Students react to another Irish fumble

By JASON McFARLEY
News Editor

Notre Dame football was always a big deal in the Kurowski household. “My dad is an alum, and since I was little, my everybody in my family has been a big fan of the football team,” said Katie Kurowski, now a freshman at the University. But following an 0-3 start this season, the program, among the most storied and successful in college sports, has lost its appeal. And it’s not just in the Kurowski’s Crown Point, Ind., home, but among a Notre Dame student body that has traditionally rallied behind its football team. “It’s kind of disappointing, because in the last few years they haven’t done as well as in the past,” Kurowski said Sunday. “It’s sort of hurt my excitement about the team.”

On Saturday, an embarrassing 24-3 loss at Texas A&M held the Irish winless in three games this season. The defeat signaled the worst start in the 114-year history of the Notre Dame football program. Notre Dame lost its season-opener at Nebraska on Sept. 8. Michigan State beat the team in Notre Dame Stadium on Sept. 22. “In general, people don’t seem as pumped up at all for the team and the games,” said sophomore Michelle Westhoefer.

“It’s really depressing,” said Katie Remenih, also a sophomore. “I think a lot of students are start-
Daring to underachieve

In the frenzy of these past days, I am certain I have completely lost my mind. I first noticed the phenomenon during one of my frequent late-night efforts to overachieve. The time was approximately 4:20 a.m., and I could not find the novel that I needed to read for my 9:00 a.m. class for the life of me.

With less than five hours on the clock to locate the blasted book—and then read it—I scattered the contents of my book bag all over the ground, threw every piece of clothing out of my drawers, and interrogated all three stuffed animals in my room about the location of this book.

Unfortunately the animals refused to speak—like they typically do in the wee hours of the night—so I severely damaged their little bodies and continued the search on my own.

As the sun was rising outside my window a marvelous thought entered my head: I found my book conveniently tucked away in the refrigerator next to the carton of expired milk. Yes, exactly where I left it.

As my terrific luck would allow, this "missed" book incident was the just the beginning of what I consider the most pathetic series of academic errors I have ever experienced. In the day that followed, I also lost my student ID and later realized that a friendly chap had stolen my bike. I immediately checked my refrigerator again for both of these items, but found only the same carton of old chunky milk that my roommate claims she will still drink.

All of my classes that day were useless. I could not focus my mental energy because a disgusting thought dawned on me in the middle of my chemistry lecture. I realized that my middle-aged professor, whose identity will remain anonymous to protect the innocent, could actually rank among the top five most attractive men I have seen in weeks.

The reality of it all forced me to scope out a new campus after illegally soliciting personal information from Indiana University (IU) students Thursday. Plain-clothed IU police officers approached a group of three men and one woman who were collecting credit card applications between the Indiana Memorial Union and Maxwell Hall.

Two of the four were connected to a report filed by an IU student last week that suggested her personal information might have been stolen, police said.

Police have no proof to suggest the group has stolen the identity of any IU students, said Lt. Jerry Minger. The group was not charged with a crime, but did mislead its intentions to students, Minger said.

They were misrepresenting themselves to the people they were getting information from," Minger said. "We were told by the company that they sometimes work for that they do campaigns, but this particular company said they had nothing going on in this area."

Greg McClure, the detective in charge of the case, would not release the name of the Indianapolis-based advertising company the group said it was working for.

Minger said one of the four asked to leave campus, said he worked for R & I Professional Promotions. He added this group was not in Bloomington to fraudulently obtain students' personal information, including Social Security numbers.

"We're not going out fake information," said Jenkins, walking past the Student Building and away from campus. "And we're not stealing numbers. We're legit."

SHEILA EGTS
News Copy Editor

In the frenzy of these past days, I am certain I have completely lost my mind. I first noticed the phenomenon during one of my frequent late-night efforts to overachieve. The time was approximately 4:20 a.m., and I could not find the novel that I needed to read for my 9:00 a.m. class for the life of me.

With less than five hours on the clock to locate the blasted book—and then read it—I scattered the contents of my book bag all over the ground, threw every piece of clothing out of my drawers, and interrogated all three stuffed animals in my room about the location of this book.

Unfortunately the animals refused to speak—like they typically do in the wee hours of the night—so I severely damaged their little bodies and continued the search on my own.

As the sun was rising outside my window a marvelous thought entered my head: I found my book conveniently tucked away in the refrigerator next to the carton of expired milk. Yes, exactly where I left it.

As my terrific luck would allow, this "missed" book incident was the just the beginning of what I consider the most pathetic series of academic errors I have ever experienced. In the day that followed, I also lost my student ID and later realized that a friendly chap had stolen my bike. I immediately checked my refrigerator again for both of these items, but found only the same carton of old chunky milk that my roommate claims she will still drink.

All of my classes that day were useless. I could not focus my mental energy because a disgusting thought dawned on me in the middle of my chemistry lecture. I realized that my middle-aged professor, whose identity will remain anonymous to protect the innocent, could actually rank among the top five most attractive men I have seen in weeks.

The reality of it all forced me to scope out a new campus after illegally soliciting personal information from Indiana University (IU) students Thursday. Plain-clothed IU police officers approached a group of three men and one woman who were collecting credit card applications between the Indiana Memorial Union and Maxwell Hall.

Two of the four were connected to a report filed by an IU student last week that suggested her personal information might have been stolen, police said.

Police have no proof to suggest the group has stolen the identity of any IU students, said Lt. Jerry Minger. The group was not charged with a crime, but did mislead its intentions to students, Minger said.

They were misrepresenting themselves to the people they were getting information from," Minger said. "We were told by the company that they sometimes work for that they do campaigns, but this particular company said they had nothing going on in this area."

Greg McClure, the detective in charge of the case, would not release the name of the Indianapolis-based advertising company the group said it was working for.

Minger said one of the four asked to leave campus, said he worked for R & I Professional Promotions. He added this group was not in Bloomington to fraudulently obtain students' personal information, including Social Security numbers.

"We're not going out fake information," said Jenkins, walking past the Student Building and away from campus. "And we're not stealing numbers. We're legit."

SHEILA EGTS
News Copy Editor

Antoni-Kite sentiment remains strong

Nike CEO Phil Knight's recent decision to donate money to the University of Oregon ended a 17-month estrangement between the University and Knight, but also reminded students of the conflict that initially destroyed his trust and caused his disappearance. Many students have not forgotten the campus protest in April 2000, which pressured University President Dave Frohnmayer to sign on to the Worker Rights Consortium, a labor monitoring group that conflicted with Knight's interests. Although students have not seen similar demonstrations recently, the anti-sweatshop movement and its focus have evolved since he participated in the 2000 protests. Student activist and Randy Newsham said the movement and its focus have evolved since he participated in the 2000 protests. "A lot of us were discouraged and many of us have graduated and moved on," he said. "But I see many new faces and passionate people that are bringing in new perspectives and ideas."

OKLAHOMA STATE UNIVERSITY
Court blocks plane wreckage removal

STILLWATER, Okla. A temporary injunction granted Thursday afternoon by an Oklahoma County district court will prevent the moving of wreckage from the Jan. 27 Colorado plane crash involving 10 members and affiliates of the Oklahoma State University men's basketball team, as requested by the father of victim Nate Fleming. Zane Fleming sought the court order; an ordinary pretrial action, evidence could be preserved in the form that the National Transportation Safety Board organized it. The board will most likely issue its final report with analysis and recommendations concerning the crash next year, a year to a year and a half after the event, said Ted Logickwitz, deputy director of public affairs. Because the injunction was granted, Fleming and his lawyer, John Norman, will be able to send their own experts to the crash site to examine evidence and further evaluate findings of the NTSB. "It's important to know who was responsible for my son's death," Fleming said. "Planes don't just fall from the sky."

LEONARD J. FRIEDMAN BLOOMINGTON, Ind.

Corrections/Clarifications

The Observer regrets itself as a professional publication and strives for the highest standard of journalism at all times. We do, however, recognize that we will make mistakes. If we have made a mistake, please contact us at (812) 461-3500 so we can correct our error.

SHEILA EGTS
News Copy Editor

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

The Observer regrets itself as a professional publication and strives for the highest standard of journalism at all times. We do, however, recognize that we will make mistakes. If we have made a mistake, please contact us at (812) 461-3500 so we can correct our error.

SHEILA EGTS
News Copy Editor

Contact Sheila Egts at egts0369@smu.edu

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
Irish band Dervish jams O’Laughlin

Dervish performed on Saint Mary’s O’Laughlin stage Saturday. Rallying the crowd with traditional jigs and slow ballads, the Ireland natives made a memorable first appearance.

By KATIE RAND
News Writer

Irish musician David James would rather listen to the band Dervish than play himself.

At least that’s what he said to students and South Bend residents Friday when the Sligo, Ireland-native band played at Moeurce Center for the Arts as a part of the Shaeheen Discovery Series. The band, originally from northwest Ireland, plays traditional Irish music with a few modern twists.

The original five members of Dervish came together in 1989 to record an album of traditional Irish music, and were inspired by the project to develop the informal gathering into a working band. Since then, the group has transformed and now consists of seven members, each contributing his own distinct sound and playing various instruments.

“I’m very pleased with the turnout at the show, especially since this is our first time performing here,” said Shane Mitchell, one of the original members of the group who plays the accordion. Vocalist Cathy Jordan is regarded as one of the best traditional singers in the music industry. She introduced herself and the six men who accompany her and started the concert off with a bang.

The first half of the show consisted of 10 songs ranging from upbeat jigs and reels to slower ballads, some with vocals and some without. Jordan introduced many songs with a brief history or story, often because the lyrics were in Gaelic and needed translation.

According to one critic, “her stories that accompany the songs and her interaction with the audience draws people into the music in a very special way.”

One song with Gaelic lyrics was called “Holyo for the Calves.” According to Jordan, the author of the song thought the most beautiful sight and sound in the world is that of calves in the field before they come in to feed. She obviously didn’t get out much,” Jordan said.

During this half of the concert, the band also played a song titled “The Ploughman,” originally a poem by Scottish poet Robbie Burns, and a love song from County Limerick about a couple whose parents disapproved of their marriage since the families were of different classes.

“So they eloped off to Saint Mary’s to be together, but he had to go to Notre Dame down the road, and eventually they were together happily,” Jordan said.

To add something from this side of the Atlantic, Dervish performed a Bob Dylan song called “Spanish Boots of Spanish Leather.”

To end the first half, they played a set of jigs during which the audience clapped along enthusiastically, encouraged by group member Seamus O’Dowd, who plays guitar, harmonica and provides back-up vocals.

After the break, O’Dowd performed a blues song called “The Empire State Express,” demonstrating solid guitar-playing abilities.

“Now get that blues out of your head,” said Jordan, moving onto a different combination of the group’s songs.

According to one critic, “her storytelling, accompanied by stories. The audience was apparently extremely pleased with the concert, evident in its non-stop applause and laughter throughout the show.

Linda Padilla, a Saint Mary’s junior, said, “After living in Ireland for all of last year, the concert brought back a lot of wonderful memories. They were great.”

However, following a standing ovation, Dervish played an encore of two more songs, both accompanied by stories. The audience was apparently extremely pleased with the concert, evident in its non-stop applause and laughter throughout the show.

One Saint Mary’s student, junior Marianne Jennings, grew up in a family with a strong Irish heritage, listening to Irish music regularly.

“The concert was a great example of traditional music played with a lot of energy,” Jennings said.

Dervish has released five albums so far, many of which have earned awards such as the Hot Press Traditional/Folk Album of the Year and the Best Overall Traditional/Folk Music Band of the Year.

Their most recent album, ‘Empire State Express,’ confirmed their status as a top traditional Irish band.

The group will be on tour in the United States until mid-October before they head back to Ireland.
SMC class of 2005 votes in leaders

Garavan-Oskielunas/Lubber to hold key positions

By NATALIE BAILEY
News Writer

Following two rounds of voting last week, the Saint Mary's class of 2005 elected Maureen Garavan-Oskielunas and Donna Lubbers as its president and vice president.

The first round of the election narrowed the five pairs of candidates down to running mates Nina Helmen and Shannon Reeder and Garavan-Oskielunas and Lubbers. The Helmen-Reeder ticket scored 24 percent of the vote, while the Garavan-Oskielunas and Lubber ticket took 34 percent. Lubbers said she is excited about the opportunity to represent her peers.

"I think it is going to be a lot of fun. I cannot wait to meet new people and get involved," she said.

One of the pair's main goals is to unite the class of 2005, they said. To accomplish this objective, they said they want suggestions and input from their classmates.

"We are open to visitors, email and phone calls," said Lubbers. Garavan-Oskielunas and Lubbers will also get help from the First Year Class Board. The class of 2005 elected eight of the board's 13 members last week.

One of the newly-elected board members, Meghan Barnes, said she shares the same goals as Garavan-Oskielunas and Lubbers.

"We want to make ourselves accessible to the student body. People need to know who we are so that they can easily make suggestions," said Barnes.

Joining Barnes on the board will be Emily Fisher, Meghan Bargerave, Emily Peronito, Erin Cunningham, Erin Flynn, Heather Hood and Valerie Johnson. Garavan-Oskielunas and Lubbers are now in the process of filling the five other slots through applications and interviews.

"We are looking for women who want to get involved, have good ideas and leadership skills," Lubbers said. Other duties for the pair start up this week with the beginning of Saint Mary's Pride Week sponsored by the Board of Governance.

"The first thing that we will do as president and vice president will be to get as many first years involved in Pride Week," said Lubbers. "The class of 2005 will be the loudest and the proudest of all the Belles."

Contact Natalie Bailey at bail1407@SaintMarys.edu

Fumble

continued from page 1

ning to lose interest in the team." And its coach.

Since Saturday's loss, student conversations in dining halls and dorm rooms have centered on Bob Dave's adequacy as Irish head coach as well as the possibility that he might resign or be fired.

Bedheads draped out residence hall windows expressed popular campus sentiments. A sign outside Keough Hall reads: "Bob Dave." And signs outside Dillon and Keenan halls urged University officials to "Save Irish football."

"I would say the team's performance has been because of the coaching," Kurowski said. "I don't think he's doing as good a job as he could be. Everyone is pretty convinced that there should be a change."

"You really have to lean toward (the Irish losses) resulting from the coaching," Remenih agreed.

Dave in December signed a five-year contract that secured his position through the 2005 season. He signed onto the program in 1994 as defensive coordinator and succeeded Lou Holtz as head coach in 1996.

The defeat Saturday brought the Irish to 30-22 under Dave's tenure at the helm of the team.

The team's performance was not wholly a result of Dave's coaching, according to William Stahl.

"Moral is an issue," said Stahl, a first-year graduate student. "It looks like it's getting tougher every time they go out on the field."

A tough schedule including ranked opponent Nebraska hurt the Irish, according to senior Matt Phillips.

"I thought we were going to come out ready to play Saturday," Phillips said. "That A&M crowd was just unbelievable to play against."

"I'm not as big of a Bob Dave basher as most people here. We basically have the same team as last year when we won nine games. I don't see why we can't do more this year. Maybe the players just can't get motivated to play," Phillips said.

The Irish, on a losing streak since their Jan. 1 fall to Oregon State in the Fiesta Bowl, would need strong showings against Pittsburgh on Saturday and West Virginia on Oct. 13 to break the recent slump, Stahl said.

"They just need one good game to snap them out of this," he said. "There's no way they can keep playing like this."

Fans like Kurowski hope not.

For the long-time enthusiast of the program, being a Notre Dame student means less without a solid team to rally behind.

"It's still good to go to the games and watch them on TV, I'll continue to support them," Kurowski said. "But the losses kind of take a lot of the fun out of it and make it a different experience."

Contact Jason McFarley at mcfarley@nd.edu.

Information Meetings

Tonight at 4 p.m. at the CSC
Tonight at 6:30 p.m. at the CSC
Tomorrow at 4 p.m. CSC, Focus on the Chile Program
Tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. Off-Campus at the Robinson CLC (921 N. Eddy)

The Four Pillars of Holy Cross Associates

Service
Spirituality
Simple Lifestyle
Community Living

Holy Cross Associates

Interested in learning more about post-grad service with HCA? The following meetings are available for you to ask questions, talk with former and current Associates, and meet other students interested in service.

Beacon Bowl

"YOUR FAMILY FUN CENTER"

COLLEGE NIGHT

MONDAYS & THURSDAYS
9PM - 12 MIDNIGHT
UNLIMITED BOWLING
$6.95 PER PERSON
SHOES INCLUDED

Beacon Bowl- 4210 Lincolnway W. South Bend
234-6167

NOW LEASING
FOR THE 2002 - 2003 SCHOOL YEAR.
DOMUS PROPERTIES HAS

- 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 40, 80, 100
- UNBEATEN FOR PROS
- COACHES RECOMMENDED
- CLOSET TO CAMPUS
- PARKING AVAIL.
- WELL MAINTAINED HOMES
- MAINTENANCE STAFF ON CALL
- AVAILABLE TO FAMILIES WITH DRIVERS LICENSE

CONTACT KEVIN
(219) 298-9763 OR (219) 234-2436
(219) 267-2977

Serving in Arizona, California, Colorado, Indiana, Massachusetts, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Chile.

nhd.cassoc.1@nd.edu 631.5521 http://www.nd.edu/~hcassoc/
Pope decry terrorist attacks: Declaring Sept. 11 a dark day in history, Pope John Paul II on Sunday urged frequent prayer to help save the world from the "violent scourgings" of terrorism and said justice goes hand-and-hand with peace. He also encouraged Catholics to be "on the front lines in the search for justice, in vanishing violence and in being agents of peace.

Indian lawyer dies in crash: A private plane carrying a leading law firm from the opposition Congress party crashed in heavy rain Sunday in India, killing the politician and at least six other people, officials said. The plane burst into flames after crashing in a field near Jodhpur, 450 miles southeast of New Delhi. Police found seven badly burned bodies and were searching for others.

NATIONAL NEWS BRIEFS

St. Paul workers nearing strike: A walkout by government workers appeared likely after contract talks broke off the state and its two biggest unions, officials said. "A strike is pretty much imminent," said Peter Benner, executive director of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Council 6. A breakdown also was reported in negotiations late Saturday with the 10,500-member Minnesota Association of Professional Employees.

Concert drums up support: Willie Nelson, who brought a flag-waving crowd to the world's "sourest" of terrorism and said justice goes hand-and-hand with peace. He also encouraged Catholics to be "on the front lines in the search for justice, in vanishing violence and in being agents of peace.

Two die in Fort Wayne fire: A Fort Wayne woman and her teen-age son died early Sunday when a fire broke out in their single-story home. The cause of the 3:30 a.m. fire remains under investigation, but investigators had no motive, and there were no suspects, state police said.

Food supplies rushed to refugees

Food supplies rushed to refugees

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Americans are slowly returning to the skies and while security remains tight and time-consuming, the federal government is allowing some airports to resume one timesaving measure: curbside check-in.

Air travel still is well below levels prior to the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. Federal Aviation Administration spokesman William Shumann said airlines are flying 80 to 85 percent of their pre-attacks schedules. But the Air Transport Association, a trade group for the major airlines, said preliminary estimates showed 662,714 passengers flew on domestic flights Thursday, compared to 518,765 the Thursday before. The flights were 46 percent full, up from 39 percent a week earlier.

A year ago, airplanes carried around 1 million passengers a day and were around 70 percent full. There were no numbers available for weekend flights, but airport and airline officials said it appeared more people were flying.

Bill DeCota, aviation director for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which runs Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark airports, visited all three facilities on Sunday and reported the terminals were busier.

Michael Wascem, spokesman for the airline trade group, said he flew into Baltimore from Pittsburgh on Sunday and the plane was full.

Monique Bond, a spokeswoman for the Chicago Department of Aviation, said there were longer lines at security check-points at both O'Hare and Midway airports.

"That's a good sign," Bond said. "Increased lines mean there are more travelers regaining their confidence in air travel."

President Bush and members of his Cabinet have been encouraging Americans to return to the skies, saying it will help boost the economy and return some normalcy to lives disrupted by the terrorist attacks.

Airline passengers are seeing greater security at airports and being encouraged to arrive two hours before departures. The National Guard has paroled patrolling major airports and more strenuous checks of passengers.

Food supplies rushed to refugees

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Food supplies rushed to refugees

Foreign aid workers in Iran stockpiled emergency rations for possible waves of Afghan refugees and sought ways to begin funneling supplies into Afghanistan before the winter, relief coordinators said Sunday.

The food shipments are among the steps that impoverished northeastern Iran is taking to prepare for an estimated 400,000 people that could flee Afghanistan if the United States launches military strikes to retaliate for the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

More than 2.3 million refugees have crossed into Iran from war-battered Afghanistan since the early 1980s.

"It's worrying to think that more could be coming, but we have to get prepared," said Yoshiro Odashima, head of the U.N. refugee agency in Mashhad, about 150 miles from the Afghan border.

The first food shipment was stored in the Iranian border town of Dogharoun, he said. But it represents just a small portion of the 17,000 tons of food and other supplies that could be required.

"Blankets, water, stoves, tents — they all present a major logistical operation," he said. "We are just at the beginning."
Coastal leader found dead

Consuelo Araujo, discovered dead in guerrilla uniform

Associated Press

Colombia's peace process was shaken Sunday by the killing of a beloved Coastal cultural figure, days after she was kidnapped by rebels.

Araujo, 62, was minister of culture from 1994 to 2000. She was found dead in a ravine 9,800 feet high in the Sierra Nevada mountains outside Valledupar, army Col. Jose Mahecha told The Associated Press. Her body was found in a guerrilla uniform with two guns, several knives and a bow and arrow.

Araujo, who was minister from July 2000 until January, gained fame for promoting Vallenato music, an accordion-based folk music popular all over Colombia. More than 30 years ago, she founded an annual Vallenato festival that is one of Colombia's most important cultural events.

Last year, she led a visit to the White House by a group of child Vallenato musicians cast by President Bill Clinton.

Araujo's nephew, Alvaro Araujo, a congressman, denounced the FARC as "terrorists," saying "their mask is coming off."
Albanian rebels scatter gunfire Sunday

Associated Press

Scattered gunfire rattled early Sunday through a volatile part of Macedonia where Albanian rebels seized control during the fighting, which broke out in February and killed dozens of people.

The rebels' ultimate goal was to claim much of northwestern Macedonia as their own. The rebels said they were simply acting in self-defense.

The gunfire came at a delicate time for the Balkan country, where majority Macedonians and minority ethnic Albanians are gradually implementing a Western-brokered peace plan signed last month.

Last week, NATO troops collected more than 3,300 weapons handed in by rebels as part of the peace deal, mostly in the area where the shots were fired Sunday. The top rebel leader later announced that his guerrillas, known as the National Liberation Army, had disbanded.

On Saturday, Macedonia's government promised to use restraint in restoring control over areas that were in rebel hands during the fighting, which broke out in February and killed dozens of people.

The Macedonian-dominated government said it would not move into those areas until other provisions of the peace accord are fulfilled — including its own obligation to implement legal reforms granting broader rights to ethnic Albanians who make up nearly one-third of the population.

But the authorities also say there is an urgent need to restore law and order in the contested areas and enable thousands of refugees displaced by the fighting to return home.

NATO officials, Western diplomats and international monitors have warned that any hasty action by Macedonian police or the army could undermine peace efforts, which have halted sporadic fighting for nearly a month.

Its weapons-collecting mission under a rebel warning to govern­ment troops to ensure that insurgents who lay down their arms will hand in their weapons as part of the peace deal, most­ly in the city of Tetovo, Macedonia's second largest city.

The top rebel leader Sunday through a volatile part of Macedonia to check on progress in fulfilling the peace plan signed Aug. 13.

Another unresolved issue in the peace process is amnesty for the rebels, ethnic Albanian lead­ers and Western officials have pressed the Macedonian government to ensure that insurgents who laid down their arms will not face prosecution unless they are suspected of war crimes.

Citizens call for peace

♦ Protestors gather in Washington for anti-war demonstration

WASHINGTON

Banging drums, singing songs and waving giant puppets, several thousand anti-war demonstra­tors marched Sunday to call for peace following the terrorist attacks.

"Now is when you should arrest the presi­dent," said Scott Morschhauser, 37, who came from Bettendorf, Iowa, with a large American flag, its field of stars replaced with a peace symbol. "At times of emergency, the deci­sions made have repercus­sions 10 or 20 years from now.

The peace rally and march had a festive atmosphere, with families spreading out picnic blank­ets in a park and per­formers leading the crowd in songs with lyrics such as "No more killing, no more war, no more violence anywhere."

The police presence was muted, unlike Saturday when scores of officers turned out in riot gear for two separate marches of several thousand demonstra­tors. Those events were mostly peaceful, but some skirmishes led to several arrests.

The city's top two police officials walked ahead of the mar­ch Sunday, including Assistant Police Chief Terry Gainer, who had been injured at a protest the previous day when someone hit him on the head and he was doused with a fire­house sprayer. He said he has recently been sprayed by his own offi­cers.

A lone counter-demo­nstrator drew angry words from protesters as he walked in front of the march with a sign compar­ing the anti-war demonstra­tors with Osama bin Laden, the government's prime sus­pect in the Sept. 11 ter­rorist attacks.

During the march through residential neigh­borhoods, the protesters chanted "peace now" and some held American flags alongside signs demon­izing war.

"We're here to honor and mourn the victims of the violent attacks," said Maria Bannock, co­director of the Washington Peace Cen­ter, which helped organize the march. "Calling a criminal act a just cause gives it too much dignity."

In addition to our banking center and ATM in Haggar Col­lege Center, and our ATM in the Hesburgh Library, we recently added a third ATM in LeMans Hall at Saint Mary's. If you have any questions regarding our ATM, please call us at 235-2019.

The Easy Banking Club

for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Faculty and Staff

Great Benefits

Sign up for direct deposit payroll at 1st Source Bank and receive the following great benefits:

• Free checking account
• Interest on balances over $750
• Unlimited checkwriting
• Free Resource® or Resource Plus® card
• 1/2% interest discount on consumer loans
• $100 mortgage closing cost discount
• Free Online Banking account information access
• And much more...

Ask Human Resources or a 1st Source Bank representative for details on how easy it is to join.

Now More Convenient Than Ever!

In addition to our banking center and ATM in Haggar College Center, and our ATM in the Hesburgh Library, we recently added a third ATM in LeMans Hall at Saint Mary's. If you have any questions regarding our ATM, please call us at 235-2019.

Saint Mary's Banking Center • 235-2019
M-Th. 10:00 to 4:00  F. 10:00 to 4:30

1st Source Bank

The Observer • NEWS

page 7

Citizens call for peace

♦ Protestors gather in Washington for anti-war demonstration

WASHINGTON

Banging drums, singing songs and waving giant puppets, several thousand anti-war demonstra­tors marched Sunday to call for peace following the terrorist attacks.

"Now is when you should arrest the presi­dent," said Scott Morschhauser, 37, who came from Bettendorf, Iowa, with a large American flag, its field of stars replaced with a peace symbol. "At times of emergency, the deci­sions made have repercus­sions 10 or 20 years from now.

The peace rally and march had a festive atmosphere, with families spreading out picnic blank­ets in a park and per­formers leading the crowd in songs with lyrics such as "No more killing, no more war, no more violence anywhere."

The police presence was muted, unlike Saturday when scores of officers turned out in riot gear for two separate marches of several thousand demonstra­tors. Those events were mostly peaceful, but some skirmishes led to several arrests.

The city's top two police officials walked ahead of the mar­ch Sunday, including Assistant Police Chief Terry Gainer, who had been injured at a protest the previous day when someone hit him on the head and he was doused with a fire­house sprayer. He said he has recently been sprayed by his own offi­cers.

A lone counter-demo­nstrator drew angry words from protesters as he walked in front of the march with a sign compar­ing the anti-war demonstra­tors with Osama bin Laden, the government's prime sus­pect in the Sept. 11 ter­rorist attacks.

During the march through residential neigh­borhoods, the protesters chanted "peace now" and some held American flags alongside signs demon­izing war.

"We're here to honor and mourn the victims of the violent attacks," said Maria Bannock, co­director of the Washington Peace Cen­ter, which helped organize the march. "Calling a criminal act a just cause gives it too much dignity."

In addition to our banking center and ATM in Haggar Col­lege Center, and our ATM in the Hesburgh Library, we recently added a third ATM in LeMans Hall at Saint Mary's. If you have any questions regarding our ATM, please call us at 235-2019.

The Easy Banking Club

for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Faculty and Staff

Great Benefits

Sign up for direct deposit payroll at 1st Source Bank and receive the following great benefits:

• Free checking account
• Interest on balances over $750
• Unlimited checkwriting
• Free Resource® or Resource Plus® card
• 1/2% interest discount on consumer loans
• $100 mortgage closing cost discount
• Free Online Banking account information access
• And much more...

Ask Human Resources or a 1st Source Bank representative for details on how easy it is to join.

Now More Convenient Than Ever!

In addition to our banking center and ATM in Haggar College Center, and our ATM in the Hesburgh Library, we recently added a third ATM in LeMans Hall at Saint Mary's. If you have any questions regarding our ATM, please call us at 235-2019.

Saint Mary's Banking Center • 235-2019
M-Th. 10:00 to 4:00  F. 10:00 to 4:30

1st Source Bank

The Observer • NEWS

page 7
UK tested children’s bones after fallout

Associated Press

LONDON

Thousands of bones were removed from dead British children without their parents’ consent during Cold War-era nuclear tests, the nation’s Atomic Energy Authority said Sunday.

The remains of about 4,000 young children were removed from 1954 to 1970, agency spokeswoman Beth Taylor said. The bones were used in tests to measure the effects atmospheric explosions of hydrogen bombs were having on humans and the environment.

“It is true that parental or relatives’ approval wasn’t sought,” she said. “We assume that parents weren’t asked because it wasn’t the norm at the time.”

Similar revelations were made in Australia in June. The Australian Radiation Protection and Nuclear Safety Agency said bones from dead Australian children were once shipped to the United States and Britain for testing.

Taylor stressed that the British research — conducted in London and Glasgow, Scotland — contributed to a decision to halt atmospheric nuclear explosions in 1963.

“The program was done for the best of reasons,” she said. “It was the period when we were doing atmospheric tests of hydrogen bombs, and there was quite a lot of concern about the dangers of nuclear fallout.”

The issue of parents’ control over their children’s bodies following death made headlines earlier this year in Britain when it was revealed that a Dutch pathologist working at a Liverpool, England, children’s hospital had stripped children of their organs during post-mortem examinations between 1983 and 1995 — without parental consent.

A spokeswoman for Scottish Parents for a Public Inquiry into Organ Retention said Sunday that stronger laws were needed to ensure that parents had the power to decide what happened to their children’s remains.

Dr. Dick Van Velzen left Britain in 1995 to work at a hospital in Halifax, Canada, but was fired in 1998, and later hired by a Dutch hospital. He lost that job in February, after Canadian police issued a warrant for his arrest for storing human organs in Canada.

In June, he pleaded guilty in a Nova Scotia provincial court to charges he had illegally retained organs removed during autopsies of two children. He was sentenced to a year probation for committing an indignity to human remains. Van Velzen’s work was not connected to Britain’s nuclear research.

The British government said in a January report that the actions of Van Velzen were “unethical and illegal” and that “the pain caused to the parents by this dreadful sequence of events is unforgivable.” The doctor’s license to practice medicine there has been suspended.

A related report said more than 100,000 hearts, brains, lungs and other organs were held by hospitals and medical schools across the country, many without the knowledge of next-of-kin.

The nuclear-related tests in Britain and Australia concentrated on strontium 90, a radioactive isotope that mimics the properties of calcium. The similarity allows bones and plants to absorb the isotope.

There is no need to be alone....

G. L. D. Together

IF YOU

- are feeling same sex attraction
- have questions about your sexual orientation
- don’t know who to talk to
- just want someone to listen
- desire a warm accepting confidential atmosphere for gay, lesbian, bisexual issues

Visit The Observer Online. http://observer.nd.edu

Deutsche Banc Alex. Brown

Take your next big step

Deutsche Bank is dedicated to being the best financial services provider in the world. We endeavor to use our breadth of experience, capabilities and financial strength to create value for our shareholders, customers, employees and society as a whole.

This year, our profits have doubled to €4.95 billion, thereby achieving the best results in our history to date. Clearly this is a very exciting time for the firm and now more than ever we are seeking to recruit the best and most talented from top universities around the world.

Please join us to learn about career opportunities in Corporate Finance and Debt Capital Markets.

Analyst Panel Discussion

Wednesday, October 10, 2001
7:00pm
Center for Continuing Education, Room 210

More information about our exciting opportunities can be found on our web site at www db.com/careers

Deutsche Bank is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action employer | M/F/D/V

Deutsche Bank

Contact: Fr. J. Steele, CSC, 1-814-436-4144
Jsteele@nd.edu

Visit The Observer Online. http://observer.nd.edu
Associated Press

ISLAMABAD

Under threat of U.S. military strikes, Afghanistan's hard-line Taliban rulers said explicitly for the first time Sunday that Osama bin Laden is still in the country and they know where his hide-out is.

But the president of Pakistan, which has been appealing to the Taliban to resolve the crisis with the United States, said hopes were "very dim" that the Taliban would surrender bin Laden. Taliban supreme leader Mullah Mohammed Omar took a hard stance in a radio address Sunday, telling Afghans not to fear U.S. strikes, because "Americans don't have the courage to come here."

Meanwhile, fierce fighting was reported in the jagged mountains of northern Afghanistan. Rebel guerrillas said they had seized a district from Taliban troops, while the Taliban said at least a dozen opposition soldiers were killed and several hurt in a blast at a base north of Kabul.

In the Afghan capital, the trial of eight foreign aid workers charged with preaching Christianity resumed for the first time since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks in the United States. The top judge in the trial, Noor Mohammed Saeqah, told the workers -- who include two Americans -- that a threat of U.S. military action would not affect their case.

Since the attacks on the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, the Taliban have given varying accounts of their dealings with bin Laden, the United States' top suspect in the attacks. U.S. officials say bin Laden, who has been sheltered in Afghanistan since 1996, presides over a terrorist network known as al-Qaida, or "the base."

Initially, the Afghan rulers said they didn't know where to find bin Laden. Then, last week, they said they had been able to deliver a message to him, a week-old request from the country's top clerics that he leave Afghanistan voluntarily.

On Sunday, the Afghan ambassador in neighboring Pakistan said bin Laden was hidden away for his own protection at a site inside Afghanistan known only to top security officials.

"He's in Afghanistan. He is under our control," the envoy, Abdul Salam Zaeef, told reporters.

Omar, the Taliban leader, denied any role in the recent Taliban attacks and blamed them on unspecified U.S. policies in an interview with Taliban-run Kabul Radio. He repeatedly warned the United States to "think and think again" about attacking Afghanistan.

Pakistan's president, Gen. Pervez Musharraf, told CNN that hopes that the Taliban will hand over bin Laden and accede to other U.S. demands are "very dim." Pakistani contacts have not succeeded in moderating their views on the surrender of Osama bin Laden, he told CNN.

Pakistan has lent its backing to the United States in the confrontation over bin Laden, but outbreaks of anti-American sentiment have the government worried. At a rally near the volatile border city of Peshawar on Monday, a prominent Pakistani cleric told hundreds of followers to kill any American they can find if Afghanistan comes under attack.

The threat of military confrontation has hung over the case of the eight foreign aid workers -- two Americans, two Australians, and four Germans. Relatives of the workers followed the resumption of the trial Sunday from Pakistan.

Deborah Oddi, the mother of one of the Americans, said her daughter, Heather Mercer, had written a letter Sept. 25 asking that any U.S. retaliation wait until the workers had been freed. "All eight of us want to live," she wrote.

The Taliban also sent a special team to the northeastern city of Jalalabad to investigate a British journalist arrested Friday after sneaking into Afghanistan. The Afghan Islamic Press said the team wanted to determine if Yvonne Ridley, 43, a reporter for the Sunday Express of London, was a spy.

The Taliban, meanwhile, were cracking down on any of their own citizens thought to sympathize with the enemy.

Taliban authorities, in a statement distributed by the Afghan Islamic Press, said six men were arrested for distributing pamphlets supporting the United States and Afghanistan's exiled king -- a crime that could be punishable by death. Top clerics from three provinces also issued an edict Sunday saying any Afghan believed to sympathize with the United States or the former king should be heavily fined and have their house burned down.

The United Nations this weekend began delivering its first shipments of food and other emergency humanitarian supplies since the Sept. 11 attacks. A convoy of trucks carrying more than 200 tons of wheat left Pakistan for Kabul on Sunday. Other supplies headed Saturday for opposition-controlled territory.

In the latest fighting in Afghanistan's north, the rebel alliance claimed it had captured the Taliban-controlled Qadis district in the northeastern Alliance spokesman Mohammed Habi, reached by telephone, claimed 30 Taliban soldiers and their commander were captured, and another 120 Taliban troops had defect to the rebels.

Thinking about GRADUATE SCHOOL?

GRADUATE SCHOOL FORUM

October 3 "Successfully Applying to Graduate School" Jan Poorman, Associate Professional Specialist, Graduate School 7:00-8:30pm LaFortune Ballroom

October 4 "Why Graduate School and What Can I Expect?" Panel of Faculty & Current Graduate Students 7:00-8:30pm LaFortune Ballroom

FREE Kaplan test preparation program will be raffled!!!

Sponsored by The Career Center and Graduate Admissions
Looking back over a career of work study

Remember getting your first financial aid package during your senior year of high school? Yeah, you were probably a bit disappointed but the grant wasn’t that bad and the loans didn’t look too terrifying. Here you thought, maybe I can actually afford to go to college. Like a true Dame education, right? Dazed and Amused

Notre Dame: “IT IS MORE BLESSED TO GIVE THAN TO RECEIVE.”

Jesus

First, the dining hall. Freshman Orientation remains a blur to me. All I know is that somewhere between wheelbarrow races and issues I somehow signed up to work at North Dining Hall and was gainfully employed before my first collegiate class. I had actually never had a job before so with a baseball cap on my head and an old T-shirt on my back, I entered wide-eyed into the workforce.

Little did I know that the workforce involved so much high-digested food. After two semesters of cleaning your dirty dishes (you food-wasting poopy stick), I decided that my proletariat self would like a more bourgeois-ish job. So I applied at Student Activities as a ballroom monitor. That’s right, I monitored the ballroom. If you went to the ballroom last year, I watched you and wrote down your actions. I was there at your formal when you freaked out with that shady guy, you know the one with the suspenders—yeah, it’s all in the report. Besides watching you with Fountains all over like a madman, my ballroom monitor duties included opening doors and turning on lights. I was essential to all ballroom events. Without my mad ballroom skills, clubs and organizations would have to turn on lights themselves.

Again, a year was about all I could take of this job and I decided to try to move up the Student Activities career ladder. You see, in the Student Activities Office, your self-worth is measured by the number of keys on your key ring. Of course, wanted the most coveted ring, the heaviest ring, the ballroom manager’s key ring. Apparently, I was rather replaceable as a ballroom monitor, as I was in fact entrusted with keys to the dom... er, student center. I am now a ballroom manager. And I have 50,000 keys. I know what four of these keys do. Besides the keys, I was attracted to the building manager position because of the derived increased responsibility. When I was a ballroom monitor and needed help with a difficult situation or with a light switch that just wouldn’t cooperate, I would call my friendly building manager on my radio for assistance (This was when one of my friends had not taken my radio and yelled “Skid Row works!” into it repeatedly.)

Moving on. So yeah, I wanted to be the person called upon to help other employees. I wanted to look out for other employees and make Lafayette a better place. I picked up my keys, ready for a new and exciting position with new and exciting duties.

I opened doors. I sit in my little office and wait for people to ask me to open doors for them. Some say a Notre Dame education opens doors for you. No, no, that’s me.

Okay, so my job is slightly more complicated. I keep track of money, oversee employees and handle crisis situations, including fires, bomb threats and power outages. And when I look back on all my campus jobs I’ll always remember my days as a building manager and I hope you remember the work we do for you, the Lafayette patrons.

So the next time you see the doors of the stairwells open in Lafun, remember the hard-working student who did that for you. And if it’s locked instead, it’s probably Bob Davie’s fault.

Amy Schill is a junior English major. Her column appears every other Monday. She can be contacted at schillthespiffy@yahoo.com.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
Soccer
continued from page 24
The Irish regrouped at halftime and took control of the game early in the second half.
Thanks to the play of freshman forward Mary Bolton, the Irish were finally able to exert some pressure on the Mountainiers defense. Fifty-four minutes into the game Sarkesian intercepted a West Virginia pass. After finding a West Virginia defender, Sarkesian's cross connected with Bolton who tucked it into the back of the Mountaineers goal. Bolton then ended up with the Irish leading 30-16 in the last 10 days, the Irish remained focused in overtime.
Fluksinsky made a brilliant save to stop a possible game-winning run by Katie Bartley early in the time. The Irish would take advantage of their only offensive chance in overtime with just over two miniutes remaining in the first overtime period. Gurtin's free kick on a foul out side of the penalty box went directly to Bolton who headed the ball wide-open Sarkesian at the other end of the goalie box.
Sarkesian received Bolton's footer with a header of her own that went past new West Virginia goalie Laura Finley to give the Irish a 2­1 victory.
"It was another set play that confused the defense," said Sarkesian. "Mary did an excellent job of heading the ball right to me. All I had to do was just head it in the net."

Volleyball
continued from page 24
"Our blocking helped to control their two main attacks,"
Kreher said.
Shaking some pesky errors out of their game, the Irish took the court with a mental focus that had been growing to strengthen over the course of the match. Another kill from Lousin at the beginning of game one, the Irish's team's play at the net was too much for Virginia Tech. The onslaught of kills from Goralski, who had 13 overall, and Kristy
Kreher, with 14 overall, snuffed out any chance of a comeback for the Hokies.
In game two, after the momentum shifted from Notre Dame in Virginia Tech and back to Notre Dame again, the Irish were able to stabilize the Hokies to move back 29-16.
Kim Fletcher ended the game with a kill to make the final score 30-16.
The teams were more evenly matched in game three, taking turns holding the lead until Janie Alderete stepped up to serve an ace. The Irish capitalized on Alderete's next floaterservers and brought the game to 15-12. Virginia Tech was unable to take command of the lead again.
Fletcher ended the game at 29-30 with a kill and finished off Virginia Tech with the match.
Notable statistics for the night included Alderete's four aces which matched her career high.
"Her mental toughness was consistent throughout each game," senior co-captain Marcie Bomhach said. "Her serve scored points in key situations to help us win victories."
Also helping to prevent the Hokie attack, Senior Malinda Goralski led the team with seven blocks.
At 7-3 overall and 3-0 in the Big East Conference, the Irish will face the University of Notre Dame on Oct. 2. 2001.

Contact Susan Carpenter at carpenter.160@nd.edu.
Bicoastal broadcast for Emmys
The Emmy Awards will go bicoastal, adding a broadcast from an NBC studio in New York for nominees who want to avoid traveling to California for the Oct. 7 ceremony. Once an Emmy staple, the East Coast-West Coast simulcast was discontinued by the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences more than two decades ago.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.

AP ENTERTAINMENT BRIEFS

Strong showing at post-WTC movies
A trio of strong new releases helped lure audiences back to theaters after the worst weekend of the year. "Don't Say a Word," "Zoolander" and "Hearts in Atlantis" took in a combined estimated total of more than $43 million, driving a strong fall weekend for the industry.

"I hope this portends well for the country, never mind just the movie business," said Bruce Snyder, president of domestic distribution for 20th Century Fox, which released "Don't Say a Word," a psychological thriller starring Ben Stiller and исполниланые $18 million take.

SNL starts show with WTC tribute
Facing a nation rocked by recent tragedy, "Saturday Night Live" blinked. Typically irreverent, often defiantly rude in its comedy, the long-running NBC sketch series opened with a tribute to the victims and heroes of the Sept. 11 attacks.

Then it ducked the tragedy and anything else topical for most of its season premiere Saturday. In a "cold opening," New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani stood on the show's familiar set with some two dozen police, fire and rescue personnel.

"On our city's darkest day, our heroes met the worst of humanity with the best of humanity," said Giuliani.

"Our hearts go out to our friends who are walking and they are beating stronger than ever."

Salsa founders plan reunion show
The musicians credited with giving birth to salsa music will reunite to perform songs they wrote to capture the hopes and struggles of young Latinos in this country during the 1970s.

Johnny Pacheco, Larry Harlow and Ray Barretto are known for launching salsa at a New York nightclub called Cheetah on Aug. 26, 1971.

The concert was recorded and filmed for a documentary called "Our Latin Thing." It sparked a period of intense creativity fueled by the civil rights movement and the drive for cultural identity.

"We were singing songs of protest, love, politics, humanity," says Harlow.

Allen says WTC may spurn Art
Woody Allen says Hollywood studios will be too afraid of stirring public opinion to make films about the terrorist attacks in the United States. But the subject will be "fair game" for independent filmmakers, the actor-writer-director said.

"I think there will be a lot of trepidation in commercial cinema about that subject matter. I am sure the people in Hollywood, whose main drive in films is to make money, would feel any reference or use of the word hijack or any reference to anything violent or remotely associated to that terrible tragedy would lose customers for them," Allen said in remarks Thursday night at Britain's National Theatre.

"That will be the only criterion that would matter and so they will force the minions that work for them to remove these things from their movies or not make movies about that subject," he said.

Allen said he would not make a film about the attacks because his work focuses on comedy and psychology. Other filmmakers, though, could offer valuable, artistic insights into the tragedy, he said.

Strong showing at post-WTC movies
A trio of strong new releases helped lure audiences back to theaters after the worst weekend of the year. "Don't Say a Word," "Zoolander" and "Hearts in Atlantis" took in a combined estimated total of more than $43 million, driving a strong fall weekend for the industry.

"I hope this portends well for the country, never mind just the movie business," said Bruce Snyder, president of domestic distribution for 20th Century Fox, which released "Don't Say a Word," a psychological thriller starring Ben Stiller and Jim Carrey.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.

Bicoastal broadcast for Emmys
The Emmy Awards will go bicoastal, adding a broadcast from an NBC studio in New York for nominees who want to avoid traveling to California for the Oct. 7 ceremony.

Once an Emmy staple, the East Coast-West Coast simulcast was discontinued by the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences more than two decades ago.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.

AP ENTERTAINMENT BRIEFS

Strong showing at post-WTC movies
A trio of strong new releases helped lure audiences back to theaters after the worst weekend of the year. "Don't Say a Word," "Zoolander" and "Hearts in Atlantis" took in a combined estimated total of more than $43 million, driving a strong fall weekend for the industry.

"I hope this portends well for the country, never mind just the movie business," said Bruce Snyder, president of domestic distribution for 20th Century Fox, which released "Don't Say a Word," a psychological thriller starring Ben Stiller and Jim Carrey.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.

Bicoastal broadcast for Emmys
The Emmy Awards will go bicoastal, adding a broadcast from an NBC studio in New York for nominees who want to avoid traveling to California for the Oct. 7 ceremony.

Once an Emmy staple, the East Coast-West Coast simulcast was discontinued by the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences more than two decades ago.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.

AP ENTERTAINMENT BRIEFS

Strong showing at post-WTC movies
A trio of strong new releases helped lure audiences back to theaters after the worst weekend of the year. "Don't Say a Word," "Zoolander" and "Hearts in Atlantis" took in a combined estimated total of more than $43 million, driving a strong fall weekend for the industry.

"I hope this portends well for the country, never mind just the movie business," said Bruce Snyder, president of domestic distribution for 20th Century Fox, which released "Don't Say a Word," a psychological thriller starring Ben Stiller and Jim Carrey.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.

Bicoastal broadcast for Emmys
The Emmy Awards will go bicoastal, adding a broadcast from an NBC studio in New York for nominees who want to avoid traveling to California for the Oct. 7 ceremony.

Once an Emmy staple, the East Coast-West Coast simulcast was discontinued by the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences more than two decades ago.

"We're doing it this year in light of the terrible events" of Sept. 11, said incoming TV academy chairman Bryce Gabel. "We're reaching out to our friends in New York to give them as much comfort and security as possible."

New York-based nominees and presenters who prefer not to leave "loved ones and families" can gather in Studio 6A, where "Late Night with Conan O'Brien" is taped, Emmy executive producer Don Mischer said.
Irish defensive defensive tackle Cedrick Hilliard drives for Texas A&M running back Derrick Farmer. Hilliard and the rest of the Irish defense have struggled in the first quarter of 2002, giving up two touchdowns and a field goal on opponents' opening drives.

Saturday's first quarter mirrored Notre Dame's start against another Big 12 school, Nebraska, on Sept. 8. On the opening drive of the game, in another running back — Husker Darryl Bedrick — rushed the ball 29 yards on the opening drive to give the Huskers an early lead.

Just as they turned the ball over on the first drive of the Irish, the ball back to the Spartans when running back Terrance Howard fumbled the ball on Notre Dame's first play of the season. On the play after the fumble, Nebraska quarterback Eric Crouch completed a 22-yard pass to John Gibson to put the Aggies up 6-0.

When Notre Dame got the ball back, the Irish pushed the ball up to the Spartan 23-yard line before tailback Julius Jones fumbled, ending Notre Dame's best chance to take its first lead in nearly 10 months.

The key to fair competition is having to settle for a David Schaefer field goal. When Notre Dame got the ball back, the Irish pushed the ball up to the Spartan 23-yard line before tailback Julius Jones fumbled, ending Notre Dame's best chance to take its first lead in nearly 10 months.

The Irish routinely ran into the locker room down by more than a touchdown at halftime, the team faces pressure not only to hold the opponent scoreless in the second half, but to limit the other team's time of possession to give Notre Dame's "anemic" offense the best chance to score.

"I thought we let them hold onto the ball a little much," Davie said of the Saturday's second half in which the Irish limited the Aggies to seven points. "Even though they missed a field goal, they still chewed up a bunch of the clock."

To their credit, the Irish defense held Nebraska scoreless in the second half, while only allowing one touchdown each to Michigan State and Texas A&M in the first 30 minutes. But none of that success matters when the other team is still ahead.

"I don't know what it is," defensive end Anthony Weaver said Saturday. "We just don't go out there and execute on those first series, but then we settle down and start playing good defense."

The Irish recognize the problem. Now they just need to fix it.

"We have to get control of the game quicker and not get behind early before we decide to do something about it," linebacker Tyreo Harrison said.
The Aggies ran the score to 17-0 on a 29-yard Cody Scates field goal before the Irish put themselves on the board with a 47-yard field goal of their own by Nick Setta in the waning seconds of the half. Holiday sprained his neck and left the game permanently in the last minute of the half when linebacker Christian Rodriguez tackled him. The Irish kicked the field goal on the next play.

The score could have been even worse if Aggie head coach R.C. Sh bowel hadn't held back his offense to avoid embarrassing his friend Davie.

The Irish loss adds to a disappointing season in which the team has managed to score only two touchdowns and 23 points in three outings.

The Irish turned the ball over three times on interceptions, increasing the three-game tally to nine — already one more than last year's season's total eight, while the offensive line came out flat, allowing six quarterback sacks.

"I just can't believe how anemic we are especially on offense," Notre Dame athletic director Kevin White said. "We just have to find a way to get better. I believe we are better than we are playing. We need to put ourselves in a position to be a heck of a lot more successful. It's very disappointing."

The Texas A&M offense took control again, pushing its edge to 14-0 with a throwback play from running back Oschelor Fleming to Farris. Fleming connected to a wide-open Farris who ran the ball into the end zone for the score.

Former starter Matt LoVecchio manned the ball for the rest of the game with the help of backup quarterback Jared Clark when LoVecchio, too, was shaken up on a tackle. "Our philosophy the whole game was to stop the run. We were going to hit [Holiday] if he ran the option," Aggie linebacker Brian Gamble said. "We put two quarterbacks out of the game today and that's what the 'Wrecking Crew' is all about — lots of pressure and knocking people on their butts.

The second half proved to be more of the same, as the Irish failed to score and the Aggies padded their lead with a third touchdown.

Less than two minutes into the fourth quarter, Aggies' defensive back Jay Brooks blocked a Joey Hildebold punt and linebacker Randall Webb recovered the ball and returned it for a 13-yard touchdown.

"I had a big revenge factor on it," Farris said. "When they didn't I was just thinking, 'Don't drop it. Man, don't drop it.'"

The Aggies ran the score to 17-0 on a 29-yard Cody Scates field goal before the Irish put themselves on the board with a 47-yard field goal of their own by Nick Setta in the waning seconds of the half. Holiday sprained his neck and left the game permanently in the last minute of the half when linebacker Christian Rodriguez tackled him. The Irish kicked the field goal on the next play.

Former starter Matt LoVecchio manned the ball for the rest of the game with the help of backup quarterback Jared Clark when LoVecchio, too, was shaken up on a tackle. "Our philosophy the whole game was to stop the run. We were going to hit [Holiday] if he ran the option," Aggie linebacker Brian Gamble said. "We put two quarterbacks out of the game today and that's what the 'Wrecking Crew' is all about — lots of pressure and knocking people on their butts.

The second half proved to be more of the same, as the Irish failed to score and the Aggies padded their lead with a third touchdown.

Less than two minutes into the fourth quarter, Aggies' defensive back Jay Brooks blocked a Joey Hildebold punt and linebacker Randall Webb recovered the ball and returned it for a 13-yard touchdown.

"I had a big revenge factor on it," Farris said. "When they didn't I was just thinking, 'Don't drop it. Man, don't drop it.'"

The Aggies ran the score to 17-0 on a 29-yard Cody Scates field goal before the Irish put themselves on the board with a 47-yard field goal of their own by Nick Setta in the waning seconds of the half. Holiday sprained his neck and left the game permanently in the last minute of the half when linebacker Christian Rodriguez tackled him. The Irish kicked the field goal on the next play.

Former starter Matt LoVecchio manned the ball for the rest of the game with the help of backup quarterback Jared Clark when LoVecchio, too, was shaken up on a tackle. "Our philosophy the whole game was to stop the run. We were going to hit [Holiday] if he ran the option," Aggie linebacker Brian Gamble said. "We put two quarterbacks out of the game today and that's what the 'Wrecking Crew' is all about — lots of pressure and knocking people on their butts.

The second half proved to be more of the same, as the Irish failed to score and the Aggies padded their lead with a third touchdown.

Less than two minutes into the fourth quarter, Aggies' defensive back Jay Brooks blocked a Joey Hildebold punt and linebacker Randall Webb recovered the ball and returned it for a 13-yard touchdown.

"I had a big revenge factor on it," Farris said. "When they didn't I was just thinking, 'Don't drop it. Man, don't drop it.'" report card quarterbacks: Holiday threw two drive-killing interceptions while LoVecchio proved no more effective in the second half and also threw and interception.

running backs: In limited chances, Fisher averaged close to four yards per carry while Jones nearly gained 4.5 per carry. Neither had many opportunities.

receivers: Hunter had a career-high eight catches while Owens caught the first pass of his career. But they didn’t make any necessary big plays.

offensive line: The problems on offense start up front. The running backs had few holes to run through and the line allowed six quarterback sacks.

defensive line: The line made a lot of tackles but in short yardage situations Texas A&M controlled the line of scrimmage.

linebackers: Boilman, Watson and Harrison combined for 25 tackles but did not record a single sack. They also failed to make a big play.

secondary: They were out of position on the second touchdown. Jefferson got burnt for another big gain and they did make an interception.

special teams: Setta kicked the longest field goal of his career but there was a punt blocked for a touchdown and the return game was a non-factor.

coaching: Jones said there was something missing this game. He didn’t know what it was. We do: effective coaching.

1.63
overall: The Irish seem to get worse and worse every week.

adding up the numbers

Consecutive football seasons without an 0-3 season before Saturday 114
Saturday — all have been returned for touchdowns 5 career punt blocks by Apple senior Jay Brooks, who blocked the punt Saturday — all have been returned for touchdowns 5
Irish turnovers in 2001 — one more than last year’s NCAA record 9 the last time Notre Dame failed to hold a lead for four straight games 1962
Career losses by Gerry Faust — Davie has 22 with eight games remaining in 2001 26
Notre Dame’s NCAA ranking in scoring offense — worst in the country 115
Times Texas A&M has lost at home to a non-conference opponent since Slocum became head coach in 1989 0

IRISH INSIGHT

Davie leads team straight to the bottom

COLLEGE STATION, Texas Saturday, Bob Davie’s and R.C. Slocum’s teams were worlds apart. But just four weeks ago, their teams were in the same place. While Davie’s team was dismantled by Nebraska on Sept. 8, Slocum’s needed a 22-point comeback to beat lightly-regarded McNeese State in his team’s first game of the year on Sept. 1.

So why, less than a month later has Slocum’s team improved so much while Davie’s has taken a step backwards? Even Davie knows the answer to that one.

“It’s better coaching,” Davie said. “He’s done a tremendous job... We’re going backwards because I haven’t coached them right... They are coaching better than we are. That’s why they are going in the right direction.”

Davie said from the beginning of the season that this was his most talented team. Every player was recruited by Davie. This team is full of high school All-Americans and highly touted recruits. So why isn’t it winning?

“I don’t know what it is but something is missing. We have to figure out what it is,” tailback Julius Jones said.

“It’s pretty obvious what it is: Davie. Throughout his tenure as head coach his teams have dug early holes for themselves. They always start the season slow. His combined record in the first three games of his five years as head coach is 7-9.

His teams start slow in games, too. The Irish have yet to lead a game this season.

Slocum always manages to right the ship. His teams rally at the end of the season to pull off barely respectable records and his teams have also overcome great odds to win games.

But you have to wonder if this is a product of great coaching — or a never-say-die attitude by his players.

My vote is for the latter. Davie’s players will publicly defend him and say that they need to make more big plays and that it’s not all the coach’s fault. They will say it’s a team game. That everyone is to blame for the first 0-3 start in Irish history.

To some degree they are correct. Davie did not throw the interception on the first drive. Carlyle Holiday did.

Davie did not get burnt by Terrence Murphy for a 45 yard gain in the first quarter.

Clifford Jefferson did.

But Davie put those players into position to make those mistakes. As unfair as it may seem, he is accountable for every mistake. An athletic director can’t fire a team so he has to fire the head coach.

“I just can’t believe how anemic our football team is right now,” Irish athletic director Kevin White said. “We just have to find a way to get better. I believe we are better than we are playing. We need to put ourselves in a position to be a heck of a lot more successful. It’s very disappointing.”

Davie’s situation has become pathetic. He’s obviously in over his head. He knows it. His team knows it and Irish fans know it. Even opposing coaches know it.

His longtime friend Slocum had mercy on him this weekend knowing how tough his situation is right now.

“I’ve got one of the closest friends in the world on the other end of the sideline so it wasn’t in me to say ‘Let’s throw it up in the air 10 more times,’” Slocum said after the game. “There was a point in the ball game that I told the offensive coordinators not to throw the ball. I hate beating him and I didn’t see any reason to take advantage of him or his team like that.”

Slocum actually felt pity for Notre Dame and took it easy on the Irish. That’s the kind of treatment that the Prairie View A&Ms of the world should be getting not Notre Dame.

“It hurts. There is a lot of pride on this football team,” Davie said.

“But the people I really feel bad for are the Notre Dame fans. It’s got to be frustrating watching this.”

Right now, as Davie said in his press conference, there isn’t one thing the Irish do well. The offense can’t score. The defense doesn’t show up in the first quarter. Even the special teams are average at best.

“aright line is take respon­

Davie said. “If it was just one thing, certainly we could correct that. It’s not just one thing.”

Actually, the problems on this year’s team do stem from one thing.

And at season’s end, Kevin White should correct that one thing.

Contact Mike Connolly at Connolly@ndsu.nd.edu. The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
Hitting rock bottom

Notre Dame starts season 0-3 for first time in history as Texas A&M dominates from start to finish in all facets of 24-3 victory

By KERRY SMITH
Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas
The Texas A&M fans who sang the "Aggie War Hymn" after Saturday's game sent a symbolic message. Just as their swaying physically shook Kyle Field, their team's 24-3 win against the Irish shook Notre Dame record books.

The Aggies' crushing blow handed the Irish their third straight loss this season, marking the first time Notre Dame has started 0-3 in the school's 114-year history.

"The bottom line is I take responsibility for it," Davie said. "If it was just one thing, certainly we could correct that. It's not one thing ... We've got to get it done because I am not getting it done and I am going to take responsibility for it."

The Aggies — hungry for national attention — proved with their 4-0 start that they are in it for the long haul, while the Irish only proved there is a long season ahead.

"This game has been circled on the calendar," Aggie quarterback Mark Farris said. "There aren't many teams that get to play, let alone beat [the Irish]."

And a beating is exactly what the Irish took.

The Aggies ran all over the Irish offensively, while pounding the team defensively.

"I saw daylight ... and I made a cut," Farmer said. "I knew I had to get a touchdown and no one was going to stop me."

Farmer, a true freshman, rushed for 100 yards and scored a touchdown in his first collegiate start. He was the first true freshman to start at tailback for Texas A&M since 1997.

Hitting rock bottom

Notre Dame starts season 0-3 for first time in history as Texas A&M dominates from start to finish in all facets of 24-3 victory

By KERRY SMITH
Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas
The Texas A&M fans who sang the "Aggie War Hymn" after Saturday's game sent a symbolic message. Just as their swaying physically shook Kyle Field, their team's 24-3 win against the Irish shook Notre Dame record books.

The Aggies' crushing blow handed the Irish their third straight loss this season, marking the first time Notre Dame has started 0-3 in the school's 114-year history.

"The bottom line is I take responsibility for it," Davie said. "If it was just one thing, certainly we could correct that. It's not one thing ... We've got to get it done because I am not getting it done and I am going to take responsibility for it."

The Aggies — hungry for national attention — proved with their 4-0 start that they are in it for the long haul, while the Irish only proved there is a long season ahead.

"This game has been circled on the calendar," Aggie quarterback Mark Farris said. "There aren't many teams that get to play, let alone beat [the Irish]."

And a beating is exactly what the Irish took.

The Aggies ran all over the Irish offensively, while pounding the team defensively.

"I saw daylight ... and I made a cut," Farmer said. "I knew I had to get a touchdown and no one was going to stop me."

Farmer, a true freshman, rushed for 100 yards and scored a touchdown in his first collegiate start. He was the first true freshman to start at tailback for Texas A&M since 1997.
After-hours fun (without b...
Being fair to Muslims

My name is Nila Ahmad. I am a Muslim. I would like to take a short amount of your time and viewpoint on the situation of the bombings in New York, Washington, D.C. and Pennsylvania and the aftermath of this whole tragic incident. I realize many Muslims have written to newspapers and columns in the United States in order to explain that Islam means peace and does not have any of these awful terrorist attacks. Quite true. Islam promotes worship of God and service of mankind. These terrorists were not following Islam at the time of their attack. They feel themselves into thinking that God will be pleased and yet, they have not obeyed God in the most basic commandments, for example, not to harm anyone to try to or any other. And yet, these attacks go deeper than that, for on top of an existing situation, the number of the cases of the backlash of anger rising against Muslims and those from ethnic groups of the Middle East and the Muslim community. People are killed. People's homes and shops are looted. People are denied a seat on planes. The cause? Because some Americans need revenge and as there is no direct help each other. And some would willingly help others. Anarchists call this "mutual aid." One must not and can't label a race or culture as ultimately sharing one characteristic or another. Just as those of Jewish descent were innocent, so are Muslims. We have lived in the United States for two, three or more generations and are loyal to our nation. The terrorists who attacked were not Americans; they were foreigners. We are Americans. Please treat us as such.

But a little screening would be helpful — at the time of their attack, many thousands of Muslims live in New York, Washington, D.C. and Pennsylvania as well as Christians, Jews, Hindus and other religious groups. I am saddened because the nation should be united and instead, is turning on itself. I am not saying that the people of the United States feel or act this way, for certainly I have been treated with respect from all around. However, some are forgetting that we too, are Americans. We too, are in mourning. This divisiveness brings to mind the Japanese internment during World War II. Because of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor, those of Japanese descent were labeled as suspicious and evil, to the point that they were sent to camps to contain them from doing any extra harm. Extra harm? These people were willing to join the U.S. army to fight the land of their ancestors. One may not and cannot label a race or culture as ultimately sharing one characteristic or another. Just as those of Jewish descent were innocent, so are Muslims. We have lived in the United States for two, three or more generations and are loyal to our nation. The terrorists who attacked were not Americans; they were foreigners. We are Americans. Please treat us as such.

Outreach ND thanks supporters

The Board of Outreach ND (Notre Dame's unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student organization) would like to thank its members and friends for their help in making Solidarity Sunday a success. Solidarity Sunday is a national day in which students join to bring an end to hateful words and actions directed at gay, lesbian and bisexual people. Thank you to our members for at least 210 man hours of shopping, cutting, pinning, gluing and distributing ribbons and prayer cards. We commend you for your time and courage in handling them out after masses. You work has allowed 3,600 cards and ribbons to reach members of our community. Thank you to our donors for nearly $300 in ribbons, glue, safety pins and pizza for our hardworking volunteers. Our gratitude goes out to the individuals and organizations that have faithfully supported us. Thank you to all of the students, faculty, staff and community members for accepting Solidarity Sunday cards and displaying your ribbons. We are overwhelmingly grateful for your support.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

As you consider Solidarity Sunday's message, remember that the students who have worked so hard to bring it to you have been silenced. They do not enjoy the benefits of citizenship — the right to have political activities meet on campus or receive funding through the University. Against these odds, Outreach ND persists in serving the Notre Dame community.

We wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.

We would also like to thank the members of Campus Ministry who have helped to organize the event and provided us with prayer cards. However, we wish to offer credit where credit is due. Outreach, its members, friends and donors are responsible for the inspiration and realization of Solidarity Sunday. While it is recognized as a Campus Ministry program, the unrecognized bisexual, lesbian, gay and questioning student group, Outreach ND has labored to spread the message of acceptance to Notre Dame.
Pyros cannot escape Lyons' den in 6-2 loss

By MATT FURRIE, AARON McKEON

Until Thursday night, the season was not all the team expected it to be. But with a 6-2 win over Pasquerilla East, Lyons showed that it is still early and that no team should be counted out.

"We learned a lot from our first two games," said Lyons defensive coordinator Casey McKeon. "But we have changed some things up and are now a winning ball team."

Things did not look good early for the Lyons in the first half. After punting on their first and second possessions, they found themselves pinned deep in their own territory on the 3-yard line.

On third down, while trying to run a double reverse from their own 4, they fumbled the ball to run a double reverse from the 39-yard line. It was ruled a safety giving the Pyros a 2-0 lead.

Despite this early mistake, Lyons was quick to regroup. With PE's defense playing to perfection, Lyons' offense was looking for anything and the Pyros were unable to find their first three possessions thanks to strong play by the Lyons' defense.

It was not until the last drive of the first half that either team put up a drive of any length. With 30 seconds left in the half, the Pyros had one last shot at winning the game.

Four points on the board, the Pyros pass was deflect- ed and bounced around among both teams' players. When it was all over, Lyons Megan Barlocco came up with the ball, sealing the victory.

"We were upset about the interceptions we had at the opportunity to get early," said Meghan. "But we made sure not to miss out on the ones later.

Pasquerilla West 25, Pangborn 6

The Pasquerilla West offense came to life Thursday night with a 25-6 victory over Pangborn, highlighted by a perfectly-executed hook and ladder play at the end of the first half.

"I've seen a lot of inter-half football games and I've never seen a play like that," said rec sports supervisor Tim Knapp.

"Maybe Notre Dame should take some pointers from PW."

With 30 seconds left in the first half and the score tied at six, the Weasels pulled out a trick play out of the bag. PW quarter­back Leslie Schmidt threw a 10-yard pass to wide receiver Andi Will. Will pitched the ball to fellow wide-out Christen Boyd before her flag could be pulled and Boyd took the pitch and raced down the sideline and into the end zone for a 50-yard score.

"Our girls have never seen a play like that before," said Pangborn coach Chris LaRossa. "The big plays killed us today."

The Weasels scored on three plays over 30 yards. Schmidt finished the game with four touchdown passes.

"Our offense is like the 1991 Houston Oilers who were known as the greatest show on turf," said PW offensive coordinator Mike Campbell. "We can pass and run to move the ball."

The PW quick strike offense found one of her receivers on the next play for a touchdown, sealing the victory.

"She was outstanding on both defense and offense," LaRossa said.

The PW quick strike offense went to work and Schmidt found one of her receivers on the next play for a 70-yard score.

Both teams failed to move the ball on their next two drives. Setting up the dramatic ending of the first half. The Weasels offense added two more scores in the second half as the Phoxes began to wear down. Schmidt moved the Weasels effectively in their pass happy offense scoring in two of their three second half drives.

"We gave up an early score, but we settled down after that," Canfield said. "We picked it up big in the second half."

One of the problems for the Phoxes has been a lack of big plays at practice and games. On Thursday night only ten women were present for the game.

"We have the talent to win," LaRossa said. "We need some girls to come out so we can get a good look in practice. I think we can still run the table and make a run to the stadium."

But the stadium is not just a goal for Pangborn. PW has its eyes set that way too.

"We are six wins and we will back in the playoffs and on the way to the stadium," Schmidt said.

Welsh 14, Breen Phillips 0

The No. 1 team in the nation, Welsh, has already clinched a playoff spot. With a 14-0 win over Breen-Phillips last Thursday night Welsh improved to 4-0 while BP dropped in 1-1.1

"The defense made plays all night," said head coach Joe Blaney. "They came up big."

Two of the keys to Welsh's dominant defense is the play of cornerbacks Erin McKenzie and captain Vanessa Litchon. "Erin and Vanessa can take out the opposing teams receivers which forces the offenses to run," Blaney said. "In this league if you can force a team to run you have great chance of stopping them."

The difference in Thursday's game came down to two plays.

The first came on Welsh's first drive. Welsh started the game with a 40-yard completion down the left sideline. But after a dropped ball deep in Breen-Phillips' territory, it appeared to have stopped the Welsh drive.

On a forth down from the 20-yard line Welsh's freshman quarterback Lauren Hendrick found Erin McKenzie in the back of the end zone for a 6-0 lead. The point after failed.

After each team traded punts, Welsh sophomore defensive back Emily Oess returned an interception for a touchdown giving Welsh a commanding 1-0 lead.

The Whirlwinds went up for a successful two-point conversion that gave them a 1-0 half time lead.

The Welsh defense came up big in the second half after the Welsh offense turned the ball over to BP inside their own 20 yard line two times.

"We have to execute the plays. We can't win if we don't execute," said BP Coach Corey Timlin. "It was a frustrating game but we did get a step closer of times."

The loss of starting running back Kelly Deckelman to an injury has had a big impact on the team. Deckelman injured her collarbone and is expected to miss the rest of the season.

"She is our emotional leader," Timlin said. "She and our quarterback are the heart of our team."

Welsh has already clinched a spot in this year's playoffs but they plan to remain focused the rest of the season.

"We have to take it one game at a time," Litchon said. "We can't be distracted."

Contact Matt Furrie at mmfurrie@nd.edu and Aaron Ronheim at ronheim.1@nd.edu.

--

University Ombudsperson

The University of Notre Dame is pleased to announce that Professor Maxwell Johnson will serve as University Ombudsperson for Discriminatory Harassment.

If you are a victim of discriminatory harassment and do not know where to turn, call the University Ombudsperson for Discriminatory Harassment at 631-3909.

Discriminatory Harassment at 631-3909.

The University of Notre Dame believes in the intrinsic value of all human beings. It, therefore, commits to this full participative participation of all its members in the educational endeavors of its students. Accordingly, the University prohibits discriminatory harassment by any individual. In its conduct of any physical conduct intentionally inflict injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intentional threat of such conduct, or any hostile, intentional, and persistent badgering addressed directly at another or small groups of others.

In this context, harassment is any physical conduct intentionally inflicting injury on the person or property of another, or any intention...
ND WOMEN’S GOLF

Irish fall short in invite

By JOE LINDSLEY
Sports Writer

The surprise performance of a freshman was the brightest aspect of the weekend for the Irish women’s golf team as they finished third at the Notre Dame Invitational on the par 72, 5,955-yard Warren Golf Course.

Freshman Karen Lotta led an Irish team that was looking to repeat its title-winning performance from last year. Lotta shot a 79 on Sunday, with a 54-hole total of 243.

Notre Dame finished with a 54-hole total of 985, compared to Wichita State’s 973 and Iowa’s 968.

Notre Dame was within one stroke of the lead Friday, and four strokes of first-place Iowa at the end of play Saturday, but could not make up the deficit during the final round.

Lotta, who did not play competitive golf until her senior year in high school, finished in 9th place in the tournament, followed by sophomore Shannon Byrne in 10th, and Kristin McMarr in 16th.

"[Lotta] has a long ball," said sophomore Rebecca Rogers. "I really think she’s going to be a great asset to the team.

The Irish, who have not played competitively since the Notre Dame Campus Championships on Sept. 9th, were not quick to make excuses for their performance, but did offer some potential factors that may have led to the loss.

"Since we got a late start, we haven’t been playing under competitive circumstances like other teams," said Rogers. "I thought we were playing with a lot of potential factors that may have led to the loss.

Although they finished third in a field of 15, much of the Irish’s disappointed stemmed from their inability to repeat their superior performance at the same tournament a year ago.

“We put up some really decent numbers last year. This year, I’m not exactly sure what happened. It’s our home course. We wanted to win this tournament.”

Rebecca Rogers
Sophomore

Kite ties record in Gold Rush

Associated Press

EL DORADO HILLS, Calif. — Tom Kite shot a 5-under-par 67 Sunday to hold off Allen Doyle by one stroke and tie a Senior PGA Tour record in winning the Gold Rush Classic.

Kite, who started the final round with a five-stroke lead, stumbled early with two bogeys and saw Doyle tie him for the lead twice. But Kite went ahead for good with a birdie on No. 12 at the Serrano Country Club course and won for the first time this year.

He collected $195,000 for his third career senior victory and established a tournament scoring mark with a 22-under 194. That matched the tour record in relation to par.

Raymond Floyd set the mark at the Gulfstream Aerospace Invitational in 1993 and Ed Dougherty tied it this year at the TD Waterhouse Championship.

It was a disappointing loss for Doyle who didn’t have a bogey in a closing 63. His 195 tied defending champion Jim Thorpe’s record total a year ago.

Doyle won $114,400 and passed Bruce Fleischer to take over first place on the money list. Doyle now has $2,332,942, while Fleischer, who tied for ninth and won $35,100, now has $2,278,857.

Dougherty shot a 66 to finish third, four strokes behind Kite, while Don Pooley (65), Bruce Lietzke (67) and Walter Hall (66) were all another stroke back.

Kite’s lead didn’t last long as consecutive bogeys started the trouble.

Playing in the group ahead, Doyle had a birdie at No. 6 to pull even with Kite. But Kite also birdied 6 to retake the lead.

Doyle caught him for the final time with three straight birdies, the final one at No. 11. Kite made birdie at 12 and seemed to have wrapped up the tournament when he got his approach shot to 9 feet for birdie at No. 15. He pumped his fist for emphasis as he took a three-putt lead.

Doyle made birdies at 16 and 17 to cut the lead to one stroke. Kite held on by making a nice par save at 17 and also making par on the final hole.

W hat does the Church teach? Why does it matter? Have questions and need a place to ask them? Each one credit course in the series "Know Your Catholic Faith" will reflect on a central feature of Christian matters? Have questions and need a place to ask them?

A New Series of One-Credit Courses offered by the Department of Theology in cooperation with the Office of Campus Ministry

Courses Now Open for Enrollment:

The Sacraments

Theo. 340B. 1 credit. S/U
Instructor: Pamela Jackson
Wednesdays, 5:30 p.m. - 7:35 p.m., Oct. 3, 10, 17, 31, Nov. 7, 14
Coleman Morse Center, Rm. 330

Creation

Theo. 340C. 1 credit. S/U
Instructor: John Cavallini
Mondays, 6:00 p.m. - 8:05 p.m., Oct. 8, 15, 29, Nov. 5, 12, 20
Keough Hall Common Room

Prayer

Theo. 340A. 1 credit. S/U
Instructor: Lawrence Cunningham
Sundays, 6:15 p.m. - 8:20 p.m., Sept. 30, Oct. 7, 14, Nov. 4, 11, 18
Coleman Morse Center, Rm. 330

For further information about registering for these courses, contact Dorothy Anderson in the Theology Department, 631-6662. Syllabi for the courses can be obtained at the Theology Dept. main office.
Restructuring mortgage bonds to meet investors' needs requires Deirdre's intense concentration. Before races, she uses the same kind of focus on the starting block. What keeps you sharp?

Goldman, Sachs & Co.

Wednesday, October 3, 2001
Equities and Fixed Income, Currency and Commodities
Information Session
Center for Continuing Education, Room 100
6:00 – 8:00 PM

Friday, October 5, 2001
Women's Firmwide Luncheon
University Club, Stadium Room
12:00 – 2:00 PM
RSVP to maria.bavaro@gs.com

Goldman Sachs, an equal opportunity employer, does not discriminate in employment on any basis that is prohibited by federal, state or local laws. © 2001 Goldman, Sachs & Co.
21 inducted in Hall of Fame

The Observer • SPORTS Tuesday, October 1, 2001

by NOREEN GILLESPIE

Anne Pikosovits may not remember that much about her field hockey days at Saint Mary’s, but Saint Mary’s will remember her forever.

Pikosovits was inducted in the re-established Saint Mary’s Athletic Hall of Fame with 31 of her teammates Saturday morning. The field hockey team, which was established in 1924, was the first organized competitive sports team at Saint Mary’s.

Accepting the honor on behalf of her teammates who were either deceased or unable to travel, the 1938 alumna was humble.

"I don’t remember a thing about this,“ she laughed, accepting the glass trophy, each of the inductees were awarded. "We had a few bumps and bruises, but we had a good time... This is just wonderful."

Anne Pikosovits inductee

inductions was the honor given to former basketball coach Marvin Wood, who died in 2000.

Wood coached Saint Mary’s basketball from 1984 to 1995, where he turned the program around and taught players not only about basketball, but about life, according to Tammy Duke-Baxter, class of 1988 and former player under Wood.

Rastor read Wood’s citation through tears, and presented the trophy to Wood’s wife, Mary Lou, who accepted it on his behalf.

"He loved this place,“ Mary Lou said. "And he loved his girls. It was a great way for him to wrap up his career.”

Other inductees included Debbie Laverie, class of 1985, was inducted for her tennis accomplishments at Saint Mary’s, where she earned NAIA All-American honors and qualified for the national championship, Meghan Rafferty Weldon, class of 1988, was inducted for her swimming accomplishments, as a record-setter in three events and a national championship qualifier.

Nicole Hill Coluccio, class of 1981, was inducted for her record-setting performances in track and field. Kelly Ann Collins, class of 1997, was inducted for her All-American soccer status. Karen Lorton was inducted for her volleyball career, in 2001 she earned national statistical rankings and six school records.

Megan Dalsaso, class of 1994, was inducted for her soccer achievements as a three-time All-Region Soccer player and NSCAA All-American. The Hall of Fame inductees(proprio to Voe on display at Angela Athletic Facility.

Contact Norven Gillespie at np@8430@stmarys.edu.

Love, Dad

Happy 18th Birthday, Christopher!

21 inducted in Hall of Fame

The Athletic department holds the first induction since 1993

The Irish received major contributions from both sophomore Luis Haddock-Moraless and senior Andrea Laffin, as each wrapped up the weekend with 6-0 records in singles.

Filling in at No. 4 and No. 6 singles respectively, Haddock-Morales and Laffin each surrendered only a meager 2 sets to their opponents. At No. 5 singles, sophomore Matt Scott only lost one match for the Irish, falling to Indiana State’s Love Dragkoule in a tight third set tiebreaker, while Smith finished the weekend at No. 2 singles to losses of only Purdue and Indiana State. Senior Aaron Talarico record-ed an even 3-3 singles record at No. 3 singles, with his three losses coming at the hands of William & Mary, Harvard and Ball State.

With seniors Tabora, Smith, Talarico, and Laffin making up the bulk of the Irish lineup, the coaching staff is waiting for someone to step up and take the team to the next level.

"We’re still a little bit unsettled with our uppersclassmen in terms of who is going to step up and take a leadership role, in terms of winning a high percentage of the matches for us in the top of the lineup,“ Irish assistant coach Billy Pate said. "With the senior leadership we have, we kind of expect that. With the guys we have at one, two, and three right now, we really expect them to win a high percentage. They have to be the core of the team. There is some pressure on them of course, and there is some high expectations, but they know that goes along with it.”

The Irish also had bright spots with their doubles partners in the doubles category, with 34th-ranked Smith and Tabora teaming up to finish the tournament with a 3-1 mark at the No. 1 doubles position, and the duo of Talarico and Haddock-Morales wrapped up doubles play with a 2-1 record at No. 2. Knowing that crafting the best doubles teams is imperative to ensuring Irish success this season, head coach Bob Bayless and Pate used the weekend’s doubles competition to find the best combination.

"This is a good time of the year to find out who is going to be the doubles team," Pate said. "You never know what might click with doubles combinations, but we have found three teams — the best teams — we can put out there. We have five or six teams that are really capable of winning, but it’s who is going to win the most consistently."

A number of Irish players are in contention to fill the No. 3 doubles slot for the Irish, with senior James Malham and freshman Paul McNaughton being key contenders. McNaughton turned in a 3-1 record for the Irish in doubles, and Malham record-ed one doubles victory for the Irish before being hampered by a back injury.

There are so many mathematical combinations [in doubles] if you look at what you could do," Pate said. "A lot of the guys from last year have improved and we have a lot of new guys that can play. Paul McNaughton has been a, a very bright spot for us. He’s a guy who we recruited as a really good doubles player who has those skills, and he could well very well contend for a starting spot this year.”

Despite amazing an impressive 16 total singles and doubles wins, the Irish see room for improvement and know their performance must improve before they can compete as as equals with the best programs in the nation.

"I think we were expecting to play better," Taborga said. "We didn’t beat all the teams the way we should. The team is really deep and we should be able to win a lot more matches than we lose, which is better than we are doing. Still, it’s the beginning of the year, and I think we have a lot of pressure on us, not because we are expected to win, but because a lot of us are seniors and it is our last chance. We really want to show that we are — maybe getting a little tighter than we should.”

Contact Rachel Biber at Rachel.A.Biber.1@nd.edu.

"I don’t remember a thing about this. We had a few bumps and bruises, but we had a good time... This is just wonderful.”

The Hall of Fame page 18

Happy 18th Birthday, Christopher!
The test this weekend was depth — and the Irish have plenty of it.

Notre Dame took the team title at the Central Collegiate Championships in Kalamazoo, Mich., Saturday, starting a different lineup of runners who could all be possible contenders for varsity spots in upcoming meets. The meet allowed the less experienced runners to get to see in college experience.

"With any team this deep, it's good to have a meet to go to, to have a chance to race," said junior John Keane. The team took the title without running its consistent top five, including three All-Americans, Ryan Shay, who became the first runner to win the National Catholic Invitational four years in a row with his victory last week, did not run Saturday. Todd Mobley, who took the title at the Valparaiso Invitational Sept. 7, was absent from competition, and seniors Pat Conway and Marc Stroinski also did not run. Sophomores David Alber, Brian Kerwin, and Mark Woodward were also out of the meet.

"There's no comparison to how this team would have performed last year compared to this year," said Keane. "We couldn't have been missing eight guys and scored 22 points, even in a small meet."

The team started the race running in a pack, but Sean Zanderson surged ahead later in the race to take over. Western Michigan runners took the lead. Keane started to reel in the group that had gotten away with two miles to go in the race, and surged to a second-place finish for the Irish, two seconds behind individual champion Tim Morhouse from Western Michigan. Senior Sean Zanderson and sophomore Kevin Sumok came in close behind, finishing in third and fourth place.

Freshman Ryan Johnson in sixth, junior Nathan Shay in seventh, sophomore Kevin Avenius in ninth and freshman Eric Morrison in 10th rounded out the top 10 and the close second following pack for the Irish. Senior Tom Lennon took 13th place.

The No. 4 Irish will return to full strength in next weekend's Notre Dame Invitational, followed by the pre-national meet on Oct. 13 in Greenville, South Carolina.

Head coach Joe Plane will have to decide this week how the results of the Central Collegiate meet will influence who will run as the season shifts into a higher gear in the hunt for the first national championship since 1987.

"A lot of guys had great summ...ours and are way ahead of where they were last year," Keane said. "And a lot of freshmen are running really well."

Contact Katie Hughes at khughes@nd.edu.
SMC Soccer

Britons end Belles’ winning streak at three

By LINDSAY MOLLAN
Sports Writer

The winning streak is over. Nevertheless the Belles left the soccer field confident with their performance Sunday, despite a 4-1 loss to Albion.

"[Albion] capitalized on a few of our mistakes but I feel that the score doesn’t reflect how we played," said co-captain Lynn Taylor.

Albion, which is currently ranked No. 25 nationally, is undefeated so far this season with an overall record of 10-0. The Belles picked up their first win last Sunday with a victory against Rose-Hulman.

Despite the 4-1 loss, the Belles played the Britons Albion evenly for the majority of the game. In the first half, the Belles had eleven shots on goal compared to the Britons’ seven shots. At halftime, however, Albion still led 3-1, with freshman Molly McCavit scoring the Belles’ only goal of the game.

During the second half, the Belles defense improved. Freshman goalie Maureen MacDonald blocked 12 shots on goal, allowing only one shot to slip by on a penalty kick 18 minutes into the second half. The Belles offense, however, was much quieter during the second half getting a shot on goal only five times.

The last time the Belles took on a top-ranked team, they lost 9-1. The close score on Sunday, therefore, left the Belles satisfied with the way they played.

"We played with more confidence," said freshman Jen Concannon. "We gave it our all and showed that we can play with anyone in our conference."

Sunday’s game against Albion marked the halfway point in the season for Belles soccer. They will have a chance to play Albion, as well as the rest of the MIAA, again, an opportunity which the Belles look forward to.

"We’re really excited to play all of these teams again," said junior captain Heather Muth. "We can’t wait for revenge."

The Belles will have two days to rest and prepare for their second half of the season before going to Adrian College on Wednesday. The game against Adrian will be the first in a series of four away games for a Belles team that has played all of its conference matches at home this season.

"We’re really excited to play all of these teams again," said junior captain Heather Muth. "We can’t wait for revenge."

The Belles will have two days to rest and prepare for their second half of the season before going to Adrian College on Wednesday. The game against Adrian will be the first in a series of four away games for a Belles team that has played all of its conference matches at home this season.

"I’m happy with our performance," said coach Bobby Johnston. "We’re playing hard and improving each game."

The last time the Belles took on a top-ranked team, they lost 9-1. The close score on Sunday, therefore, left the Belles satisfied with the way they played.

"We played with more confidence," said freshman Jen Concannon. "We gave it our all and showed that we can play with anyone in our conference."

Sunday’s game against Albion marked the halfway point in the season for Belles soccer. They will have a chance to play Albion, as well as the rest of the MIAA, again, an opportunity which the Belles look forward to.

"We’re really excited to play all of these teams again," said junior captain Heather Muth. "We can’t wait for revenge."

The Belles will have two days to rest and prepare for their second half of the season before going to Adrian College on Wednesday. The game against Adrian will be the first in a series of four away games for a Belles team that has played all of its conference matches at home this season.

"I’m happy with our performance," said coach Bobby Johnston. "We’re playing hard and improving each game."

Contact Lindsay Mollan at moll1361@saintmarys.edu.

Saint Mary’s senior Katy Robinson tries to strip the ball from an Albion player during the Belles 4-1 loss to the Britons on Sunday. The loss broke the Belles three-game win streak.

Join one of the fastest growing investment banks in the world

Are you looking for a dynamic and rewarding career in investment banking? Do you want to be in a position with responsibility and opportunity? Do you want to work in an environment where achievement and reward are naturally connected?

Then you should consider joining the UBS Warburg team.

We are accepting resumes from the Class of 2002 interested in full time Sales and Trading Analyst positions. Interviews will be held at the University of Notre Dame on Friday, November 2, 2001.

We welcome those interested to apply via your career services office by Tuesday, October 2, 2001. For further details on all of our opportunities, please visit our website:

www.ubswarburg.com

UBS Global careers in investment banking

UBS Warburg is a business group of UBS AG, the largest securities offering, trading and financial services company in the world. UBS Warburg is a subsidiary of UBS. Global careers in investment banking are conducted in U.S., Europe, Asia, the Middle East and Latin America. All U.S. stock and bond offerings are registered under the New York Stock Exchange and principal exchanges and SEC in the U.S. These offerings are distributed by UBS Warburg LLC, a wholly owned subsidiary of UBS AG. Contact your investment banker or representative located in the U.S.
Scrimmage ends in shootout

By MATT ORENCHUK
Sports Writer

Two 21-minute periods and a five-chance shootout were not enough to decide the Notre Dame hockey Blue Gold game Sunday afternoon.

Finally, with the teams tied at five apiece in the first round of a sudden death shootout, freshman Cory McLean was able to put one past Blue goalie Tony Zasowski to give the Gold a 6-5 win.

The game, played to raise money for the Coaches’ Foundation, raised $1,250 for cancer research. Each player played the game for someone they knew who had cancer.

"All of the goalies played pretty well," Irish head coach Dave Poulin said. "In the end, we were the luckier team in the penalty opportunities."

"We have some good instinctive players, and I saw some good things out there," Poulin said.

Dave Poulin head coach

Paul Harris put the Gold up with a goal past Zasowski. Six minutes later Gold struck again, this time with freshman Brad Wanschulak putting the puck in to give Gold a 4-2 lead.

As time ticked down, it appeared that the Gold squad would clamp down defensively and protect their two-goal lead. Then with 4:49 left in the second period, freshman Ryan Mundt closed the gap with a goal. The Blue team would then tie it at four with exactly one minute left in the period on a goal by Captain Evan Nielsen.

The first goal of the game was then decided by a shootout. The second period ended with the score tied at four. The game was then decided by a shootout. Each side got penalty shots, and the team with the most goals at the end wins.

Rob Globke scored on Blue’s second chance to put them ahead 5-4. Then John Wroblowski’s goal tied it up on the Gold’s fourth try.

"The pace was very good out there," Poulin said. "We have some good instinctive players, and I saw some good things out there."

The loss was unfortunate, but it was not a step back for us," Griffin Howard Irish co-captain

"The loss was unfortunate, but it was not a step back for us." Sawyer commented. "Their forward got the ball and brought it up, and our defender was on him. He got loose somehow and slid the ball into the corner of the net."

The Irish have yet to win an overtime contest this season. Notre Dame’s other overtime losses, a 3-2 defeat, came at the hands of the Furman Paladins on Sept. 7.

"The loss was unfortunate, but it was not a step back for us," Howard said. "Those next weeks coming up are crucial, and we need to make sure we get started right against Georgetown in order to gain some momentum."

The Irish return to Big East action Friday night, when they kickoff against the Georgetown Hoyas at Alumni Field at 7:30 p.m.

Contact Matt Orenchuk at morenchu@nd.edu.

Organizing For Justice on the Streets of Chicago!

- Learn how the Church is Responding to Poverty and Injustice
- Meet the organizers, pastors, lay leaders, & Other Advocates of the poor
- Learn about key issues affecting communities: ○ Violence ○ Housing ○ Diversity
- Explore Summer & Post Graduate Opportunities

Applications available at:
- the Center for Social Concerns
- Robinson Community Learning Center

Application deadline: Monday, October 8, noon

For more information, please contact Jay Caponigro at the RCLC 631-9423

Irish freshman goalie Chris Sarenski shined for the Irish in defeat, recording a personal best with seven saves in the game.

However, it was the final shot Sawyer faced, a shot from Seton Hall forward Phil Swenda 6:45 into overtime, that sealed the victory for the Pirates.

Swenda received a pass from teammate A1 im Brigame and beat S w a y e r f r o m six yards out.

That goal came very early in the overtime. "Sawyer commented. "Their forward got the ball and brought it up, and our defender was on him. He got loose somehow and slid the ball into the corner of the net."

The Irish have yet to win an overtime contest this season. Notre Dame’s other overtime losses, a 3-2 defeat, came at the hands of the Furman Paladins on Sept. 7.

Notre Dame now enters a crucial part of its schedule. The Irish face eight opponents in the month of October, with five games on the road and six coming against Big East opponents.

"The loss was unfortunate, but it was not a step back for us," Howard said. "Those next weeks coming up are crucial, and we need to make sure we get started right against Georgetown in order to gain some momentum."

The Irish return to Big East action Friday night, when they kickoff against the Georgetown Hoyas at Alumni Field at 7:30 p.m.

Contact Bryan Kronk at bkronk@nd.edu.
By KATIE McV OY

There is competition heating up for the Saint Mary's golf team this season. After starting off the season with a first place finish in the opening MIAA tournament, the Belles' third place finish in the MIAA Championship at their own course left them feeling unsettled.

The Belles lost the championship by only three strokes, falling to Hope in first place and Albion in second place. The teams traded leads from the outset of competition Friday until the conclusion Saturday.

"It was disappointing, head coach Theresa Pekarek said. "We had the home course advantage, we knew the course, we knew how to play it."

But the tournament doesn't spell the end for the team. With only two graduating seniors, the Belles will use this weekend's disappointing finish to rocket them ahead next season.

"Next year we'll be more of a threat having experience with the young talent we already have," junior Liz Hanlon said.

At the end of Friday's play, the Belles were behind tournament leader Albion by only five strokes. It looked like it would be a shoot-out between the Belles and the Britons on Saturday, but the Flying Dutchers had a solid game one day, but seemed to fall short the other.

"The team didn't put it together either day," Pekarek said. "It was that a couple of them didn't play well on Friday and then a couple of them didn't play well on Saturday."

With a winning margin of three, that inconsistency played a major role, a role that usually isn't an issue for the generally solid team. Of the four scorers for Saint Mary's, only two placed in the top ten overall. At all but one of the other MIAA tournaments held this year, all four Saint Mary's scorers have placed in the top 10.

But high scores did not end with Saint Mary's. Tournament winner Courtney Rheinhart from Alma scored a weekend total of 161, finishing with an 80 and 81 Friday and 97 on Saturday. Lee shot 90 and 94 respectively and Adams shot a 93 and 92.

Next season Pekarek is looking to work out the problems. "Experience brings with it and bring home a victory."

"We have a young team and this is only going to help us," she said. "We learned a lot from this weekend and get some more experience under our belts. We're going to be that much more experienced next year and that much more of a threat."

Contact Katie McVoy at mcvo5695@stmarys.edu.

NELLIE WILLIAMS/The Observer

Sophomore Liz Hanlon makes a putt during practice last week. The Belles wrapped up their season with a third place finish.

Atria Salon 289-5080

Please use the Special Savings invitation and get to know us. You'll be pleased with the quality and service we provide, and we will do our best to merit your confidence and patronage.

We hope to see you soon.

Not valid for spiral perms, long or tinted hair add $10. No other discounts apply. Open some evenings. ATRIA SALON reserves the right to refuse service to any client whose hair condition is unsuitable.

Valid with the following stylist only: Sarah, Vicki, Karol, Nechole, & Miranda

NEW CLIENTS ONLY

Must be presented to Receptionist before services are performed

(Certain restrictions apply)

Offer Expires 10/10/01

The Observer • SPORTS

Monday, October 1, 2001
FOXTROT

TOM KEELEY

WHATCHA SAY? SEE YOU AFTERNOON DETENTION?

BILL AMEND

Befuddled and Bemused

RYAN CUNNINGHAM

"All right, I'll sell it to you. But remember, if the cops ask, it's for tobacco use only."

EUGENIA LAST

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DAY: Jan Hanson, Phil Hartman, Jim McKay, Sheila MacIn, Joseph Kennedy II.

Happy Birthday! Thirty for knowledge and searching for truth, you're moving down your own path. You are looking for a lifestyle that suits your personal tastes, instead of being stuck in a world that is too conservative for you. You must find the strength to overcome your fears and move on to better things. Your determination to get to where you have it in hand will be good.

Fish in streams 38 Field yard 39 Agent's amount 40 de corps 41 Diary of 'Judging Amy' 42 Prison-related Provider of "a word" on TV 43 Modern document senders 44 Whatcha ??? 45 "I have good authority" 46 Father 47 Golf or polo 48 Hayloft sites 49 Aries, Provider of "a word" on TV 50 I II will 51 Sweater named for an English earl 52 Way off 53 Scotia 54 Corp. 55 Ginger's gun 56 Way of life 57 Scotia 58 Corp. 59 Congominate 60 Fish in streams 61 Field yard 62 Agent's amount 63 de corps 64 Diary of 'Judging Amy'

DOWN

1 "I have good authority"
2 Father
3 Golf or polo
4 Hayloft sites
5 Aries, Provider of "a word" on TV
6 Modern document senders
7 Hoof sound
8 Circus performer
9 Mugging retalators, maybe
10 Acrylic fiber
11 7 Controlling interests?
12 Early afternoon
13 Food item named for an English earl 14 T-shirt
15 Ape
16 Figure named for a French physician
17 Slaves away
18 Burn slightly
19 Shirt part
20 Apparel named for an American feminist 21 Ancient fertility goddess
22 Cowboy's friend
23 "What a dope!"
24 "Watch a ?"
25 "What a dope!"
26 "Watch a ?"
27 "What a dope!"
28 "Watch a ?"
29 "What a dope!"
30 "Watch a ?"
31 "What a dope!"
32 "Watch a ?"
33 "Watch a ?"
34 "Watch a ?"
35 "Watch a ?"
36 "Watch a ?"
37 "Watch a ?"
38 "Watch a ?"
39 "Watch a ?"
40 "Watch a ?"
41 "Watch a ?"
42 "Watch a ?"
43 "Watch a ?"
44 "Watch a ?"
45 "Watch a ?"
46 "Watch a ?"
47 "Watch a ?"
48 "Watch a ?"
49 "Watch a ?"
50 "Watch a ?"
51 "Watch a ?"
52 "Watch a ?"
53 "Watch a ?"
54 "Watch a ?"
55 "Watch a ?"
56 "Watch a ?"
57 "Watch a ?"
58 "Watch a ?"
59 "Watch a ?"
60 "Watch a ?"
61 "Watch a ?"
62 "Watch a ?"
63 "Watch a ?"
64 "Watch a ?"
65 "Watch a ?"
66 "Watch a ?"
67 "Watch a ?"
68 "Watch a ?"
69 "Watch a ?"
70 "Watch a ?"
71 "Watch a ?"
72 "Watch a ?"
73 "Watch a ?"
74 "Watch a ?"
75 "Watch a ?"
76 "Watch a ?"
77 "Watch a ?"
78 "Watch a ?"
79 "Watch a ?"
80 "Watch a ?"
81 "Watch a ?"
82 "Watch a ?"
83 "Watch a ?"
84 "Watch a ?"
85 "Watch a ?"
86 "Watch a ?"
87 "Watch a ?"
88 "Watch a ?"
89 "Watch a ?"
90 "Watch a ?"
91 "Watch a ?"
92 "Watch a ?"
93 "Watch a ?"
94 "Watch a ?"
95 "Watch a ?"
96 "Watch a ?"
97 "Watch a ?"
98 "Watch a ?"
99 "Watch a ?"
100 "Watch a ?"

Answers to any three clues in this puzzle are available by touch-tone phone: 1-800-420-5656 (5¢ per minute). Annual subscriptions are available for the best of Sunday croswords from the last 50 years: 1-888-7-ACROSSES.

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/

THE OBSERVER

Published Monday through Friday, The Observer is a vital source of information on people and events in the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's Community.

Join the more than 13,000 readers who have found The Observer an indispensable link to the two campuses. Please complete the accompanying form and mail it today to receive The Observer in your home.

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observer.nd.edu/
Irish swing into action

Irish open season with 66 wins at invite

By RACHEL BIBER
Sports Writer

After playing a combined total of 106 singles and doubles matches at this weekend’s Tom Fallon Invitational, the Irish aren’t juking when they say they are back in the swing of things.

Matching up against Ball State, Harvard, Indiana State, Michigan, Purdue and William & Mary, the Notre Dame men’s tennis team racked up a total of 66 wins to 40 losses during the four-day event at which no team scores were recorded.

In the Irish season debut, the squad sparked a new look, as 76th-ranked senior Javier Taborga filled in the No. 1 singles spot, while 38th-ranked senior and captain Casey Smith slid to the No. 2 position after playing in the top position last year. Taborga finished the weekend 3-3 in singles play, but could just as easily have been 6-0, as all three losses resulted from third set tiebreakers.

Following a solid 6-2, 6-3, victory of Ball State’s Jason Pressel on Saturday, Taborga commented on his move to No. 1, and knows his play, rather than his position, will dictate his results.

“I didn’t feel the pressure that much,” said senior Malinda Goralski. “I knew that if I made my shots I could win at number one, two, or three of the court,” said Goralski.

Senior Javier Taborga returns the ball during a match against Purdue this weekend. Taborga finished the weekend 3-3 at No. 1 singles topping off Notre Dame’s 66 team wins at the Tom Fallon Invitational.

Sarkesian leads Irish pair of wins

By JOE LICANDRO
Sports Writers

Miss Sarkesian is on a roll. After scoring the game-winning goal against No. 3 Nebraska Tuesday night, she dominated midfield Friday night and had an assist in the win against No. 1 University of Pittsburgh Sunday as Notre Dame wrapped up its week with an overtime goal to give Notre Dame a 2-1 win against the University of West Virginia.

“I’m definitely happy with the way I’ve been playing recently, but I’m even more happy with the way the team has played over these last 10 days,” Sarkesian said. “To win five games in 10 days is quite an accomplishment.”

In what has become an all-too-familiar story for Notre Dame this season, the Irish were unable to protect a 1-0 lead in the second half of Sunday’s game and were forced into overtime. Once again, the Irish started the game with a flat offense, relying upon their defense to keep them in the game. With heavy foul calls, the defense for both teams disrupted their opponents’ offensive game plans.

Irish defenders Lindsay Jones, Vanessa Pruzinsky, Monica Gonzales and Candace Chapman shut down last year’s Big East offensive player of the year Katie Barnes, holding her scoreless in the first half.

The Irish’s best chances to score came in the final 10 minutes of the first half on successive scoring opportunities by forwards Amy Warner and Amanda Guertin. But their runs were stopped cold by the West Virginia defense.

Irish serve up wins

By SUSAN CARPENTER
Sports Writer

There was no clear most valuable player for the Irish volleyball team Saturday, as team play propelled them to two weekend victories over the Hokies of Virginia Tech and Georgetown Hoyas.

Notre Dame handily defeated the Hokies in three sets, winning 30-25, 30-16 and 30-28. The Georgetown defeat came in four sets, the Irish dropping the first match 28-30, then rallying to come back 30-27, 30-25 and 30-22.

Georgetown proved to be a tough challenge for Notre Dame on Sunday that kept the fans on their feet. Scoring went back and forth as the Hoyas took the lead, or the Irish battled to get a point by chasing after a ball impossibly out of play.

The Irish struggled to find a rhythm early in the match, struggling with hitting errors. They were unable to rally from behind and dropped the first game to Georgetown. This was a blow to the Irish whose season goal for has been to win game one of each contest to bring the swing of momentum in their favor.

“We let them control the tempo of the game instead of controlling (the game) from our side of the court,” said Blondinck.

After dropping game one, Notre Dame had to regain its composure and come out strong for game two. Going almost point for point, an ace by Alvarez notched the Irish ahead 28-27. At game point, a decisive kill by Kristy Kreher put the game away and placed Notre Dame on even ground with Georgetown again.

Game three developed similarly with the two teams battling for the lead. Emily Loomis posted a kill to tie the Irish up with the Hoyas at 22. With Alderete’s solid serving and a block by Kreher and Fletcher, the Irish pulled farther away.

Taking game two, Notre Dame had one more game to go and a wave of momentum on its side.

“We blocked really well as a team in games two and three,” said senior Malinda Goralski.

Sports Writer