NSA Adopts ND Birth Control Plans

by Bill Nagel

The National Student Association has adopted a Notre Dame-sponsored resolution in support of birth control, which was widely discussed at the Eighteenth National Congress of the student government organization, held at the University of Wisconsin from August 30 to September 5. The resolution was fully adopted by Notre Dame's delegation. Back in Indiana, it would be analyzed carefully by St. Mary's representatives and possibly modified before it was proposed at the Congress. He observed that the action taken by the ND delegation was consistent with lectures and symposium held on campus last year.

The test of the ND resolution reads: "UNA supports community family planning programs developed by federal, state, or local government or by responsible private agencies. Furthermore, UNA advocates the creation of student projects to distribute information about existing programs and clinics to stimulate interest in developing such programs and clinics where they do not already exist."

Fr. Hesburgh Returns From Trip To Far East

Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., will return to campus this weekend after a nine-day trip to Asia. Among the stops were Jakarta, Singapore, Kuala Lumpur, Hong Kong, and Peking. He will arrive on campus Friday afternoon.

More recently, Fr. Hesburgh returned to Japan as Vician President of the United Nations Atomic Energy Agency, which has its headquarters in Tokyo for the time being. He应在 shipping for the time being.

On March 4, 9, and 10 the mock United Nations will be held in the Student Center. Notre Dame and St. Mary's students will be recruited to serve as delegates for the 117 countries actually represented in the United Nations. The delegations, which will be divided into the Western, Southern, Afro-Asian, and Latin American Blocs, will represent communities to be provided for the assembly of a real Chinese delegation which will need assistance to be able to participate.

The recruiting of delegates will be conducted starting October I and continuing at St. Mary's and during the first week in November at Notre Dame. It is hoped that 200 will volunteer for this year, making it a major student activity of the year.

The center of activity of the day with Miss Cassidy typifies that which is going on today at Notre Dame. This committee includes Barry McKeever, in charge of the afternoon session; Howard Dooler, coordinator of the faculty; and Mike Carr, head of the mock U.N. Boni Mailo, director of the student government, and Mike Moore, Mr. Dooler, are also members.

In keeping with this year's student theme of the delegation, the March in March of Notre Dame and St. Mary's delegations will involve two student activities.

The Voice Arrives

In the 25 years since the Voice first appeared, those associated with the paper have shared a dream—those at Notre Dame have a full-fledged campus newspaper. Now that dream is becoming reality. The Student Union, with the financial support of the University, has purchased a four-page weekly and has hired a professional staff who will begin publishing the Voice in the fall. The plan is to give students a forum for discussion and expression.

During the past two years, there has been a great deal of interest shown in student affairs at Notre Dame. The campus has experienced a surge of concern about student involvement in the social issues of the day. This new tone of concern and involvement is reflected in the program of this year's student body. The educational experience of the day is awakening an awareness of the lack of a general science course to help students understand the world upon which they must operate. There are more changes this year. The first group from Innsbruck has returned. A second group is due back. The Voice should be initiated immediately.

What Bears Scrutiny

The first group from Innsbruck has returned. There is a new kind of hall system on campus. The College of Arts and Letters thoroughly revised Chuplau, Student government has acquired a new tone of concern and involvement. The honor code is in place in an established reality. There is much about Notre Dame that is new and much that is exciting. There is also much that will bear scrutiny in the editorial pages of the Voice.

Last year's survey of attitudes towards Catholicism revealed the unfortunate problem of Christianity on this campus. This year, however, there should be new forms developing which may help to form students properly to be Christians in the modern world. A new emphasis on half life could mean the development of an atmosphere of Christian community on the campus. Growth in student involvement will be seen to be the half life of a general science course that can help students understand the science in an age dominated by technology. Another problem which seems to need less concern is the lack of a general science course for science students who both need and want the public education offered by the College of Arts and Letters. There are two problems which could be solved by the Notre Dame community. The week's student body is presently in precisely the same state of concern as it is difficult to find one's way through the year. What will this year's student body be like? What saw last year could surely be improved.

For too many years the College of Science seems to have been cut off from university life. A new tone of concern will be reflected in the experience of its yearly representative in the student government. We have among us now a group of Americans who've been looking in from the outside for a year. What they saw could surely be improved.

One wonders if such scrutiny has been seriously begun. In addition, it would seem that the whole campus should benefit from the experience of its yearly representative in the student government. We have among us now a group of Americans who've been looking in from the outside for a year. What they saw could surely be improved.

The Voice is no longer a novelty experiment. It is also not the station quo. If the campus is to understand the growth of a community of honor it must be kept continually before the student—a reminder of the dignity he possesses, of his responsibility in the social communities.

The President's Medallion enters its second year and one can't help but reflect on the story of controversy that accompanied last year's awards. The Medallion is a reward for outstanding leadership. The President's Medallion is already under serious question just as last year. This seems to be a fundamental confusion of values. If student government is to be solved, some form of student direction must be given to defining just what it is supposed to mean to a student at a Catholic university.

Once again student government is undertaking a serious reappraisal of its role at a university. This is a perfectly natural part of concern for and involvement in the more serious areas of student responsibility. They are the ones over which you (the student government) do far more harm than good. The answer is hard to come by because of the lack of a general science course for science students who both need and want the public education offered by the College of Arts and Letters. There are two problems which could be solved by the Notre Dame community. The week's student body is presently in precisely the same state of concern as it is difficult to find one's way through the year. What will this year's student body be like? What saw last year could surely be improved.

The Voice hopes to bring you serious and continuous discussion on campus events and welcome your critical response in its letters column.
One week ago today the game between Notre Dame and Northwestern could have been viewed by 99 out of a hundred people as a 'franchise' game. But the reality today, Notre Dame is fresh off a 24-14 loss to the hands of Purdue last weekend in West Lafayette, while the Wildcats of Northwestern come up with a surprising 25-21 victory over Indiana.

The West before Northwestern had looked weak in dropping a 24-14 game to Purdue. But Northwestern is now playing in a geographic area usually dominated by the Boilermakers and Buckeyes, as well as the Aggies. The Wildcats lost marked them as a weak side in the minds of many.

Thus some weekend Notre Dame was running over the University of California by the score of 48-6. At that time California was a team of questionable strength, but it was known that despite their 3-7 record the previous year they had never been beaten badly. They also were a West Coast team, and the Irish had always had trouble with them. This saturday plus plus 10-7 bias to highly touted Michigan last Saturday adds to the Irish prestige.

But in college football, outlooks change from week to week. The Irish will face Northwestern Saturday in their home opener, a West Coast team, and the Irish had always had trouble with them. This saturday plus plus 10-7 bias to highly touted Michigan last Saturday adds to the Irish prestige.

John Moore, academic commis-missioner of Student Government, has announced that the commission will offer two new services to the University community during the coming academic year: a subscription mailing list and Tele-

Lectures.

The Mailing List provides all Notre Dame and St. Mary's students and faculty members an opportunity to receive notice by mail of all its lectures, poetry-readings, and miscellaneous events. Notice will be sent two or three days prior to an event with all pertinent information about the lecture. This will be in addition to the regular publicity.

To join the subscription list, a post card should be mailed to the Academic Commission, P.O. Box 46, Notre Dame, Indiana, indicating name, address, major and whether notification is desired for the lectures, poetry readings or miscellaneous events.

The Tele-Lectures will allow commission organizations to engage prominent lecturers who, because of the positions they hold, schedule conflicts, cannot appear on campus in person. For a nominal fee to pay for the use of the equipment and the cost of the telephone call, any organization can invit镜子 virtually anyone to lecture and answer questions.

Besides these two new services, the Academic Commission will sponsor gatherings (parties at the homes of professors), a student paperback library in the first floor smoking room of the library, a series of informed classes, and four different lecture series: the Distinguished Lecture Series, the University Lecture Series, the Poetry

Reading Series, and the Pope John XXIII Lecture Series (co-sponsored with the Senior Class).

SMC Curfew Extended;

Drinking Allowed

St. Mary's girls have been granted more liberal drinking and curfew regulations. The announced changes, which were anticipated, were made by Sister Basil Anthony, Dean of Students, at a conversation of the SMC student body last Wednesday. Under the new rules, girls over 21 will be allowed to drink, in accordance with Indiana state law.

In addition, the Friday night curfew, formerly 11:30 for all students, has been changed to correspond to Saturday hours. Freshman girls will have 11:30's, sophomore 12:00, juniors 12:30, and seniors 1:00. Seniors will also be given two 1:00 a.m. "line permission" per semester, and juniors will have one.

Why should a traditional Shetland tie have a medallion on the back?

Because it looks better from the front.

The edges never curl, the point stays centered, always neat. Our Bradford Shetlands are Scotch as a burn, and woven of the softest wools by Hebrides weavers. Softly in blend and exquisitely soft textured, for the most discerning traditionalist. Resilio Ties at knowledgeable retailers. Or write Resilio, Empire State Building, New York City, for name of retailers nearest you.
