowledge, and the pursuit of knowledge — knowledge of the Truth. Truth is a sacred deposit, the truth about the mystery of man, the mystery of truth in human nature. It is not about setting limits on the Catholic university. But this is a disease that will lead to such full understanding.
Procedural Fairness at Notre Dame?

The Feb. 5 statement of ND's Board of Fellows (re: sexual orientation) obscures important issues:

1. The Board of Fellows, in closed and secret session, ignored arguments of a majority of members of the Academic Council and a super majority of members of the Faculty Senate.

2. The Board’s statement suggests University Counsel could not craft a contract guaranteeing procedural fairness regarding sexual orientation without jeopardizing the Catholic identity of Notre Dame.

3. The Board’s statement disingenuously implies local courts would not grant the University’s request to limit Notre Dame’s religious identity. Does the University’s Catholic identity require denial of the protections of procedural fairness because of sexual orientation? That question gets an emphatically negative response in the Statement by St. Louis University at http://www.slu.edu/services/ill/uppopp.html. Go Billskeens!

Dr. Edward Manier

Philosophy & History and Philosophy of Science
Reilly Center for Science, Technology and Values
February 7, 1999

That His Will Be Done

A small group gathered outside of Washington Hall to pray before the speakers on the non-discrimination clause spoke. As I joined them for a quick decade of the rosary, I noticed one of my old roommates sitting on the steps. It seemed impossible that she had not noticed me as well, and I wondered what she thought. She did not look happy, and it seemed that she had deserted, gone over to the “enemy”? Regardless of the forces of those who would oppose justice, the champions of oppression? I wondered what she saw when she looked at our choler, if she assumed animosly in our Hall Marys. And I trembled. I trembled because this issue, and many moral-political issues like it, should not be about sides. At the core, they are not about sides at all, but about souls. Morality is not a cudgel with which to bash others; it is a guide to the holy way our Heavenly Father is holy” (Matt. 5:48). And our business is not the business of winning souls. People are quick to attempt to demolish each other in paper arguments; to stand behind a statement and fire arguments across no man’s land is, however, the easy approach and it leads to wrackage. Applying pet phrases to “the opposition,” from the comfort of one’s own circle is a coward’s game. What takes true courage is to love all, opponent and companion alike, and to work for the holiness and salvation of all souls.

As the summer storms I stood, head bowed, wondering if my presence was wounding my roommate, and I prayed that God’s will be done at this. Our Lady’s university. Such a petition, when connected in any way to Our Lady’s Eucharistic Presence in your chapels. Ask Him in your way to live your lives and love all your neighbors. Ask in all humility, as Our Lord Himself prayed to His Father and asked them to share their feelings, Fire Mr. Clinton.

Kevin Clark

Supplement, DillHill
February 9, 1999
Knockin’ on the JACC’s Door

Bob Dylan arrives on campus this Sunday to play his first show ever at ND

When Robert Zimmerman left his hometown of Hibbing, Minnesota to become Bob Dylan to the world, it marked a great transitory moment in the history of modern music. As he vied for success in New York, Dylan revolutionized rock’n’roll by bringing its roots out in his music. Dylan was inspired by the folk heroes of his then, had been characterized largely by the hip-wigging of clean-cut Elvis Presley. Dylan became a poster boy for the protest movement; his first completely original album, The Freewheelin’ Bob Dylan, is charged with political messages and the classic folk hits “Blowin’ in the Wind” and “Hard Rain’s a Gonna Fall.” Beyond protest and politics, Dylan’s ballads and love songs were so incredibly passionate that listeners wished they were the subject of his adoration or rejoiced that they were not the target of his biting insults.

As Dylan’s career went on and his fame grew, he eventually tired of his status as “super-hippie,” the embodiment of the entire protest movement of the era. His popularity fell as his music became more like that of other singers. Critics saw a lack of originality in his bland, unoffensive lyrics. It seemed that his career was not going to last long, however. Dylan’s Tourening with Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, not to mention The Grateful Dead.

In 1988, he embarked on the Never Ending Tour, and has been in the road virtually non-stop since then. This is the tour that brings him to South Bend this weekend.

In the past 10 years, Dylan’s marvelous song stylings have been less prolific and pointed than they were in his early days when his emotional and highly nasal voice could be heard around the nation. His 1992 release, Time Out of Mind, marks his first gold record of the decade and most critically-acclaimed album since Blood on the Tracks. Although his career has been one of ups and downs, Bob Dylan’s legend is currently riding high. His music defined a generation and a nation. He shall not be forgotten and he shall not be matched. Beyond mere musicianship, Dylan embodies a poetic genius and eloquence that cuts to the heart of listeners.

Swinging into town to open is former Stray Cats frontman Brian Setzer

The Brian Setzer Orchestra, however, is no newcomer when it comes to swing. Their third, and most recent release, is entitled The Dirty Boogie. The album revolves around former Stray Cat Brian Setzer. The pompadour sporting, Gretsch guitar slinging, hyperintense guitarist is backed up by a 17-piece band of bass, drums, blaring trumpets, mellow saxophones, and big bad bones.

Swingin’ Jive & Wal’

The album contains a fine mix of guitar and horns. No Doubt lead singer Gwen Stefani is featured on “You’re the Boss.” The Royal Crown Revue’s Eddie Nichols, and Meghan Ivey of the Eddie Rood Big Band sing back-up vocals on “Jump Jive An’ Wail.”

Keith Kawamoto

In one of the CD’s slower songs, Setzer covers “Since I Don’t Have You,” originally performed by the Skyliners. He’s sure to grab your kitten and dance close with her for this song.Original songs arranged by Sezzer include “This Cat’s On A Hot Tin Roof,” and the brassy goodness of “As Long As I’m Singin’.”

A number of guest musicians are featured on the new album, adding even more depth to the danceable mix of guitar and horns. No Doubt lead singer Gwen Stefani is featured on “You’re The Boss,” where she sings to Sezzer, “Maybe tonight, I’ll be the boss when tomorrow night, I’ll be the boss.”

The Brian Setzer Orchestra is no stranger to swing. Their first, Guitar Slinger, and 1994’s self-titled debut, Brian Setzer Orchestra, The Dirty Boogie contains a fine mix of original new tunes and covers of old songs.

Most notably, Sezzer has covered “Jump, Jive An’ Wall,” originally performed by Louis Prima back in the day. Many may recognize this song from the GAP commercial entitled “Khakis Swing.” The fast pulsing rhythm of this song will surely blow your wig. The R&B has also recorded the old Stray Cats hit “Rock This Town.” Horns have been added to this famous rockabilly making it even more danceable. If the CD does one thing for you, it will make you want to dance. Its blaring horns, fast guitar solos, and finger snapping beats will get any Lindy Hopper off of his stool and onto his groundpads.

By Hepcats, grab your kitten “cause swing’s the thing! The new swing craze has caused new bands to spring up everywhere.

In one of the CD’s slower songs, Sezzer covers “Since I Don’t Have You,” originally performed by the Skyliners. He’s sure to grab your kitten and dance close with her for this song. Original songs arranged by Setzer include “This Cat’s On A Hot Tin Roof,” and the brassy goodness of “As Long As I’m Singin’.”

A number of guest musicians are featured on the new album, adding even more depth to the danceable mix of guitar and horns. No Doubt lead singer Gwen Stefani is featured on “You’re The Boss,” where she sings to Sezzer, “Maybe tonight, I’ll be the boss when tomorrow night, I’ll be the boss.”

The Royal Crown Revue’s Eddie Nichols, and Meghan Ivey of the Eddie Rood Big Band sing back-up vocals on “Jump Jive An’ Wall.”

This CD is a rockin’ good time. It will make you dance, make you sing, make you jump an’ jive, and most importantly, make you smile with a desire to get on that dance floor and show off your moves. For those of you just getting into swing, this CD is a must-have. For those of you attending the Bob Dylan concert, I’ll see you there! And for those of you not attending this Sunday, I’ll see you on the dance floor. Until next time Cats and Kittens, “Swing Bell.”
"...times they are a-changin'"

Dylan (middle) performing at the 1970 Isle of Wight festival

Dylan performs for the Pope (1997)

Playing in the streets of New York (1962)

At a soundcheck in the mid-60s

Soundchecking before the famous "Royal Albert Hall" concert (1965)

Live in East Berlin, prior to the fall of the Wall (1987)

Performing in 1987 with his "backup" band, The Grateful Dead
The final say on the Final Four

Auburn ties school record with win

Associated Press

AUBURN, Ala. -- Bryan Smith scored 11 points and Auburn set a school record with its 23rd win of the season, clinching at least a tie for the SEC West title with four league games remaining.

Miss (17-8, 7-5), which beat Auburn 68-65 on Saturday, had its three-game winning streak snapped and fell four games behind Auburn in the SEC.

With its highest ranking since coming one game short of the NCAA title in 2009, Auburn will have a relatively easy road to the Final Four.

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

Maryland, Michigan State, Kentucky and from

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

West, UConn will have a relatively easy road to the Final Four. With Arthur Lee at point guard and three other all-Pac 10 start ers in the mix, the Maryland, Michigan State, Kentucky and from

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

Auburn, it's a tournament team and is simply the best. The color championship carding.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Classifieds

NOTICES

Spring Break Panama Party
Critical Night! $299/week

S outh Beach, Miami, Key West

$24/night Doubles

April 16th-May 16th

springbreaktravel.com

1-800-678-6386

AUBURN, Ala.

Tony McQuay. A layup gave Purdue a 71-69 lead.

Indiana (18-8, 5-6) got 24 points from Brian Cardinal led the Boilermakers (17-7, 5-5 Big Ten) with 17.

Florida Spring Break

Auburn ties school record with win

Auburn, Ala. -- Bryan Smith scored 11 points and Auburn set a school record with its 23rd win of the season, clinching at least a tie for the SEC West title with four league games remaining.

Miss (17-8, 7-5), which beat Auburn 68-65 on Saturday, had its three-game winning streak snapped and fell four games behind Auburn in the SEC.

With its highest ranking since coming one game short of the NCAA title in 2009, Auburn will have a relatively easy road to the Final Four.

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

Maryland, Michigan State, Kentucky and from

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

West, UConn will have a relatively easy road to the Final Four. With Arthur Lee at point guard and three other all-Pac 10 start ers in the mix, the Maryland, Michigan State, Kentucky and from

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

Auburn, it's a tournament team and is simply the best. The color championship carding.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Classifieds

NOTICES

Spring Break Panama Party
Critical Night! $299/week

S outh Beach, Miami, Key West

$24/night Doubles

April 16th-May 16th

springbreaktravel.com

1-800-678-6386

AUBURN, Ala.

Tony McQuay. A layup gave Purdue a 71-69 lead.

Indiana (18-8, 5-6) got 24 points from Brian Cardinal led the Boilermakers (17-7, 5-5 Big Ten) with 17.

Florida Spring Break

Auburn ties school record with win

Auburn, Ala. -- Bryan Smith scored 11 points and Auburn set a school record with its 23rd win of the season, clinching at least a tie for the SEC West title with four league games remaining.

Miss (17-8, 7-5), which beat Auburn 68-65 on Saturday, had its three-game winning streak snapped and fell four games behind Auburn in the SEC.

With its highest ranking since coming one game short of the NCAA title in 2009, Auburn will have a relatively easy road to the Final Four.

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

Maryland, Michigan State, Kentucky and from

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

West, UConn will have a relatively easy road to the Final Four. With Arthur Lee at point guard and three other all-Pac 10 start ers in the mix, the Maryland, Michigan State, Kentucky and from

Duke, Kentucky, North Carolina -- will be

Auburn, it's a tournament team and is simply the best. The color championship carding.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Classifieds

NOTICES

Spring Break Panama Party
Critical Night! $299/week

S outh Beach, Miami, Key West

$24/night Doubles

April 16th-May 16th

springbreaktravel.com

1-800-678-6386

AUBURN, Ala.

Tony McQuay. A layup gave Purdue a 71-69 lead.

Indiana (18-8, 5-6) got 24 points from Brian Cardinal led the Boilermakers (17-7, 5-5 Big Ten) with 17.

Florida Spring Break
NBA

Stress fracture sidelines Sprewell

Associated Press

NEW YORK—After playing only two games for his new team, Latrell Sprewell will be out of action again.

Sprewell will be sidelined 3-6 weeks with a stress fracture of his right heel, the New York Knicks announced Tuesday.

"Obviously, I'm disappointed," Sprewell said. "I had every intention of getting up to play (Wednesday), but the injury was more than I thought.

Sprewell sat out the final 15 minutes of practice Monday and the entire practice Tuesday. An X-ray and a CT scan failed to show the injury, but an MRI exam disclosed a tiny fracture.

It was not known exactly how Sprewell suffered the injury. He scored only five points in his regular-season home debut Sunday, shooting 2-for-12 in a loss to Miami that dropped New York's record to 6-2.

Sprewell scored 24 points in his first game, a loss at Orlando on opening night.

"This is a microscopic fracture of the heel," team physician Dr. Norman Scott said. "No surgery will be required. Latrell will wear a walking boot, also known as a removable cast, to provide stress relief. He will continue conditioning on the bike and in the pool. This will have no long-term effect on his future.

The Knicks, who were using Sprewell as their starting small forward, may move Larry Johnson to small forward and insert Kurt Thomas into the starting lineup at power forward.

"I feel badly for Latrell, but the reality is we now have to get ready to face Washington without him," coach Jeff Van Gundy said in a statement released by the team. "We expect Latrell's rehabilitation to go smoothly so he can get back in the lineup as soon as possible.

NFL

‘Dawg Pound’ comes alive with draft

Associated Press

CANTON, Ohio

After three years in the kennel, the Dawg Pound was finally unleashed Tuesday — and they were ready to howl.

Four thousand of Cleveland's most loyal fans packed into the Canton Civic Center to watch the Browns pick castoff players from the NFL's other teams in the expansion draft, including that section of bone-waving, mask-wearing fanatics.

"It sure is something isn't it?" said Tim Jenkins of Northeast, Pa., as he looked down from the Dawg Pound at the made-for-TV set where the Browns made their picks.

"All this for an expansion draft," Jenkins and fellow season ticket-holder Dan Malm of the Browns made their picks.

The day felt like a holiday, the crowd only cooled after the draft started, the Pound booed long gating hours before the draft began.

"It doesn't get any better than this for Browns fans," Jenkins said, a felt Browns helmet perched on his head. "Your heart is just constantly beating fast.

The day felt like a Woodstock for Cleveland lovers.

Dave Hoover, beaming through orange and brown face paint at the chance to sit down from the Dawg Pound at the chance to sit through the crowd, and the Pound gave a standing ovation to Cleveland owner Al Lerner and team president Carmen Policy as they stepped into the arena.

Chants of "Here we go Brownies — here we go! Woof! Woof!" ripped through the arena.

"These are the die-hards, right here," Malm said.

CANTON, Ohio

After just two games with the Knicks this season, Latrell Sprewell will miss at least the next three weeks with a stress fracture and several of his attempts Sunday missed badly.

Now that he's out of the lineup, the Knicks may move Larry Johnson to small forward and insert Kurt Thomas into the starting lineup at power forward.

"I feel badly for Latrell, but the reality is we now have to get ready to face Washington without him," coach Jeff Van Gundy said in a statement released by the team. "We expect Latrell's rehabilitation to go smoothly so he can get back in the lineup as soon as possible.

SUMMER SERVICE PROJECT

NATIONAL YOUTH SPORTS PROGRAM

OPEN HOUSE

CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS

PIZZA AND REFRESHMENTS

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11

7:00 - 8:00 P.M.

APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE AT THE CSC

CALL FOR INTERVIEW

631-0614
Associated Press

PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh Penguins officially began the search for different ownership Tuesday when owner Roger Marino withdrew his request to be solely permitted to reorganize the team's finances.

The only prospective buyer to identify himself so far, none other than Mario Lemieux, the greatest player in Penguins history other than Mario Lemieux, the owner Roger Marino withdrew ownership Tuesday when rights for at least another U.S. Bankruptcy Court to extend a stay.

Lemieux's, a six-time NHL scoring champion who retired in 1997, backs the creditors committee and was pleasantly surprised with Marino's change of heart.

"We're trying to find some investors who would not only buy the team but keep them in Pittsburgh," Lemieux said. "It's a great hockey town and the fans deserve something better than a team in bankruptcy. We've been working very hard, and it's looking pretty good."

Lemieux did not elaborate on the reasons for his optimism and did not identify any possible investors. But he said, "This is something that has gotten to happen soon."

Associated Press

The Penguins filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in October, but Marino has continued to run the team as federal bankruptcy court sorts out the financial mess.

The team owes creditors about $125 million, or more than the franchise's total worth of approximately $93 million. Lemieux is optimistic of finding partners willing to put money into the long-successful but money-losing franchise and keep it in Pittsburgh, the Penguins' only home since joining the NHL in an expansion franchise in 1967.

NHL commissioner Gary Bettman said at the All-Star Game in Tampa last month there were two groups interested in acquiring all or part of the Penguins from Marino and owner Howard Baldwin. He did not identify them.

If a local buyer does not step forward to keep the Penguins in Pittsburgh, it is believed that Marino will ask Bankruptcy Judge Bernard Markovitz for permission to sell to out-of-town owners or relocate the team himself.

Marino reportedly contacted as many as nine cities last summer in an effort to gauge support for a possible Penguins relocation, but later was ordered by Markovitz to cease shopping the team. Among the cities reportedly contacted were Kansas City, Houston and Las Vegas.

Despite the Penguins' ongoing financial troubles, they have seen attendance drop only slightly this season and are currently sixth in the Eastern Conference standings.

CLASS OF 2000 UPCOMING EVENTS

2/10 DO SOMETHING GOOD FOR YOUR HEART AND HELP MAKE VALENTINES FOR THE ELDERLY OF THE HOLY CROSS CARE CENTER FROM 5 P.M.-7 P.M. IN THE LOBBY OF YOUR DORM. ALSO ENJOY PIZZA, BREADSTICKS, AND GOOD COMPANY.

2/13 SHARE AN HOUR OF YOUR TIME TO GIVE OUT THE CREATIVE VALENTINES YOU MADE ON THE 10TH WITH THE PEOPLE OF THE HOLY CROSS CARE AND REHAB CENTER. MEET IN LEMANS LOBBY AT 10:45 A.M.

2/13 PLEASE JOIN THE SISTERS OF THE HOLY CROSS TO SUPPORT YOUR BELLES BASKETBALL TEAM. GAMES ARE AT 12:45 P.M. AND 3:30 P.M.

2/23 THERE WILL BE PERSONAL TRAINER IN ANGELA AT 5 P.M. TO HELP WITH WORKOUTS. DISCUSS HEALTHY HABITS IN HONOR OF EATING DISORDERS WEEK. LEARN HOW TO SHED THOSE EXTRA POUNDS THE HEALTHY WAY.

BE SURE TO STOP IN HAGAR THIS WEEK TO ADDRESS JUNIOR MOM'S WEEKEND INVITATIONS.

NASA'S COLLEGE DANCE WORKSHOP PRESENTS

DANCING ON THE BRINK...

New student work & performance improvisation

Chris, Feb 19 at 8 p.m. • Sat, Feb. 20 at 8 p.m. • Sun, Feb. 21 at 2:30 p.m.

O'Laughlin Auditorium

TICKET ORDERS BY PHONE: 219-284-8026

Tickets on sale at the Saint Mary's College Box Office in O'Laughlin Auditorium, open M-Th 9-4 p.m., Friday 9-10 a.m.

Monday - Friday.

Dancing on the Brink

Relationship troubles?

Pray with us.

Wednesday Nights
10:00 - 10:30 p.m. • Walsh Chapel

...featuring the Celebration Choir
Associated Press

were all there Tuesday night.

videotape as the Chicago Bulls

Not in person, ol' course, but on tuesday.

Bulls unveil championship banner without Jordan

Wednesday, February 10, 1999

Michael, Scottie and Dennis

Pippen, now in Houston, and

Rodman, still in limbo, were featured prominently in a video

tribute on the huge scoreboard

hanging over the floor of the United Center.

Acclimated by Carol King's

"Now and Forever" and Green

Day's "Time Of My Life," the video closed with Jordan sinking

his game-winning jumper

against Utah last June just before he and Pippen embraced for what would be the final time

as Bulls teammates.

Jordan's jumper brought a loud response from a sellout crowd at the United Center, followed moments later by awkward applause as the banner was unveiled.

The Bulls in the video hardly resembled the ones that took the world by storm last June.

Rodman, still in limbo, were featured prominently in a video

tribute on the huge scoreboard

for the game. "We've only had four looks (games)."

There were plenty of reminders of Jordan and Pippen.

Jordan's uniform No. 23,

which was unveiled at his retirement news conference, hung behind the sixth championship banner.

Life-size cutouts of last year's championship team were still in town as Bulls teammates.

The Bulls say they will also deliver, either in Chicago or at their new locale, championship

rings to Pippen and players like

Steve Kerr, Jud Buechler and

Laure Langley, who played on the last three title teams before joinning other teams.

New coach Tim Floyd, who replaced the popular Phil

Jackson, watched the ceremony

from a seat at the end of the bench. When he was introduced before the game, firecrackers

were going off and there was little reaction from the crowd.

Floyd had been booed at a pre-season scrimmage at the United Center. But that was before the Bulls lost two close exhibition games and won 1-1

on their first road trip of this lockout-shortened season, playing a surprisingly strong game

at Utah. "We're not sure who we are and we really shouldn't be," said

Floyd, whose family flew in from

Iowa for the game. "We've only

had four looks (games)."

Time: 7:00 - 9:00 pm

Place: Morris Inn, Notre Dame Room

Date: February 11, 1999
Sponsor to pull ads in protest of Olympic scandal

Associated Press

NEW YORK

A major sponsor said Tuesday it was canceling negotiations with NBC for $290 million in ads to protest the International Olympic Committee’s failure to deal with the growing corruption scandal.

David D’Alessandro, president and chief operations officer of John Hancock Insurance, was bitterly critical of most of the IOC leadership, including president Juan Antonio Samaranch, for its handling of the bribery case that started in Salt Lake and has spread worldwide.

"Each day, the IOC loses a bit more credibility," he said. "It’s clear the leaders of the IOC want to wake up and they have their club back.”

In a telephone interview from his Boston office, D’Alessandro stopped short of calling for Samaranch to resign. But in perhaps the harshest words so far from within the tightknit community of Olympic officials, broadcasters and sponsors, the John Hancock chief said Samaranch’s days at the top of the IOC may be running out.

“I still think Kenny Rogers said it best: ‘Know when to hold ‘em, know when to fold ‘em, know when to walk away, know when to run.’” D’Alessandro said. "I think Samaranch is getting close to the end of his ‘fold ‘em’ stage."

NBC spokeswoman Maria Rattaglia said the network was unaware of D’Alessandro’s decision on the ads.

“We’ve had no issues with other advertisers,” she said. "We’ve continued to have tremendous interest in the Olympics and have closed major deals with several advertisers in the past few weeks. They’ve understood that the Olympics are about the games and the athletes.

"D’Alessandro’s company pays about $50 million to be the official life insurance and annuities sponsor of the Olympics and use the five-ring logo in its ads.

But D’Alessandro said that the IOC had become “a cult of royalty,” and since the scandal broke in early December there had been only two high points for the committee.

One, he said, was when vice president Dick Pound was appointed to investigate the Salt Lake allegations for the IOC instead of one of their controversial dummies.

The second, he continued, came when nine members of the IOC resigned or were expelled and Samaranch apologized for the scandal.

"It was the first moment in which the sponsors correctly said, ‘Oh, he gets it,'” D’Alessandro said. "You know what? That was the last moment when it could be correctly said. ‘Oh, he gets it.’

So now, after weeks of supporting the IOC leadership, D’Alessandro laid out a plan to distance his company from the committee despite a contract that runs through the Sydney Games in 2000. He said he has removed the Olympic Rings from his company’s annual report and from correspondence due to be sent out over the next few months.

The rings also have been removed from John Hancock billboards at Fenway Park in Boston and other stadiums and arenas, he said.

"I don’t want to go to the expense of putting them back on,” he said.

And D’Alessandro said he had stopped talks about Olympic commercial time on NBC, the U.S. broadcast rights holder for the games through 2008. He estimated that package was worth $290 million.

"We’re not going to buy a nickel of advertising on NBC until we’re confident the IOC is going in the right direction,” he said.

The move was meant to pressure the network, the single biggest revenue source for the IOC, with a $3.57 billion rights contract, to try to convince the committee of the need for meaningful change.

"NBC tells them to change, you don’t think the IOC will listen? What are they going to do, go find someone else?’" D’Alessandro said.

The needed changes include open meetings and voting, term limits for members and more democratic procedures, he said.

D’Alessandro said the IOC contract offered no direct escape clause, “but you don’t have to promote it, you don’t have to use the rings.”

He also said that if the rings become too valuable as an advertising tool, “we would approach it as we would if we had bought the Olympic car. If that car does not operate properly and as expected, you no longer drive that car.”

D’Alessandro said he had not spoken with other sponsors regarding the scandal but had taken his concerns to top IOC officials.

"Their response was, ‘We’re going to investigate thoroughly and we’re going to do things right,” he said. "Please!"

---

If you had any brains at all, you’d be aware of the threat of depression.

Depression is a serious illness that can often be treated, from both ends medically. But it’s also rarely medically untreated. And that’s something you should always keep in mind.

http://www.save.org

WORKING IN NON-PROFITS

THE NON-PROFIT SECTOR

Advocacy
Arts
Civil Rights
Community Services
Education
Environment
Healthcare
Human Services
Legal Services
Philanthropy
Public Safety
Recreation
Religion
Social Action
Youth Development

Career Opportunities and Employer Expectations
A panel of non-profit professionals will discuss career opportunities, what they look for in the candidates they hire, and how to prepare when applying for jobs.

Julie Bendel
Communications Coordinator
Center for Social Concerns

Matt Towey
Volunteer Services Coordinator

Shelly Lindsay
Executive Director

Center for Social Concerns
Community Resource Center

Wednesday, February 10, 1999
4:00-5:30 PM
131 DeBartolo Hall

Attention Graduating Seniors:
Become a Campus Ministry Intern @ Notre Dame

learn & serve in Campus Ministry

live in Christian community

take classes & receive spiritual direction

Wednesday, February 10 @ 7pm or
Wednesday, February 18 @ 4:30pm

Informations Sessions:

La Fortune Student Lounge (next to the Info desk)
Questions? Call Jocker or Sylvia Dillon @ 631-7183

NEW YORK

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, February 10, 1999

SPORTS
Wednesday, February 10, 1999

NHL

Devils add to home losses with 4-3 Canuck victory

The Observer • SPORTS

Page 19

Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. Todd Bertuzzi scored on a spectacular spinning backhand with 3:36 to play and the Vancouver Canucks added to New Jersey’s home woes by just barely holding on to beat the Devils 4-3 on Tuesday night.

An apparent game-tying goal by Jason Arnott was waved off after the final buzzer. The green light came on and referee Steven Wallock waved off the goal after consulting with replay officials.

Dave Gagner, Brad May and Garth Snow had 38 saves in helping the Canucks break a four-game winning streak 10-3-11 and extend the Devils’ winless streak at home to four games 10-3-11.

The win was only the fourth in 20 games (4-13-3) and third in 18 road games for the Canucks.

Ken Dunynks, Scott Stevens and Bobby Holik scored for the Devils, with Holik’s quick turnaround shot pasting New Jersey ahead 3-2 at 3.5 seconds of the final period.

Gagner’s first goal since joining the Canucks nine games ago in the blockbuster trade that sent Pavel Bure to Florida tied the game 2-2 later.

Mark Messier set up the game winner by feeding Bertuzzi coming down the middle of the ice. The pass from the left sideboards was a little behind Bertuzzi and he did almost a 360-degree turn and then swept back a whisker past Martin Brodeur.

The Devils, who lost two of their last three home games by allowing two-goal leads, fell behind 2-0 in the opening 5:06 of this one.

May, whose goal on Sunday snapped a 17-game streak without a point, got his second in as many games by scoring at 57 seconds.

Donald Brashear set up Scott Niedermayer’s ninth by skating around the back of the net and throwing a pass in front to his wide open teammate.

Dunynks got the Devils back in the game 46 seconds later with his first goal in 41 games.

The defenseman’s shot from the left point bounce around 10 feet in front of Snow and then05 three seconds later over the goal tender’s shoulder.

Steven’s tied score at 13:11 with a shot from the left point after Bobby Holik beat Messier on a facooff.

Devils defensemen Kevin Dean returned to the lineup after missing three games because of an irregular heartbeat.

Brendan Shanahan keyed a four-goal second period with a goal and an assist as the Detroit Red Wings beat the Nashville Predators 5-2 Tuesday night.

The victory snapped a two-game losing skid for the two-time defending Stanley Cup champions, who had been 1-1 over their previous five.

The Red Wings got going by scoring three goals off just nine shots within the first eight minutes of the second.

Sergei Fedorov started the scoring, tapping in a 1-0 lead with a wrist shot from the left circle 31 seconds into the period.

Shanahan set up Kirk Maltby’s goal with a pass from behind the net and then scored himself three minutes later off a facooff with a slap shot from the top of the right circle at 5:06 of this one.

Shanahan was named the game’s first star with his first multi-point game since Dec. 22. The goal was his 20th this season, giving him 11 straight seasons with at least 20 goals.

Detroit wasn’t finished with the expansion Predators, 0-3-1 over their last four games.

Blair Atcheynum scored his seventh goal through the second, but Nicklas Lidstrom scored after taking a cross-ice pass from Larry Murphy for a 2-1 lead 13:12 into the period.

That was Lidstrom’s 400th career point.

Nashville pulled goaltender Mike Dunham after two periods in which he stopped 14 shots, and backup Tomas Vokoun blanked the Red Wings on 16 shots.

Detroit finished with 50 shots on goal, the second most in the season and four short of the 54 shots the Edmonton Oilers posted when they shut out the Dallas Stars 2-0 on Jan. 25.

The Avalanche fell to 0-9 at home after falling behind 2-0 after Nazarov’s bad-angle goal over Patrick Roy, who got his third shutout 2-19 into the final period.

The goal seemed to wake up the Avalanche, and they pulled within a goal two minutes later when Stephane Yelle poked home a rebound as he was falling down just outside the crease.

Roy, who had allowed just 11 goals in his past 21 games, made 28 saves to help the Avalanche improve to 2-1-0 in their last three.

The Avalanche are 6-2-1 since the new season began.

The Flames were left without a ranked opponent for the first time since a 3-2 defeat at Vancouver on Jan. 9.

The Avalanche, coming off an impressive four-game road trip, fell five games shy of the NHL record held by the San Jose Sharks and St. Louis Blues, who won 17 straight during the 1992-93 season.

Colorado looked uninspired after victories over Boston, Buffalo, Detroit and Dallas, falling behind 2-0 after Nazarov’s had-angle goal over Patrick Roy, who got his third shutout 2-19 into the final period.

The goal seemed to wake up the Avalanche, and they pulled within a goal two minutes later when Stephane Yelle poked home a rebound as he was falling down just outside the crease.

Roy, who had allowed just 11 goals in his past 21 games, made 28 saves to help the Avalanche improve to 2-1-0 in their last three.

The Avalanche fell to 0-9 at home after falling behind 2-0 after Nazarov’s bad-angle goal over Patrick Roy, who got his third shutout 2-19 into the final period.

The goal seemed to wake up the Avalanche, and they pulled within a goal two minutes later when Stephane Yelle poked home a rebound as he was falling down just outside the crease.

Roy, who had allowed just 11 goals in his past 21 games, made 28 saves to help the Avalanche improve to 2-1-0 in their last three.

The Avalanche fell to 0-9 at home after falling behind 2-0 after Nazarov’s bad-angle goal over Patrick Roy, who got his third shutout 2-19 into the final period.

The goal seemed to wake up the Avalanche, and they pulled within a goal two minutes later when Stephane Yelle poked home a rebound as he was falling down just outside the crease.
DALLAS

Karl Malone scored 31 points, including seven straight in a fourth-quarter surge Tuesday night as the Utah Jazz beat the Dallas Mavericks 90-79 for their third straight victory to open the season.

Malone, who scored 21 and 28 points as Utah beat Chicago and the Los Angeles Lakers in the first two games, put the Jazz ahead 76-74 with a basket with 6:37 to go. The Jazz never looked back against the new-look Mavericks, who played well for three quarters.

Malone, who also had 12 rebounds, scored two of his baskets off pick-and-roll passes from John Stockton, who had 12 points and five assists. Malone had nine points in the fourth quarter.

Howard Eisley had 11 points for the Jazz, the only other Utah player in double figures.

Dallas was paced by Cedric Ceballos with 19 points and Michael Finley and Dirk Nowitzki with 15 each. Nowitzki also had nine rebounds.

Ushas overcame a nine-point deficit to take a 94-77 lead when Stockton fed Malone for a basket with 5:22 left in the third quarter.

However, Dallas got nine points from Robert Pack in the period, including a layup and a free throw with 26.8 seconds left to tie the Jazz 64-all going into the fourth quarter.

The Mavericks surprised the Jazz with a 45-41 halftime lead behind the balanced scoring of Ceballos, who had 12 points, Finley, who had 10, and Nowitzki, who had 8, including a 3-pointer.

The Mavericks had nine-point leads on two occasions, and it took 16 points from Malone to keep Utah within reach.

BUCKS 93, RAPTORS 77

Ray Allen scored 17 points and survived a hard fall to the floor alongside Charles Oakley as the Milwaukee Bucks spoiled Toronto's home opener with a 93-77 win Tuesday night at historic Maple Leaf Gardens.

Allen, who left the game in the third with a sore back, came back in the fourth and hit two free throws in an 11-0 run that sealed the game.

Glenn Robinson finished with 16 points, Dell Curry added 15 off the bench and Terrell Brandon had 14.

Vince Carter led the Raptors with 22 points. Kevin Willis had 16 points and 11 rebounds, and Dee Brown scored 13 off the bench. Toronto's starting backcourt of Alvin Williams and Doug Christie went scoreless.

With Milwaukee leading by four points with five minutes to go in the third, Allen got tangled up with Thielker while fighting for a rebound. Oakley got up quickly but Allen remained on the floor for a minute grimacing in pain.

Allen came back with 8:57 to go in the fourth, and his two free throws started the 11-0 run.

Bucks fans followed with a 19-foot jumper and a free throw, Brown had a 24-foot jumper and Stephon Marbury fed the run with a jumper.

Chris Webber had 28 points and 20 rebounds, and Jason Williams scored 22 Tuesday night as the Sacramento Kings ended an 11-year, 24-game losing streak in Phoenix with an emphatic 112-93 victory over the Suns.

All five starters reached double figures for the Kings, who hadn't won in Phoenix since Jan. 30, 1988, and had never won at America West Arena, which opened in 1992.

Corey Williams made five of nine 3-pointers as the Kings shot 51 percent from the field, compared with 36 percent for the Suns.

Tom Gugliotta scored 26 for the Kings. Jason Kidd added 17 points and seven assists. Phoenix failed to sell out for the first time in 325 games, and those who showed up might have wished they hadn't.

Sacramento took the lead for good in the opening five minutes, went up by as many as 15 in the second quarter, led 71-71 after three and built a 22-point lead in the fourth.

The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, February 10, 1999

Jazz start season on right note with three-game streak

Come Join the Tradition

Applications are now being accepted for manager positions for the 1999-2000 academic school year.

You may pick up applications at the Office of Student Activities 315 LaFortune

Deadline: February 26, 1999

affordable student pricing

complete software selection

friendly customer service

www.ADWonline.com 1-800-333-8571

SPORTS WRITERS AND NEWS WRITERS. "Saint Mary's Photographers, Sports Writers and News Writers."

If interested, contact Shannon Ryan at 631-4324.
Kentucky edges out No. 24 Irish

Special to The Observer

The 24th-ranked Notre Dame men’s tennis team lost its second straight match on Sunday when it fell to 24th-ranked Kentucky, 4-3. With the loss, the Irish dropped to 3-2-2 this season.

The loss came as a surprise to the Irish, who had been playing well in recent weeks. However, Kentucky made the most of its opportunities on the court.

Kentucky won two of the three singles matches, while the Irish won one. The Irish lost at Nos. 1 and 3 singles, while Kentucky won at Nos. 2 and 4. The Irish won the doubles match at No. 2, but the Wildcats won the other two doubles matches.

Prior to the match, Irish head coach Bob Bayliss said that he had been searching for consistency from his team.

"We’ve been sticking to our game plan," Bayliss said. "Our defensive intensity has been there and our win is much higher than it has been recently."

New coach Craig Esheriek has led the team to a 3-6 record since taking over for John Thompson earlier in the year.

The Hoyas are 10-12 overall with only one conference win on the road.

"We know they’re going to come in here with some fire and emotion," Dillon said. "We know they’re going to shoot the ball and they’re going to get their misses because they don’t make a lot of shots, but they’re going to fire on all cylinders to spark his offense. Esheriek will look to Anthony Perez and Kevin Braswell, with 15.5 and 14.4 points per game, respectively.

The Hoyas have 39 percent of their attempts from the field while the Irish are only shooting 48 percent of their attempts.

"We’re going to stay in our game plan," Dillon said. "We’re going to try to out-rebound them and get them out of their playing power and hopefully get some more momentum. We’re looking to finish strong here and get some momentum going into the Big East Tournament."

Women’s Running Club

For all those who prefer companionship to the treadmill, the Women’s Running Club is open to runners of any level at Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame. They are intent on enjoying their workouts as they explore running routes around ND, Saint Mary’s and in South Bend. Call once at 4-2710 or Jenny at 4-2914 with questions.

The tournament will be held on Feb. 12, 13 and 14 at the Eck Tennis Pavilion. Call Rene at 4-2710 or Jen at 4-2914 with questions.

Cross-Country Ski Clinics — The final cross-country ski clinic will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. Come spend the day on the hospitably snow-covered Notre Dame Golf Course! Please register in advance at Better Gymnasium.

A copy of the official rules, please send a postcard with your name, address and phone number to MTV Promotion, 1515 Broadway, 24th Floor, New York, NY 10036.
IRISH IRON CLASSIC

Irish 'get pumped' for charity

By KERRY SMITH - Sports Writer

Notre Dame students had the chance to test their strength while contributing to the South Bend community Sunday at the Irish Iron Classic.

The third-annual bench press competition, sponsored by Dillon Hall, drew a record 140 participants. Coordinators James Gemarco and Burt Binenfeld were pleased with the event's turnout.

"I was especially pleased with the women's competition this year. We had nine teams enter which is great," said Gemarco. "We were hoping for a bigger turnout in the men's competition—it was a little below what we expected, but overall we were happy with the event."

All of the profits gained from the Classic will be donated to the South Bend Center for the Homeless. Gemarco estimated that because of this year's increased participation, Dillon Hall will donate about $500 to the charity.

The Classic awarded more than $1,000 in donated prizes to winners in the men's and women's competitions. Senior John Bergman won the title of "most outstanding lifter" in the men's individual competition with a combined lift of 590 pounds, earning him first place in his weight category, narrowly edging out his competitors.

Tommy O'Neill earned first place in the 161-170 weight class, boosting a lift of 283 pounds and Donald Doan snagged first place in the 186-200 weight class with a 320-pound lift—"most outstanding lifter" in the women's competition with a lift of 160 pounds.

In the team competition, a

Dillon Hall team of Mike Yang, Joe Lomangino, Joe Parke, Steve Meehan and Jason Vouner out-bench the competition with lifts exceeding the team's combined body weight by 454 pounds.

The Lyons Hall team, which included Amorosa, Carmen Fernandez, Lisa Thomas, Liz Keybloc and Heather Shannon, captured first place in the women's team competition with a combined lift of 590 pounds, edging out teams from Farley and Lewis.

Winners in each of the eight weight classes also received prizes. Kevin Harris captured the under-140 title with a lift of 260 pounds, while the 141-150 weight class title went to Mike Yang, who lifted 270 pounds.

Timmy O'Neill earned first place in the 161-170 weight class, boosting a lift of 283 pounds and Donald Doan snagged first place in the 186-200 weight class with a 320-pound lift, "most outstanding lifter" in the women's competition with a lift of 160 pounds.

Colletto

continued from page 24

years here I gained great appreciation for what Notre Dame is all about. As a coach, you always enjoy the experience with the students that couldn't be more true at Notre Dame."

W.B-ball

continued from page 24

When the teams first clashed on Dec. 12, the Irish had come off a tough loss to conference rival Connecticut and barely scrapped past the Wildcats, 63-62.

Lauren Poirier led the team in shooting, posting all five of the Wildcats' three-pointers. She has led the team in its last two victories, landing four treys en route to a game-high 16 points in last Saturday's 54-36 win at St. John's.

Riley, who scored a school-record 41 points two weeks ago at Providence, will match up against Villanova's Brandi Barnes. The 6-foot-3 Barnes scored 18 points against the Irish last time and leads the team this season with 18 blocks.

With Barnes manning the inside, the Irish need the outside game to come together with solid shooting from Sheila McMillen, Danielle Green and Ivory.

Notre Dame, ranked No. 6 in the Associated Press, stands in third place in the Big East with only five games remaining before the tournament. Villanova, with the confidence with a 7-4 record, will try to extend its win streak to three games.

---

IRISH IRISH JUMPER

By BILL McGUIRE - Assistant Editor

So You Think You're Irish—

It's Time to Test Your Heritage...

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

University-Wide T-Shirt Contest

- DESIGN A T-SHIRT for the student body
- submit your entry to STUDENT GOVERNMENT (203 LaFun)
- anticipate winning great PRIZES
- see students wearing YOUR DESIGN all around campus
- Designs due February 17th
- Call 1-7668 for more details

---

CLASS OF 2002!!!

Want to learn about South Bend Service Opportunities?

NEIGHBORHOOD ROOTS

- February 27, 1999 12:00 - 3:00 p.m.
- Learn more about South Bend on a guided tour
- Learn about service facilities in town
- Eat some good grub
- Meet other freshmen

Sign-ups in the dining halls: February 10, 11, and 12
From 5:00 - 7:00 p.m.

Brought to you by Student Government- Putting Students First

---

So You Think You're Irish—
CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Stoppings
2. Stored rabbit
3. That — its me!
5. One banned from a U.N. nicely zone
6. Say again
7. How Oscar categorized his meals?
8. Smoothly change briefly categorized his table
9. Hair support, acrostically
10. Subway
11. Always say
12. Say
13. Mets, Jets or Nets
14. California
15. Grenache, e.g.
16. I might bring you up to scratch
17. My MOTH SENSE, has DETECTED A MEETING.

DOWN
1. Chair supports
2. Growing room
3. Qb Flutie
4. Magnify
5.マンション
6. Lung, e.g.
7. Walks softly
8. Wiggles
9. The dark side
10. Rainy day reserves
11. Quo’s country
12. Abbr., "Come again"
13. Step on
14. Rebel leader of "The St."
15. J. P. Morgan
16. That’s it
17. Standard product
18. First marker, maybe
19. It is human
20. Magna
21. Spokes
22. 3rd floor's wearer, informally
23. Had a Koolie-cooked meal
24. Went a round
25. Atomic particle
26. Contaminate for a blood typer
27. Traffic filler
28. Feel bad about
29. One or more
30. Come to the point?
31. Whine the wind "gale"!

CURIERSIES BORN ON THIS
D AY
ARIES
MARCS
CAPRICORN
AQUARIUS
PISCES
SCORPIO
SAGITTARIUS
CANCER
LEO
VIRGO
LIBRA
SCELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS
D A Y
Robert Wagner, Laura Dern, Judith Anderson, Robert Flaherty, Mark
Holton
HAPPY BIRTHDAY: You’re expected to enjoy the events of your day, and if you’re able to take a chance on something new, you may come up with a new plan that will add some spice to your existential. Get back to the basics of like home, family and pastimes. If you try to do too much this day, you could end up exhausting yourself or relationships. Be careful with what really matters to you, and you will be much happier. Your numbers 32, 27, 36, 35, 37.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Don’t hesitate to make career changes. They will provide you with valuable lessons, allowing you to mature on your own. Take the time to reflect on your life experience. Disagreements in your home are likely.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The road ahead will not be as smooth as you expect it to be. Spend money on others. Your lack of judgment will be corrected by a friend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Initial actions may be a little confusing. Try to keep your line in perspective and don’t be willing to conform to others who can’t show you their abilities.

CANCER (June 22-July 22): Don’t let your personal life interfere with your productivity at work.
You can make gains if you work well in cooperation with colleagues. Your home environment will be available today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Complete these current personal goals that you’ve been diligently working on in order to improve your self-esteem and raise your esteem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don’t let your guard down by getting too involved in activities that require too much responsibility.

CROSSWORD ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

BIL AMEND

THE OBSERVER • TODAY
LOOKING THROUGH THE WIZARD OF ND

DAN SULLIVAN

YOUR HOROSCOPE
EUGENIA LAST

Thursday, February 10, 1999 The Observer • page 23
Hoyas, ESPN visit Irish at Joyce

By JOEY CAVATO

Associate Sports Editor

Georgetown and ESPN. You can hear the opportunity knocking for the Notre Dame men's basketball squad.

The 12-11 Irish will host the Hoyas at 9 p.m. in front of an ESPN prime time audience for the first time this season.

"It's nice that we're going to get a little national recognition here and it's at a good time," point guard Jimmy Dillon said. "Now we're starting to make a move again and it's nice to see that the general public will see that Notre Dame basketball is making a move. We're playing good basketball right now and we're all looking forward to the game.

Wildcats Basketball

Notre Dame hosts No. 6 team to avenge early-season loss

By ANTHONY BIANCO

Assistant Sports Editor

The Irish continue to surprise opponents with their diverse attack as the Big East season hits the final stretch en route to the conference tournament.

Both Riley, leading the team with 17.2 points per game, usually provides the offensive spark for Notre Dame. But when Riley shot just 0-for-1 in the first half Saturday against Seton Hall, the Irish its outside shooters picked up the slack.

Niele Ivey scored the game-high 15 points and a season-high 11 assists in the 77-49 victory over the Pirates. In addition, freshman Ericka Haney stepped up inside, logging 14 points and picking off six rebounds.

This offensive versatility will be key as the Big East season winds down and Notre Dame faces teams it struggled with in the past, starting with Villanova tonight.

"It's a big week for us," said head coach Muffet McGraw. "I think obviously this is a critical week in the conference scheduling. Villanova is a team we struggled against last year and Bob Hinkle just getting a one-point win and out there we've struggled on occa-

Colletto: Former Offensive Coordinator

Colletto's exit vacates another spot

By ALAN WISALEWSKI

Sports Writer

Jim Colletto will leave Notre Dame to coach the Baltimore Ravens' offensive line, the NFL organization announced Monday.

After days of speculation about the 1998 Irish offensive coordinator's career plans, the move makes Colletto Notre Dame's fourth assistant coach to leave during this off season. Quarterback coach Mike Sanford took a job with the San Diego Chargers, defensive line coach Charlie Strong re-enlisted with Lou Holtz at South Carolina, and defensive backfield coach Tom McMahon took the defensive coordinator position at Colorado.

Head coach Bob Davie has not limited the candidate pool for Colletto's replacement, but did express a renewed commitment to running the option, which might influence his choice for the next offensive coordinator.

Davie spoke Tuesday about Colletto's achievements in the Irish football program.

"I appreciate all the effort and hard work Jim has put into the program over the last two years," Davie said. "Baltimore could have hired a lot of different offensive line coaches. The fact they've hired Jim Colletto is a great compliment to him and what he has accomplished."

Colletto expressed his sentiments about working at Notre Dame.

"I would like to thank Mike Wudworth, George Kelly and Bob Davie for giving me the opportunity to coach at the University of Notre Dame," Colletto said. "In my own way, I appreciate all the effort and hard work Jim has put into the program over the last two years," Davie said. "Baltimore could have hired a lot of different offensive line coaches. The fact they've hired Jim Colletto is a great compliment to him and what he has accomplished."

Colletto expressed his sentiments about working at Notre Dame.

"I would like to thank Mike Wudworth, George Kelly and Bob Davie for giving me the opportunity to coach at the University of Notre Dame," Colletto said. "In my own way, I appreciate all the effort and hard work Jim has put into the program over the last two years," Davie said. "Baltimore could have hired a lot of different offensive line coaches. The fact they've hired Jim Colletto is a great compliment to him and what he has accomplished."

Colletto expressed his sentiments about working at Notre Dame.

"I would like to thank Mike Wudworth, George Kelly and Bob Davie for giving me the opportunity to coach at the University of Notre Dame," Colletto said. "In my own way, I appreciate all the effort and hard work Jim has put into the program over the last two years," Davie said. "Baltimore could have hired a lot of different offensive line coaches. The fact they've hired Jim Colletto is a great compliment to him and what he has accomplished."

No Dame will take a two-game win streak to the court against Georgetown with the national cameras rolling, hoping a win will give the team an end-of-season push towards tournament play.

Men's Basketball

Notre Dame heads into final stretch of Big East season play

By JOEY CAVATO

Assistant Sports Editor

"It's nice that we're going to get a little national recognition here and it's at a good time," point guard Jimmy Dillon said. "Now we're starting to make a move again and it's nice to see that the general public will see that Notre Dame basketball is making a move. We're playing good basketball right now and we're all looking forward to the game.

John MacLeod's squad enters tonight's game after two of its better wins of the season. The Irish simply spanked Providence at home, a weekend-and-a-half ago and then soundly beat Seton Hall on the road Saturday.

Notre Dame might have felt a sense of urgency after losses to Rutgers and Boston College last week on Nov. 16 and becomes the second Notre Dame player to be honored by the Big East Ibis season with a 19-2 mark. Ivey, one of four players in double figures, averages 13.3 points per game, 6.7 assists per game and 2.6 steals per game.

Junior guard Niele Ivey's 16-point average against Seton Hall and Boston College have earned her a second player-of-week honor.

Men's tennis

vs. Georgetown

Tonight, 9 p.m.

at Villanova

Tonight, 7:30 p.m.

Women's tennis

vs. Duke

Saturday, 9 a.m.

at Villanova

Tonight, 3 p.m.

at Ohio State

Friday, 6 p.m.

Men's tennis

see W.B-BALL / page 21

Women's tennis

see W.B-BALL / page 22

Football

Colletto: Former Offensive Coordinator

Finished 2nd year as Irish offensive coordinator in 1998...spent six years as head coach at Purdue (1991-96)...five seasons as head coach at Cal State Fullerton...offensive coordinator at Ohio State (1988-90), Arizona State (1985-87), and Purdue (1985-84)