A Drama of the Fourteenth Century.

ACT THIRD—Scene II.

The same.

(Gather Gusman, in a shuffling manner.)

GUSMAN. Stay! stay, a moment, sporting pages. Softly! softly! Your noise disturbs the whole household, and you deserve a severe rebuke.

GENSANO. The occasion calls for some latitude, good Gusman. We were making merry with our new companion. He is a brave lad, and his address bespeaks a generous and gracious welcome on our part.

GUSMAN. Verily! but you were frightened with your clatter and bawling. What! such nonsense as this to make him merry?

AMITUS. We sang of war, dear Gusman.

GUSMAN. Bah! you! A streling babbling of battles! Sartrius. Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GUSMAN. A treasure trove, I declare! He little compares with you then.

GENSANO. Gusman! you are severe. You taught us to be gentle. In what have we displeased you?

BELAROSA. Praise do not blame them, kind sir; it was all on my account, and I am the offender.

GUSMAN. I must scold those pages, who think of nothing but rough sports—who forsake everything for arrow-shooting, and care naught for Gusman’s instruction.

GENSANO. We! pray, dear preceptor, do not think so harshly of us. (They grow sad.)

GUSMAN. Well, well, think no more of it. In faith I was but jesting; furthermore, I bring you good news—for this morning, at least, you will not abandon me.

SERVITIUS. What has happened, dear Gusman?

GUSMAN. Well, well, tell me! The clarion which you have just heard is the call of the Duke’s guards. The Court is about to assemble; heralds have been sent in all directions; the barons, knights and squires are all summoned to the palace.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit Gusman, etc.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unmercifully! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unmercifully! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unmercifully! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unmercifully! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unmercifully! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.

GENSANO. Sleep there, ye implements of battle; we go to more harmless encounter. (Exit all but BELAROSA.)

BELAROSA. The Duke now regrets the gift of his fine cities and princely domains, so rashly promised—to me, a poor lad of the mountains, raised on the hard fare of huntsmen. Were I a prince he might plead that as an excuse—but I, a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly; or should free him from his princely obligation! I would absolve him, were it not for my father. It was for my father I undertook the perilous journey,—for him I fought for power and glory. Had I fallen under the arrows of the enemy, he would have lost all—his only son. But I triumphed, and the prize is mine—or rather my father’s, for whom I won it. Yet how is it mine or his? I must disown him, said the Duke, while I remain at Court. Not own my father! He thinks it a snare, perhaps, into which I am sure to fall. Ha, ha! as if my father were a peasant boy, should have staked my life unreservedly! Indeed the stranger is well drilled in our games; you will find him a true knight.
LABRISSE. Aye, and oftentimes dukes and kings are played decoys by fortune, losing in one hour the fruits of many hard-fought campaigns.

LABRISSE. Bah! Little you know the Duke if you imagine that such thoughts disturb his mind. Marry, the Duke will think but of pleasing you. To plan conquests and secure victories, as you well know, is not his forte—except indeed in the festive hall, when toasts are given by his knights; yes, then indeed over many a bristly ale he was wont to deviseth the victory. But to-day, plague on my stupid brain, I know not from what he suffers—some unknown sorrow oppresses him.

HERISS. Now he is inflexible—resistance on our part would be folly.

LABRISSE. (to lords.) I tremble with rage when I think of the outrage! This youth's blood shall wash out our disgrace. But we must disguise our sentiments.

GONTRAND. Yes, let us conceal our feelings for the time—but where is the fortunate youth?

LABRISSE. Could it be the young minstrel? Indeed I think it likely.

DUKE. The boy will be introduced to you, for I intend to present him to the Court presently. His is a gentle character; and, to my own confusion, I must declare that no one ever lived more obedient to his father's wishes.

LABRISSE. His father! (Aside.) Humph! His father may be here; now prudence again is my motto.

LABRISSE. May we know his lineage, my prince?

GONTRAND. Trust us, my lord Duke; we shall not fail in our duty.

DUKE. Yes, you were ever true to me, and you will not disapprove of my conduct when you learn my motive. Know ye then, my noble lords, that all your conquests have been bartered away, pawed by your Duke. GUSMAN. Good heavens! there is life! All. What words are these! 'Treason! treason! Duke. Aye, aye, my lords, these words sound strange to you. I have not forgotten that on the eve of the battle which surrounded, and all communication with our main army was cut off. Three of my messengers had been already killed—in truth, we seemed doomed to slaughter on the morrow. (Agitation.) In this extremity, as I walked alone at midnight, seekingistance from my tent, a last trusty messenger, who failed to come, I suddenly espied a youth whose martial bearing on the rocks above me struck me with surprise. A glimpse of hope flashed on my mind. I called to him, and thinking it then a futile promise, I made over to him, on my word of honor, all the conquests dependent on an unhoped for victory (agitation.)

GONTRAND. (Hiss! listen, listen.) Duke provided he on his part would bear a message through the enemy's lines. The youth was fortunate; the message was delivered—and you know the rest.

LABRISSE. But, my lord Duke—

GONTRAND. The youth is safe; let it stand good, let him be received as a prince. Here he comes. (Aside.) LABRISSE. I am safe. My lords, I shall keep my promise. (Aloud.) LABRISSE. (to lords.) I tremble with rage when I think of the outrage! This youth's blood shall wash out our disgrace. But we must disguise our sentiments.

GONTRAND. Yes, let us conceal our feelings for the time—but where is the fortunate youth?

LABRISSE. Could it be the young minstrel? Indeed I think it likely.

DUKE. The boy will be introduced to you, for I intend to present him to the Court presently. His is a gentle character; and, to my own confusion, I must declare that no one ever lived more obedient to his father's wishes.

LABRISSE. His father! (Aside.) Humph! His father may be here; now prudence again is my motto.

LABRISSE. May we know his lineage, my prince?

GONTRAND. How so, my illustrious prince! the son estranged from his father!

DUKE. Even so, my lords. On this condition alone can the youth claim the benefit of my rash promise. I reserved this, which he accepted rashly too, methinks, for he seems a youth of much kindness of heart.

GONTRAND. And the condition was—

DUKE. That he should never own his father in this Court.

GONTRAND. 'Tis a blasphemous promise.

LABRISSE. The unnatural wretch!

LABRISSE. My lord Duke, such perfidy will destroy all sense of filial love throughout the dukedom.

DUKE. (thoughtfully.) I never thought of this! Indeed you speak but truly; but the act, though he commits it, is not his fault. LABRISSE. Something must be contrived—yes, I have it. (Aside.) This will mend all, and we shall be avenged.

LABRISSE. What plan do you devise, my lord Duke?

DUKE. Very ingenious.

LAFERE. May we know his lineage, my prince?

LABRISSE. Is it not his?—some unknown sorrow oppresses him.

LABRISSE. Shall we propose only what is just and honorable? Since he is to be a prince on condition, why not change the condition? surely this is fair.

LABRISSE. Very fair, indeed. Proceed.

DUKE. Fair, if honest—but your condition?

LABRISSE. The very reverse of the former. Once a prince, should he disown his parent, let him forfeit all, even his life, in punishment of filial ingratitude. If, on the contrary, he proves a true son, forsook his exalted state for love of his humble sire, then let him be proclaimed a model prince, as well as a worthy son.

COURTIER. The plan is not bad.

LABRISSE. Very ingenious.

DUKE. I approve the scheme—it will serve the better to prove his virtue. Well contrived, I declare! (Aside.) It satisfies my courtiers, and I shall know how to protect the youth. I breathe freely, my honor is now safe.

LABRISSE. (to courtiers.) Of this stratagem let no one inform the youth.

LABRISSE. Aye! We speak but the truth. Duke. Does he dare? And, my lord, would you yield?

LABRISSE. Will they revolt? (Aloud.) My word is pledged, my lords. The youth's boldness changes not the case—wehe a babe, my word should be none the less sacred. But yesterday you considered it so, my lords.

LABRISSE. What is to be done? Shall we make no protest? (All much agitated.) LABRISSE. A most embarrassing case—puts us all in a predicament. I was a model prince, as well as a worthy son.

LABRISSE. Aye! We speak but the truth. Duke. Does he dare? And, my lord, would you yield?

LABRISSE. Will they revolt? (Aloud.) My word is pledged, my lords. The youth's boldness changes not the case—wehe a babe, my word should be none the less sacred. But yesterday you considered it so, my lords.

LABRISSE. What is to be done? Shall we make no protest? (All much agitated.) LABRISSE. A most embarrassing case—puts us all in a predicament. I was a model prince, as well as a worthy son.
The Scholastic.

(All bow respectfully as Bellarosa enters, preceded by soldiers and pages, the Duke looking on. Bellarosa approaches the Duke and kisses his hand.)

Theodobert. (to Bois Robert.) What power there is in a name! A prince's advent casts its spell over the whole court.

Bois Robert. A thrill of adulation has passed through every courtier's heart.

Duke. Welcome, illustrious youth, welcome to our royal Court. (Bellara on throne). Behold we have assembled in our great hall, to receive you as befits your dignity. (To Courtiers.) My lords, behold the savior of the State, and the winner of our victory! (all bow).

Lairisse. Noble youth, your fame has preceded you here. You have won an imperishable name, which no honors, however great, can fitly adorn. (Aside) We must flatter him. (Movements among the Archers: Theodobert looks on intently.)

Pages. He a prince! a real prince! Bellarosa.

I am overwhelmed with this unspeakable honor. May your gracious welcome, my lords, prompt me to virtuous and heroic actions. Pardon this feeble expression of my feelings—I am bewildered by this unwonted splendor and pageantry.

Duke. It is what will daily greet your vision; for henceforth you are a royal prince, on whom half the realm depends. (Bellarosa pensive.)

Theodobert. (to Bois Robert.) Bois Robert! Bois Robert! tell me who is this? (Bois Robert looks around inquiringly.)

Bellarosa. (in a revery.) Half the realm! Bois Robert. (to Theodobert.) Who do you mean? the prince? (Looks at Bellarosa.)

Duke. All our conquests are yours—and they would befit an emperor. (Bellarosa still lost in thought.)

Theodobert. Is it not Bellarosa? my boy!

Bois Robert. His look, his voice, are wonderfully like—but no, no!—it could not be.

Bellarosa. And the condition: I must not recognize—in this palace—

Theodobert. Hearkest thou what he says?—listen.

Duke. As agreed upon. (Aside) Now Heaven help him!

Lairisse (to Courtiers) What will he do?

Gontrand. If he is a true son, he will refuse the tempting bait.

Bellarosa. (Aside) If I refuse the condition I reject all! I become Bellarosa once more, a poor wanderer on the mountain, without a shelter or a friend. 0 my father, what shall I do? Why not accept? There is nothing risked. My father shall never know of this bitter trial, and I shall make him very happy and great. (Aside) I accept the condition, my lord Duke.

Duke. Then, my lords, behold your prince, our future heir, to whom henceforth you must pledge knighthood allegiance.

Lords. (With raised swords) So help us God.

Duke. And you, my trusty archers, you answer for his life on your own.

Archers. (With raised swords.) We swear it.

(Theodobert alone fails to raise his hand.)

Lairisse. (Coming from the throne.) Did'st thou not hear the order of the Duke? Swear allegiance to the prince.

Theodobert. I swore it long ere this, my lord (raises his hand).

Bellarosa (in amazement) Great God, it is my father! (Curtain drops.)

[End of Third Act.]
It gives us great pleasure to hear that Brother Vincent is going to accompany Very Rev. Father General on the Pilgrimage to Rome and Lourdes. More than thirty years ago Brother Vincent accompanied Father Sorin when he first came to America. It is a fitting tribute to the many virtues and long labors of Brother Vincent that he should now go with Father General to Rome and Lourdes. We are a thousand times more pleased at his going than if we were going ourselves, and we hope he will remember us at Lourdes and at the tomb of the Apostles.

Class Honors.

We cannot publish the Class Honors this week, as so many were absent from the meeting of the Faculty on Thursday that a just selection could not be made. I know that such absence, though much to be regretted, when it does occur, is in most cases unavoidable, and hence I would not be understood as blaming those who were absent on Thursday. Yet as it is very desirable that the regular weekly reports should not be interrupted; any Professor or teacher who foresees that he cannot be present at the regular meeting, will please hand to me on Wednesday evening or Thursday morning the names of such pupils as his as should be excluded from the list of Class Honors. This will obviate the difficulty and insure correctness in the reports. Class Honors for next week in the Preparatory Department.

M. B. B. Brown, C. S. C., Director of Studies.

Our System of Graduation.

Adopted June 10, 1873.

[We republish, for the information of our present Graduating Class, and of others interested, the system of Graduation adopted last year, and which will be strictly adhered to this year as well as last.]

It may be a matter of curiosity to some, and of deep interest to others, to know the system adopted by the several Faculties for determining the worthiness or unworthiness of candidates for Degrees, and for their gratification or instruction we give the following explanation:

First, in order that one may be recognized as a candidate, it must be known to the proper Faculty that he has pursued all the studies marked in the Course in which he purposes taking Degrees. This being ascertained to be the case, the following system is observed:

All the candidates for Degrees are examined in their several studies, both in writing and orally. For the Written Examination, the matter of which is assigned by the Director of Studies, they receive, in each study, from the examiner, after a thorough investigation of their work, a certain percentage according to their merit. This percentage, together with the written compositions on which it was calculated, is placed in the hands of the Director of Studies, that he may, if thought advisable, review the work of each student and satisfy himself that the percentage was fairly given. For the Oral Examination, which takes place before the respective Faculties, a secretary keeps record of the number of questions proposed and the number correctly answered, from which he calculates the percentage to which the candidate is entitled in each branch of study. This is also placed in the hands of the Director of Studies, who then makes out the average percentage of each candidate for both Examinations.

The Examinations over, the Faculty assembles, when each Professor, without knowing the average percentage of any of the candidates, votes each of them, in each study in which he had him under instruction, that percentage of which he judges him worthy, from his knowledge of his ability and proficiency. This last percentage is then added to the two others and the average again taken. If the final average is 80 or above, the candidate is admitted for Degrees; if it is below 80 and above 75, the President has discretionary power to admit the candidate to Degrees, provided his superior proficiency in some special branch is judged sufficient to counterbalance his deficiency in others. If, however, the percentage falls below 75, the candidate is rejected till such time as he has made up for his deficiency. According to this system, it is believed that a more correct appreciation of the candidate's real merit may be formed than in any other way, and the student who receives his Degrees under this arrangement may feel satisfied that he has won them, and not obtained them by favor.

Alumni Meeting.

There will be a meeting of the resident Alumni, on Sunday evening, the 11th inst., at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

D. A. Clarke, Sec'y.

Subscriptions to the New Tabernacle.

[CONTINUED]

Mr. John Pottmeyer.................................................. $5.00
Mrs B. Berghoff, East Saginaw, Michigan................ 5 00
[TO BE CONTINUED]

Publications.

The May number of this excellent magazine contains an Instruction for the Sixth Sunday after Easter; a Sermon for Whit-Sunday, and one for Whit-Monday; a Sermon for Trinity Sunday; a Sermon for Corpus Christi, and one for the 2d Sunday after Pentecost; a Sermon for the Feast of the Most Sacred Heart of our Blessed Redeemer, one for the Feast of St. Antony of Padua, and one for the 3d Sunday after Pentecost. The Appendix contains a Short Instruction on May Devotions.

Peters Musical Journal for May contains its usual...

The Young Catholic for May has many interesting stories for its little readers. The Catholic Publication Society, 9 Warren st, New York.

Roll of Honor.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1874.

SENIOR DEPARTMENT.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

MINIM DEPARTMENT.

Letter from Austin, Texas.

We were hugely pleased at receiving a good long letter from Rev. Father Spillard, a portion of which we think will be almost as interesting to our readers as it was to us. We hope to hear from him often, and our hopes are well founded, for "Doc" has promised to write to us, and he always keeps his promises—which is saying a good deal for "Doc," more than we can say of some other friends who have a facility of forgetfulness that is really surprising. We hope to hear from him often, and our hopes are well grounded.

As ever, your friend,

D. J. S.

Circulating Library.

Persons having books for a longer period than two weeks will please return them to the Library. Many persons have thought themselves privileged to carry away books, even to a distance; such persons—especially those who borrowed volumes last vacation—will please return them.

J. F. Edwards, Librarian.

All Around.

We had a May-King.

Fishing and hunting are all the rage.

Base-ball is not quite as lively as it was.

Quoet-pitching has been revived by the Seniors.

Hand-Ball is lively every evening after supper.

The stoves have been removed from the Church.

The trees are beginning to put forth their leaves. About time.

The Juniors have now a fine walk all around their play-grounds.

A mechanics' base-ball nine is spoken of. We hope to see a good one.

Mr. Bonsney is doing a lively business. He takes very good unit-types.

Students are reviewing and studying up for the Examination.

Finer fine day of May was Thursday; St. Mary's recreation day takes the palm.

N. S. Mitchell and his charming young bride spent three days with us last week.

Prof. Howard's family was increased by twins last week.

We offer the Professor our congratulations.

The first linen coat was seen the other day. Wouldn't we laugh if that fellow who wore it would be caught in a snow-storm!

The Minims enjoyed a feast of oranges not long since.

They were the gift of Very Rev. Father General, who is ever mindful of his grateful Minims.

The telegraph-poles between the College and the Novitiate, imbued with the spirit of Spring, are sprouting out and getting quite foliaceous.

A game of base-ball was played on Wednesday between the Star of the East and the Jilianita Base-ball Clubs in which the latter came out victorious by a score of 53 to 33.

The Thespians are beginning to plan for Commencement Day. They have not yet determined on any play, but it is thought, as they have been requested to do so, that they will reproduce "Waiting for the Verdict."

South Bend's city election took place last Tuesday; the Republicans elected their entire ticket with the exception of Mayor, City Judge, and one Councilman, who were chosen from the People's ticket.

The Minims gave Father General a little reception on his return from Texas. They invited him over to their study-hall, where they read an address of welcome to Mm. return from Texas. They invited him over to their study-hall, where they read an address of welcome to their guest. The Minims gave Father General a little reception on his return from Texas. They invited him over to their study-hall, where they read an address of welcome to their guest.

Juniors' yard. It is hoped that they will not experience rough treatment from the hands of the Juniors; a few years ago, when they had fine trees there, they were accustomed to play monkey and climb up into them, thereby killing them.

Will some of the little folks tell us what the following lines mean:

If B. mt put:

If B. putting:

Stand' take to taking.

If you throw my Alcomirozropoulolplousountipignac.*

Indeed it was funny to see "Scientific" vaunting a few little words like "hypoblast," "splanchnopleure," "pleuroperitoneal," "thalamencephalon," etc.; they are no doubt Brodignagians to him, but what will he think of the following, which we came across a few days ago? We advise him, though, not to read them before his dinner. Here they are:

"Anastachuratadivatathaha." (Sanscrit work. See "Trub. of the Literary Record.")

"Batrachomyomachia" (Battle of the Frogs and Mice).—A Greek mock heroic.

"Jungfruezenzimmer durchschindsuchfoedtungsgesegnewien.

(German.)

"Nitropheneledasamine."—A dye of an intense red color.

"Clammatardisarchides." (Planus.)

"Honitricablittudinitatibus."—Called the longest word in the English (?) language.

"Thon art not so long by the head as honorificabilitudinitatibus."—Shakespeare,—"Love's Labor's Lost," Vol. I.

"Don Juan Nepomuceno de Burioniagonatotorecazeochoa." An employed in the Finance Department, Madrid, 1867.

"Swapanacharivinamansatrotat." (Sanskrit.)

We can imagine "Scientific" saying about this time—"Oh! give us a rest!" Well, here:

"Lepidotematochoschegoleokrananietroponotrimptomirnatokeleiposkopophattoperisteralekraunotecgekephalokikklepeloiolooitropanekphetraganopterogun."—The longest word extant. (169 Greek letters and 77 syllables.)—Aristophanes, "Ekkliesia souna."

Tell your printer, Mr. Editor, not to get excited.

Longfellow Columbianus.

* The giantess.

A schoolmistress, while taking down the names and ages of her pupils, and the names of their parents, at the beginning of the term, asked one little fellow: "What's your father's name?" "Oh, you needn't take down his name; he's too old to go to school to a woman," was the reply.

A man at Bridgeport, Conn., has named his two canaries "Wheeler" and "Wilson," because neither of them is a "Singer." The only historical parallel for this case is offered by the old farmer who called his rooster Robinson, because Robinson Crusoe.

A Honolulu paper says, in regard to our financial panic: "O Kamiwai no ka ola i ma 0 ke ku ana a hoopiku he eho hoohole Americanui e ac hina i na one kanaka, oia hoi na hoale me na hawaii e kamailio inma o na halawai la; na hoohola ia mea." There doesn't occur to us at present any objection to be offered to those views.
Christmas Collection of 1873, for the Orphan Asylum of the Diocese of Fort Wayne.

Additional for 1873.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>City</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>New Haven</td>
<td>$54.79</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mufflin's Mission</td>
<td>3.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Christmas Collection for 1872.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>City</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne, Cathedral</td>
<td>400.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot; St. Mary's</td>
<td>291.33</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lafayette, St. Mary's</td>
<td>233.77</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot; Sisters' School</td>
<td>10.40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>&quot; St. Boniface</td>
<td>303.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Valparaiso</td>
<td>300.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logansport, St. Vincent's</td>
<td>165.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crawfordsville</td>
<td>33.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Huntington</td>
<td>93.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>South Bend</td>
<td>111.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. John's, Lake Co.</td>
<td>111.27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michigan City</td>
<td>111.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New Haven</td>
<td>107.76</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michigan</td>
<td>94.15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Peru</td>
<td>81.03</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Logansport, St. Joseph's</td>
<td>76.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fort Wayne, St. Paul's</td>
<td>76.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson</td>
<td>67.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Decatur</td>
<td>65.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laporte, St. Joseph's</td>
<td>63.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Plymouth</td>
<td>60.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Laporte, St. Peter's</td>
<td>60.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Union City</td>
<td>59.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Elkhart</td>
<td>54.41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arcola</td>
<td>39.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cedar Lake and West Creek</td>
<td>39.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fulton and Harrison</td>
<td>50.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notre Dame</td>
<td>46.15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Avilla</td>
<td>44.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fellwell</td>
<td>41.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Warsaw</td>
<td>40.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dryer</td>
<td>38.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hesse Cassel</td>
<td>36.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lagro</td>
<td>35.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Angola</td>
<td>33.17</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Keating</td>
<td>32.68</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia City</td>
<td>32.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Crown Point</td>
<td>31.35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oxford City</td>
<td>31.35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Delphie</td>
<td>30.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Besancon</td>
<td>29.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Oys</td>
<td>28.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leipsic</td>
<td>24.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Pierre and Missions</td>
<td>23.15</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kokomo</td>
<td>21.35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Girardot</td>
<td>17.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Vincent's, Allen Co.</td>
<td>17.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chesterton</td>
<td>17.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kenedyville</td>
<td>17.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rensselaer</td>
<td>16.40</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monroeville</td>
<td>16.25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bluffton Roads</td>
<td>15.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Anthony's</td>
<td>15.07</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bie's Settlement</td>
<td>14.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Catherine's, Whitley Co.</td>
<td>13.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Turkey Creek</td>
<td>13.65</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pierceton</td>
<td>13.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St. Mary's Home</td>
<td>13.35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rockford</td>
<td>12.25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Norwalk</td>
<td>10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sheboygan</td>
<td>10.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rochester</td>
<td>9.75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gibbon</td>
<td>7.50</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lake Station</td>
<td>4.45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clark's Hill</td>
<td>2.30</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colfax</td>
<td>1.60</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dispositions</td>
<td>0.85</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Private Donations.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Amount</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Jesse N. Williams</td>
<td>50.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>N. N. Fort Wayne</td>
<td>50.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rev. E. P. Watters</td>
<td>50.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Susan Schordon</td>
<td>20.00</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Col. Sweeney: 20.00
Robert Fleming: 10.00
N. N. Mishawaka: 4.80
John Counel: 1.00

A few congregations are yet back. It is also worthy of remark that many of the private donations are from non-Catholics.

We also take occasion to announce to the Rev. Clergy of our Diocese that we will leave on our pilgrimage to the Shrines of the Apostles the 10th inst., and that we have appointed during our absence Very Rev. Jos. Rademacher, Administrator of the Diocese, with full powers, assisted by Rev. E. Koenig of Fort Wayne.

† JOSEPH DWENGER,
BISHOP OF FORT WAYNE.

SAINT MARY’S ACADEMY.

St. Mary’s Academy, May 4, 1874.

The past week has been rich in pleasing events. The return of Mother Superior from Austin, Texas, where she has established a branch-house, the inauguration of the Month of May—and the May-Queen Festival—served to create a most joyous spirit.

The intellectual treat afforded by the admirable Lecture on “Philosophy,” by Rev. Father Carrier, and the interesting Lecture on “Astronomy” by Prof. Howard, were highly appreciated. The Rev. lecturer has generously consented to give another Lecture at St. Mary’s during this session.

The last number of the “Aurora” was highly complimented by Very Rev. Father General, who honored the editors by his presence at the reading on last Sunday.

The balloting for “May Queen,” though conducted with greatanimation, was marked by a ladylike decorum that speaks well for the Christian refinement of the young voters.

On counting the votes, Miss Margaret Walker, of Helena, Montana Territory, was found to be the choice of the majority. The announcement was hailed with demonstrations of general satisfaction.

The Juniors and Minims, in their respective departments, imitated the dignified Seniors. The ceremony of inauguration was performed with éclat. The Rev. Chaplain and Superiors of the House honored the occasion by their presence.

The royal personages and their Maids of Honor carried themselves quite regally. The following are the names of the Queen, and their attendants: Misses J. Walker, J. Kearney, N. McEwen, A. Roberts, A. St. Clair, R. McKeever and A. Garies, were Maids of Honor to Queen Margaret:

Miss Lily Germain, Queen of the Juniors, had the following young maidens for her Court: Misses J. Walker, J. Kearney, N. McEwen, A. Roberts, A. St. Clair, R. McKeever and A. Garies, were Maids of Honor to Queen Margaret:

Little Miss Hugh had in her train the following little Minims: Misses J. Walker, J. Kearney, N. McEwen, A. Roberts, A. St. Clair, R. McKeever and A. Garies, were Maids of Honor to Queen Margaret:

Table of Honor.

Senior Dept.

Michigan Central Railroad

Time Table

From and after March 1st, trains on the Michigan Central Railroad leave Niles as follows:

- Night Express, 12:23 a.m.
- Mail, 1:05 a.m.
- Day Express, 11:51 a.m.
- Accommodation, 11:55 a.m.
- Way Freight, 12:00 a.m.
- Evening Express, 11:59 a.m.
- Pacific Express, 5:13 a.m.
- Accommodation, 5:05 a.m.
- Mail, 4:45 p.m.
- Day Express, 2:50 p.m.
- Way Freight, 2:50 p.m.
- AIR LINE DIVISION.
  - Mail, 5:13 a.m.
  - Three Rivers Accommodation, 7:45 a.m.
  - Atlantic Express, 9:09 a.m.
  - Way Freight, 10:30 a.m.
  - Three Rivers Accommodation—Arrive, 11:45 a.m.
  - Mail, 2:50 p.m.
  - Pacific Express, 3:05 p.m.
  - Way Freight, 5:05 p.m.
  - NILES AND SOUTH BEND DIVISION.
    - Leave Niles, 9:20 a.m.
    - Niles—Connects at Niles with trains from Chicago and Michigan City, 5:20 p.m.
    - Niles—Connects with trains from Kalamazoo, Chicago, and Three Rivers, 7:20 a.m.

- GOING EAST.
  - LEAVE BATTLE CREEK, 9:23 a.m.
  - LEAVE YOUNGSTOWN, 5:20 p.m.
  - LEAVE CLEVELAND, 10:47 a.m.

- GOING SOUTH.
  - Pass, 7:25 P.M.
  - Pass, 8:20 P.M.
  - Pass, 9:20 P.M.

Pennsylvania Central Double Track Railroad

PITTSBURGH, FORT WAYNE AND CHICAGO.

Three daily Express Trains, with Pullman’s Palace Cars, are run between Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York without Change.

1st train leaves Chicago 9:00 p.m. Arrives at New York 11:30 a.m.

2nd train leaves Chicago 9:41 a.m. Arrives at New York 11:30 a.m.

3rd train leaves Chicago 11:07 a.m. Arrives at New York 1:47 p.m.

Connections with trains on Atlantic and Great Western Railroad.

- J. M. McCULLOUGH, Gen’l Manager, Pittsburgh.
- B. M. C. CREIGHTON, Assistant Engineer, Pittsburgh.
- D. M. BOYD, Jr., Gen’l Pass and Ticket Agent, Philadelphia.

CHICAGO ALTON AND ST. LOUIS LINE.

Trains leave West Side Union Depot, Chicago, near Madison Street Bridge, as follows:

- LEAVE.
  - ARRIVE.
  - St. Louis and Springfield Express, via Main Line, 8:30 a.m.
  - Kansas City, Fast Express, via Jacksonville, Ill., and Louisiana, Mo., 11:30 a.m.
  - Wenona, Lacon and Washington Express (Western Division), 6:45 a.m.

- Jollet Accommodation, 11:45 a.m.
- St. Louis and Springfield Night Express, via Main Line, 11:30 a.m.
- St. Louis and Springfield Lighting Express, via Main Line, and also via Jacksonville Division, 11:30 a.m.
- Kansas City Express, via Jacksonville, Ill., and Louisiana, Mo., 4:30 a.m.

Exception Saturday.

GOING NORTH.

GOING SOUTH.

Louisville and Nashville Line.

JOHN DEPSTE.

L. S. & M. S. RAILWAY.

On and after Sunday, December 14, 1873, trains will leave South Bend as follows:

GOING EAST.

- 1:47 a.m. (No. 8), Night Express, over Main Line, Arrives at Toledo, 9:00 a.m. Cleveland, 11:50 a.m. Boston, 5:10 a.m.

- 10:20 a.m. (No. 9), Mail, over Main and Air Lines; Arrives at Toledo, 5:10 a.m. Cleveland, 9:50 a.m.

- 11:58 a.m. (No. 4), Special New York Express, over Air Line; Arrives at Toledo, 7:40 a.m. Cleveland, 1:40 p.m.

- 9:09 p.m. (No. 6), Atlantic Express, over Air Line. Arrives at Toledo, 7:40; Cleveland, 7:05; Buffalo, 1:50 a.m. Chicago, 6:50 a.m.

- 3:45 p.m. (No. 10), Local Night. Arrives at Toledo, 3:45 a.m.

GOING WEST.

- 3:20 a.m. (No. 5), Express. Arrives at Laporte, 4:23; Chicago 6:55 a.m.

- 5:20 a.m. (No. 5), Pacific Express. Arrives at Laporte, 6:13; Chicago, 8:13 a.m.

- 6:30 p.m. (No. 7), Evening Express, Main Line, Arrives at Toledo, 7:30; Chicago, 10:15 p.m.

- 5:45 p.m. (No. 11), Special Chicago Express Arrives at Laporte 6:40; Chicago, 9:00 a.m.

LEAVE SOUTH BEND.

- 11:23 a.m. (No. 31), Local Freight. Arrives at Toledo, 12:20 a.m.

Tickertweller, Gen’l Passenger Agent.

 Exceptions noted in local points West, should take Nos. 7, 7, and 71; East, Nos. 29 and 29. Waterv Express connecting with No. 41 leaves Elkhart at 7:45 a.m.; running through to Wabash. Through tickets to all competing points in every direction. Local Tickets insurance tickets, K. R. Guides, etc., will be furnished upon application to the Ticket Agent.

Pennsylvania Central Double Track Railroad.

- PITTSBURGH, FORT WAYNE AND CHICAGO.

- Three daily Express Trains, with Pullman’s Palace Cars, are run between Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York without Change.

- 1st train leaves Chicago 9:00 p.m. Arrives at New York 11:30 a.m.

- 2nd train leaves Chicago 9:41 a.m. Arrives at New York 11:30 a.m.

- 3rd train leaves Chicago 11:07 a.m. Arrives at New York 1:47 p.m.

Connections with trains on Atlantic and Great Western Railroad.

- J. M. McCULLOUGH, Gen’l Manager, Pittsburgh.

CHICAGO ALTON AND ST. LOUIS LINE.

- Trains leave West Side Union Depot, Chicago, near Mad-ison Street Bridge, as follows:

- LEAVE.

- ARRIVE.

- St. Louis and Springfield Express, via Main Line, 8:30 a.m.

- Kansas City, Fast Express, via Jacksonville, Ill., and Louisiana, Mo., 11:30 a.m.

- Wenona, Lacon and Washington Express (Western Division), 6:45 a.m.

- Jollet Accommodation, 11:45 a.m.

- St. Louis and Springfield Night Express, via Main Line, 11:30 a.m.

- St. Louis and Springfield Lighting Express, via Main Line, and also via Jacksonville Division, 11:30 a.m.

- Kansas City Express, via Jacksonville, Ill., and Louisiana, Mo., 4:30 a.m.

- Exception Saturday.

- Sunday runs to Springfield only.

- The only road running 8 Express Trains to St. Louis daily, and Saturday Night Train.

- JAMES CHARLTON, Gen’l Pass and Ticket Agent.

- CHICAGO, Gen’l Superintendent.

LOUISVILLE N. ALBANY & CHICAGO R. R.

- On and after Sunday, November 13, 1873, trains pass New Albany and Salem Crossing, as follows:

- GOING NORTH.

- GOING SOUTH.

- Pass, 7:25 P.M.

- Pass, 8:20 P.M.

- Pass, 9:20 P.M.

- Pass, 10:25 P.M.

- Pass, 11:20 P.M.

CHICAGO, Agent.