Notre Dame campus experiences e-mail server problems

By JASON McFARLEY
News Writer

Reaching what Office of Information Technology (OIT) officials refer to as the "critical stage" Tuesday afternoon, an extended outage of the University's electronic mail server was expected to be resolved by 8 p.m. today — nearly a full day after a brought campus online communication systems to a standstill.

"We're looking to restore the server by eight in the morning. We want to inspect files and make sure that everything is working properly," OIT senior technologist Jeremy McCarty said Tuesday night.

"This team works from the time the problem is discovered until it is under control," said Larry Rapagnani, assistant provost for computing.

On Tuesday, problems with Daggert, the University's e-mail server, first arose around 11:27 a.m., according to Rapagnani. Within an hour, the problem became extremely inaccessible to users of campus e-mail.

OIT representatives initially traced the malfunction to the server's drives, but they were hampered by the discovery of another problem in one of the server's drives.

Rapagnani said his office was flooded Tuesday with calls from frustrated e-mail users unable to access their accounts in response, telephone and voicemail messages were sent to faculty and administrators, alerting them that the difficulties were only temporary. Resident Computer Consultants also received calls.

Still, by 4:30 Tuesday afternoon, nearly four hours after the server shut down — officials had released the server's drives — the problem was still unresolved with the four-hour mark.

"This failure probably doesn't rank as a major problem when you look at it from the standpoint that the server hasn't been down in two years," said Rapagnani. "It would appear that we're doing a stellar job."

But that may have been of little comfort Tuesday to members of the Notre Dame community who have come to rely on the campus technology.

"It's been upsetting for me because I communicate with a lot of my friends and family members via e-mail. I can't afford to call my sister in Pennsylvania at Villanova University," said Wibbens, who checks her e-mail up to 10 times a day.

"We're still educating students more about the amount of information available," Pace said.

Upon learning of the new system, some students have expressed concerns about the amount of information available. "The information we give to faculty is on a need-to-know basis," said Lora Spaulding, associate registrar.

"Past grade history is none of their business and has nothing to do with how you're doing in their class. We sometimes get requests, but we wouldn't give that kind of information out," Pace added.

The security of posting students more about their business and has nothing to do with how you're doing in their class. We sometimes get requests, but we wouldn't give that kind of information out," Pace added.
INSIDE COLUMN

A Touch of Class

Everyone can agree that the loss against Nebraska Saturday afternoon was a tough one. Players, students and fans poured their hearts and souls into that game. Despite the loss, we all came away with a lot. We now know that our football team is living past expectations; we now know just how closely the student section can hold us.

I must say I was feeling pretty good about the quality of people at Notre Dame. I had the chance to reflect upon that feeling as I settled down for an early evening nap after the game. My roommate turned off the lights, climbed into our bunk and recalled the day's events as we tried to drift off to sleep.

However, our naps were soon interrupted by loud screams and laughter just outside our window. No, it wasn't an obvious Nebraska fans celebrating their victory. It was worse.

I pulled back the window shade to find a group of Notre Dame students in their green shirts, kicking open one of the cardboard garbage bins outside of Bond Hall, and spreading the trash all over the grass. They all thought it was a pretty funny thing to do. I was disgusted.

What could I do to stop them from being so rude, so disrespectful, so ungrateful?

All we could think to do was yell out of our window. However, when I looked out of my dorm window and saw no one, I knew we could see what they were doing and that we didn't think it was a very cool thing to do. They looked up with confused faces and replied, "Who is that?"

I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus?

I observed them run away from the scene, giving each other high fives the same way students did when we made three touchdowns earlier that day.

It was my impression that Notre Dame students felt a certain loyalty to this campus, to these buildings, to these names. When we looked in on that group of seven or eight children, as I now call them, thought it was their dorm day, they were doing what they wanted just for the sake of their good time.

I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus? I wanted to shout back, "Who are you?" Who are you to literally trash our campus?

Everyone can agree that the loss against Nebraska Saturday afternoon was a tough one. Players, students and fans poured their hearts and souls into that game. Despite the loss, we all came away with a lot. We now know that our football team is living past expectations; we now know just how closely the student section can hold us.

The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All republications are encouraged.

Maureen Smithie
Assistant News Editor

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

TODAY'S STAFF

News
Laurie Keely
Finn Preddy
Lie Zemni
Sports
Kate McCoy
Viewpoint
Lane Harrington
Production
Rachel Pressly
Lab Tech
Meg Kroener

This Week on Campus

Wednesday
• Meeting: Student Senate, 6 p.m., Notre Dame LaFortune

Thursday
• Cultural event: 5:30 p.m., Mariachi San Miguel and inauguration of Fieldhouse Mall (train station)

Friday
• Pep Rally: 6:40 p.m., Joyce Center

Saturday
• Game: Notre Dame vs. Purdue, noon

UNLV running rebels

LAS VEGAS
A university regent called University of Nevada-Las Vegas police "keystone cops" and "a bunch of cowboys" at a subcommittee meeting Thursday and suggested that UNLV police be disarmed after he read the report on the bungled March 9 drug raid.

Regent Doug Hill gave his unashamed reaction to the highly sought, 1000-page confidential report despite requests by university attorney Tom Ray to refrain from making negative comments publicly.

"I'm very concerned about the safety of our students [which is] in direct contradiction to the wall of silence," Hill said. He lamented the "incompetence and lack of training and the direct violation of instruction of" the raiding officers and "the way the dorm advisor, Mr. Miles, was handcuffed, treated and put against the wall among other misconduct during the raid.

Twelve police officers and a Metro canine unit entered six rooms with guns drawn. They broke down two doors on the second floor of the Royal Residential Hall, according to Hill. They handcuffed several students and a resident hall coordinator, making one arrest for felony opium trafficking. After four months, the district attorney charged Craig Adler with two felonies for possession of marijuana residue in a water pipe and for the possession of four ecstasy tablets. The 18 plastic bags contained fragmentary, not opium.

Hill requested another report to be made available to the public with names omitted.

"If this is the kind of conduct we can expect from the UNLV police department, then the question is, do the students have more to fear from minor drug use or the UNLV police department?" Hill asked.

UNLV president blasts local police force

McGILL UNIVERSITY

Newspaper battles campus lease

MONREAL
The McGill Daily and the Students' Society of McGill University find themselves in a heated court battle over a lease dispute between the two parties, after the Students' Society deemed it necessary to lock the paper out of its offices. For several years now, SSMU has been planning renovations to the Shannon Building to make it a more student-friendly facility. This includes increasing access for disabled students by adding a ground level access on the south side of the building. In doing so, the construction will take part of the area occupied by the Daily's offices. As a result, SSMU is seeking to restructure the paper's lease agreement, removing 229 of the 1700 square feet of space from the paper's offices. Negotiations toward a new lease, however, were plagued over the summer by disagreements between the two sides. This stalemate eventually led SSMU to put a bolt on The Daily's office on August 4, denying the staff access.

THE OBSERVER

Wednesday, September 13, 2000

The Viewpoint

Report: Sunday supplement, 10 p.m., Factic Hall

The view expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

OUTSIDE THE DOME

UNLV president blasts local police force

Las Vegas
A university regent called University of Nevada-Las Vegas police "keystone cops" and "a bunch of cowboys" at a subcommittee meeting Thursday and suggested that UNLV police be disarmed after he read the report on the bungled March 9 drug raid.

Regent Doug Hill gave his unashamed reaction to the highly sought, 1000-page confidential report despite requests by university attorney Tom Ray to refrain from making negative comments publicly.

"I'm very concerned about the safety of our students [which is] in direct contradiction to the wall of silence," Hill said. He lamented the "incompetence and lack of training and the direct violation of instruction of" the raiding officers and "the way the dorm advisor, Mr. Miles, was handcuffed, treated and put against the wall among other misconduct during the raid.

Twelve police officers and a Metro canine unit entered six rooms with guns drawn. They broke down two doors on the second floor of the Royal Residential Hall, according to Hill. They handcuffed several students and a resident hall coordinator, making one arrest for felony opium trafficking. After four months, the district attorney charged Craig Adler with two felonies for possession of marijuana residue in a water pipe and for the possession of four ecstasy tablets. The 18 plastic bags contained fragmentary, not opium.

Hill requested another report to be made available to the public with names omitted.

"If this is the kind of conduct we can expect from the UNLV police department, then the question is, do the students have more to fear from minor drug use or the UNLV police department?" Hill asked.

University of Maryland

Crowd heckles Rwandan president

The McGill Daily and the Students' Society of McGill University find themselves in a heated court battle over a lease dispute between the two parties, after the Students' Society deemed it necessary to lock the paper out of its offices. For several years now, SSMU has been planning renovations to the Shannon Building to make it a more student-friendly facility. This includes increasing access for disabled students by adding a ground level access on the south side of the building. In doing so, the construction will take part of the area occupied by the Daily's offices. As a result, SSMU is seeking to restructure the paper's lease agreement, removing 229 of the 1700 square feet of space from the paper's offices. Negotiations toward a new lease, however, were plagued over the summer by disagreements between the two sides. This stalemate eventually led SSMU to put a bolt on The Daily's office on August 4, denying the staff access.

LOCAL WEATHER

5-Day South Florida Forecast:

The AccuWeather forecast for noon, Wednesday, Sept. 13. Lines separate high temperature zones for the day.

The McGill Daily and the Students' Society of McGill University find themselves in a heated court battle over a lease dispute between the two parties, after the Students' Society deemed it necessary to lock the paper out of its offices. For several years now, SSMU has been planning renovations to the Shannon Building to make it a more student-friendly facility. This includes increasing access for disabled students by adding a ground level access on the south side of the building. In doing so, the construction will take part of the area occupied by the Daily's offices. As a result, SSMU is seeking to restructure the paper's lease agreement, removing 229 of the 1700 square feet of space from the paper's offices. Negotiations toward a new lease, however, were plagued over the summer by disagreements between the two sides. This stalemate eventually led SSMU to put a bolt on The Daily's office on August 4, denying the staff access.

The McGill Daily and the Students' Society of McGill University find themselves in a heated court battle over a lease dispute between the two parties, after the Students' Society deemed it necessary to lock the paper out of its offices. For several years now, SSMU has been planning renovations to the Shannon Building to make it a more student-friendly facility. This includes increasing access for disabled students by adding a ground level access on the south side of the building. In doing so, the construction will take part of the area occupied by the Daily's offices. As a result, SSMU is seeking to restructure the paper's lease agreement, removing 229 of the 1700 square feet of space from the paper's offices. Negotiations toward a new lease, however, were plagued over the summer by disagreements between the two sides. This stalemate eventually led SSMU to put a bolt on The Daily's office on August 4, denying the staff access.
Professor develops new method to fight bacterial infections

By MOLLY MCVOY
News Writer

The trojan horse is back, but this time it is fighting micro­scopic invaders. Marvin Miller and members of his organic labor­atory at Notre Dame have developed a new method for fighting bacterial infections. Nicknamed "the trojan horse," their method "sneaks" antibiotic agents into the infecting bacteria.

The lab's project was the cover for the August issue of the Journal of Organic Chemistry, one of the most well-respected journals in Miller's field. Miller's method attaches antibiotic agents to molecules the bacteria cell incorporates as part of normal functioning. The antibiotic can then enter the cell and destroy the bacteria, Miller said.

"The microbes are essentially committing suicide," Miller said. In order to survive, bacteria need to incorporate iron into their system and do so using molecules called "siderophores." The siderophores are the molecules to which Miller's lab has attached antibiotics. "We have demonstrated that it worked several times," Miller said. As bacterial diseases become more and more resistant to current antibiotics, work such as Miller's has become increasingly important in the medical community. Many bacteria fight antibiotics by refusing them entry into the cell by attach­ing the drug to something the bacteria recognize as normal, the lab has found. A large part of the resistance problem is that "We may be able to bypass one of the defense mech­anisms [of the bacterial] by bypassing the normal transport of antibiotics into the cell," Miller said. The lab has had the most suc­cess attaching a key component of penicillin, beta-lactams, to the siderophores. One of Miller's current tasks is to make the method applicable for more drugs.

"Our idea is that we'd like to fine tune this method so we have microorganism specific antibiotics." Marvin Miller professor of chemistry

Miller joined the faculty at Notre Dame in 1977, after receiving his B.S. in chemistry from North Dakota State University in 1971 and his Ph.D. from Cornell University in 1976. He has received numerous awards and fellowships during his tenure at Notre Dame and was given the Shulman Leonard Teaching Award of the College of Science at the University for excellence in teaching in 1994.

Acclaimed author teaches journalism class at Notre Dame

By ERIN LaRUFFA
Assistant News Editor

Writer Alex Kotlowitz will spend every Monday this fall traveling between his home in Chicago and a classroom in the Main Building at Notre Dame.

Kotlowitz is known among Notre Dame Arts and Letters majors as the author of "There Are No Children Here," a book about two brothers living in a Chicago housing project. Sophomore Core classes read the book during the fall semester. In addition to writing books, Kotlowitz has been writing for the New Yorker and New York Times Magazine as well as teaching winter courses at Northwestern University. He previously wrote for The Wall Street Journal.

In his class at Notre Dame, Kotlowitz said he will cover the role and nature of narrative nonfiction writing. "Narrative fiction has taken on a much more prominent role than it had 30 or 40 years ago," Kotlowitz said.

The opportunity to study the partic­ular form of journalism with Kotlowitz convinced senior American studies majors Erica Thesing and Brian Hobbins to take the course.

"I was really familiar with his work. That style of deep investigative report­ing really interests me," said Thesing, adding that Kotlowitz has real-world journalism experience that will help students.

"I read 'There Are No Children Here' in Core sophomore year and I was impressed by what he did with that book," said Thesing, who is concen­trating in journalism. "As journalists, we have an opportunity to impact social issues."

Students in the course will do a sig­nificant amount of writing over the semester and will read some of Kotlowitz's work, including "The Other Side of the River." Thesing said she is looking forward to asking questions about the story to the person who actually wrote it.

Although Kotlowitz has a successful career in journalism, he did not always plan on being "in the business," Kotlowitz, who attended Wesleyan University, was originally a biology major. "I decided about half way through that I didn't want to spend the rest of my life in a laboratory," Kotlowitz said.

He was unsure what to do after graduating with a political science degree, so he worked at a cattle ranch for a year. Then he went to work at a small Michigan newspaper where he real­ized he could "carve out a career" in journalism.

From the beginning of his journalism career, Kotlowitz has been pushed into other communities in which he had to talk to strangers. "You spend time with people, [and] you inevitably build a relationship with them," he explained. "That's the thing I love about this work."

One community Kotlowitz ventured into during his career was the Chicago housing project that was the setting of "There Are No Children Here." What he saw was a world different from the one he was accustomed to.

"I was pretty horrified, mostly by the violence," Kotlowitz said. "Having such an impact on the attention of people who live on the outside is one important role of narrative nonfiction." It offers a window onto a part of the public discourse," he said. "I don't set to earth" attitude surprised him.

"Sometimes I feel like I'm writing a piece of writing that will change matters of public policy or public discourse," he said. "I don't set out in my work to do that. I certainly don't think of myself as an advocacy journalist. I see myself as a story­teller.

Hobbins said that Kotlowitz's "down to earth" attitude surprised him. "He's really receptive and humble for someone who's had so much suc­cess," Hobbins said. "I think it's going to be a really rewarding experience to be in his class." Thesing added.
Emails and pictures continued from page 1.

Spaulding. "If there are abus-

Pictures continued from page 1.

Internet was a major consid-

Do you want to go to Disney World?
Enter the Notre Dame vs Navy SUB contest so you can win the Student Travel Package that includes:

A two-person gift certificate for ND vs Navy game tickets, hotel accommodations, and two-day Disney World Theme Park Passes!

Look for us on September 13th & 14th at the Dining Halls and in LaFortune
It's $2.00 to buy a ticket & you may buy as many chances as you'd like.

The Observer • CAMPUS NEWS
Wednesday, September 13, 2000

Copyright 2000 • All Rights Reserved • 09/00 www.reld.edu/csub

Go to www.CopyShopND.com!
National News Briefs

N.J. halts bear hunt: Wildlife officials on Tuesday voted to scrap what would have been the first scheduled black bear hunt in the nation's most densely populated state in 29 years. The New Jersey Fish and Game Council voted 6-4 to halt a hunt that was to begin next Monday. The board heard criticism from local governments and environmental groups, and one lawsuit against the hunt was filed by animal groups, individuals and towns.

Selma elects first black mayor: Businessman James Perkins was elected mayor Tuesday, becoming the first black to win the office in a city where blood was shed in a 1965 crusade that opened voting booths to blacks across the South. Perkins, 47, ousted Mayor Joe Smitherman, a former segregationist who returned last month from a microbiology convention in San Diego. On Sunday, his wife discovered mysterious powder in the package he had brought back from the conference when she opened it.

Firefighters decontaminate a home after Donna Skatrud discovered mysterious powder along with a note suggesting the material contained a disease. Paul Skatrud is a microbiologist who returned last month from a microbiology convention in San Diego. On Sunday, his wife discovered mysterious powder in the package he had brought back from the conference when she opened it.

Indiana News Briefs

Bioterrorism threat scares couple: Firefighters decontaminated a home after Donna Skatrud discovered mysterious powder along with a note suggesting the material contained a disease. Paul Skatrud is a microbiologist who returned last month from a microbiology convention in San Diego. On Sunday, his wife discovered mysterious powder in the package he had brought back from the conference when she opened it.

U.S. grants visas to Cuban lawmakers

Libya

Hostages gain freedom, at a price

Authorities pay $10 million for release

TRIPOLI
Four men held captive in the Philippines for 140 days gained a historic fortress on the Mediterranean to offer thanks to Libya for arranging their release, then finally headed home to be reunited with family and friends.

Libya reportedly paid the Abu Sayaf rebels of the southern Philippines $10 million in exchange for the freedom of the four men and six other hostages released last month.

"We are now facing the sunrise after a long time of darkness," said Risto Vahanan, who spoke for the hostages freed Saturday during the luxurious ceremony at the Red Palace, bordering Tripoli's ancient walled quarter.

Former captives German Marc Wallert, Frenchman Stephane Loisy and Finn Sten Frantti all expressed their gratitude to the Libyan government for its work to free the men.

Some speakers wore dark glasses against the glare of the Mediterranean sun, and their hair and clothes were drenched by sea breezes during the outdoor gathering.

The ceremony appeared to bring the Libyans the results they hoped for — maximum publicity for their role in the hostage saga to win international respectability for their country, long accused of sponsoring terrorism and meddling in the affairs of other nations.

Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi, who did not attend the ceremony last week, hopes for improved relations with the United States. His decision last year to surrender for a trial in the West two Libyans accused in the 1988 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 led to the suspension of U.N. sanctions and better ties with Europe.

Wallert, whose parents had been kidnapped as well but set free before he arrived, Germany's foreign minister, Joschka Fischer was flying to Tripoli to thank the government in person.

Asked after the ceremony whether Libya's prestige had been boosted by its role in freeing the hostages, Sue El-Islam Gadafi, the Libyan leader's son, said, "Of course."

"Libya denies paying ransom for the captives' freedom, saying it only offered funding for development projects in the impoverished, largely Muslim southern Philippines. Libya has longstanding ties with Muslim rebels in the Muslim-dominated Philippines, and it has offered funding for development projects in the impoverished, largely Muslim southern Philippines.

Libya has longstanding ties with Muslim rebels in the Muslim-dominated Philippines, and it has offered funding for development projects in the impoverished, largely Muslim southern Philippines.

U.S. grants visas to Cuban lawmakers
Wal-Mart quits selling sauce due to racism

Associated Press

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Wal-Mart said Tuesday that it will no longer sell a popular barbecue sauce in six Southern states because the manufacturer sells merchandise with racist overtones.

Maurice Bessinger’s mustard-based sauce was removed from shelves of eight Sam’s Club stores in North Carolina and South Carolina two weeks ago after a consumer complained about the Confederate flags at Bessinger’s restaurants.

Wal-Mart, which owns Sam’s Club, said Tuesday that after investigating the complaint, it will remove the product from more than 90 Wal-Mart stores across the South. The discount retailer said the sauce is only in Southern stores.

The customer complained because Bessinger had removed the U.S. flag from his eight Piggy Park restaurants and replaced it with state and Confederate flags. Wal-Mart visited the restaurants before dropping Bessinger as a vendor.

“We’re just not comfortable with some of the things he is selling in there,” Wal-Mart spokesman Jay Allen said.

“Their sauce is uniquely rich in Southern spices,” Allen said.

Wal-Mart spokesman David Brandon said Wal-Mart was trampling on his right to free speech.

“I came into the world poor and I will not yield to those who would destroy our sacred Constitution,” said Wal-Mart’s chairman.

Bessinger’s sauce is sold at stores based on principle. He refused to meet with the company, saying he had nothing to say.

“I believe the time has now come to move ahead,” Annan said, adding that the “equal status of the parties must and should be recognized explicitly in the comprehensive settlement.”

The two leaders left the U.N. building after separate meetings of about an hour each, without saying anything to waiting reporters.

Annan told rival Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash that both sides had been trying to reach a settlement through indirect talks.

The resolutions, which are rejected by Denktash and the Turkish government, also call for the withdrawal of the 35,000 Turkish troops and estimated 80,000 Turkish Cypriot refugees from the Turkish breakaway statelet, continue to be binding.

Annan said he had ascertained that the establishment of a commonwealth of Greek and Turkish Cypriot states, with the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities, will be the last step in the establishment of a confederation of separate states, with the Greek and Turkish Cypriots living separately.

Why is TIAA-CREF the #1 choice nationwide?

The TIAA-CREF Advantage.

Year in and year out, employees at education and research institutions have turned to TIAA-CREF.

And for good reasons:

- Easy diversification among a range of expertly managed funds
- A solid history of performance and exceptional personal service
- A strong commitment to low expenses
- PLUS, a range of flexible retirement income options

For decades, TIAA-CREF has helped professors and staff at over 9,000 campuses across the country invest for—and enjoy—successful retirements.

Choosing your retirement plan provider is simple. Go with the leader—TIAA-CREF.
Skin cancer gives McCain new facial scar

The Arizona Republican and former Vietnam POW had surgery last month to remove a cancerous tumor on his temple and several nearby lymph nodes. Tests found no evidence the cancer had spread, meaning McCain stands an excellent chance of being cured. McCain's first duty since the surgery as Senate Commerce Committee chairman was holding a hearing on the recall of Firestone tires. The former GOP presidential candidate came to the hearing with a large bandage on his temple and a swollen scar trailing from there to his jaw line, where the lymph nodes were removed.

McCain spokesman Nancy Ives said the senator's doctors think he is healing nicely. "To have him looking so healthy following 5 1/2 hours of surgery, we are very, very pleased," Ives said. "We think he looks great."

Skin cancer is most often caused by exposure to the sun. McCain, who had another tumor removed from his arm last month and one removed from a shoulder in 1993, says he wears sunscreen, stays out of the sun as much as possible and gets checkups every three months. He opened the press conference, then retreated to the shade of a nearby tree, and left soon thereafter.

"John's getting out of the sun, which he keeps telling me to do," said Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt.

McCain's first duty since the former Vietnam POW had surgery last month to remove a cancerous tumor on his temple and several nearby lymph nodes. Tests found no evidence the cancer had spread, meaning McCain stands an excellent chance of being cured. McCain's first duty since the surgery as Senate Commerce Committee chairman was holding a hearing on the recall of Firestone tires. The former GOP presidential candidate came to the hearing with a large bandage on his temple and a swollen scar trailing from there to his jaw line, where the lymph nodes were removed.

McCain's first duty since the former Vietnam POW had surgery last month to remove a cancerous tumor on his temple and several nearby lymph nodes. Tests found no evidence the cancer had spread, meaning McCain stands an excellent chance of being cured. McCain's first duty since the surgery as Senate Commerce Committee chairman was holding a hearing on the recall of Firestone tires. The former GOP presidential candidate came to the hearing with a large bandage on his temple and a swollen scar trailing from there to his jaw line, where the lymph nodes were removed.

McCain's first duty since the former Vietnam POW had surgery last month to remove a cancerous tumor on his temple and several nearby lymph nodes. Tests found no evidence the cancer had spread, meaning McCain stands an excellent chance of being cured. McCain's first duty since the surgery as Senate Commerce Committee chairman was holding a hearing on the recall of Firestone tires. The former GOP presidential candidate came to the hearing with a large bandage on his temple and a swollen scar trailing from there to his jaw line, where the lymph nodes were removed.

McCain's first duty since the former Vietnam POW had surgery last month to remove a cancerous tumor on his temple and several nearby lymph nodes. Tests found no evidence the cancer had spread, meaning McCain stands an excellent chance of being cured. McCain's first duty since the surgery as Senate Commerce Committee chairman was holding a hearing on the recall of Firestone tires. The former GOP presidential candidate came to the hearing with a large bandage on his temple and a swollen scar trailing from there to his jaw line, where the lymph nodes were removed.
8th Annual Emil T. Hofman Lecture
(Did your mom or dad take his chemistry course?)

“A BIRD’S EYE VIEW OF OPHTHALMOLOGY: FROM MEMPHIS TO MADAGASCAR”

1. Anatomy and pathophysiology of the human eye
2. Common eye diseases; new treatments and techniques
   - age-related macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy, glaucoma, cataracts, optic neuropathy
   - LASIK (refractive surgery among professional athletes and the general population)
3. Medical mission project-China, Mexico, Africa, South Africa, Brazil, Madagascar

William C. Hurd
Ophthalmologist, Memphis Tennessee
Saturday, September 16, 2000
9:00 a.m. - 10:00 a.m. (Before Purdue game)
Room 101 DeBartolo Hall

Co-sponsored by Saint Joseph’s Regional Medical Center, South Bend Campus and the Notre Dame Alumni Association

Dr. Hurd Now
Bush denies using subliminal messages in television ad

WASHINGTON

The GOP ad denies bureaucrats but Democrats see something more subtle: rats.

In a Republican National Committee ad that has aired in several key states, the word "rats" appears on screen for a fleeting moment before the full word "bureaucrats" appears. Aides to Vice President Al Gore, the Democratic presidential candidate, made the point clear by giving a copy of a slowed-down version of the 30-second ad to The New York Times, which reported on it in Tuesday editions of the newspaper.

Republican nominee George W. Bush dismissed the notion that Republicans were using subliminal advertising to aid him as "bizarre and weird accusations.

On ABC's "Good Morning America," Bush said he first learned of the controversy Tuesday morning. Asked whether he would tell the Republican Party to pull the ad, he shook his head.

"I don't think there's a plot to try to put subliminal messages into people's minds," Bush said. "The most important thing is to try to point out the differences between what I believe and what the vice president believes when it comes to important issues like prescription drugs.

Gore aides told the Times that a Democrat in Seattle had spotted the ad's seemingly subliminal message and contacted the Democratic presidential candidate, made the point clear learning of the controversy Gore aides told the Times that the Gore campaign.

Gore campaign officials did not return telephone messages left by The Associated Press on Monday night.

The ad tout Bush's plan for adding prescription drugs to Medicare, arguing that seniors will have more control over their health care under Bush's proposal. Under the Gore plan, the ad says, the program will be run by bureaucrats.

Words flash on the screen to echo the announcer's message: "The Gore prescription plan: Bureaucrats decide.

As the announcer says "Bureaucrats decide," the word "rats," in large capital letters, flashes on and off the screen just as the phrase "Bureaucrats decide," appears.

Republicans say they were not trying to send any subliminal messages.

"It's a silly charge to try and get an effective ad off the air," said Alex Castellanos, who made the ad for the INC. He said he faded the word in so it would look more visually interesting, and that it was just a coincidence that the letters appearing first spell the name of a rodent.

"It's a visual drum beat," he said. "People get bored watching TV. You're trying to get them interested and involved."

Democrats are trying to make a case out of nothing, said Terry Holt, spokesman for Victory 2000, which represents the Bush campaign at the INC.

"The word bureaucrats ends with 'rats' just like the word Democrat," he said. "It's a spot about health care. It's not a spot about rodents.

The Bush campaign was equally dismissive.

"It sounds like happy hour at the Gore campaign basted a little too long," said Bush spokesman Ari Fleischer. And, referring decades-old buzz about a Beatles song, he added: "If you play the ad backwards, you hear the words 'Paul is dead.'

Even if it was intentional, it's not necessarily effective, said Bill Benoit, who studies political advertising at the University of Missouri. There's been only limited research on "subliminal perception," he said.

"There's no conclusive evidence that it works," he said. "Of course, that doesn't stop advertisers.

If use of the word "rats" was intentional, Benoit said it might be inappropriate or question-able, though not necessarily unethical.

Still, he cautioned: "It's awfully hard to tell whether it's intentional or not."

Bill Benoit, who studies political advertising at the University of Missouri, there's been only limited research on "subliminal perception," he said.

"There's no conclusive evidence that it works," he said. "Of course, that doesn't stop advertisers.

If use of the word "rats" was intentional, Benoit said it might be inappropriate or question-able, though not necessarily unethical.

Still, he cautioned: "It's awfully hard to tell whether it's intentional or not."

Bush campaign was equally dismissive.

"It sounds like happy hour at the Gore campaign basted a little too long," said Bush spokesman Ari Fleischer. And, referring decades-old buzz about a Beatles song, he added: "If you play the ad backwards, you hear the words 'Paul is dead.'

Even if it was intentional, it's not necessarily effective, said Bill Benoit, who studies political advertising at the University of Missouri. There's been only limited research on "subliminal perception," he said.

"There's no conclusive evidence that it works," he said. "Of course, that doesn't stop advertisers.

If use of the word "rats" was intentional, Benoit said it might be inappropriate or question-able, though not necessarily unethical.

Still, he cautioned: "It's awfully hard to tell whether it's intentional or not."

Bill Benoit, who studies political advertising at the University of Missouri, there's been only limited research on "subliminal perception," he said.

"There's no conclusive evidence that it works," he said. "Of course, that doesn't stop advertisers.

If use of the word "rats" was intentional, Benoit said it might be inappropriate or question-able, though not necessarily unethical.

Still, he cautioned: "It's awfully hard to tell whether it's intentional or not."

Bush campaign was equally dismissive.

"It sounds like happy hour at the Gore campaign basted a little too long," said Bush spokesman Ari Fleischer. And, referring decades-old buzz about a Beatles song, he added: "If you play the ad backwards, you hear the words 'Paul is dead.'

Even if it was intentional, it's not necessarily effective, said Bill Benoit, who studies political advertising at the University of Missouri. There's been only limited research on "subliminal perception," he said.

"There's no conclusive evidence that it works," he said. "Of course, that doesn't stop advertisers.

If use of the word "rats" was intentional, Benoit said it might be inappropriate or question-able, though not necessarily unethical.

Still, he cautioned: "It's awfully hard to tell whether it's intentional or not."
WALL STREET FORUM
September 13, 2000

Presentations specifically targeted to:
Sophomore and Junior Business Students
All Non-Business Majors

These presentations will be in:
Hesburgh Center–Across from the Mendoza College of Business
Room C100

3:00pm – 6:00pm Overview & Practical Sessions

Overview Of Investment Banking
Overview of Asset Management
Overview of Technology in Financial Services
Overview of Commercial Banking

Break

Presentation & Writing Skills
Interviewing Skills

William Blair
Notre Dame Investment Office
Morningstar
Fifth Third Bank

Goldman Sachs
Salomon Smith Barney

Presentations specifically targeted to:
MBA Students & Senior Finance Students

These presentations will be in:
Jordan Auditorium

3:00pm – 6:00pm Overview & Practical Sessions

Sales & Trading
Corporate Finance and Mergers & Acquisitions
Asset Management & Private Equity
Commercial Banking

Break

Interviewing Skills
Middle Market vs. Bulge Bracket Investment Banks

Lehman Brothers
Credit Suisse First Boston
Fidelity
LaSalle Bank

Merrill Lynch
Robert W. Baird

ALL STUDENTS
6:00pm – 8:00pm Individual Company Breakout Sessions

Pizza & Beverages will be provided
Business Attire
WASHINGTON

A Justice Department study found widespread racial and geographic disparities in the federal death penalty system, but Attorney General Janet Reno blamed him on injustice rather than bias in her department.

Releasing the study Tuesday, Reno called for additional studies and legislation but rejected renewed calls for a moratorium on federal executions that poured in from Congress and civil rights advocates in response to the figures, but we have not found the bias," Reno told a news conference. "Minorities are over-represented in the federal death penalty system, as both victims and defendants, relative to the general population," Reno said. "Crime is often the product of social ill and harsh conditions, such as poverty, drug abuse and lack of opportunity, that disproportionately affect minorities. So long as those conditions remain, we will continue to see disparities in the number of minorities in the criminal justice system." Deputy Attorney General Eric Holder, the study's author and the nation's highest ranking black law enforcement official, also saw no need for a moratorium such as the one imposed in Illinois in January by Gov. George Ryan, a Republican.

Ryan was reacting to a period when more Illinois inmates had their death sentences overturned than were executed, Holder said. "That is not the case here in the federal system. The number of cases where we have actual claims of factual innocence are less than 0.1 percent." Those claims can be dealt with adequately through new presidential clemency procedures, Reno and Holder said.

"All Americans agree that whether you die for committing a federal crime should not depend arbitrarily on where you live," Russell Feingold senator, said. "I refuse to support the death penalty. I will keep voting for a moratorium until it is abolished."}

Come and hear how Jim Corgel, NDMBA '72, has led the world's largest startup. It's a great story of corporate entrepreneurship, culture transformation, hi-tech marketing, working with venture capitalists and business incubators, and the variety of new tactics required to market to startups and dot.coms.

The MBA Marketing Club is holding a contest during the presentation for an entry fee of $5 (2:30 PM - 3:45 PM at the door). IBM will present a question and the person with the most correct answer will win a brand new IBM ThinkPad T20 Pentium III (128/20) computer, donated by IBM. All proceeds benefit the Notre Dame MBA marketing club.

IBM®

LATE TO THE NEW ECONOMY PARTY - THE WORLD'S LARGEST STARTUP

Jim Corgel
General Manager - Net Generation Business
IBM
September 14th - 4-5pm in Jordan Auditorium

OSRAM SYLVANIA is known around the world for innovative lighting solutions and quality products. Our dedication to a brighter future extends to your career, and we have exciting opportunities available for recent graduates who share in our commitment to excellence and quality.

The projects are real - ENGINEERING, FINANCE, HUMAN RESOURCES, INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY, MANUFACTURING, and MARKETING. As a participant in OSRAM SYLVANIA's Associate Development Program, you will be personally responsible for addressing and completing challenging assignments in our core businesses and functions.

We're looking for people with exceptional academic and personal achievement, initiative and a willingness to relocate every eight months while putting their special talents to the test. Upon successful completion of the two year program, your skills and performance will be considered for regular position openings in the company.

Ask your career placement office for information about our on-campus recruiting opportunities or to learn more visit our web page at www.sylvania.com

Reno approved seeking death penalties for 159 of them, of which 28 percent were for whites and 72 percent for minorities. Geographically, only nine of the 94 U.S. attorney districts accounted for about 43 percent of the 183 defendants that prosecutors recommended for death sentences in federal cases. The number of cases where we have actual claims of factual innocence are less than 0.1 percent. Those claims can be dealt with adequately through new presidential clemency procedures, Reno and Holder said.

"All Americans agree that whether you die for committing a federal crime should not depend arbitrarily on where you live," Russell Feingold senator, said. "I refuse to support the death penalty. I will keep voting for a moratorium until it is abolished."

Come and hear how Jim Corgel, NDMBA '72, has led the world's largest startup. It's a great story of corporate entrepreneurship, culture transformation, hi-tech marketing, working with venture capitalists and business incubators, and the variety of new tactics required to market to startups and dot.coms.

The MBA Marketing Club is holding a contest during the presentation for an entry fee of $5 (2:30 PM - 3:45 PM at the door). IBM will present a question and the person with the most correct answer will win a brand new IBM ThinkPad T20 Pentium III (128/20) computer, donated by IBM. All proceeds benefit the Notre Dame MBA marketing club.

IBM®

LATE TO THE NEW ECONOMY PARTY - THE WORLD'S LARGEST STARTUP

Jim Corgel
General Manager - Net Generation Business
IBM
September 14th - 4-5pm in Jordan Auditorium

OSRAM SYLVANIA is known around the world for innovative lighting solutions and quality products. Our dedication to a brighter future extends to your career, and we have exciting opportunities available for recent graduates who share in our commitment to excellence and quality.

The projects are real - ENGINEERING, FINANCE, HUMAN RESOURCES, INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY, MANUFACTURING, and MARKETING. As a participant in OSRAM SYLVANIA's Associate Development Program, you will be personally responsible for addressing and completing challenging assignments in our core businesses and functions.

We're looking for people with exceptional academic and personal achievement, initiative and a willingness to relocate every eight months while putting their special talents to the test. Upon successful completion of the two year program, your skills and performance will be considered for regular position openings in the company.

Ask your career placement office for information about our on-campus recruiting opportunities or to learn more visit our web page at www.sylvania.com

Reno approved seeking death penalties for 159 of them, of which 28 percent were for whites and 72 percent for minorities. Geographically, only nine of the 94 U.S. attorney districts accounted for about 43 percent of the 183 defendants that prosecutors recommended for death sentences in federal cases. The number of cases where we have actual claims of factual innocence are less than 0.1 percent. Those claims can be dealt with adequately through new presidential clemency procedures, Reno and Holder said.

"All Americans agree that whether you die for committing a federal crime should not depend arbitrarily on where you live," Russell Feingold senator, said. "I refuse to support the death penalty. I will keep voting for a moratorium until it is abolished."

Come and hear how Jim Corgel, NDMBA '72, has led the world's largest startup. It's a great story of corporate entrepreneurship, culture transformation, hi-tech marketing, working with venture capitalists and business incubators, and the variety of new tactics required to market to startups and dot.coms.

The MBA Marketing Club is holding a contest during the presentation for an entry fee of $5 (2:30 PM - 3:45 PM at the door). IBM will present a question and the person with the most correct answer will win a brand new IBM ThinkPad T20 Pentium III (128/20) computer, donated by IBM. All proceeds benefit the Notre Dame MBA marketing club.

IBM®

LATE TO THE NEW ECONOMY PARTY - THE WORLD'S LARGEST STARTUP

Jim Corgel
General Manager - Net Generation Business
IBM
September 14th - 4-5pm in Jordan Auditorium

OSRAM SYLVANIA is known around the world for innovative lighting solutions and quality products. Our dedication to a brighter future extends to your career, and we have exciting opportunities available for recent graduates who share in our commitment to excellence and quality.

The projects are real - ENGINEERING, FINANCE, HUMAN RESOURCES, INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY, MANUFACTURING, and MARKETING. As a participant in OSRAM SYLVANIA's Associate Development Program, you will be personally responsible for addressing and completing challenging assignments in our core businesses and functions.

We're looking for people with exceptional academic and personal achievement, initiative and a willingness to relocate every eight months while putting their special talents to the test. Upon successful completion of the two year program, your skills and performance will be considered for regular position openings in the company.

Ask your career placement office for information about our on-campus recruiting opportunities or to learn more visit our web page at www.sylvania.com

Reno approved seeking death penalties for 159 of them, of which 28 percent were for whites and 72 percent for minorities. Geographically, only nine of the 94 U.S. attorney districts accounted for about 43 percent of the 183 defendants that prosecutors recommended for death sentences in federal cases. The number of cases where we have actual claims of factual innocence are less than 0.1 percent. Those claims can be dealt with adequately through new presidential clemency procedures, Reno and Holder said.

"All Americans agree that whether you die for committing a federal crime should not depend arbitrarily on where you live," Russell Feingold senator, said. "I refuse to support the death penalty. I will keep voting for a moratorium until it is abolished."

Come and hear how Jim Corgel, NDMBA '72, has led the world's largest startup. It's a great story of corporate entrepreneurship, culture transformation, hi-tech marketing, working with venture capitalists and business incubators, and the variety of new tactics required to market to startups and dot.coms.

The MBA Marketing Club is holding a contest during the presentation for an entry fee of $5 (2:30 PM - 3:45 PM at the door). IBM will present a question and the person with the most correct answer will win a brand new IBM ThinkPad T20 Pentium III (128/20) computer, donated by IBM. All proceeds benefit the Notre Dame MBA marketing club.

IBM®

LATE TO THE NEW ECONOMY PARTY - THE WORLD'S LARGEST STARTUP

Jim Corgel
General Manager - Net Generation Business
IBM
September 14th - 4-5pm in Jordan Auditorium

OSRAM SYLVANIA is known around the world for innovative lighting solutions and quality products. Our dedication to a brighter future extends to your career, and we have exciting opportunities available for recent graduates who share in our commitment to excellence and quality.

The projects are real - ENGINEERING, FINANCE, HUMAN RESOURCES, INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY, MANUFACTURING, and MARKETING. As a participant in OSRAM SYLVANIA's Associate Development Program, you will be personally responsible for addressing and completing challenging assignments in our core businesses and functions.

We're looking for people with exceptional academic and personal achievement, initiative and a willingness to relocate every eight months while putting their special talents to the test. Upon successful completion of the two year program, your skills and performance will be considered for regular position openings in the company.

Ask your career placement office for information about our on-campus recruiting opportunities or to learn more visit our web page at www.sylvania.com

Reno approved seeking death penalties for 159 of them, of which 28 percent were for whites and 72 percent for minorities. Geographically, only nine of the 94 U.S. attorney districts accounted for about 43 percent of the 183 defendants that prosecutors recommended for death sentences in federal cases. The number of cases where we have actual claims of factual innocence are less than 0.1 percent. Those claims can be dealt with adequately through new presidential clemency procedures, Reno and Holder said.

"All Americans agree that whether you die for committing a federal crime should not depend arbitrarily on where you live," Russell Feingold senator, said. "I refuse to support the death penalty. I will keep voting for a moratorium until it is abolished."

Come and hear how Jim Corgel, NDMBA '72, has led the world's largest startup. It's a great story of corporate entrepreneurship, culture transformation, hi-tech marketing, working with venture capitalists and business incubators, and the variety of new tactics required to market to startups and dot.coms.

The MBA Marketing Club is holding a contest during the presentation for an entry fee of $5 (2:30 PM - 3:45 PM at the door). IBM will present a question and the person with the most correct answer will win a brand new IBM ThinkPad T20 Pentium III (128/20) computer, donated by IBM. All proceeds benefit the Notre Dame MBA marketing club.
If you ever want to know how to make time fly quickly, I suggest writing a bi-weekly column. Each two weeks fly by and it is again Sunday and time to think of something fascinating to write about for the week. If you ever want to know how to make time go extremely slowly, I suggest becoming the pianist for your dorm mass. The hour-long mass will suddenly stretch to at least two weeks. As I do both of these things, my life is basically a succession of two-week-long masses broken only by frantic searches for column topics.

Column-writing and piano-playing are not actually the only two things I do. I also manage to squeeze in some movies/music for weekly student reviews, online features for special campus coverage, archives to scratch for a resume published after August 1999.

Policies

The Observer is the independent, daily newspaper published for students and不由 the readers of the University of Notre Dame laf and Saint Mary's College. Editorial content, including advertisements, is not governed by policies of the administration of either institution. The Observer reserves the right to refuse advertisements based on content.

The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unpaid contributors represent the opinion of the majority of the editors in Chief. Managing Editors Assign Managing Editors and department editors. Comments, letters and columns present the views of the authors and are not necessary the views of The Observer.

Viewpoints are available to all readers. The express experience of all opinions through letters is encouraged. Letters to the editor must be signed and must include contact information.

Questions regarding Observer policies should be directed to the Editor-in-Chief Mike Connolly.
Studyng humanity

I have a name for my column. And it’s a true statement. You may not agree with me yet, but I promise you life really is “All About Anthropology.” I can even tell you why.

Anthropology is about people and culture. That is, people and culture plus a healthy blend of biology, nature, history and geography... essentially every field of study is involved. The blending of fields is essential. Anthropology is studying what makes us human — you know, the old nature versus nurture argument.

Anthropology is about diversity. It is neither the melting pot nor the salad bowl; it is an interesting mixture of both. Even the classes are diverse. This fall’s course selections offer studies on the anthropology of art, the anthropology of war and peace, ethnicity in America, Japanese culture, the social demography of minorities, the anthropology of death, infancy or even the cultural aspects of clinical medicine.

Anthropology is about being open-minded; it is about trying on as many perspectives as you can in a lifetime in order to understand various viewpoints. The anthropological posture is to accept and appreciate differences and, at the same time, to learn more about the roots and explanations of those differences.

Anthropology is about thinking internationally. It is about going the global route. It involves traveling, learning languages, meeting new faces and living in new places. It’s about examining diverse religions, technologies, forms of medicine and traditions. It is discovering how humans fit into the global picture that is so increasingly important now that we are in the 21st century.

Anthropology is about specialization, but there exist no hierarchies within the discipline. There is no single area of anthropology that is guaranteed to offer more money to those who study it than any other area. Different — but equal.

Above all, anthropology puts us in our proper place. We are one species, one human family. We are one history, one culture. We are one race, one humanity.

We would like to share an incident that happened to us this past Wednesday afternoon while walking from library to catch the shuttle back to Saint Mary’s, we encountered two students talking on the green. As we passed them, we heard the male student make an insulting generalization to his companion about the students at Saint Mary’s College. Here is a close approximation: “I could tell by the clothes they were wearing that they were from Saint Mary’s.” After hearing this remark, we exchanged a glance of notice. As we passed them, we heard the male student make another insulting comment about the female student. We stopped, turned around and went away from the two students. We stopped several feet away to discuss what had happened. Though we were angry — one of us was ready to shove her ice cream cone in his face — we decided that that particular response was too drastic.

Finally, we decided that we could not passively leave after hearing such an insulting comment. We walked back and introduced ourselves as Saint Mary’s students. We explained that we had overheard the remark he had made concerning the students at Saint Mary’s College. The male student instantly groaned in embarrassment, apologized and explained why he had made that comment. Apparently a group of drunken Saint Mary’s women had attended a party in his hall last weekend and one of them threw a shoe at his friend’s room.

We agreed that such behavior is inappropriate at any occasion, however this group of students was one of many such groups from all three schools partying on the first football weekend. We then explained to the two students that the majority of Saint Mary’s women did not fit the stereotype he had used. He further apologized for the ignorant comment and said that he had never met Saint Mary’s women outside of the party scene. We parted amicably with the pair and ran to catch the shuttle.

Sorrelly, the generalization used by this student was a very common stereotype. Though women from all three schools attend parties and occasionally drink to excess, the women of Saint Mary’s are often singled out and looked down upon for supposed looseness. Obviously these stereotypes are highly insulting and far from the truth.

Unfortunately, they remain because of the limited exposure that some students at Notre Dame and Holy Cross have to the women of Saint Mary’s College. To the women and men of Saint Mary’s College, the University of Notre Dame and Holy Cross College: Respect yourselves and your fellow students. Stop making assumptions based upon a few bad weekend experiences and popular myths. We invite all the students of Notre Dame and Holy Cross to come and visit us at Saint Mary’s. Discover for yourself that we do not fit the stereotype. Walk around our campus and talk to some Belles! Study at our library! Come and eat at our dining hall! We would love to show you what Saint Mary’s is really like. We are proud of our school and we would love for you to see it in a new light. Go Belles!
King keeps the guitar blues alive as he hits 75

By PATRICK CASEY

Associated Press Writers

NEW YORK

B.B. King has just opened a new nightclub in New York City's Times Square. He and Eric Clapton are riding the wave of a hot, new album, and last February, he won yet another Grammy Award.

Oh, and King's 75th birthday is Saturday.

That and more than 200 concert dates a year is all part of what makes the legendary gui­tarist "the king of the blues."

"Nothing is really driving me. I am doing what I like to do," King said in a recent tele­phone interview. "Playing the blues is one part of it. I like meeting people, entertaining peo­ple."

King has been doing just that from the time he discovered the guitar as a youngster at the Holmean Church in Kilmichael, Miss.

It was there that King met the Rev. Archie Fair, a preacher who directed his block by playing guitar. He taught the eager youngster how to play a few licks.

"He was the one who motivated me to be a musician," King said. "I wanted to play the gui­tar like he did."

As a young man, King played blues and gospel music on the streets of towns in Mississippi and Tennessee, and in the late 1940s, hooked up with bluesman Sonny Boy Williamson, who had a show on a Memphis, Tenn., radio station.

Williamson eventually gave King some air­time and set up the musician with one of his first gigs.

"He was one of the first to help me in the business," King said. "He's a great person."

King went on to record dozens of albums over the ensuing decades. His signature songs include "Sweet Sixteen" and "The Thrill Is Gone," which he wrote after the breakup of his second marriage in 1966.

"Riding With the King" (Duck/Reprise), King's collaboration with Clapton, debuted at No. 3 on The Billboard 200 in June and already has been certified platinum. King calls the album — the musicians' first despite a friendship that began in the 1960s — his best ever.

"I think we did some good work," he said.

"This one has gone further and done better than anything else we have done, so I think it would be the best."

It was Clapton, said King, who "picked the songs, picked the studio and the cover of the CD. He is a genius. He is a very remarkable young man."

King was inducted into the Blues Hall of Fame in 1984. Three years later, he earned a Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award. He is also a member of the Songwriters Hall of Fame.

He demurs when asked if there is anyone new on the music scene that he would like to play with.

"I can answer your question better if you ask me who I would like to play with," he said. "I can't think of anybody. It don't all have to be blues people. It's people. I like to play with people. I like music. I think I have played with John Lee Hooker to Pavarotti. I like to play with people."

The blues legend also likes the Internet, a medium he thinks will prove beneficial to musicians despite the technology bomb that Napster recently dropped on the recording industry.

"It is a good way to promote your music, but copyright and things of that sort are something that will have to be worked out and they will be worked out," King said.

"I remember when they didn't want you to have a VCR, but they worked it out and I think for the best. Smart people always get together and work it out."

King knows the blues of 2000 are not the same as the songs he learned as a sharecrop­per's son in Mississippi, but he's confident the genre is moving in a good direction.

"You've got the young people today and they got their ideas about music, blues, whatever. They not only have their ideas about it. They are playing it and supporting it," he said. "It has evolved quite a bit from when I was a kid to now."

King says he's evolved as well.

"I think I have gotten better. I know I have tried to get better," he said. "I see things a lot different today at 74 than I did when I was 14. For one thing, wisdom comes with age. Don't you think so?"

King says he's unsure what the blues will be like 20 years from now. "But I am very opti­mistic about the way it is going."

"It is more popular today than it ever was since I have been trying to play it, so that gives me reason to be optimistic," he said. "I am hoping that one day you can turn on your radio and you won't be segregated with the music. You will be able to get some of all kinds."

And what about you? "I am not doing too bad for a 74-year-old," King said.

---

TV artifacts to be auctioned

EAGLE, Wis.

Blues legend B.B. King celebrates his latest album “Riding With the King” by entertaining the crowd with his signature style.
London players return with "As You Like It"

Shakespearean classic transformed in minimalistic style

Washington Hall Theater welcomes the Actors From The London Stage for their sixth appearance on campus Thursday night.

The company will be performing Shakespeare's well-known comedy "As You Like It" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30 p.m.

Audience members can expect to see the same distinctively minimalist style that has become known as the AFTLS hallmark.

In the show's program, AFTLS founder Homer Swander quotes the mission of the troupe. "We insist on the simplicity...words, actors, theatrical space, audience, everyone playing. In the simplicity lies the magic...we do not seduce you with an operatic spectacular. We do not confine you or Shakespeare in the tiny world of a director's or a designer's concept." "We insist on the simplicity...words, actors, theatrical space, audience, everyone playing. In the simplicity lies the magic...we do not seduce you with an operatic spectacular. We do not confine you or Shakespeare in the tiny world of a director's or a designer's concept."

On the stage, a large box is marked off in white tape. Scenes are conducted inside the box, or "onstage" — additional scenery is nonexistent. All of the stage outside the white tape is considered "backstage," and viewers will see the five cast members resting, drinking water and changing costumes in preparation for their next scene.

Costumes may not be typical of the luxurious Elizabethan dress an audience expects to see. Since the five actors — Lolita Chakrabarti, Jennifer Egerton, Guy Burgess, Ken Drury and Richard Howard — will be taking on 20-plus roles, character and costume changes often must occur in a matter of seconds — sometimes even mid-scene.

"Things as simple as a pipe, or a hat, can be used to indicate that we are playing a different character," said Chakrabarti.

"There is a convention you have to accept," said Tom Barkes, manager of Washington Hall Theater about the distinctive style. "But once you have, it's really delightful...you get a true sense of what it means to be an actor."

Those who saw last year's AFTLS production of "All's Well That Ends Well" may recall some unique onstage situations resulting from so few actors playing so many different characters. Sometimes one actor will be playing two characters in conversation with each other.

AFTLS general manager Kate Egerton highlighted the scene in "As You Like It" where "...Guy (Burgess) will be playing Orlando and Charles the Wunderer at the same time — look for him to actually fight himself."

Cast member Jennifer Luckraft said, "When you need to go from one character to another onstage, it's really made it quite dynamic. It adds to the comedy.

"As You Like It" tells the story of Rosalind, a headstrong young woman who is banished from her uncle's court. She disguises herself as a boy and follows her love Orlando into the Forest of Arden. Orlando, in turn, has fled to the forest in an effort to escape his abusive elder brother.

Rosalind and Orlando, in the company of her cousin Celia and the court jester Touchstone, proceed to bumble their way through a humorous plot full of cases of mistaken identity and mischief.

Tickets are currently on sale at the LaFortune Box Office or by phone at (219) 631-8128. Cost: $16 general admission, $14 for seniors, $12 for students.

By LAUREN CONTI
Scene Writer

The five actors from the London Stage — Lolita Chakrabarti, Jennifer Luckraft, Guy Burgess, Ken Drury and Richard Howard — are rehearsing scenes from "As You Like It," showing this weekend at Washington Hall Theater.

Acting Bard troupe calls Notre Dame their home

The five actors from the London Stage — Lolita Chakrabarti, Jennifer Luckraft, Guy Burgess, Ken Drury and Richard Howard — are rehearsing scenes from "As You Like It," showing this weekend at Washington Hall Theater.

"We insist on the simplicity...words, actors, theatrical space, audience, everyone playing. In the simplicity lies the magic...we do not seduce you with an operatic spectacular. We do not confine you or Shakespeare in the tiny world of a director's or a designer's concept."

Lauren Conti
Scene Writer

costumes and the addition of a new professor to fill an endowed chair in Shakespeare and performance. This chairperson will, in turn, become the director of the AFTLS program.

"Currently, a center for theater education and research is not present at Notre Dame," said Egerton. "The AFTLS program, a deft merging of performance and teaching, will serve as a traveling ambassador for the University's growing program in performance arts."

Some combined factors indicate the beginning of a stable and long-lasting partnership between the University and AFTLS. "We're excited," said Barkes. "Hopefully this will be a long and fruitful partnership."

"We are absolutely here to stay," said Egerton.

By LAUREN CONTI
Scene Writer

Notre Dame recently became the American home for the international acting company, Actors From The London Stage (AFTLS).

The company, whose overseas home is with the Royal Shakespeare Company in London, tours North America twice yearly — each time with a different cast of five diverse and talented thespians. The goal of the actors is to perform and teach Shakespeare to students across the country.

Formerly housed at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, the troupe began looking for a new American base when they learned UNC would no longer offer an adequate level of financial support.

Fortunately, their search was brief. Notre Dame was, in the words of AFTLS general manager Kate Egerton, "a logical choice...the University and the Actors From The London Stage have a long-standing relationship.

In fact, troupes from AFTLS have visited the University five times since 1990, performing Shakespeare's "As You Like It," "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "All's Well That Ends Well."

Performing, however, is not the sole mission of AFTLS. "It's a week of teaching, and performing is just one method of that teaching," said Barkes. "That's why it works so well in a university setting," said Tom Barkes, general manager of Washington Hall Theater.

At each stop along their North American tour, members of the company will give mini-workshops in English and performing arts classes. This fall at Notre Dame, the cast members hope to instruct students in several literature and acting classes.

"It's practical Shakespeare," said Lolita Chakrabarti, a troupe member, of the class initiative. "We're getting right in there with you and playing it."

The company's addition to the College of Arts and Letters comes as the crux of a newly implemented program known as The Shakespeare Initiative.

Other elements of the program will include the Summer Shakespeare Festival, a lecture series and the addition of a new professor to fill an endowed chair in Shakespeare and performance. This chairperson will, in turn, become the director of the AFTLS program.

"Currently, a center for theater education and research is not present at Notre Dame," said Egerton. "The AFTLS program, a deft merging of performance and teaching, will serve as a traveling ambassador for the University's growing program in performance arts."

Some combined factors indicate the beginning of a stable and long-lasting partnership between the University and AFTLS. "We're excited," said Barkes. "Hopefully this will be a long and fruitful partnership."

"We are absolutely here to stay," said Egerton.
STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Summer means vacation for most hockey players. Not the Sedin twins. The Swedes started practice before the Vancouver Canucks training camp.

Daniel and Henrik Sedin, the Canucks’ first and second picks and winners of the 1999 NHL Entry Draft, spent the summer working out virtually every day. A special coach helped them set up a dryland drill while in their northern Swedish hometown of Ornskoldsvik that included 11 weeks sessions since early June.

“We had many tough sessions, but I felt good all the time,” Henrik Sedien said. “I gained four kilograms and my current weight is 93 kilograms.”

Important extra weight when facing hard-checking defensemen as rookies in the NHL.

The 19-year-old twins also spent several hours on ice with other Swedish NHLers, including Peter Forsberg of the Colorado Avalanche. They also played one exhibition game before the Canucks arrived in Stockholm last week to open a 10-day training camp in the Swedish capital.

The first NHL preseason game, the Canucks face the Stockholm-based club MODO of Ornskoldsvik, in Wednesday’s opener of the American Airlines NHL Challenge at Stockholm’s Globe Arena.

A month ago, the Montreal Canadiens came to the same arena with virtually no ice time to boot. They beat the Swedish top clubs. Like MODO, the AK players had been on ice for a month.

The Observer
SPORTS
Wednesday, September 13, 2000

NHL
Sedin twins start summer training
Announced Press

It made no difference as the Canadians defeated the Swedes 7-1, getting two goals apiece from Stephane Richer and Stephan Leebach, in their first game outside North America.

Daniel Sedien doesn’t expect such a sided game this time.

“I don’t think it will be an easy game for us, but it will be a lot of fun facing my old team,” he said.

Canucks coach Marc Crawford was glad to have Forsberg during his first season with the old Quebec Nordiques that ended with the Rookie of the Year honors for Forsberg in 1995. It wasn’t surprising the twins adjusting to life in the NHL.

“I have a sense that these guys will become players whether we do anything special with them or not,” he said.

“They’re smart, intelligent kids and they’re very driven. I think we’ll pick it up rather quickly.”

The larger European ice surface could be a disadvantage for the Canucks. Both tournament games involving the Canucks were officiated by NHL referees and line judges, and their games will be played in the same conditions as NHL rules and regulations.

The Canucks have been overexposed only once before their franchise history. The team travelled to Japan in 1997. Where they made NHL history with the Anaheim Mighty Ducks while playing the first regular season game outside North America.

The history of NHL clubs traveling overseas dates back 40 years. In May 1959, the Chicago Bulls and the New York Rangers became the first NHL teams to tour Europe.

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Gordon and his Hendrick Motorsports team are appealing NASCAR’s sanctions over an engine part used in his Saturday night victory in Richmond, Va.

On Tuesday, Robbie Logan, crew chief for No. 24 Chevrolet, fine $25,000 for using a part that has not been approved by NASCAR. The sanctioning body also took away 100 of the total 115 points earned with the victory.

Both from the driver’s stand during the race, Hendrick Motorsports appealed.

"The GM part number on the casting was the same, however, a different material was used, which altered the properties of the casting. The casting was not restyled or relocated by GM for NASCAR’s approval in accordance with our procedures," Rick Hendrick issued a statement Tuesday saying the team has notified NASCAR that it will appeal the penalty.

"Not only do we feel a full hearing on the facts will exonerate our team from any intentional wrongdoing, but it will remove any cloud of suspicion cast over a great victory," Hendrick said.

"We were under the impression NASCAR officials had previously approved the use of magnesium in intake manifolds for several months and had indicated to GM that it was approved as long as the density was not altered in any other way.

"There was no attempt to conceal the part, which we have been running since April. It also passed post-race inspection in Charlotte for two of our cars," Hendrick said.

GM’s group manager for NASCAR, also issued a statement defending the use of the manifold.

"We supplied these magnesium intake manifolds to our teams in the clear belief that they are allowed under the rules," Durber said.

Walttrip will drive for Earnhardt
Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Michael Walttrip will drive for Dale Earnhardt Inc. next season, teaming with the seven-time NASCAR champion in The Intimidator’s garage.

A source close to Earnhardt, who spoke Tuesday to The Associated Press, confirmed the deal. Walttrip will join Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Paul Menard.

A formal announcement was expected today because Earnhardt and Walttrip were not immediately available for comment.

Walttrip, younger brother of three-time Winston Cup champ Darrell Walttrip, drives for Ultra Motorsports.

He has been rumored earlier this season for Earnhardt’s expansion efforts, but signed a one-year contract extension with Ultra Motorsports owner Jim Smith.

“I don’t think that I’ve ever had the perfect opportunity in motorsports like this,” Walttrip said before signing the contract extension.

Walttrip, in his 15th season, is 28th in the standings. He’s never placed in the top 10 in the final standings, but has finished only inside the top 20 twice. He has one top-five finish this year and one top-10 finish.

Earnhardt, meanwhile, has shown this season he can be a car owner and driver at the same time.

The seven-time Winston Cup champion owns the No. 3 Chevrolet Monte Carlo for Richard Petty Motorsports. He is in the hunt for an eighth title with nine races to go this season. Earnhardt is second in the standings, 18 points behind Bobby Labonte.

As a car owner, he’s got three victories this season.

Earnhardt Jr., 14th in the standings, has two wins and is fighting Matt Kenseth for rookie of the year honors.

Associated Press

NASCAR Ground appeals NASCAR sanctions

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Gordon and his Hendrick Motorsports team are appealing NASCAR’s sanctions over an engine part used in his Saturday night victory in Richmond, Va.

On Tuesday, Robbie Logan, crew chief for No. 24 Chevrolet, fine $25,000 for using a part that has not been approved by NASCAR. The sanctioning body also took away 100 of the total 115 points earned with the victory.

Both from the driver’s stand during the race, Hendrick Motorsports appealed.

"The GM part number on the casting was the same, however, a different material was used, which altered the properties of the casting. The casting was not restyled or relocated by GM for NASCAR’s approval in accordance with our procedures," Rick Hendrick issued a statement Tuesday saying the team has notified NASCAR that it will appeal the penalty.

"Not only do we feel a full hearing on the facts will exonerate our team from any intentional wrongdoing, but it will remove any cloud of suspicion cast over a great victory," Hendrick said.

"We were under the impression NASCAR officials had previously approved the use of magnesium in intake manifolds for several months and had indicated to GM that it was approved as long as the density was not altered in any other way.

"There was no attempt to conceal the part, which we have been running since April. It also passed post-race inspection in Charlotte for two of our cars," Hendrick said.

GM’s group manager for NASCAR, also issued a statement defending the use of the manifold.

"We supplied these magnesium intake manifolds to our teams in the clear belief that they are allowed under the rules," Durber said.

Walttrip will drive for Earnhardt
Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Michael Walttrip will drive for Dale Earnhardt Inc. next season, teaming with the seven-time NASCAR champion in The Intimidator’s garage.

A source close to Earnhardt, who spoke Tuesday to The Associated Press, confirmed the deal. Walttrip will join Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Paul Menard.

A formal announcement was expected today because Earnhardt and Walttrip were not immediately available for comment.

Walttrip, younger brother of three-time Winston Cup champ Darrell Walttrip, drives for Ultra Motorsports.

He has been rumored earlier this season for Earnhardt’s expansion efforts, but signed a one-year contract extension with Ultra Motorsports owner Jim Smith.

“I don’t think that I’ve ever had the perfect opportunity in motorsports like this,” Walttrip said before signing the contract extension.

Walttrip, in his 15th season, is 28th in the standings. He’s never placed in the top 10 in the final standings, but has finished only inside the top 20 twice. He has one top-five finish this year and one top-10 finish.

Earnhardt, meanwhile, has shown this season he can be a car owner and driver at the same time.

The seven-time Winston Cup champion owns the No. 3 Chevrolet Monte Carlo for Richard Petty Motorsports. He is in the hunt for an eighth title with nine races to go this season. Earnhardt is second in the standings, 18 points behind Bobby Labonte.

As a car owner, he’s got three victories this season.

Earnhardt Jr., 14th in the standings, has two wins and is fighting Matt Kenseth for rookie of the year honors.

Associated Press

NASCAR Ground appeals NASCAR sanctions

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — Gordon and his Hendrick Motorsports team are appealing NASCAR’s sanctions over an engine part used in his Saturday night victory in Richmond, Va.

On Tuesday, Robbie Logan, crew chief for No. 24 Chevrolet, fine $25,000 for using a part that has not been approved by NASCAR. The sanctioning body also took away 100 of the total 115 points earned with the victory.

Both from the driver’s stand during the race, Hendrick Motorsports appealed.

"The GM part number on the casting was the same, however, a different material was used, which altered the properties of the casting. The casting was not restyled or relocated by GM for NASCAR’s approval in accordance with our procedures," Rick Hendrick issued a statement Tuesday saying the team has notified NASCAR that it will appeal the penalty.

"Not only do we feel a full hearing on the facts will exonerate our team from any intentional wrongdoing, but it will remove any cloud of suspicion cast over a great victory," Hendrick said.

"We were under the impression NASCAR officials had previously approved the use of magnesium in intake manifolds for several months and had indicated to GM that it was approved as long as the density was not altered in any other way.

"There was no attempt to conceal the part, which we have been running since April. It also passed post-race inspection in Charlotte for two of our cars," Hendrick said.

GM’s group manager for NASCAR, also issued a statement defending the use of the manifold.

"We supplied these magnesium intake manifolds to our teams in the clear belief that they are allowed under the rules," Durber said.

Walttrip will drive for Earnhardt
Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Michael Walttrip will drive for Dale Earnhardt Inc. next season, teaming with the seven-time NASCAR champion in The Intimidator’s garage.

A source close to Earnhardt, who spoke Tuesday to The Associated Press, confirmed the deal. Walttrip will join Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Paul Menard.

A formal announcement was expected today because Earnhardt and Walttrip were not immediately available for comment.

Walttrip, younger brother of three-time Winston Cup champ Darrell Walttrip, drives for Ultra Motorsports.

He has been rumored earlier this season for Earnhardt’s expansion efforts, but signed a one-year contract extension with Ultra Motorsports owner Jim Smith.

“I don’t think that I’ve ever had the perfect opportunity in motorsports like this,” Walttrip said before signing the contract extension.

Walttrip, in his 15th season, is 28th in the standings. He’s never placed in the top 10 in the final standings, but has finished only inside the top 20 twice. He has one top-five finish this year and one top-10 finish.

Earnhardt, meanwhile, has shown this season he can be a car owner and driver at the same time.

The seven-time Winston Cup champion owns the No. 3 Chevrolet Monte Carlo for Richard Petty Motorsports. He is in the hunt for an eighth title with nine races to go this season. Earnhardt is second in the standings, 18 points behind Bobby Labonte.

As a car owner, he’s got three victories this season.

Earnhardt Jr., 14th in the standings, has two wins and is fighting Matt Kenseth for rookie of the year honors.
Griffey plans to return to Reds

Associated Press

CINCINNATI

Ken Griffey Jr., expected to be sidelined 5-7 days by a hamstring injury he received Monday night, dismissed speculation that he might not return if the Cincinnati Reds are out of playoff contention.

"It doesn't matter if we're eliminated or not," Griffey said Tuesday. "This is what I love to do.

Cincinnati entered Tuesday night's game against the Chicago Cubs nine games behind St. Louis in the NL Central.

Griffey partially tore his left hamstring Monday night when he crashed into Cubs catcher Joe Girardi while trying to score. The Reds star lay on the ground at home plate for several minutes, then was helped from the field.

An MRI exam disclosed the extent of the injury.

Griffey is batting .269 with 39 home runs and 117 RBIs, his fifth consecutive season with at least 100 RBIs.

He needs one homer to tie his career high.

"I don't have a job, I don't have a business," he said. "I go home and take care of my family. That's it."

But Griffey is also aware that fans and teams still in contention expect to play against competitive lineups even in the final games.

The Reds have series remaining with division leaders San Francisco and St. Louis, and end the season with three games with the Cardinals.

"We can still make it interesting for the playoffs," Griffey said. "I've got to out and play those last three games."

Griffey, who is not always willing to talk with writers and has been criticized by the Reds announcer Marty Brennaman for not always hustling, made a peace gesture Tuesday night.

Griffey said it might as well return as soon as possible because he didn't have anything else to do.

"I don't have a job, I don't have a business," he said. "I go home and take care of my family. That's it."

Strawberry put under house arrest

Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla.

Suspended Yankees star Darryl Strawberry was sentenced to two years' house arrest Tuesday after admitting he violated probation by driving under the influence of medication and by leaving the scene of an accident.

Strawberry, who is fighting the spread of colon cancer, apologized during a brief hearing before Judge Florence Foster for causing a Monday morning traffic accident.

He said he blacked out from his medication while heading to a meeting with his probation officer.

"I used the wrong judgment...taking medication because I didn't feel well," he told the court. "I just blacked out. I didn't know if I hurt anybody. I feel really bad about that.

Strawberry was released from jail Tuesday, slipping out a side door to avoid crowds.

Foster was the judge who placed the suspended eight-time All-Star on probation last year in a drug and solicitation case. Prosecutors requested house arrest, although Strawberry could have been sent to prison.

Assistant State Attorney Barbara J. Fuson said that Strawberry will still have to face the three crimes that could bring additional punishment.

House arrest means the 38-year-old outfielder may leave home only to go to a doctor's office or to work.

Should he attempt to rejoin a major league baseball team, he would need court permission, Fuson said.

"There's a lot going on there," Yankees manager Joe Torre said before Tuesday night's game against Toronto. "You have to wonder how he's going to make a living."

Because of his season-long suspension, Strawberry is not drawing a salary from the Yankees.

Outside court, Strawberry's wife, Charisse, said her husband is worried about what happened, and was relieved to know the woman whose car he hit wasn't injured.

"I just hope we'll recover from this," she said, as tears rolled from behind her sunglasses.

She said her husband, who was hurt last month, is in a lot of pain due to the cancer and having a kidney infection.

He also has some mental difficulties, she said, but did not elaborate.

"We still have to live every day. He still has to wake up every morning and look in the mirror and say, 'I'm going through this,' " she said.

Strawberry, who has battled drug and alcohol abuse for years, is not permitted to leave home even for an activity as mundane as going to the movies or to his children's school.

He will undergo regular drug testing and the Florida Department of Corrections will make surprise checks on a daily basis to make sure Strawberry is at home.

"Two years of house arrest is like going to the beach," Fuson said.

Foster warned Strawberry at Tuesday's hearing that he was to strictly follow doctors' orders on the use of prescription drugs and shouldn't drive if he's taken medication.

"I suggest you might want to get a driver," Foster told Strawberry, adding she would not add any community service to his sentence.

"You've got enough on your plate to deal with," she said.

Strawberry must also pay a $265 fine and his case will be reviewed again in four months.

Strawberry spent Monday night in jail after an off-duty Hillsborough County sheriff's deputy saw the player hit a road sign, turn onto another street and rear-end a sport utility vehicle stopped at a red light.

If he successfully completes the first year of house arrest, the judge said Strawberry could request to return to regular drug-offender probation.

Strawberry told officers Monday he had taken the sleeping medication Ambien, according to sheriff's spokesman Rod Reder.

Joseph Picarra, Strawberry's defense attorney, said he also has prescriptions for the narcotic painkillers Percocet and Vicodin.

Contact: 1-7970 for details
Woods causes ratings to soar

Associated Press
Grant Waite has never contested in a major championship. It only felt that way.
The Canadian Open may be the third-oldest national championship in golf, but it is nothing more than a regular PGA Tour event these days. Winning does not come with a five-year exemption on tour or to the four majors. The pressure is not nearly as suffocating.

Still, Glen Abbey Golf Club had that major championship feeling Sunday, when Waite began the final round tied for the lead with Tiger Woods and then matched him shot-for-shot in a brilliantly played duel.

The difference was one stroke, and one shot that was vintage Woods — a 6-iron from the fairway, part of the 50,000 people at Glen Abbey, the largest gallery in Canadian golf history.

Part of that had to do with the thousands of fans who stood four-deep down every fairway, part of the 50,000 people at Glen Abbey, the largest gallery in Canadian golf history.

Part of that had to do with whom he was trying to beat.

The television ratings speak volumes. To no one’s surprise, ESPN reported Tuesday that its final-round coverage of the Canadian Open drew the most viewers for a golf tournament in the cable network’s history, more than 2.7 million homes.

Players also are aware that Woods has made a huge impact where it really counts, with money from the four-year television contract translating into record purses that have made millionaires out of 33 players this year.

The most exciting aspect of Woods could be found pressed against the ropes and parked into the knobs overlooking tee boxes, fairways and greens.

Such was the case at Glen Abbey. And at Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club for the Buick Open, which Woods decided to play for the first time in two years. And even last year at Disney World, where more and more people take time away from Space Mountain to catch a glimpse of the young star who is playing out of this world.

The size of the crowd has a marginal bearing on prize money and even less of one on television ratings. But it is no less a benefit to the players around him, who now have an NFL-like theater in which to compete.

But there’s also a downside.

Paul Azinger was getting ready to tee off on the third hole Saturday, which is located in front of a path where players — and marshals, and security, and media — walk to the first tee. Davis Love III came by with a small throng, which caused Azinger to stop his routine.

Then, he backed off again when he realized who Love’s partner was in the third round.

“Are you going to stop that big, bad Tiger?” he jokingly asked on one in particular.

Azinger was at the last three non-majors that Woods played and noticed the difference in the number of those watching. He loved the size, as do the other players.

The manners worry him.

“IT’s changed so much from the late ’80s,” Azinger said. “They’re much more verbal now.”

As Fulton Allem once said, etiquette is not some city in France. It is but more and more lost on the new faces coming to the game.

The television ratings speak volumes. To no one’s surprise, ESPN reported Tuesday that its final-round coverage of the Canadian Open drew the most viewers for a golf tournament in the cable network’s history, more than 2.7 million homes.

Players also are aware that Woods has made a huge impact where it really counts, with money from the four-year television contract translating into record purses that have made millionaires out of 33 players this year.

The most exciting aspect of Woods could be found pressed against the ropes and parked into the knobs overlooking tee boxes, fairways and greens.

Such was the case at Glen Abbey. And at Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club for the Buick Open, which Woods decided to play for the first time in two years. And even last year at Disney World, where more and more people take time away from Space Mountain to catch a glimpse of the young star who is playing out of this world.

The size of the crowd has a marginal bearing on prize money and even less of one on television ratings. But it is no less a benefit to the players around him, who now have an NFL-like theater in which to compete.

But there’s also a downside.

Paul Azinger was getting ready to tee off on the third hole Saturday, which is located in front of a path where players — and marshals, and security, and media — walk to the first tee. Davis Love III came by with a small throng, which caused Azinger to stop his routine.

Then, he backed off again when he realized who Love’s partner was in the third round.

“Are you going to stop that big, bad Tiger?” he jokingly asked on one in particular.

Azinger was at the last three non-majors that Woods played and noticed the difference in the number of those watching. He loved the size, as do the other players.

The manners worry him.

“IT’s changed so much from the late ’80s,” Azinger said. “They’re much more verbal now.”

As Fulton Allem once said, etiquette is not some city in France. It is but more and more lost on the new faces coming to the game.

NCAA Basketball

Smith looks to outlaw collegiate sports betting

Associated Press
WASHINGTON
Dean Smith, college basketball’s career victory leader, sought another win Tuesday by endorsing an effort in Congress to outlaw gambling on collegiate sports.

“We’re talking about something that can taint young people,” said Smith, who retired in 1997 after 36 seasons and 879 victories at the University of North Carolina.

He said he is not troubled by the fact that the legislation would affect only Nevada, the one state where betting on college sports is legal.

“It can’t hurt anybody in Vegas,” he said. Casinos “can still take [bets on] the pro games. It isn’t like they aren’t making enough money.”

Lawmakers who support the betting ban brought Smith to Capitol Hill in hopes of gaining some end-of-session momentum for legislation in both chambers.

Referring to the millions of dollars given by the gambling industry to both parties, Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., said the bill is threatened only because of “the influence of big money in American politics.”

Still, Republican Sen. Sam Brownback of Kansas said he has been assured by Majority Leader Trent Lott of Mississippi that the bill’s supporters will get a chance this year to muster 60 votes to break a certain filibuster by Nevada’s senators.

A sponsor of the bill in the House, Rep. Lindsay Graham, from South Carolina said he is certain at least 300 of the 435 representatives would support it.

Smith is one of several high-profile college coaches enlisted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, a major force behind the bill.
Discernment Sessions

What’s next? Post-graduate service? Graduate school? A job in business? Work with a not-for-profit agency? The Center for Social Concerns offers the following session to help you discern what path to take. Each session offers you criteria or questions for decision-making and invites you to look creatively at what your next step may be.

LIVING A FAITH TO DIE FOR

MIKE BAXTER, CSC
Wednesday, September 13-CSC
5:30-7:30 PM

WHAT’S NEXT: CRITERIA FOR DECISION-MAKING

FR. MICHAEL HINES (VIA VIDEO)
Wednesday, September 20-Siegfried Hall Chapel
5:30-7:30 PM

STYLES OF TRANSITION AND DECISION MAKING

WENDY SETTLE, PHD
Wednesday, October 4-CSC
5:30-7:30 PM

Senior Transition Groups

Small groups of seniors will meet 5 times during the year for dessert and conversation at various faculty or alumni's homes. Professors from each college will host and facilitate the sessions. In a supportive and open atmosphere, you can discuss and reflect on questions you have about integrating social concerns into life beyond ND.

Group Kick-Off session is on Sunday, Sept. 24, 6-7:30

Sign up at LaFortune on Wed, Sept. 13 from 12-5:00 or email Shappell.l@nd.edu by Sept. 20

Information Sessions at the Center for Social Concerns

Holy Cross Associates—
September 19 at 6:00 pm
October 3 at 5:00 pm
October 4 at 4:00 and 6:00 pm-Chile

Inner-City Teaching Corps—
October 5 at 4:30 and 7:30 pm

Notre Dame Program in Puerto Rico—
October 6 at 3:00 pm

Please contact Andrea Smith Shappell, Director of Senior Transition Programs at 631-5779 or Shappell.l@nd.edu for more information. Registration for the Discernment Sessions is requested.
Packers receive tax to renovate stadium

Associated Press

GREEN BAY, Wis. - Voters approved a half-per-cent sales tax to help the Green Bay Packers renovate Lambeau Field, clearing the way for the team to start construction in January.

With 96 percent of Brown County precincts reporting, 46,334 voters, or 53 percent, voted for the tax to raise $160 million for the $295 million project. There were 40,947 votes against it.

The county will start collecting the tax Nov. 1, Packers president Bob Harlan said. "We are going to have the finest stadium in the NFL," Harlan said at the stadium view. "Our goal is to bring the Green Bay Packers to the forefront of the NFL." Harlan said at the stadium view. "Our goal is to bring the Green Bay Packers to the forefront of the NFL.

We are going to have the finest stadium in the NFL," Harlan said at the stadium view. "Our goal is to bring the Green Bay Packers to the forefront of the NFL.

The sales-tax vote had been projected as a close one, pit-

Voters also decided whether money generated by the tax in excess of that needed for the renovation should go toward county services. With 96 percent of precincts reporting, 47,872, or 55 percent, opposed that idea, and 38,470, or 45 percent, voted for it.

By passing the first question - for the $295 million project in 2003 so the sta-mium club and other amenities could be opened in January, saying it would help finance the project in 2003 so the stadium club and other amenities could be opened in January, saying it would help finance the project.

If he is not claimed off waivers, Coleman likely will return to Denver's practice squad. Linebacker Jamie Balsley was waived from the practice squad Tuesday.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

When ND students choose to drink, men have 5 or fewer, drinks per evening; women have 3 or fewer.

Most ND Students Make Healthy Choices

When ND students choose to drink, men have 5 or fewer, drinks per evening; women have 3 or fewer.

1 drink = 1/2 oz pure alcohol which is approximately 10 oz 5% beer = 4 oz 12% wine = 1 oz 100 proof liquor

DENVER
The Denver Broncos waived backup running back Kevin Coleman on Tuesday, a move that indicates Terrell Davis is ready to return for Sunday's game against Oakland.

Denver also waived wide receiver Andre Cooper and signed offensive tackle John Tuten to replace Troy Tague, who was placed on injured reserve with a torn knee ligament.

Coleman, a rookie signed as an undrafted free agent, had seven carries for 21 yards Sunday against Atlanta. He wassigned from Denver's practice squad last week where the Broncos determined Davis would not be able to play because of a sprained left ankle.

Mike Anderson ran for 131 yards in place of Davis, but was waived to make way for the team's third backup with Davis set to return to Oakland.

Harris' signing came at the expense of former Broncos kicker Jason Elam, who also worked out in Denver on Tuesday. The Raiders well, and they became expendable. That's business. He wished the Raiders well, and they wished us well. When Harris was released just before the season started when the New England Patriots decided to go with second-year pro Kevin Faulk and rookie J.R. Redmond.

Harris, drafted by Chicago in the fourth round in 1994, was hoping to rebuild an injury-plagued career in New England. He did not play last year because of a stress fracture in his left leg, and he missed most of the 1995 season with the Bears because of a broken collarbone.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.

With eight career 100-yard games, including one against Denver in 1996, Harris pre-

voked the Lambeau Field debt years earlier.
WANTED: Strategists Quick Thinkers Team Players Achievers

Meeting our clients' expectations to deliver innovative financial solutions requires intuition, strategy and teamwork. On weekends they call it court vision. What's your game plan?

Controllers Department

Interviewing on Campus

Friday, October 6, 2000

Be Part of Our Team!

Submit Your Resume to the Career Services Office by no later than:

Thursday, September 14, 2000

MINDS. WIDE OPENsm
www.gs.com

Goldman Sachs, an equal opportunity employer, does not discriminate in employment on any basis that is prohibited by federal, state or local laws. © 2000 Goldman, Sachs & Co.
Olympics
continued from page 28
big rush for me. It was kind of like a circus atmosphere." Notre Dame will have to make do without Shay this cross country season, as he recovers from 15 months of intense training.
Because I’ve had such a long track sea son up through mid-July, it’s eased me to be a little more fatigued and injury-prone than usual,” Shay said. “I think sitting out this season is the best thing for me. If I run, I’m just asking for injury and that’s changing future goals.
By sitting out this year, Shay will be able to return for the 2001 cross country season. He would already be eligible for track next year since he did not compete his freshman sea son.
After graduating in May, Engelhardt managed to extend her Notre Dame career a little bit with the trip to the Olympic Trials.
“Just having that Notre Dame uniform on for the last time was probably one of the most heart­ arming feelings I’ll ever have. I was one of the few down there representing my school.”
— Ryan Shay
Senior distance runner

Engelhardt said, “It didn’t matter who you were, where you came from. Everybody had a cheering crowd.”

engelhardt is staying on at Notre Dame as a volunteer assistant coach while she stu dent teaches and continues to train with field events coach
Scott Winsor. Her short-term goal is to compete in the World Championships in two years, followed by the 2004 Olympic Games.

Both Shay and Engelhardt said they’re excited to see what the rest of the American at Notre Dame fell into.

Ironwood Family Dentistry
271-7500
RUSSELL A. MURPHY, DDS
1639 NORTH IRONWOOD DRIVE
SUITE 109
SOUTH BEND, IN 46635
10% COLLEGE STUDENT DISCOUNT

Notre Dame Film, Television, and Theatre presents

Actors from the London Stage
As You Like It
by William Shakespeare

Thursday, September 14......... 7:30 pm
Friday, September 15......... 7:30 pm
Saturday, September 16 .......... 7:30 pm

Playing at Washington Hall
Reserved Seats $16 • Seniors $14 • All Students $12
Tickets available at LaFortune Student Center Ticket Office, MasterCard and Visa orders call 631-8128.

The College of Arts and Letters

Cordially invites the University community to the presentation of the 2000 Charles E. Sheedy Award for Excellence in Teaching

Professor Reginald Bain

Department of Film, Television and Theatre

4:00 p.m., Friday, September 15th
Snite Museum, Annenberg Auditorium

2000-01 University of Notre Dame
Women’s Basketball Schedule

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Opponent</th>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Time</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sun. Nov. 5</td>
<td>Ohio All-Stars (exhibition)</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tues. Nov. 14</td>
<td>Foreign Team (exhibition)</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fri. Nov. 17</td>
<td>Valparaiso</td>
<td>Valparaiso, Ind.</td>
<td>7:35 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mon. Nov. 20</td>
<td>Arizona</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Nov. 23</td>
<td>Wisconsin</td>
<td>Madison, Wis.</td>
<td>TBA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mon. Nov. 27</td>
<td>Georgia/Alabama</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. Dec. 3</td>
<td>North Carolina</td>
<td>Orlando, Fla.</td>
<td>1:30 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Dec. 6</td>
<td>Villanova</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. Dec. 9</td>
<td>Purdue</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mon. Dec. 18</td>
<td>Western Michigan</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thurs. Dec. 21</td>
<td>Marquette</td>
<td>Milwaukee, Wis.</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thurs. Dec. 28</td>
<td>USC</td>
<td>Los Angeles, Calif.</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. Dec. 31</td>
<td>Rice</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>1:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Jan. 3</td>
<td>Virginia Tech</td>
<td>Blacksburg, W.V.</td>
<td>TBA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. Jan. 6</td>
<td>Rutgers</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>1:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tues. Jan. 9</td>
<td>St. John’s</td>
<td>Jamaica, N.Y.</td>
<td>7:30 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. Jan. 13</td>
<td>Virginia Tech</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>1:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mon. Jan. 15</td>
<td>Connecticut</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>2:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sun. Jan. 21</td>
<td>Seton Hall</td>
<td>South Orange, N.J.</td>
<td>12:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Jan. 24</td>
<td>West Virginia</td>
<td>Morgantown, W.V.</td>
<td>TBA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Jan. 31</td>
<td>Providence</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. Feb. 3</td>
<td>Boston College</td>
<td>Chestnut Hill, Mass.</td>
<td>2:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Feb. 7</td>
<td>Pittsburgh</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wed. Feb. 14</td>
<td>Syracuse</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. Feb. 17</td>
<td>Rutgers</td>
<td>Piscataway, N.J.</td>
<td>7:30 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tues. Feb. 20</td>
<td>Miami</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat. Feb. 24</td>
<td>Georgetown</td>
<td>Joyce Center</td>
<td>1:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tues. Feb. 27</td>
<td>Pittsburgh</td>
<td>Pittsburgh, Pa.</td>
<td>7:00 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sat.-Tues. March 6-8</td>
<td>BIG EAST Championship</td>
<td>Storrs, Conn.</td>
<td>TBA</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* indicates BIG EAST Conference game.
NCAA FOOTBALL

Auburn returns to national rankings

Associated Press

AUBURN, Ala. - The Auburn Tigers are back in the rankings for the first time in nearly two years. And their running game, among the nation's worst in recent years, is now among the best.

"We're not the best team that is out there right now. "We're going to have to go out and prove we are what we think we are," said Tommy Tuberville, Auburn head coach.

Tuberville said. "It's a whole different attitude from everybody." The Tigers ranked 112th of 114 Division I-A teams in rushing last season, and have not had a 1,000-yard rusher in five years. Of course, that was pre-Rudi.

Johnson has helped change that. Tuberville said. "It's a whole different game's come. I'm getting all kinds of e-mails now from alumni and fans. What's happening in our passing game?"

Johnson has totaled 339 yards and five touchdowns in two games, leading the nation in rushing. To put it in perspective, last year's leading rusher, Heath Evans, finished with just 330 yards. The team has already matched its eight rushing TDs of last season.

"We're not the best team that is out there right now. We're going to have to go out and prove we are what we think we are," Tuberville said.

Auburn's 261-yard effort against Ole Miss on Saturday was the most since the Tigers racked up 292 in a 62-0 win over Fresno State in 1996.

"If losing the starting quarterback were to happen last year I don't know if we would have been capable of raising our level of play that much with the inexperience the offense had," Tuberville said. "But now, a year later, we don't have any excuses because the surrounding cast is stronger. I think we're a better football team."

Despite Godsey's inability to run the option, Davie is confident that his offense will not miss a beat.

"The offense will be limited in any way because of Gary Godsey," Davie said. "We'll just do some different things. It's obvious we're not going to do as much option, if any, with Gary in the game. But he's going into a rhythm and gets comfortable. I'm totally comfortable with him."

Davie is not the only one comfortable with his pick as the new starter; Godsey himself is confident with his task.

"I'm ready to do whatever it takes," Godsey said. "Saturday is just a football game and I don't want to make it a bigger deal than that."

Godsey, who played only two seasons at quarterback in his high school career, was recruited by Davie as a tight end. Godsey, who could have gone to other universities as a quarterback, chose to attend Notre Dame with the hope that the opportunity to be the Irish signal caller would surface.

After CJ Leake backed out of his verbal commitment with Notre Dame and Friar Chappell left the team, Godsey got his wish and moved into the third-string quarterback role behind Battle and '99 graduate Jarius Jackson.

Davie is confident that Godsey's preparation will carry the Irish far this season.

"With Gary, you know what you're getting into — as much as it is possible to know without the guy being in the game," Davie said. "You've seen him in scrimmage situations. I think we're going to hang in there with him. That's why I said it's his job and we plan on him playing the whole football game."

Notes
- Battle underwent surgery Tuesday afternoon to repair a broken bone in his left wrist. "The doctor said there was no question that the surgery needed to be done once he was in there," Davie said. Battle will wear a soft cast until Monday, before wearing a hard cast for a minimum of two weeks.
- Irons will undergo surgery in 7-10 days when the swelling in his left shoulder goes down.

Football
continued from page 28
Davis to replace Knight as coach

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Mike Davis, a Bob Knight disciple but one opposite in temperament and style, inherited one of college basketball’s most visible jobs Tuesday as interim coach at Indiana.

The university, stung by one controversy after another involving Knight over the past year, picked the low-key Davis to head the program for at least one season and selected John Treloar, another former Knight assistant, as interim associate coach.

“T’m a quiet guy, but I love to compete,” said the 39-year-old Davis. Davis played at Indiana, was a second-round pick by Milwaukee in the 1983 NBA draft and then played in Europe and in the CBA.

He returned to Indiana as an assistant coach in 1995 and came to Indiana two years later.

Davis was responsible for recruiting many of the current players. After Knight was fired, some saw Sunday for violating “a zero-tolerance” behavior policy imposed in May, the players threatened to transfer en masse unless Davis was kotlin for the interim job.

“There was no way I could turn this job down, because of the players,” said Davis. “The way they came out for me, I really touched me. I’m extremely happy for this opportunity. But I’m sad because of the way it happened. I envisioned being a head coach, but under different circumstances.”

Everyone knows Coach Knight is the reason Indiana and why the players are here.

But it’s added, “Indiana basketball is bigger than anyone.”

Unlike Knight, Davis said he would open practices to the media. Another difference, center Kirk Haston said, laughing, “was the language.”

“Coach (Knight) talked a lot more, but I don’t know how that compares,” Haston said. “I was really thrilled when I came in this morning and talked with Coach Davis and he said everybody was aboard. That’s the happiest I’ve been in a few days.”

Until word spread that Davis would be the coach, as the players had hoped, up to a half-dozen or more players indicated they were considering transferring. They all changed their minds.

“It’s going to be different,” said junior Dane Fife, who just one day earlier said he already had decided to leave. “As we sat in the locker room before the press conference, coach Davis and coach Treloar walked in, and there was no coach Knight. That was different right there.

“We definitely have something to prove, that we’ve been through a lot and we have to following and beat people. We owe it to him,” said of Knight. “This is his team. We’re ready to go.”

Davis acknowledged his debt to Knight and said the Indiana tradition expects, even demands, success.

“I look forward to the season. We’re one or two players away from being national contenders,” Davis said. “But there’s no pressure on me from that standpoint. All I can do is recruit the players I’ve recruited before and coach the best way I can and let the chips fall where they may.”

Davis will be the coach that at least this season, but the school has said it also will look at other candidates for the following season.

“If we don’t have a great season, I shouldn’t be considered,” a confident Davis said.

Athletic director Clarence Smith said he tried to build a smooth level of efficiency throughout the game, but if you have won of those, you will not be going many repeat type games.

“I used to dream about having a smooth level of efficiency throughout the game, but if you have won of those, you probably won 35-7, and you’re not going to many of those,” Smith said.

Groh said he tried to build his roster in training camp with players who have the mental and physical ability to win close games.

NCAA

Mike Davis, a Bob Knight disciple but one opposite in temperament and style, inherited one of college basketball’s most visible jobs Tuesday as interim coach at Indiana.

The university, stung by one controversy after another involving Knight over the past year, picked the low-key Davis to head the program for at least one season and selected John Treloar, another former Knight assistant, as interim associate coach.

“I’m a quiet guy, but I love to compete,” said the 39-year-old Davis. Davis played at Indiana, was a second-round pick by Milwaukee in the 1983 NBA draft and then played in Europe and in the CBA.

He returned to Indiana as an assistant coach in 1995 and came to Indiana two years later.

Davis was responsible for recruiting many of the current players. After Knight was fired, some saw Sunday for violating “a zero-tolerance” behavior policy imposed in May, the players threatened to transfer en masse unless Davis was Kotlin for the interim job.

“There was no way I could turn this job down, because of the players,” said Davis. “The way they came out for me, I really touched me. I’m extremely happy for this opportunity. But I’m sad because of the way it happened. I envisioned being a head coach, but under different circumstances.”

Everyone knows Coach Knight is the reason Indiana and why the players are here.

But it’s added, “Indiana basketball is bigger than anyone.”

Unlike Knight, Davis said he would open practices to the media. Another difference, center Kirk Haston said, laughing, “was the language.”

“Coach (Knight) talked a lot more, but I don’t know how that compares,” Haston said. “I was really thrilled when I came in this morning and talked with Coach Davis and he said everybody was aboard. That’s the happiest I’ve been in a few days.”

Until word spread that Davis would be the coach, as the players had hoped, up to a half-dozen or more players indicated they were considering transferring. They all changed their minds.

“It’s going to be different,” said junior Dane Fife, who just one day earlier said he already had decided to leave. “As we sat in the locker room before the press conference, coach Davis and coach Treloar walked in, and there was no coach Knight. That was different right there.

“We definitely have something to prove, that we’ve been through a lot and we have to following and beat people. We owe it to him,” said of Knight. “This is his team. We’re ready to go.”

Davis acknowledged his debt to Knight and said the Indiana tradition expects, even demands, success.

“I look forward to the season. We’re one or two players away from being national contenders,” Davis said. “But there’s no pressure on me from that standpoint. All I can do is recruit the players I’ve recruited before and coach the best way I can and let the chips fall where they may.”

Davis will be the head coach that at least this season, but the school has said it also will look at other candidates for the following season.

“If we don’t have a great season, I shouldn’t be considered,” a confident Davis said.

Athletic director Clarence Smith said he tried to build a smooth level of efficiency throughout the game, but if you have won of those, you probably won 35-7, and you’re not going to many of those,

Groh said he tried to build his roster in training camp with players who have the mental and physical ability to win close games.

Kauffman Entrepreneur Intern

2000-2001 school year jobs
Kickoff Meeting This Thursday
7:00 p.m. Room 162
Mendoza College of Business

Come listen to last summer’s Kauffman Entrepreneur Interns Describe their experiences!
Saint Mary's gained needed experience from Kalamazoo, realizing their ability to play as a unit. "I saw positions improve 100 percent from last week," Schroeder-Biek said. "Defense was starting to click in." The Belles will face off against conference rival Hope College on Saturday at 4 p.m. at home.

MSU Ticket Raffle
La Fortune Ballroom
September 13, 2000
4-7pm
2 ID cards per student
Winning numbers will be posted outside the SUB office.

MSU vs. Notre Dame
September 23, 2000

Are you interested in consulting as a potential career?
Do you ever wonder what IT consultants REALLY do?
Learn about the profession of consulting through real project experience at the "What is Consulting?" panel discussion.

Thursday, September 14th
6:30 p.m. – 8:30 p.m.
CCE Room 210

2000-01 University of Notre Dame
Men's Basketball Schedule

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Opponent</th>
<th>Location</th>
<th>Time</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>W 11/18</td>
<td>California AAU All-Stars (Exh.)</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Su 11/12</td>
<td>International Select All-Stars (Exh.)</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>1:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 11/18</td>
<td>Sacred Heart</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>8:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>W 11/22</td>
<td>Loyola (Ill.)</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 11/25</td>
<td>Wooden tradition (at Conseco Fieldhouse) Notre Dame vs. Cincinnati Purdue vs. Arizona</td>
<td>Indianapolis, IN</td>
<td>1:00 pm EST TBA</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 12/2</td>
<td>at Vanderbilt</td>
<td>Nashville, TN</td>
<td>8:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T 12/5</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>9:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 12/9</td>
<td>Miami (OH)</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>1:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Su 12/17</td>
<td>Tennessee Tech</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T 12/19</td>
<td>Canisius</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Th 12/21</td>
<td>Vermont</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F 12/29</td>
<td>Long Island</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T 1/2</td>
<td>*at Syracuse</td>
<td>Syracuse, NY</td>
<td>7:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 1/6</td>
<td>*Rutgers</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M 1/8</td>
<td>*at Seton Hall</td>
<td>E. Rutherford, NJ</td>
<td>7:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 1/13</td>
<td>at Kentucky</td>
<td>Lexington, KY</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T 1/16</td>
<td>*Pittsburgh</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Su 1/21</td>
<td>*West Virginia</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>12:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>T 1/23</td>
<td>Syracuse</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 1/27</td>
<td>*at Georgetown</td>
<td>Washington, DC</td>
<td>7:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 2/3</td>
<td>*at Pittsburgh</td>
<td>Pittsburgh, PA</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M 2/5</td>
<td>*St. John's</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Su 2/11</td>
<td>*at West Virginia</td>
<td>Morgantown, WV</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>W 2/14</td>
<td>*at Rutgers</td>
<td>Piscataway, NJ</td>
<td>7:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Su 2/18</td>
<td>*Seton Hall</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>W 2/21</td>
<td>*Boston College</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>7:30 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sa 2/28</td>
<td>*at Virginia Tech</td>
<td>Blacksburg, VA</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>M 3/6</td>
<td>*at Connecticut</td>
<td>Hartford, CT</td>
<td>7:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Su 3/4</td>
<td>*Georgetown</td>
<td>Notre Dame, IN</td>
<td>2:00 pm EST</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* BIG EAST Conference Games home games in bold
The Observer • SPORTS

Wednesday, September 13, 2000

SOCCER

Saint Mary’s shut down by Kalamazoo in 5-0 loss

By SARAH RYKOWSKI
Sports Writer

It was a game fought by two young and restless teams and coaches. It was a game that left Kalamazoo victorious, and Saint Mary’s still restless for a victory.

“It’s really disappointing. It shows us that we have a lot of work to do.”

Laura Paulen
Saint Mary’s soccer player

“I think we were really tired from the two games this weekend.” Lynn Taylor said. “I know that I was tired after the long weekend.”

The Belles fell to Kalamazoo by a five-goal deficit. The Hornets defense allowed Saint Mary’s only three shots on goal to take the shutout.

Kalamazoo is now 3-1-1 for the season, and 1-0 MIAA.

“It’s really disappointing,” Laura Paulen said. “It shows us that we have a lot of work to do.”

Heather Muth, who fell early in the second half with a leg injury, contributed one, while freshmen Kristin Greenwood and Katie Green each got off a shot.

The Hornets completed five of 25 shots, and kept the game primarily in the Belles zone, although the second half was split evenly along both sides. Tia Kapphahn made fourteen saves while allowing five goals. Freshman Hornets goalie Adrienne Beller barely contributed to her team’s victory, recording only one save behind her defense.

The Belles now turn to next weekend as they face Olivet in an away match on Saturday, September 16. Their record is now 1-1 MIAA and 1-3-0 overall.

“I think now we’re all concentrating on Olivet this weekend,” Taylor said.

The Belles, who lost to Rose Hulman this weekend, were unable to net a win Tuesday afternoon against top ranked Kalamazoo.

Your children are a real credit to you. $500 each

They’re your pride and joy. What’s more, they can save you up to $500 each, subtracted right off your federal income tax. The Child Tax Credit is an important benefit of the Taxpayer Relief Act.

Who qualifies? Each dependent child or descendant, stepchild or foster child under 17 as of 12/31/99. The child must be a U.S. citizen or resident.

Credit is reduced when your modified Adjusted Gross Income exceeds certain limits. Special rules apply for three or more children.

Why wait for a refund? You can take home more money every payday, if you ask your employer to withhold less. (Be careful to withhold enough to avoid a penalty.)

See your 1999 tax booklet for full details. Or check the IRS Web site: www.irs.gov

NBCOLYMPICS.COM
A CO-PRODUCTION OF NBCOLYMPICS.com & Quokkasports

What’s more valuable than bronze... silver... gold?

Bragging rights.
The Collegiate Olympic Medal Race is on!
Follow the tally with the GE College Medal Tracker, only on NBCOLYMPICS.com.
THINGS COULD BE WORSE

TYLER WHATELY

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DAY:
Roy Schneider, Seabed, Madam
Phipps, Donna Fargo

Happy Birthday: Take good care of yourself this year. You will be needed to run yourself ragged (if you don't make special arrangements and take time to sit back and relax). You will be alert and quick to make things happen; however, if you take your current problem too far, your base that will be sure to bring you prosperity and respect. Your numbers: 1, 5, 24, 23, 37, 4.

AUGUST (March 21-April 20):
Your emotions will be unstable if you allow others to take you for granted.
Secret love affairs will be tempting.
Emotions will be unstable if you think twice before you get involved.

ARIES (March 21-April 19):
Your numbers:
1, 5, 24, 23, 37, 4.

BREATH OF FRESHNESS

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/
Volleyball

Hornets block a Belles win

By ALICIA ORTIZ
Sports Writer

The Kalamazoo Hornets volleyball team blocked their way to a win against Saint Mary's Tuesday night.

The Belles did all they could to return the volley from Kalamazoo, but their attempts fell short when the Hornets formed a fortress and blocked them, dropping the Belles' record to 0-8 on the season.

Kalamazoo won 3-1, defeating Saint Mary's 15-7, 15-7, and 15-4. The Belles had several good plays, but lacked the consistency they needed to win.

"Right now we are not consistent. We have spurts," head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek said. "I am thrilled to see it, but we need to know how to dig it out all the time."

"Our senior captain, Grant Irons and junior Selection Jennifer Engelhardt (90) — both of whom finished among the top 10 in their events. The top three in each event qualified for the Olympiads.

Shay entered the Trials with the 14th fastest qualifying time in the 10,000-meter run, a 28 minutes, 26.91 seconds performance at the Mt. SAC Relays in April. He didn't match his personal best time in the Trials with a time of 28:51.74, but placed 10th among all runners.

"I wasn't happy with my race at all," Shay said. "I know I could have run faster. I know this much, the guy who got fourth, I beat him at Mt. SAC, Sean Found." "A couple slow laps in the middle of the race left Shay back in 16th place, but he recovered for a 10th place finish. Although he had hoped to finish higher, he was the first collegiate runner to cross the finish line, and the youngest top 10 finisher. With a year of college eligibility remaining, Shay looks upon his experience at the Trials as preparation for the future.

"It's definitely a stepping stone," Shay said. "The least I got out of it was the experience of being in a highly competitive race with not only the best collegiate runners but the best runners. By the next Olympic Trials, or next Olympic Games, if I keep improving consistently like I have over the next four years, I don't see myself not making the team." "Having the chance to compete with the elite American distance runners let Shay become even more confident about his running ability. "I don't have them up on a pedestal anymore because I know that they're my competition," Shay said. "I just looked at them like any competition."

"The All-American cross country and track runner relished the opportunity to compete at the Trials.

"It was one of the most exciting, most built-up races I've ever participated in," Shay said. "There were a lot of emotions going on, the chances of being able to represent not only Notre Dame, but the U.S., in the Olympic Games, was a

FOOTBALL

Davie confident Irish character will lead to wins

By KERRY SMITH
Sports Editor

The situation outside Notre Dame Stadium looks bleak.

With the No. 12 Purdue Boilermakers ready to steam roll through South Bend, the Irish have no quarterback with any collegiate experience to replace Arnaz Battle, who was definitively with a broken left wrist. They are missing their leader, senior captain Grant Irons and riding a two-week emotional roller coaster of a huge win and devastating losses on and off the field.

But just as it seems that the Irish are falling apart in the third week of the season, head coach Bob Davie believes he has found the glue to hold them together.

"I obviously see the challenges (handed to the Irish), but I like our football team," Davie said. "I think our football team has shown me an awful lot of character over the first two weeks of the season. It was something that I thought was there through the off-season, but you never know for sure until you play a football game."

Davie is counting on his troops to rise to the challenge that have come down upon them, a team that, coming off a 5-7 1999 season, already has enough to prove.

"There are so many outside situations, so many scenarios, but what it comes down to is a football coach is really what you feel about your team and what you feel about your preparation," said Davie. "And from that standpoint I am really encouraged."

But character can only take a team so far.

When the Boilermakers take the field Saturday with Heisman-candidate Drew Brees at the