Terrorist attacks influence Malloy faculty address

By JASON McFARLEY

In his annual address to faculty Tuesday, a practical Father Edward Malloy, University president, urged professors to be thoughtful of recent terrorist acts but to get about the business of planning Notre Dame’s future following the Sept. 11 attacks.

“I’m very proud of our approach,” Malloy said, referring to campus response to tragedies in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania. “It was sensitive. It was well-done.”

During Malloy’s 50-minute speech, he recounted immediate steps the University took in the wake of the national crisis — cancelling classes, declaring Sept. 11 a day of prayer and organizing a Mass on South Quad.

University officials also planned panel discussions of the attacks, postponed the Notre Dame-Purdue football game originally scheduled for Sept. 15 and collected more than $150,000 for New York relief efforts.

“What I would hope can happen here in the coming weeks and months is that we can recognize more appropriate ways to respond thoughtfully,” said Malloy, who last week was in Washington twice on business. “I hope that we can have a conversation that’s ongoing.”

The president advised faculty members to encourage in their classrooms dialogue about subjects compromised by the attacks: world religions, especially Islamic fundamentalism; history of terrorism; urban architecture; city planning; transportation; news media; governmental leadership, international cultural identity; U.S. economic policy and human rights issues.

“I would suggest that this is a place to talk about fundamental questions,” Malloy said, proposing that the attacks have spurred inquiries into the meanings of life, death and afterlife and the ways in which America and the world respond.

At the same time, Malloy asked the faculty to sort through the questions and be conscious of future academic and fund-raising initiatives at the school.

Malloy, at the start of his current strategic plan and in the wake of recent events, referenced the highest economic growth and stability in Central America during recent years while maintaining low inflation.

It is important for El Salvador to build a positive image of itself as a dynamic democracy and to combat poverty and generating jobs,” she said. Programs such as these also help to boost El Salvador’s open-market economy. According to leading financial publications, the nation has experienced the highest economic growth and stability in Central America during recent years while maintaining low inflation.

“It is important for El Salvador to build a positive image of itself as a dynamic democracy and to combat poverty and generating jobs,” she said. Programs such as these also help to boost El Salvador’s open-market economy. According to leading financial publications, the nation has experienced the highest economic growth and stability in Central America during recent years while maintaining low inflation.

President Flores is convinced that the only way to combat poverty is by generating jobs,” Maria Eugenia Brizuela de Avila, Minister of foreign affairs, El Salvador, said.

“President Flores is convinced that the only way to combat poverty is by generating jobs,” Maria Eugenia Brizuela de Avila, Minister of foreign affairs, El Salvador, said.

Despite the challenges, such as those faced by El Salvador, “El Salvador’s open-market economy is very dynamic and growing,” according to leading financial publications, the nation has experienced the highest economic growth and stability in Central America during recent years while maintaining low inflation.

NOREEN GILLESPIE/The Observer

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

Running for relief

By KATIE RAND

Running to support the families of deceased and injured firefighters in New York City, 320 athletes, coaches and students from Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame competed in the 2001 Oktoberfest Run/Walk Thursday.

The event raised $2,150 for the New York Firefighters 911 Disaster Relief Fund, a fund set up to help the families of firefighters injured or killed in Sept. 11’s tragedies. The event, sponsored by the Saint Mary’s Athletic and Recreation department, consisted of a 1.5 mile walk and 5K run, and required each individual to give a minimum $5 pledge to compete.

“In the initial stages we were expecting more participants, but with the time restrictions we had in planning, we were very pleased with the turnout,” said Daniel Miller, Oktoberfest chairwoman.

“Support for the 911 Fund has been the thought since the day after our lives changed,” said Gregg Potoff, who began the race with Howard Buchanan, fire chief for the South Bend Fire department. “Right now you’re seeing OKTOBERFEST/page 6

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

See Also

• Oktoberfest race collects $2,150 for Disaster Relief Fund

By JASON McFARLEY

see MALLOY/page 6

Dave Barstis, Saint Mary’s cross country coach, crossed the finish line first at the Oktoberfest race Thursday (above left). A firefighter later thanks a young volunteer for helping with the disaster relief.

Running for relief

By KATIE RAND

Running to support the families of deceased and injured firefighters in New York City, 320 athletes, coaches and students from Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame competed in the 2001 Oktoberfest Run/Walk Thursday.

The event raised $2,150 for the New York Firefighters 911 Disaster Relief Fund, a fund set up to help the families of firefighters injured or killed in Sept. 11’s tragedies. The event, sponsored by the Saint Mary’s Athletic and Recreation department, consisted of a 1.5 mile walk and 5K run, and required each individual to give a minimum $5 pledge to compete.

“In the initial stages we were expecting more participants, but with the time restrictions we had in planning, we were very pleased with the turnout,” said Daniel Miller, Oktoberfest chairwoman.

“Support for the 911 Fund has been the thought since the day after our lives changed,” said Gregg Potoff, who began the race with Howard Buchanan, fire chief for the South Bend Fire department. “Right now you’re seeing OKTOBERFEST/page 6

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

See Also

• Oktoberfest race collects $2,150 for Disaster Relief Fund

By JASON McFARLEY

see MALLOY/page 6

Dave Barstis, Saint Mary’s cross country coach, crossed the finish line first at the Oktoberfest race Thursday (above left). A firefighter later thanks a young volunteer for helping with the disaster relief.

Minister shares country’s image

By CHRISTINA CEPERO

It is important for El Salvador to build a positive image of itself as a dynamic democracy and to combat poverty and generating jobs,” Maria Eugenia Brizuela de Avila, Minister of foreign affairs, El Salvador, said.

“President Flores is convinced that the only way to combat poverty is by generating jobs,” Maria Eugenia Brizuela de Avila, Minister of foreign affairs, El Salvador, said.

Despite the challenges, such as those faced by El Salvador, “El Salvador’s open-market economy is very dynamic and growing,” according to leading financial publications, the nation has experienced the highest economic growth and stability in Central America during recent years while maintaining low inflation.

NOREEN GILLESPIE/The Observer

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

Running for relief

By KATIE RAND

Running to support the families of deceased and injured firefighters in New York City, 320 athletes, coaches and students from Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame competed in the 2001 Oktoberfest Run/Walk Thursday.

The event raised $2,150 for the New York Firefighters 911 Disaster Relief Fund, a fund set up to help the families of firefighters injured or killed in Sept. 11’s tragedies. The event, sponsored by the Saint Mary’s Athletic and Recreation department, consisted of a 1.5 mile walk and 5K run, and required each individual to give a minimum $5 pledge to compete.

“In the initial stages we were expecting more participants, but with the time restrictions we had in planning, we were very pleased with the turnout,” said Daniel Miller, Oktoberfest chairwoman.

“Support for the 911 Fund has been the thought since the day after our lives changed,” said Gregg Potoff, who began the race with Howard Buchanan, fire chief for the South Bend Fire department. “Right now you’re seeing OKTOBERFEST/page 6

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

See Also

• Oktoberfest race collects $2,150 for Disaster Relief Fund

By JASON McFARLEY

see MALLOY/page 6

Dave Barstis, Saint Mary’s cross country coach, crossed the finish line first at the Oktoberfest race Thursday (above left). A firefighter later thanks a young volunteer for helping with the disaster relief.

Minister shares country’s image

By CHRISTINA CEPERO

It is important for El Salvador to build a positive image of itself as a dynamic democracy and to combat poverty and generating jobs,” Maria Eugenia Brizuela de Avila, Minister of foreign affairs, El Salvador, said.

“President Flores is convinced that the only way to combat poverty is by generating jobs,” Maria Eugenia Brizuela de Avila, Minister of foreign affairs, El Salvador, said.

Despite the challenges, such as those faced by El Salvador, “El Salvador’s open-market economy is very dynamic and growing,” according to leading financial publications, the nation has experienced the highest economic growth and stability in Central America during recent years while maintaining low inflation.

NOREEN GILLESPIE/The Observer

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

Running for relief

By KATIE RAND

Running to support the families of deceased and injured firefighters in New York City, 320 athletes, coaches and students from Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame competed in the 2001 Oktoberfest Run/Walk Thursday.

The event raised $2,150 for the New York Firefighters 911 Disaster Relief Fund, a fund set up to help the families of firefighters injured or killed in Sept. 11’s tragedies. The event, sponsored by the Saint Mary’s Athletic and Recreation department, consisted of a 1.5 mile walk and 5K run, and required each individual to give a minimum $5 pledge to compete.

“In the initial stages we were expecting more participants, but with the time restrictions we had in planning, we were very pleased with the turnout,” said Daniel Miller, Oktoberfest chairwoman.

“Support for the 911 Fund has been the thought since the day after our lives changed,” said Gregg Potoff, who began the race with Howard Buchanan, fire chief for the South Bend Fire department. “Right now you’re seeing OKTOBERFEST/page 6

CHRISTINA REITANO/The Observer

See Also

• Oktoberfest race collects $2,150 for Disaster Relief Fund

By JASON McFARLEY

see MALLOY/page 6

Dave Barstis, Saint Mary’s cross country coach, crossed the finish line first at the Oktoberfest race Thursday (above left). A firefighter later thanks a young volunteer for helping with the disaster relief.
Lessons in skillful stealing

I've had CD players stolen from my car twice in the past year. The first time was last Easter Sunday. I left my car in my parking lot in Philadelphia. It was repeated three weeks ago here in South Bend, outside my off-campus residence.

But it is not the fact that a CD player sits on the dashboard of my car that is the act of low quality, talentless thievery. It is the manner in which the theft occurs. In the first case, the lock had been incorrectly identified Lily Morales as Meghan Meyer. The CD player was stolen on my off-campus residence.

In Tuesday's Observer, a page one Board of Governors photo caption read, "The most restricting factor is the level of cooperation. "The most restricting factor is the level of cooperation.  If we have the cooperation of the faculty and the students, the system will work," said Committee Chairman Thomas Hall said of the process. So far, the Committee has held two trials related to the Bloomfield cases and the University Honor Committee has dealt with 55 of the 145 plagiarism cases initiated by faculty. However, the Committee still faces nearly 90 cases, 80 of which have not been completed.

In the wake of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, one of the U.S. Senate's lead cases is to establish a six-month moratorium on the issuance of new student visas to international students seeking to study in the United States.

Sen. Diane Feinstein (D-Calif.) announced late last week that she would introduce legislation to reform the U.S. student visa program which currently is easily abused, she said. She noted that a number of the suspected terrorists in the Sept. 11 attacks were in the United States on student visas even though they had renounced the schools in which they were supposedly enrolled.

"Today, there is little scrutiny given to those who claim to be foreign students seeking to study in the United States," Feinstein said in a press statement. "In fact, the foreign student visa program is one of the most unregulated and exploited visa categories.

Feinstein's moratorium proposal is intended to allow the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) to modernize its procedures and increase its scrutiny of student visa applicants. Feinstein would require that new visas only be granted to those undergoing much more extensive background checks, including fingerprinting.

"I believe that we need a temporary six-month moratorium on the student visa program to give the INS time to remedy the many problems in the system," Feinstein said. But Harvard University officials said that such a plan is highly flawed. Kevin Casey, Harvard's senior director of federal and state relations, noted that student visas account for less than 2 percent of all visas issued.

In the same vein, Kevin Casey, Harvard's senior director of federal and state relations, noted that student visas account for less than 2 percent of all visas issued.
Parties team up for mailed ballots

By MATT BRAMANTI
News Writer

With several important elections quickly approaching, College Republicans and Democrats are teaming up to encourage the use of absentee ballots.

With few exceptions, nearly all jurisdictions in the country allow students to mail their ballots in advance of an election.

Political races around the country will be decided this fall, including some high-profile contests. The governors' seats in New Jersey and Virginia are up for grabs, as is the post of mayor in many cities. New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani continues to remain the subject of speculation as to his plans for the coming months. Some observers have suggested he may try legal maneuvers to obtain a third term, despite term limits. Mayoral races in Atlanta and Houston will also be decided along with countless local elections for school boards, city councils and utility districts.

Though races are spread far and wide, they are also here in Notre Dame's backyard. Due to redistricting following the 2000 Census, elections must be held to fill the vacated seats. Kathy Cekanski Farrand, former U.S. Rep. Jill Long, now in Tarrant County, Texas, on her project "Mass Media Consolidation: A Case Study of 'The Dallas Morning News,'" while Berdayes worked in South Bend on her research into the paranormal radio show hosted by Art Bell. Together they have created their research project entitled, "Media and Public Discourse: Narrative Diversity in the Era of Media Consolidation."

"It was an opportunity to not only teach Hayley but to also learn from her," Berdayes said.

"I can't think of a better time to vote and take pride in having lived in the county where the first presidential election was held," said Mr. and Mrs. Medalie Jones, students at the University of Notre Dame. The county is divided into four districts, one of which contains the campus. The five-member board of county commissioners will vote on the candidates.

The SISTAR Program is open to full-time faculty and students in all disciplines. This year written application must be received in the Center for Academic Innovation by March 4, 2002 at 5:00 p.m. Following the application the SISTAR committee will interview the student and faculty member to assess the project. Contact Patrick White for more information.

"Not only does the student benefit from the faculty member, but the faculty member benefits from the student."

Patrick White
director of Saint Mary's Center for Academic Innovation

The SISTAR Program offers a grant to four students who work as junior colleagues with members of faculty on research projects during the summer. The student receives a stipend of $3,000 plus free lodging on campus. The SISTAR Program is open to full-time faculty and students in all disciplines.

Continued research is needed because not all results were matched predictions. Eberly and Cederquist strongly recommended the SISTAR Program as it allowed them to buy needed supplies and lab materials.

"The SISTAR Program is a great way to expand your mind because you chose your project and the reading and how to go about it. It gives you lots of food for thought," Blair said.

Contact Sarah Nestor at nest9@stmarys.edu
N.Y. victims receive help from the littlest hands

By NOREEN GILLESPIE

When her mother tries to explain the tragedies at the World Trade Center and Washington, D.C. to him, Collin Junk listens carefully.

But if you ask him what happened in New York, he doesn’t remember much. He can tell you that airplanes crashed into buildings. He can tell you that the buildings fell. He knows that people died, but he doesn’t know why.

“I don’t know,” he continually replies, even though he’s talked about the tragedies in school and with his mom.

But what he does know is that there are people in trouble, and he wanted to help. So Junk, 7, along with nine friends from his neighborhood, signed up to be volunteers at Saint Mary’s Oktoberfest Run/Walk Tuesday, where runners and walkers were competing to raise money for the families of injured and deceased firefighters in New York City.

They handed out cups of water to heavy-breathing and sweat-drenched competitors, and cheered loudly to encourage the athletes into making it to the finish. They decorated their station in red, white and blue crepe paper and balloons.

A local student, Mitch Westra, 5, carries water for runners in Oktoberfest. Ten youth volunteers helped at the event Tuesday.

Please use the Special Savings invitation and get to know us. You’ll be pleased with the quality and service we provide, and we will do our best to merit your confidence and patronage.

We hope to see you soon.

Valid with the following stylists only:
Sarah, Vicki, Karol, Nechole, & Mirelle

Must be presented to Receptionist before services are performed
(Certain restrictions apply)

Not valid for spiral perms, long or tinted hair add 10. No other discounts apply.

Open some evenings. ATRIA SALON reserves the right to refuse service to any client whose hair condition is unsuitable.

Contact Noreen Gillespie at gill@stmarys.edu

SPRING BREAK 2002

Now get busy.

create@screenblast.com

Change me. Crop me. Control me. Manipulate me any way you want. With the Screenblast Creation Suite " of editing tools and personal iSnash, you’re not just a viewer, you’re a creator. Now get busy.

The Observer • CAMPUS NEWS

Wednesday, October 3, 2001

Children work to understand tragedy through volunteer effort

By NOREEN GILLESPIE

When his mother tries to explain the tragedies at the World Trade Center and Washington, D.C. to him, Collin Junk listens carefully.

But if you ask him what happened in New York, he doesn’t remember much. He can tell you that airplanes crashed into buildings. He can tell you that the buildings fell. He knows that people died, but he doesn’t know why.

“I don’t know,” he continually replies, even though he’s talked about the tragedies in school and with his mom.

But what he does know is that there are people in trouble, and he wanted to help. So Junk, 7, along with nine friends from his neighborhood, signed up to be volunteers at Saint Mary’s Oktoberfest Run/Walk Tuesday, where runners and walkers were competing to raise money for the families of injured and deceased firefighters in New York City.

They handed out cups of water to heavy-breathing and sweat-drenched competitors, and cheered loudly to encourage the athletes into making it to the finish. They decorated their station in red, white and blue crepe paper and balloons.

A local student, Mitch Westra, 5, carries water for runners in Oktoberfest. Ten youth volunteers helped at the event Tuesday.

Please use the Special Savings invitation and get to know us. You’ll be pleased with the quality and service we provide, and we will do our best to merit your confidence and patronage.

We hope to see you soon.

Valid with the following stylists only:
Sarah, Vicki, Karol, Nechole, & Mirelle

Must be presented to Receptionist before services are performed
(Certain restrictions apply)

Not valid for spiral perms, long or tinted hair add 10. No other discounts apply.

Open some evenings. ATRIA SALON reserves the right to refuse service to any client whose hair condition is unsuitable.

Contact Noreen Gillespie at gill@stmarys.edu

SPRING BREAK 2002

Now get busy.

create@screenblast.com

Change me. Crop me. Control me. Manipulate me any way you want. With the Screenblast Creation Suite " of editing tools and personal iSnash, you’re not just a viewer, you’re a creator. Now get busy.

The Observer • CAMPUS NEWS

Wednesday, October 3, 2001

Children work to understand tragedy through volunteer effort

By NOREEN GILLESPIE

When his mother tries to explain the tragedies at the World Trade Center and Washington, D.C. to him, Collin Junk listens carefully.

But if you ask him what happened in New York, he doesn’t remember much. He can tell you that airplanes crashed into buildings. He can tell you that the buildings fell. He knows that people died, but he doesn’t know why.

“I don’t know,” he continually replies, even though he’s talked about the tragedies in school and with his mom.

But what he does know is that there are people in trouble, and he wanted to help. So Junk, 7, along with nine friends from his neighborhood, signed up to be volunteers at Saint Mary’s Oktoberfest Run/Walk Tuesday, where runners and walkers were competing to raise money for the families of injured and deceased firefighters in New York City.

They handed out cups of water to heavy-breathing and sweat-drenched competitors, and cheered loudly to encourage the athletes into making it to the finish. They decorated their station in red, white and blue crepe paper and balloons.

A local student, Mitch Westra, 5, carries water for runners in Oktoberfest. Ten youth volunteers helped at the event Tuesday.

Please use the Special Savings invitation and get to know us. You’ll be pleased with the quality and service we provide, and we will do our best to merit your confidence and patronage.

We hope to see you soon.

Valid with the following stylists only:
Sarah, Vicki, Karol, Nechole, & Mirelle

Must be presented to Receptionist before services are performed
(Certain restrictions apply)

Not valid for spiral perms, long or tinted hair add 10. No other discounts apply.

Open some evenings. ATRIA SALON reserves the right to refuse service to any client whose hair condition is unsuitable.

Contact Noreen Gillespie at gill@stmarys.edu

SPRING BREAK 2002

Now get busy.

create@screenblast.com

Change me. Crop me. Control me. Manipulate me any way you want. With the Screenblast Creation Suite " of editing tools and personal iSnash, you’re not just a viewer, you’re a creator. Now get busy.
WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Blair tells Taliban it faces war:
Prime Minister Tony Blair declared that Osama bin Laden was clearly responsible for the terrorist attacks on the United States and challenged the Taliban regime in Afghanistan to give him up or "face the consequences." "I say to the Taliban surrender the terrorists, or surrender power," said a stern Blair, speaking to a mostly supportive crowd at the Labor Party's annual conference.

NATIONAL NEWS BRIEFS

Canada pledges to protect border: Attorney General John Ashcroft and Canadian Solicitor General Lawrence MacAuley pledged cooperation Tuesday in protecting their countries' 4,000-mile border from international terrorists. "Any time there are borders that are open and that substantial there are risks," Ashcroft said in an appearance with MacAuley, who has been appointed to a Cabinet-level commission to combat terrorism in Canada.

JUSTICES HEAR INMATE RIGHTS CASE:

The Supreme Court heard arguments today on whether inmates in a federal prison or detention center run by a private contractor can sue the company for violating their constitutional rights. The case has implications for prisons, given the growing trend toward the privatization of many traditional government functions.

INDIANA NEWS BRIEFS

Man arrested for burning flag: An Indiana man accused of burning an American flag behind his home has been arrested, despite rulings from the U.S. Supreme Court that have said flag-burning is an exercise of free speech. David Stout, 49, of Noblesville was charged Monday with flag desecration and resisting law enforcement. He was being held Tuesday at the Hamilton County Jail on a $9,000 bond. Stout was arrested Sunday after police found him lying beside a burning flag in an alley behind his home.

MARKET WATCH OCTOBER 2

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Dow</th>
<th>8,950.59</th>
<th>+113.76</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jones</td>
<td>2,074</td>
<td>1,169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>AMEX</td>
<td>813.74</td>
<td>+44.34</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NASDAQ</td>
<td>1,492.33</td>
<td>+11.87</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NYSE</td>
<td>548.82</td>
<td>-46.77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>S&amp;P 500</td>
<td>1,051.33</td>
<td>+12.78</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FED MAKES 9TH RATE CUT THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON

Fed Chairman Greenspan held a closed-door meeting with members of a key Senate panel on Sept. 25 to explore ways to boost the U.S. economy in the wake of the Sept. 11 attacks ending with the approval of a .5 percent rate cut.

Associated Press

RUMSFELD VISITS MIDDLE EAST

WASHINGTON

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld will leave for the Middle East this evening for discussions with political and military leaders, the Pentagon said today.

"Rumsfeld is traveling at the request of President Bush, a Pentagon spokeswoman, Victoria Clarke, said at a news briefing. "This is to continue the consultations that have already started," she said.

She said the details of his itinerary, including which countries he will visit and whom he will meet, were still being arranged this afternoon. The secretary is expected to be in the Middle East about three days. Given that he is traveling to a region that is seven to eight hours ahead of Eastern time, and that he will be there only a few days with urgent business to conduct, Rumsfeld's trip would seem to be a grueling one. But the secretary, who turned 69 in July, is a former college wrestler and naval aviator and is a man of considerable vigor. The White House spokesman, Ari Fleischer, told reporters that Rumsfeld would share information and consult with friends. Asked why Bush chose to send Rumsfeld to the region, Fleischer replied, "Because he's the appropriate person to go."

The United States has a strong military presence in Saudi Arabia and elsewhere in the Middle East. American officials consider support for anti-terrorism activities in Muslim countries vital if the United States is to defuse claims by supporters of Osama bin Laden that America is warring on Islam.
Malloy continued from page 1

DeKartulio Hall audience to be part of the organizational project.

Every 10 years, the University reassesses the plan, beginning with an internal tactical process, according to Malloy. That process leads to a report that the University forwards to North Central Accreditation officials to maintain accredited status.

The next step is for Notre Dame administrators to create a fund-raising campaign plan and eventually a fund-raising event, Malloy said.

A coordinating committee will oversee the strategic planning process begun this year, the president said. The committee includes several faculty members and key Notre Dame officers: Nathan Hatch, provost; Father Timothy Scully, executive vice president; Father Mark Poorman, vice president for Student Affairs; Scott Malpass, vice president for finance and chief investment officer; and John Affleck-Graves, vice president and associate provost.

He said that committee will oversee the work of other committees dealing with four planning areas: curriculum, finance and fund raising, research priorities and challenges and future of higher education.

By next October, the committees will have enough compiled data to ultimately be presented to the Board of Trustees at the group’s May 2003 meeting, according to Malloy.

"We want to make sure everyone — faculty, students, staff — has a chance to speak out of their desires and aspirations," Malloy said. "The committee will oversee the strategic planning process begun this year, the president said. The committee includes several faculty members and key Notre Dame officers: Nathan Hatch, provost; Father Timothy Scully, executive vice president; Father Mark Poorman, vice president for Student Affairs; Scott Malpass, vice president for finance and chief investment officer; and John Affleck-Graves, vice president and associate provost.

He said that committee will oversee the work of other committees dealing with four planning areas: curriculum, finance and fund raising, research priorities and challenges and future of higher education.

By next October, the committees will have enough compiled data to ultimately be presented to the Board of Trustees at the group’s May 2003 meeting, according to Malloy.

"We want to make sure everyone — faculty, students, staff — has a chance to speak out of their desires and aspirations." Malloy said. "I ask for your enthusiastic support and contribution.

"We're puzzled, we've mourned and we've grieved," he said, restating Notre Dame officials' commitments to expand current law school and engineering facilities and to construct a campus hotel to replace the Morris Inn.

Contact Jason McFarley at emcfarley.1@nd.edu.

In other faculty address news:

Malloy credited increased financial aid initiatives with this fall's over-capacity first-year class. He said the same trend was evident among graduate and professional school enrollment and student financial aid awards.

The University president was pleased with the recent openings, renovations and ground-breakings for campus buildings. He restated Notre Dame officials' commitments to expand current law school and engineering facilities and to construct a campus hotel to replace the Morris Inn.

Contact Jason McFarley at emcfarley.1@nd.edu.

Oktoberfest continued from page 1

official start for the race. Cross-country coach Dave Barstis crossed the finish line first, completing the run in just under 19 minutes.

In the walking division, Sara Mattioli, Erin Pilecki, Cathy Tindall, and Brandy Jans were the first four to cross the finish line.

Those who would still like to donate to the 911 Disaster Relief Fund may do so at Angela Athletic Facility. Event T-shirts are also available for $5 at Angela.

Contact Katie Rand at rand8903@saintmarys.edu.

Ministers continued from page 1

needed to take action:

♦ Defense of sovereignty and territorial integrity through diplomacy

♦ Positioning of the nation, at the international level, through an efficient implementation of its foreign policy

♦ Negotiations of international cooperation

♦ Strengthening relations with Salvadorian communities abroad by providing assistance

♦ Contributing to employment opportunities

El Salvador's foreign policy aims to advance national interest, she said. El Salvador engages in bilateral cooperation with the U.S., multilateral cooperation with Europe, and horizontal technical cooperation between developing countries such as Honduras and Nicaragua, being in a strategic geographic location.

"El Salvador visualizes Central American integration as an instrument for the region's development." B rizuela de Avila said.

"We are aware of the necessity of a coherent foreign policy, harmonized with the new political and economic world order, and we need to respond to the new trends of globalization," she said.

Contact Christina Cepere at ccepere@nd.edu.

Recycle The Observer.

Student Government invites you to attend

Stepping Stones:
A Path to Understanding

A discussion panel focusing on

Religion

Gender Issues

Ethnicity

Race

Sexual Orientation

When: Wednesday, October 3
6:30-8:00 PM
Where: Walsh Basement
Food from Popeyes and Hacienda will be served
GSU highlights need for better insurance plans

By ANDREW THAGARD
News Writer

This month, representatives from the Graduate Student Union will meet with Notre Dame administration and members of the Board of Trustees to discuss health insurance.

GSU president Gabriela Burgos, vice president Kishori Deshpande, and health care committee chairman Adrienne Minnerick will present information on graduate student healthcare to 30 members of the board on Oct. 18. The GSU representatives plan to present an ideal graduate student health care plan and ask for a University subsidy to meet the difference in the cost of premiums between the current and ideal plan.

They also intend to suggest the possibilities of treating graduate students as University employees so they will qualify for the better health insurance policy and grouping graduate students into regions including area schools in order to receive a lower rate.

The GSU has spoken with faculty to gauge their support for changes in graduate student healthcare.

"The faculty so far appears to be really supportive of us," Minnerick said. "A lot of them feel that to move Notre Dame to a more prestigious place we need to address the healthcare needs of graduate students."

Burgos, Deshpande and Minnerick say they are looking for the opportunity to present their ideas before the board.

"This is really important because our chances for subsidization... are achievable," Burgos said.

"The fact that we get an opportunity to speak in front of the Board of Trustees speaks of the support the administration has given us," said Deshpande.

The group is preparing an oral presentation consisting of slides, information booklets, and videotaped testimonials from Notre Dame graduate students.

The GSU has also obtained data from The Chronicle for Higher Education that compares stipends and school coverage of health care premiums at 61 American institutions that they intend to present.

"We had a person [at GSU Orientation] speak up and say they were told not to go to Notre Dame because of the health care provided," Minnerick said. "We hope to convince the board that this is an issue important to take up."

In other GSU news:

♦ The GSU is continuing negotiations with OIT over this year's paper-ratoning policy. Sameer Vijay, GSU Information technology representative, does not feel that the 1000 sheet allowance is adequate for graduate students. Vijay will resign from his post after he completes this and other projects he is currently pursuing due to an increased academic workload.

♦ The publicity and promotions committee launched their corporate logo design contest. The contest is set to run until Oct. 31 and is open to all full-time undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in Indiana colleges and universities.

The grand prize is a $150 cash prize.

♦ The GSU began their meeting with a moment of silence to remember the tragedies of Sept. 11.

"The events of Sept. 11 have clearly had an impact on all of us," Deshpande said.

Contact Andrew Thagard at thagard.1@nd.edu

Fellows find assistance

♦ New office helps students with fellowships and scholarships

By MOLLY HERBE
News Writer

Notre Dame has established a new office to assist undergraduate students and their faculty mentors in the application for fellowships and scholarships, including the Marshall, Rhodes and Fulbright.

"One of our major focuses is to develop opportunities in which students may maximize their potential for these scholarships."

Brad Gibson
director of the Office of Undergraduate and Post-Baccalaureate Fellowships

Contact Molly Herbe at mherbe@nd.edu
"When in despair I remember that all through history the way of truth and love has always, there have been tyrants and murders, and for a time they seem invincible, but in the end they always fall," said M.K. Gandhi.

The majority of the Editor in Chief, Managing Editor, and department editors feel this is not the time for compassion, respect, understanding and appreciation. Nonviolence is about building positive relationships with humans — relationships that are based on love, compassion, respect, understanding and appreciation. We must acknowledge our role in what this world is built for. We must not be afraid of the consequences of the things we do.

Support other athletics

After witnessing the debacle known as Fighting Irish football on Saturday, I want to propose an alternative to complacency by accepting the inability of the Irish to win a football game. On Friday afternoon on the Burke Memorial Golf Course (the one by the Rock), the fourth-ranked cross country team will compete in the Notre Dame Invitational. Rather than whine about our football team which is 0-3 for the first time in 114 years, we should support our other athletes, namely the runners. In about five minutes, they will set off running a race. The gun goes off at 5 p.m. Those runners are not very far away. Many thousands of innocent people will die both here and in the country or countries we attack. Militancy will increase exponentially and ultimately we will be faced with more terrorism. When that happens the Palestinians we either rejoice or show no compassion. Our attitude is that they deserve what they get. When the Palestinians bomb the Israelis we are instant and condemn them as a gang of villains who need to be eliminated.

We must understand that nonviolence is not a strategy that we can use in situations where we perceive people to be a moment of crisis. Nonviolence is about personal attitudes, about becoming aware of the change we wish to see in the world, because a nation's collective attitude is based on the attitude of the individual. Nonviolence is about building positive relationships with humans — relationships that are based on love, compassion, respect, understanding and appreciation.

Nonviolence is about not judging people as we perceive them to be, rather what is good for the world and how we can do the right thing to help the world become more peaceful.

Support other athletics

After witnessing the debacle known as Fighting Irish football on Saturday, I want to propose an alternative to complacency by accepting the inability of the Irish to win a football game. On Friday afternoon on the Burke Memorial Golf Course (the one by the Rock), the fourth-ranked cross country team will compete in the Notre Dame Invitational. Rather than whine about our football team which is 0-3 for the first time in 114 years, we should support our other athletes, namely the runners. In about five minutes, they will set off running a race. The gun goes off at 5 p.m. Those runners are not very far away. Many thousands of innocent people will die both here and in the country or countries we attack. Militancy will increase exponentially and ultimately we will be faced with more terrorism. When that happens the Palestinians we either rejoice or show no compassion. Our attitude is that they deserve what they get. When the Palestinians bomb the Israelis we are instant and condemn them as a gang of villains who need to be eliminated.

We must understand that nonviolence is not a strategy that we can use in situations where we perceive people to be a moment of crisis. Nonviolence is about personal attitudes, about becoming aware of the change we wish to see in the world, because a nation's collective attitude is based on the attitude of the individual. Nonviolence is about building positive relationships with humans — relationships that are based on love, compassion, respect, understanding and appreciation.

Nonviolence is about not judging people as we perceive them to be, rather what is good for the world and how we can do the right thing to help the world become more peaceful.
In a world filled with war, famine, mistrust, sin, prejudice. The Backstreet Boys and dentists, it's sometimes hard to know where to look. Wags, leaders, peace activists, monks, priests, teachers, revolutionaries and billions of other regular people have been trying to construct a solution for the world's problems since Eve made Adam eat the forbidden fruit, the idiots.

Dollars says that if the two original members of the human race never ate that apple, we would have never had to worry about this kind of stuff, but that is almost completely beside the point.

What is the point? The point is that the world is a pretty scary place, which makes it in its own way head, to make one wonder about just what the heck the solution is for all this hullabub.

Well my friends, I'm happy to report that my slightly less than 21-year-old mind has discovered a principle that could not only modify your lives, but the world as well.

This principle could save my self, unshaven, messy shingled hair, now into the bathroom only to emerge minutes later as a clean, shiny, smoking Algebra teacher with bright white teeth. I was shining through a million dollars. We do have to do is use our little courtesy.

This principle dawned upon myself and my roommates last year when we were trying to watch television for long periods of time without losing our seats (if we had to get up and go to the bathroom or leave for something or reason another time, maybe?)

You arrived at Notre Dame my freshman year, I was jumped by the notion of "Fives". This most annoying and frustrating institution involves a person leaving his or her seat, and having to call "Fives" in order to prevent his or her buddies, sitting there like vultures watching their friend die in the desert, rush to take the open and obviously better seat. Dismayed by this, because I always forgot to say "Fives", I presented the idea that maybe everyone should just let the person have his seat back when he returned. Apparently this was not an option. So we floundered for two years in the cutthroat world of "fives," until the courtesy principle appeared like Gabriel to the Virgin Mary in our eyes.

The arrival actually wasn't that much different from any other regularly observed communications from the peanut gallery in the idiocracy. One particular member of the board came back into the living room and finding his seat stolen, exclaimed, "How about a little courtesy?"

"You getting another cocktail?" How about a little courtesy and grabbing me one too?"

"You going to the store? How about a little courtesy and picking me up a Slurpee?"

"You going to class today? How about a little courtesy and going to get me one, too?"

The idiocracy was transforming before our very eyes. This singular principle of courtesy was great. If you didn't do something for your seat the next time, he did something for you. If you needed something that someone else had but didn't get their seat, they would do something courteous for you, things were better. Small, annoying edges were taken off your daily routine. Your overall disposition is sunny - ever so slowly, but sunnier nonetheless.

Things are better - not that much better, but noticeably better.

Courtesy is something that our parents and teachers push on us from day one when we're little. It is one of the first things your kindergarten teacher demands out of you. You didn't share the crayons with your classmates, she told you that you should. When you picked on your younger sibling or told on your older sister, your parents told you that you should. But somewhere during our developing years, the principle of courtesy was slowly forgone and we were told it was "Wrong"

So what do we emerge along the way we forgot about courtesy and grew up into self-potential in our daily lives could help. Maybe it could change things. Ideas could be more respected, people more tolerant, paths less blocked.

If the world would just remember kindergarten when we all learned to treat others the way we want to treat each other, maybe things could work out better and we could all be a little bit happier. It is hard to grab another cocktail for a fellow human if you are about to get one yourself, anyway? There is something insignificant at the bit, maybe, that is only a bit points, that could be the cause of getting the ball rolling to a more satisfying universe. Or maybe it isn't, but how much skin off your nose is it to do it anyway?

Joe Larson is a senior English and History major. He urges you to acknowledge and embrace your role in the idiocracy, because whether you know it or not, you are included.

The views expressed in this column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
By MATT KILLEN
Scene Writer

This past summer MTV, one of the most watched cable networks on television, celebrated its 20th anniversary on the air. Growing from a relatively small operation that just played a few music videos, MTV is now a worldwide phenomenon that encompasses television shows, movies, fashion, style, youth culture and yes, even music.

While the success of the network has been unparalleled, its audience has always eventually aged and moved on. With such a narrow targeted audience, MTV cannot rely on long-term loyalty in its attempts to stay ahead of rivals like VH1. As it enters into its third decade, MTV is in a battle to gain viewers and maintain its relevance to modern popular culture.

It began as nothing more than an idea. It was the early '80s. Disco was winding down, and the music industry needed something new and fresh that would sell records. They had the music, but they needed a national platform on which to sell their new bands and musical genres.

At the same time, America has just been introduced to a new method of receiving television: cable. No longer would a few broadcast networks dominate the eyes of millions. Cable opened the door to hundreds of networks. It wasn’t about the big three anymore (NBC, ABC, CBS). Networks targeted to particular tastes and ideas could now reach the masses with ease. The door was open.

The idea to combine music and image into a single, cohesive source of entertainment was born. It was MTV. Music Television. It would serve initially as an outlet for lesser-known bands, a small library of the new music videos. The library quickly grew, however, as more and more bands saw the importance of being on television. MTN’s success with television shows sparked even more, culminating with the early '90s debut of their crown jewel, “The Real World.” “The Real World” would become the mother of all reality shows and a platform for many young adults to look upon and see people similar to themselves.

In the late '90s, MTV moved into new studios in Times Square. With a window looking down on the world, MTV created a more direct connection with their audience and culture in general. MTV’s influence on music has been huge. “It was enormous for musical groups,” Dr. Susan Ohmer, Assistant Professor of American Studies, said. “They started to think of music in visual terms and creating an image for the group.”

It became an entirely new way for groups and performers to connect with their audiences directly. It was a revolution in the music industry, forcing people to completely change the way they thought about the business and the craft.

“The music video as a genre has had a huge impact on culture, as well,” Ohmer said. “It has made people aware of music.” Ohmer said, “But also of choreographers, cinematographers, and others related to the visual aspect. It’s also affected movies. There are faster shots, quicker takes. It’s definitely an MTV feeling,” Ohmer said.

At the dawn of the new millennium, the modern image of MTV seems to be a product of the very culture it helped to create. Shows such as “The Real World” are still thriving, but they now have a younger and younger cast than the people who debuted in the first series a decade ago. “The Real World” has been joined by dozens of other successful MTV television shows. “Road Rules,” “Daria,” and “Un oidressed” are just some of the popular television shows on MTV that have little or nothing to do with music. One of most popular events on MTV is its annual “MTV Music Awards,” both an awards show and a parody of traditional award shows, as well.

One of the common complaints about MTV is its gradual yet steady filtering out of actual music videos, which are both expensive and watched less than MTV’s current slate of television shows. The lack of music videos is just one of the complaints facing MTV. In fact, as MTV is passing by its 20th birthday, it faces mounting criticism and concern about the direction the network is going.

If there’s one constant in television, it’s change. No network can stay the same too long without losing viewers. Recently, CNN faced a similar situation, as MTV has. Facing its 20th anniversary on the air, CNN began a significant overhaul both in front of and behind the camera in an attempt to thwart successful rivals Fox News Channel and MSNBC.

Though smaller in viewership than these newer networks were growing at a far greater rate than CNN, forcing CNN to overhaul in hopes of attracting new viewers.

MTV’s problem is far greater, however. A network that targets a youthful demographic inevitably must face the grim fact that their viewers will eventually become older. The MTV generation has grown up and left the party, leaving a vacuum that MTV has been trying to fill.

“Many TV networks assume that you’re not going to keep an audience long,” Ohmer said. “It’s about the business and the craft.”

N'SYNC and the boy band revolution seem to have been made for MTV as they are fixtures on “Total Request Live,” and favorites of teen girls.
to captivate youth audiences worldwide

MTV may face an even greater problem in its battle to stay on top: corporatism. With the rise of the mega conglomerates such as AOL/Time-Warner and News Corp, MTV finds itself in the middle of Viacom, mogul Sumner Redstone's company.

"MTV is considered the crown jewel of Viacom. Other sections of the company are required to advertise on it. There seems to be a lot of attention given to the next generation," Ohmer said.

This apparent advantage, however, can also have a great many detriments. As the super corporations are a relatively modern creation, they are still attempting to change and modify in order to create a kind of synergy. There's a danger that MTV could lose its focus in all of this.

MTV faces the challenge of pleasing both its audience and its corporate bosses, as well.

Before the videos of the latest pop sensations begin to roll, however, Daly announces that up first is the new video by Michael Jackson. The crowd erupts in cheers and the video begins to play.

Jackson, once a common image on MTV in the '80s and early '90s, is appearing in his first video in several years. The thought of Jackson returning as a cultural icon to the station that made him one suggests that, perhaps, MTV isn't going anywhere. It may endure for years to come as the cultural pulse of the youth generation, continuing to define music and style for a long time to come.

In the words of Carson Daly, "Oh, uh, alright, that's cool."
Bonds walks twice in 4-Giants win

The Associated Press

HOUSTON
At this rate, Barry Bonds will walk his way into history before he ever trots there.

Bonds once again got little to show for his effort as he walked twice in the Giants' 4-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

"When he came up, there were guys on base, so we are not going to give him a pitch to hit," said Reynolds.

Bonds will see rookie Tim Redding on Wednesday night, and he has a chance with a history to make history on a most historic day. It will be the 50th anniversary of one of baseball's most famous home runs, Bobby Thomson's "Shot Heard Round the World."

In Beddingham's previous outing, he gave up three straight home runs to Sammy Sosa.

"He faced McGwire, Sosa and Bonds, three of the most prolific home run hitters ever, and done nothing but go right after them," Beddingham said. "You can't worry about all the sideouts."

But does Bonds expect to get hit even more often over the plate?

"I haven't the faintest idea. We'll see tomorrow," he said.

The crowd of 43,548 that included commissioner Bud Selig and Bonds' father, Bobby, saw the Giants send Houston to its fourth straight loss.

The Astros droppped into a tie for Central lead with St. Louis, which beat Milwaukee 5-1. They now hold the division lead by themselves since Aug. 17, and have at least a wild-card spot with a win.

Ramon Martinez hit the Giants and is now only one shy of the majors' best control mark as impressive for its consistency. He's drawn a major league-high 35 intentional walks this season.

"It's kind of mind-boggling to see what he's done," Chicago Cubs manager Dale Sveum said. "You go almost 40 years with nobody hitting 60, and he's done it three times already. It's a pretty incredible feat.

But not enough to keep the Cubs from being eliminated from postseason contention. Adam Dunn hit a solo homer off Kyle Farnsworth in the top of the ninth inning, giving the Cincinnati Reds a victory over the Chicago Cubs. It's a beautiful thing for our team to come out this way," said Bonds.

"And my people."

Bonds is used to getting such treatment. He's drawn a major league-record 352 intentional walks in his career, including 52 this season.

Maybe he'll get some pitches to hit tomorrow and pop one.

"I never surprise a lot of people," he said.

He's one of five players to hit 60 home runs in a season and is only one shy of the major league record.

"It was gone," said Bonds.

"We won't that's all that matters."

Sosa has done it three times in four seasons.

Sosa became the first player in history to hit 60 or more home runs in four seasons.

"It is a mark as impressive for its consistency," Selig said.

Sosa to do that, though. Rookie Manny Ramirez hit 60 home runs in 636 plate appearances.

"I feel great because everybody in the whole world was walking radical," said Sosa.

When I hit that one, at that moment, I feel great because everybody in the whole world was walking radical," said Sosa.

When the ball cleared the wall, the scoreboard's message board blared "S Sammy H Red!" and the fans clapped until Bonds walked away with a curtain call.

He stood at the top steps of the dugout and waved his helmet at the fans.

Dmitry Young and D.T. Cromer also homered for the Reds.

The loss, along with St. Louis' 5-1 victory over Milwaukee, eliminated the Cardinals from the NL wild card race. The Cubs are six games behind St. Louis and could finish ninth for their fourth straight losing season.

"It's a tough pill to swallow," Beddingham said.

That's an understatement.

Bonds and his Giants with four games left will play the San Francisco Giants in the NL playoffs, no matter whether he gets his 60th home run or not.

Bonds was hit by a pitch in the first inning and, with the crowd buzzing, he ended up with a hitless seventh-inning sac fly.

"This summer's been a beautiful thing for our team to come out this way," said Bonds.

"When the season's over, I can go home and I don't have to please anybody."

That's an understatement.

While Barry Bonds chases Mark McGwire's single-season record of 70 home runs — Bonds reached base four times Tuesday night but remained stuck on 69, Sosa has been awesomely consistent.

"This is the year to do it," Bonds said. "I'm not going to say to you it's nice, but I cannot sit back and look real good and think about it."

Bonds said he has only 10 home runs since he hit No. 60.

"It was going to be a 61st," Bonds said.

"But not enough to keep the Giants in the playoffs, no matter what he hits as continued."

The loss, along with St. Louis' 5-1 victory over Milwaukee, eliminated the Cardinals from the NL wild card race. The Cubs are six games behind St. Louis and could finish ninth for their fourth straight losing season.

"This summer's been a beautiful thing for our team to come out this way," said Bonds. "When the season's over, I can go home and I don't have to please anybody."

That's an understatement.

While Barry Bonds chases Mark McGwire's single-season record of 70 home runs — Bonds reached base four times Tuesday night but remained stuck on 69, Sosa has been awesomely consistent.

"This is the year to do it," Bonds said. "I'm not going to say to you it's nice, but I cannot sit back and look real good and think about it."

Bonds said he has only 10 home runs since he hit No. 60.

"It was going to be a 61st," Bonds said.

"But not enough to keep the Giants in the playoffs, no matter what he hits."

The loss, along with St. Louis' 5-1 victory over Milwaukee, eliminated the Cardinals from the NL wild card race. The Cubs are six games behind St. Louis and could finish ninth for their fourth straight losing season.

"This summer's been a beautiful thing for our team to come out this way," said Bonds. "When the season's over, I can go home and I don't have to please anybody."

That's an understatement.

While Barry Bonds chases Mark McGwire's single-season record of 70 home runs — Bonds reached base four times Tuesday night but remained stuck on 69, Sosa has been awesomely consistent.

"This is the year to do it," Bonds said. "I'm not going to say to you it's nice, but I cannot sit back and look real good and think about it."

Bonds said he has only 10 home runs since he hit No. 60.

"It was going to be a 61st," Bonds said.

"But not enough to keep the Giants in the playoffs, no matter what he hits."

The loss, along with St. Louis' 5-1 victory over Milwaukee, eliminated the Cardinals from the NL wild card race. The Cubs are six games behind St. Louis and could finish ninth for their fourth straight losing season.

"This summer's been a beautiful thing for our team to come out this way," said Bonds. "When the season's over, I can go home and I don't have to please anybody."

That's an understatement.
In Response to the Events of September 11th

In this time of terrible loss and momentous decisions, the Center for Social Concerns offers resources through this website to assist individuals develop informed views, seek spiritual sustenance, and find just, wise, and effective ways to respond.

Please visit: http://centerforsocialconcerns.nd.edu/sept11

Social Concern Seminars/SSPIs/ISSLPs

Summer Service Project Internships: Eight week service-learning experiences sponsored by Notre Dame alumni clubs across the country. Room and board is provided while students work with agencies serving disadvantaged populations.

First Information Session: Thursday, Oct 18th 6p.m.
Additional Information Sessions will be held at the CSC on the following dates:
- Wednesday, Nov 7th 7p.m.
- Wednesday, Nov 28th 7p.m.
- Tuesday, Jan 22nd 6:30p.m.

Accion Internships: For Junior Business majors only. 10-12 weeks working with ACCION offices that are micro-lending organizations. Room and board stipend provided.

International Summer Service Learning Program: 7-9 p.m. Tues. Info. Nights @ CSC Satellite Office (Coleman-Morse, Rm. 113)
Applications now available at CSC and Satellite Offices * Applications due: Nov. 1
Sites represented this week: Northern India, Ecuador, and Honduras (GHI)

Border Issues Applications now available at the CSC. Info. session: Thurs., Oct. 4 7:30-8:00 p.m. at the CSC

CSC Vehicle Info Session

Center for Social Concerns Vehicle Training Sessions: All seminar drivers must take a vehicle information session in order to drive for their seminar trip.
Final Date: Wednesday, October 10 (6:00 p.m., Rm. 124 CSC), No registration required. Bring pen and drivers' license.

Senior-Year Transition Programs

"LIVING A FAITH TO DIE FOR"
Discernment Session with PROFESSOR MIKE BAXTER, CSC
Wednesday, October 3, 5 -7 PM in SIEGFRIED HALL LOUNGE
RSVP 1-5779. A simple supper will be served.

Current Volunteer Needs

Tutoring:
Contact: Cindy Black - 237-0725 - Dociblk@cs.com
A sixth grade student, Corey would like a tutor to assist him with general homework including reading comprehension. Flexible schedule (a couple times a week), a meeting place on campus could be arranged.

Swanson Elementary School
Contact: Lisa Horning or Kristine Torok - 243-7250
Looking for tutors to assist an after school program M-TH 2:30-3:45, could commit to just a couple days a week.

Special Needs:
Special Needs Author Needs Assistance - Contact: Rozanne - 287-3891 - 515 East Monroe Apt. 612 (Karl King Towers)
Rozanne is physically challenged and needs someone to assist her in writing her book by contributing ideas and typing. Flexible schedule, 2-3 times a week.

21st Century Scholar - Math Tutor - Contact: Nikki Hutchinson - 239-2380 x 235
A 12th grade student at Clay High School is in need of a tutor to assist her with Algebra-Trig. Flexible schedule.

ZOO BOO - Contact: 288-4639
Want to help make this Halloween a memorable one? Volunteers are needed to decorate, dress-up in animal costumes and hand out candy for the ZOO BOO at Potawatomi Zoo Oct 26th-28th.

Girl Scouts - Contact: Michelle Bush - 273-3021 - outreach@gsssc.org
Committed to building character and skills for success, the Girls Scouts of Singing Sands are looking for volunteers for their Activity Centers. Must enjoy working with children and have transportation, several sites available in South Bend.

Faculty Opportunities

Faculty Needed! Through the Center for Social Concerns, Notre Dame students participate in service experiences so powerful that the lenses through which they've seen the world are permanently altered. Such experiences — providing health care to poor people in Ecuador, an intensive week in Appalachia — make our students want to know more. To deepen the learning these experiences inspire, we need faculty members to help them formulate questions for academic pursuit; professors who can provide bibliography, direct students to relevant courses, help them design research projects; teachers who will guide our students in thinking carefully about the issues. If you have interest in working with these students in these or other ways, please contact Mary Beckman at the Center for Social Concerns.
Badgers tagged with probation

Wisconsin suspended over 20 years' probation and last some football and basketball scholarships Tuesday after an investigation found a shoe store gave unadvertised discounts to athletes.

The NCAA, however, did not suspend the school of any postseason awards, including its 2000 trip to the men's Senior Bowl.

The university disciplined itself in April, and the NCAA decided to levy additional penalties because it was the school's third major rules violation since 1994 and the number of athletes involved, said Tom Yeager, a member of the NCAA Division I Infractions Committee.

"This wasn't one or two athletes, someone bought them a Diet Coke.""Tom Yeager NCAA official

"We know the restrictions now. We have to time to deal with it."Barry Alvarez Wisconsin coach ordered to perform community service.

Yeager said the NCAA could have imposed even harsher penalties than the additional reduction of scholarships jobs but didn't because the three violations were so different from one another.

Yeager also credited the university for the actions it took in April, saying they were a major reason why the committee did not slap Wisconsin of its 2000 NCAA Division I Final Four appearance.

"Once it was detected, the university moved very swiftly, very decisively in trying to correct the problem and to establish policies and procedures to greatly eliminate the possibility that it can happen again," Yeager said.

As part of the corrective measures it took, the university implemented a new educational system for all coaches and players on NCAA rules.

Yeager also reprimanded athletic director Pat Richter and compliance officer Tim Bald for their failure to properly investigate the accusations. Each violation occurred during Richter's tenure, and his salary was frozen for one year.

The NCAA also ordered the school to reprimand football coach Barry Alvarez for the improper housing assistance.

Alvarez said the punishment handed down Tuesday was a relief compared with last year, when 26 players were suspended for one to three games right before the Badgers' home opener.

Picked as a possible contender for the national title, Wisconsin struggled to a 9-4 record as Alvarez juggled his lineup the first four weeks of the season.

"The worst is over," Alvarez said. "We know the restrictions now. We have time to deal with it, I to time to address it."
Football continued from page 20

but at the same time is sucks to be on this side of the boo," he said. "I’ve heard it around campus. I keep my mouth shut but sometimes I don’t know what I would do as a fan especially here at a big place like Notre Dame.

While the players are hearing the boos loud and clear, Davie said he has no doubt where the boos are targeted.

"I told our players, ‘If there’s a lot of booing this weekend, it’s at me. It’s not at you, so don’t take it personal,’" he said.

Davie has tried to avoid taking the criticism personally as well. He doesn’t read newspapers and tries to ignore the criticism.

"It’s not like you can bury your head in the sand and just be oblivious to everything," he said. "I’ve got a pretty clear picture of where our popularity is right now — where my popularity is now."

In the swirl of criticism, however, Davie remains focused on one thing: winning and hopefully turning the boos to cheers.

"This is a fickle profession and a fickle game," Davie said. "You can turn those boos into cheers in a hurry and I think the only way to do that is go out and coach better and play better. If I was sitting up there, I’d probably boo too. So bring it on. Let’s go see if we can coach better and win a game this week."

Notes:
♦ Davie clarified his new role with the offense Tuesday. He said that Kevin Rogers will continue to call the plays and serve as offensive coordinator. Davie will attend more offensive meetings to add one more mind and opinion to the planning meetings.

"Maybe I can provide a resource for them," Davie said. "Maybe they can bounce some ideas off me. Maybe I can give them some confidence right now, just by making them feel good about some of the things they are doing."

♦ Davie announced that Vollers will move back to his natural tackle position while Sean Milligan will start at guard. Vollers will take Brennan Curtin’s spot but offensive coordinator Rogers said Curtin will rotate with Vollers and Jordan Black at both tackle positions.

♦ Sophomore Vontez Duff has taken over senior Clifford Jefferson’s corner-back position.

♦ Davie said tailback Julius Jones is still not 100 percent and that might be a reason for his drop in performance this year. Jones wraps his quadriceps before every practice.

Contact Mike Connolly at connolly.28@nd.edu.
Restructuring mortgage bonds to meet investors' needs requires Deirdre's intense concentration. Before races, she uses the same kind of focus on the starting block. What keeps you sharp?

Goldman, Sachs & Co.

Wednesday, October 3, 2001
Equities and Fixed Income, Currency and Commodities
Information Session
Center for Continuing Education, Room 100
6:00 – 8:00 PM

Friday, October 5, 2001
Women's Firmwide Luncheon
University Club, Stadium Room
12:00 – 2:00 PM
RSVP to maria.bavaro@gs.com
Irish continued from page 20 coach Debbie Brown. "Toledo played very well. They certainly played better than their averages in all of their areas. They were pretty fired up." Notre Dame put themselves in a hole early in game four. The Rockets shot aces and kills left and right to build an early 21-12 lead.

"We got aced a few times in that game so we just dug ourselves a hole early in the game and just had a hard time getting the points on our serve to catch back up," Brown said.

The Irish committed 19 service errors on the night. Other than senior Malinda Goralski and junior Keara Coughlin, every Irish player to take the court put up at least one errant serve. Notre Dame cut the Toledo lead to three, but couldn't pull any closer and lost 30-27 to force a decisive game five. With the new rally-scoring system, points continue to be scored each time the ball hits the floor, but in game five the winner only needs to score 15 points. With so few points, the team that starts off quick has the advantage. The Irish did exactly that. The Irish blocked three of the Rockets' first four attack attempts, with Goralski assisting on all three plays. As the lineup shifted, sophomore Kim Fletcher moved into Goralski's middle blocker position. She continued where Goralski left off, scoring two kills off the slide and combining with Bomhack on a block to put the Irish up 11-4. Toledo scored four consecutive points to cut the gap to 11-8, but would never come closer. Freshman Emily Loomis scored two of Notre Dame's final four points, including the game-winner. "I think that it helps to get our first five-game match out of the way," Brown said.

"I think that it helps to get our first five-game match out of the way so we just dig our way out and come out with a win," said senior Krissy Kreher, who led the Irish in kills with a match-high 19. "We know next time that could happen that we're confident winning five-game matches." Despite losing two games, the Irish performed well in many aspects. Notre Dame hit .375 in game two and a .412 attack rate in the deciding fifth game. The Irish also finished with 16 blocks — a statistic Brown saw as essential to the win. "I think as a team, actually we blocked pretty well," Brown said. "One thing we talked about was committing with their middles and slowing down their middles a little bit."

While the Irish focused on the Rockets' middle hitters, Toledo outside hitter Becky Hadonski racked up a season-high 18 kills in the five games. Lindsey Kretzmann added 14 kills on a .331 hitting percentage. "Becky really displayed the type of player she is tonight," Toledo coach Kent Miller said in a release. "She's now starting to play way she was before having knee surgery last year."

Notre Dame put itself in a hole early, letting Toledo score the first three points of game one. The Irish cut the Rocket tied it up 16-16 midway through the match on a Kristen Kinder kill before Toledo built another three-point lead. The Irish fought back to tie the game at 25. Then Kreher scored a kill after a time out to give Notre Dame its first lead of the night.

But Toledo came back again, scoring off of two Irish attack errors to reach game point with a 29-27 lead. Miller said. "I don't know that we anticipated that they would be as strong as they were. They played at the top of their game and really tested us." Toledo scored four consecutive points to win game five, 30-27.

"We knew that we had to go out and play our side of the net," Goralski said. "I don't know that we anticipated that they would be as strong as they were. They played at the top of their game and really tested us." The Irish came out stronger in game two, building an early 8-4 lead to force the home team into a timeout. Notre Dame maintained four-point lead until a Toledo streak cut the lead to 22-21. But behind a Goralski kill, two aces from Loomis and kills from Kreher and Marcie Bomhack Notre Dame tied the match at 1-1.

In game three, Notre Dame built its 2-1 match lead with its strongest effort of the night, leading by as many as 13 points. Goralski recorded five kills and three blocks in the match, while Fletcher added two blocks and a kill. Despite the loss, Miller was impressed with his team's performance against a ranked team. "The players are beginning to believe they are a good team and they should believe that," the Rockets coach said. "We saw that tonight with how we came back against a very good Notre Dame team."

Contact Noah Amstadter at amstadter.1@nd.edu.

Vero Italiano

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
Summer Engineering Program
Foreign Study in London, England

INFORMATION MEETING:
Wednesday, October 3, 2001
Room 356 Fitzpatrick Hall
7:00 p.m.

ALL ENGINEERING STUDENTS WELCOME!
Belles look to ring in more victories

By KATIE McVOY
Associate Sports Editor

It's the halfway mark of the season and the Belles are looking to start over. After finishing the first half of the MIAA season with a 1-6 record, the Saint Mary's volleyball team is ready to turn things around and start bringing home victories.

"A win tonight is incredibly important," head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek said. "It could really set the pace, raise the confidence and the thing is I know (the team) can do it."

Tonight the 2-11 Belles will take on the Britons of Albion (3-4 MIAA, 12-7 overall) on the road for the second time this season. Albion was Saint Mary's first MIAA match-up of the season in early September and the inexperienced Belles team fell to the Britons 3-1 in four very close games. Now, with half a season of experience, Saint Mary's is looking to turn things around.

"We played [Albion] so early we hadn't really had a good sense of our offense yet," Schroeder-Biek said.

The Belles have settled into a consistent 6-2 offense since those early season games. However, with the recent season-ending injury of leading player Angie Meyers, they have still had to make adjustments.

Freshman Alison Shevik moved to the right side to Andrea Bella. The Belles have played three games with this new configuration and seem to be adjusting.

"We've worked through [the new configuration] at practice and it seems to be coming off," Schroeder-Biek said. "It's difficult.

"We've worked through [the new configuration] at practice and it seems to be coming more natural for them," Schroeder-Biek said. "Early in the season, the Belles fell behind quickly in the game and had difficulties recovering. Ineffective communication was key in the early losses and is something Saint Mary's will be focusing on in tonight's contest.

"We have to come out and play strong at the beginning," Dineen said. "The more we talk, the better we do."

During Saturday's victory over Rochester, Saint Mary's played a quick offense that gave the team early leads in all three games. With an MIAA win on the line, that early lead would be important and the Belles are looking for ways to keep that offense running.

"We did a lot of serve receive [in practice] so we have good passes." Dineen said. "If they serve we want to have a good pass to the setter so we can have a quick offense."

Albion is currently on a season-long four-game winning streak. However, coming off of a win themselves on Saturday, the Belles are confident in their ability to play, even though they will face the Britons on the road.

"(Traveling) doesn't really have a big impact on them," Schroeder-Biek said. "(A win) always feels good."

Action gets underway tonight at 7 p.m. at Kresge Gym at Alma.

Contact Katie McVoy at mcvo5605@saintmarys.edu.

Freshman Michelle Gary blocks the ball down in a recent match. After a rough beginning to the season that saw a 1-6 campaign, Saint Mary's looks to secure more victories in the second half of their 2001 season.
FOURTH AND INCHES

TOM KEELEY

THE THREE-STEP APPROACH FOR ANSWERING DIFFICULT TEST QUESTIONS

1. Look down in desperation.
2. Look up for inspiration.
3. Look around for information.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

19Good thing to break
20Relative of TACK
21ANSWERS TO DIFFICULT TEST QUESTIONS

FOX Trot

IT DEFENDS

THERE ARE LIKE CLASS IN HERE HOW DO YOU KNOW WHICH ONE TO USE?

SHAKE UP A LITTLE

GENERALY THE LONGER THE CLUB THE FAIHER YOU CAN HIT THE BALL.

BILL AMEND

UM ARE YOU SURE YOU DON'T HAVE THAT BACKWARD?

THANKS FOR THE GUITAR LESSONS MOM. I’LL BE REALIZING MY DREAM OF SEX WITH MULTIPLE PARTNERS AND ILICIT DRUG USE IN NO TIME.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. "Enough already!"
2. Hollywood quotation
3. Mail chimp, with "the"
4. 1844-Verdi work
5. Look... (visit)
6. Took mess
7. Getting a raise, maybe
8. Toast, is a chum
9. Good thing to break
10. Relative of Capri pants
11. Like a triathlete
12. Jim Davis dog
13. 1968 Arabia Franklin hit
14. Mussi morsel
15. "Bye" words?
16. 33 Muesli morsel
17. "Enough break"
18. The quadruped already!

DOWN

1. Proof ender
2. 62 Like thank-yous
3. Snap up
4. Vegetarian stuff
5. Small soldiers
6. Stared stupidly
7. Company built on the profits of Pong
8. Intricately
9. Attach
10. Cheat, strongly
11. "Armchair"!
12. Playful turn
13. Poll plank
14. "Star Wars" critic
15. Miss breakfast,
16. Movie in the "M"-series
17. "... and go!"
18. 54 Starbucks hardware
19. President's aide
20. Snoopy's topper
21. Movo starter
22. 7948-49 Berlin event
23. "like crossword"
24. "Do Ya" rock grp.
25. "Birthday Baby"
26. 32 Former Sen.
27. "Answering difficult test questions please God...
28. "Remember Dang IT!!"
29. Iran-contra
30. Having a lot to lose?
31. Small soldiers
32. Norwegian competitor
33. Intrinsically
34. Company built on the profits of Pong
35. "Like crossword"
36. Scandinavian currency
37. 60 Memo starter
38. Baseball Hall-of-Famer Conlan
39. 51 14-Across, e.g.
40. Mardi Gras currency
41. Robber's N.D.
42. Fortune profile
43. "Primordial stuff"
44. "No..."
45. "Do Ya" rock grp.
46. "Like crossword"
47. "Answering difficult test questions please God...
48. "Remember Dang IT!!"
49. "Like crossword"
50. "Birthday Baby"
51. "Like crossword"
52. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
53. "Birthday Baby"
54. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
55. "Birthday Baby"
56. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
57. "Birthday Baby"
58. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
59. "Birthday Baby"
60. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
61. "Birthday Baby"
62. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
63. "Birthday Baby"
64. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
65. "Birthday Baby"
66. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
67. "Birthday Baby"
68. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
69. "Birthday Baby"
70. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
71. "Birthday Baby"
72. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
73. "Birthday Baby"
74. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
75. "Birthday Baby"
76. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
77. "Birthday Baby"
78. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
79. "Birthday Baby"
80. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
81. "Birthday Baby"
82. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
83. "Birthday Baby"
84. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
85. "Birthday Baby"
86. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
87. "Birthday Baby"
88. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
89. "Birthday Baby"
90. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
91. "Birthday Baby"
92. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
93. "Birthday Baby"
94. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
95. "Birthday Baby"
96. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
97. "Birthday Baby"
98. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."
99. "Birthday Baby"
100. "Answering difficult test questions please God..."

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

1. Look down in desperation.
2. Look up for inspiration.
3. Look around for information.

FOOTNOTE

Visit The Observer on the web at http://observernd.edu/
Irish netters ground Rockets

♦ Notre Dame finally subdues Toledo in a marathon 5-game match

By NOAH AMSTADTER
Sports Editor

It wasn't a test they expected, but the Irish volleyball team passed with flying colors. Notre Dame's five-game victory (29-31, 30-25, 30-17, 27-30, 15-11) at Toledo on Tuesday night marked the first time an Irish match has gone to five games since the NCAA switched to a rally-scoring system this season. The unranked Rockets (7-4) gave the No. 22 Irish more than the visitors bargained for.

"We definitely got a good challenge," said Notre Dame head Brown

Irish defensive specialist Keara Coughlin passes the ball against Nebraska Sept. 8. No. 22 Notre Dame needed five games to finally dispatch Toledo Tuesday night, the Irish's first five-game match this year.

SMC Soccer

Belles to face Bulldogs

♦ SMC will travel for first time in a month, eager to prove skills against Adrian

By KATRINA KALASKY
Sports Writer

The Belles hit the road today for the first time in a month to take on Adrian College. Saint Mary's has played the last seven games on their own field and are eager to test their skills on the road.

"It's exciting to finally travel as a team," junior captain Lynn Taylor said. "We usually play well with them and we have the opportunity to win today."

Adrian is currently in eighth place in the MIAA conference with a record of 3-8. They only have two returning seniors along with nine freshmen on the team this year. The Belles' main source of trouble will be senior Beth Amman. She is the Bulldog's leading scorer and is on this week's MIAA offensive honor roll. The Bulldogs are led by head coach Rick Gutierrez and sophomore Wendy Irvin, who is in his fourth season with the Bulldogs. Despite their 4-1 loss on Saturday to Albion, the Belles feel fairly confident going into the game. "We beat Adrian twice last year so we're going in with a lot of confidence," said sophomore Wendy Irvin. Adding to Saint Mary's self-assurance, freshman Jen Cocannon was named the MIAA's player of the week.

"The system is working ... I'm happy with the way the girls are playing."

Bobby Johnston
Belles coach

The Belles are also coming out of a successful week winning three of their four games. "This game will be a really good preparation for Saturday when we play Hope," said junior Heather Muth. "They [Hope] barely beat us earlier in the season and we hope to beat them this time around."

Coach Bobby Johnston does not plan on changing the Belles' game plan. "The system is working," said coach Johnston. "I'm happy with the way the girls are playing. We're going to go in with a good attitude and we're ready for the second half of the season. If we play well and have a good mentalty, we can win this one."

The game is at 4 p.m. at Adrian College.

FOOTBALL

Davie hopes cheers drown out Panthers

By MIKE CONNOLLY
Sports Writer

Bob Davie wants Notre Dame Stadium to be a loud, hostile environment Saturday when the Pittsburg Panthers visit. He wants the Pitt offense to have trouble communicating at the line of scrimmage. Davie was named the MIAA's player of the week.

"If they boo, make sure they boo when Pittsburgh is at the line of scrimmage, trying to change those plays," Davie said.

Offensive tackle Kurt Vollers shares Davie's outlook on the booing. "Hopefully they can boo us when the opposing offense is on the field to get them riled up," he said.

Vollers said he understands why the fans are booing but at the same time, it hurts to get booed.

"I can't say I blame them."

see FOOTBALL/page15

ND Women's Volleyball

Irish netters ground Rockets

♦ Notre Dame finally subdues Toledo in a marathon 5-game match

By NOAH AMSTADTER
Sports Editor

It wasn't a test they expected, but the Irish volleyball team passed with flying colors. Notre Dame's five-game victory (29-31, 30-25, 30-17, 27-30, 15-11) at Toledo on Tuesday night marked the first time an Irish match has gone to five games since the NCAA switched to a rally-scoring system this season. The unranked Rockets (7-4) gave the No. 22 Irish more than the visitors bargained for.

"We definitely got a good challenge," said Notre Dame head Brown

Irish defensive specialist Keara Coughlin passes the ball against Nebraska Sept. 8. No. 22 Notre Dame needed five games to finally dispatch Toledo Tuesday night, the Irish's first five-game match this year.

SMC Soccer

Belles to face Bulldogs

♦ SMC will travel for first time in a month, eager to prove skills against Adrian

By KATRINA KALASKY
Sports Writer

The Belles hit the road today for the first time in a month to take on Adrian College. Saint Mary's has played the last seven games on their own field and are eager to test their skills on the road.

"It's exciting to finally travel as a team," junior captain Lynn Taylor said. "We usually play well with them and we have the opportunity to win today."

Adrian is currently in eighth place in the MIAA conference with a record of 3-8. They only have two returning seniors along with nine freshmen on the team this year. The Belles' main source of trouble will be senior Beth Amman. She is the Bulldog's leading scorer and is on this week's MIAA offensive honor roll. The Bulldogs are led by head coach Rick Gutierrez and sophomore Wendy Irvin, who is in his fourth season with the Bulldogs. Despite their 4-1 loss on Saturday to Albion, the Belles feel fairly confident going into the game. "We beat Adrian twice last year so we're going in with a lot of confidence," said sophomore Wendy Irvin. Adding to Saint Mary's self-assurance, freshman Jen Cocannon was named the MIAA's player of the week.

"The system is working ... I'm happy with the way the girls are playing."

Bobby Johnston
Belles coach

The Belles are also coming out of a successful week winning three of their four games. "This game will be a really good preparation for Saturday when we play Hope," said junior Heather Muth. "They [Hope] barely beat us earlier in the season and we hope to beat them this time around."

Coach Bobby Johnston does not plan on changing the Belles' game plan. "The system is working," said coach Johnston. "I'm happy with the way the girls are playing. We're going to go in with a good attitude and we're ready for the second half of the season. If we play well and have a good mentalty, we can win this one."

The game is at 4 p.m. at Adrian College.

FOOTBALL

Davie hopes cheers drown out Panthers

By MIKE CONNOLLY
Sports Writer

Bob Davie wants Notre Dame Stadium to be a loud, hostile environment Saturday when the Pittsburg Panthers visit. He wants the Pitt offense to have trouble communicating at the line of scrimmage. Davie was named the MIAA's player of the week.

"If they boo, make sure they boo when Pittsburgh is at the line of scrimmage, trying to change those plays," Davie said.

Offensive tackle Kurt Vollers shares Davie's outlook on the booing. "Hopefully they can boo us when the opposing offense is on the field to get them riled up," he said.

Vollers said he understands why the fans are booing but at the same time, it hurts to get booed.

"I can't say I blame them."

see FOOTBALL/page15

ND Women's Volleyball

Irish netters ground Rockets

♦ Notre Dame finally subdues Toledo in a marathon 5-game match

By NOAH AMSTADTER
Sports Editor

It wasn't a test they expected, but the Irish volleyball team passed with flying colors. Notre Dame's five-game victory (29-31, 30-25, 30-17, 27-30, 15-11) at Toledo on Tuesday night marked the first time an Irish match has gone to five games since the NCAA switched to a rally-scoring system this season. The unranked Rockets (7-4) gave the No. 22 Irish more than the visitors bargained for.

"We definitely got a good challenge," said Notre Dame head Brown

Irish defensive specialist Keara Coughlin passes the ball against Nebraska Sept. 8. No. 22 Notre Dame needed five games to finally dispatch Toledo Tuesday night, the Irish's first five-game match this year.

SMC Soccer

Belles to face Bulldogs

♦ SMC will travel for first time in a month, eager to prove skills against Adrian

By KATRINA KALASKY
Sports Writer

The Belles hit the road today for the first time in a month to take on Adrian College. Saint Mary's has played the last seven games on their own field and are eager to test their skills on the road.

"It's exciting to finally travel as a team," junior captain Lynn Taylor said. "We usually play well with them and we have the opportunity to win today."

Adrian is currently in eighth place in the MIAA conference with a record of 3-8. They only have two returning seniors along with nine freshmen on the team this year. The Belles' main source of trouble will be senior Beth Amman. She is the Bulldog's leading scorer and is on this week's MIAA offensive honor roll. The Bulldogs are led by head coach Rick Gutierrez and sophomore Wendy Irvin, who is in his fourth season with the Bulldogs. Despite their 4-1 loss on Saturday to Albion, the Belles feel fairly confident going into the game. "We beat Adrian twice last year so we're going in with a lot of confidence," said sophomore Wendy Irvin. Adding to Saint Mary's self-assurance, freshman Jen Cocannon was named the MIAA's player of the week.

"The system is working ... I'm happy with the way the girls are playing."

Bobby Johnston
Belles coach

The Belles are also coming out of a successful week winning three of their four games. "This game will be a really good preparation for Saturday when we play Hope," said junior Heather Muth. "They [Hope] barely beat us earlier in the season and we hope to beat them this time around."

Coach Bobby Johnston does not plan on changing the Belles' game plan. "The system is working," said coach Johnston. "I'm happy with the way the girls are playing. We're going to go in with a good attitude and we're ready for the second half of the season. If we play well and have a good mentalty, we can win this one."

The game is at 4 p.m. at Adrian College.

FOOTBALL

Davie hopes cheers drown out Panthers

By MIKE CONNOLLY
Sports Writer

Bob Davie wants Notre Dame Stadium to be a loud, hostile environment Saturday when the Pittsburg Panthers visit. He wants the Pitt offense to have trouble communicating at the line of scrimmage. Davie was named the MIAA's player of the week.

"If they boo, make sure they boo when Pittsburgh is at the line of scrimmage, trying to change those plays," Davie said.

Offensive tackle Kurt Vollers shares Davie's outlook on the booing. "Hopefully they can boo us when the opposing offense is on the field to get them riled up," he said.

Vollers said he understands why the fans are booing but at the same time, it hurts to get booed.

"I can't say I blame them."

see FOOTBALL/page15