Priest To Study Ducks

The National Science Foundation has announced that it will provide Father Duck with a $300,000 grant for a concentrated study of the sociological feeding habits of ducks. It stated that the award was given in recognition of the widespread notoriety of the University’s duck ponds and the distinct social climate they engender.

New Magazine To Appear Here

A new student publication will be distributed on campus tomorrow. The publication entitled THE SCHOLARIST, will be a news, opinion, and literary magazine. Actually the SCHOLARIST has appeared off and on in the past, but it is now being published as a monthly magazine.

"We feel that there has been a need for this publication. After the last few years, we feel that next year will be a good time for us to start again," said John Treadwell, one of the sponsors of the new magazine.

"The magazine will be a forum for students to express their opinions and ideas. We hope that it will be a place where students can come together and share their thoughts on a wide range of topics." said Treadwell.

Challenge III Begins; Set Goal At $35,000,000

The Notre Dame Foundation officially kicked off Challenge III Monday night at a banquet in the Morris Inn.

"We are excited about this year's campaign," said Fr. Then, C.S.C., President of the University.

"We have set a goal of $35,000,000 for this year's campaign. This is the largest goal we have ever set," said Fr. Then.

The goal is to raise funds to support the University's educational and research programs.

The Notre Dame Foundation will be working with the University's administrative offices to help raise the necessary funds.

President of the University will be the campaign's chief fundraiser.

Student Senate Seeks End To Football

The Student Senate has voted to end the university's football program. The vote was 10-0 in favor of the proposal.

The resolution, which was sponsored by Sen. John Doe, was passed unanimously. The resolution states that the football program is no longer in the best interest of the University.

The resolution was passed after a lengthy discussion in which Sen. John Doe argued that the football program is a drain on the University's limited resources.

The resolution now goes to the University's Board of Trustees for consideration.

NewsBriefs

The Notre Dame Hockey Club will play its second game of the season this Friday at 7:00 p.m. at the University's own rink.

The game will be played against the University of Northern Iowa team.

The game will be a non-conference game and will help the team prepare for the upcoming conference games.

The team is currently 1-0-0 in conference play.

As always, the game is free to the public and a great way to support the Notre Dame Hockey Club. So make sure to come out and support your team!
Formidable Season Looms For Fencers

Emerging from their fourth consecutive winning season, the Notre Dame fencers are getting set to learn the pitfalls of the most formidable schedules they have ever faced.

After losing seven nonrook teams, including two-time All American Bill Persse, fencing coach Mike DeCarlo is highly optimistic and expects the best 10-5 posted record of last year. To date the Irishmen have faced the biggest test yet—training Madeira that had two-time All American Paul O'Sullivan and is one of the few fencers in prior-week days.

Co-captain John Malone and John Kiler, both seniors, along with young Pat Korth, will be leading the saber division.

Irish Drop 7th Straight

Johnny Dee's faltering fencers lost seven straight games, including the first game of the season against Creighton.

The Irishmen are determined to stop the losing streak by winning their next six games, in order to set up a potential showdown with the Cadets, who are favorites to win the national title.

It will be optimistically that the Irish go into their match of the year, knowing that the outcome will affect their chances of going to the national championships. The team will be a strong one, having defeated both the Cadets and the Bluejays in the previous weeks.

The Irish will need to step up their game and focus on their strengths to have a chance of winning.

Basketball Is Caldwell Family Tradition

by W. Hubert Giles

It was just like it happens in the movies. The guy comes out of nowhere to make the team and bring some light in on a very frightening situation. Bar unlike the Hollywood model, if Tom Caldwell is to walk off into the sunset, we will have to be on our toes.

Fortunately. Tom Caldwell was a 6-2 junior center on the Notre Dame Basketball Team. The record will also show he had attendee at a shaken heap line but since the Indiana game. The scoreboard will record him in the seven games he averaged several start and a solid 15-rebounder per game. On paper it may not look like much, but the story behind the name is enough to rival most stories we will hear.

The Caldwell of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, is a basketball family. The two older boys Pete and Jim had distinguished themselves as fine players. After the usual "good" high school career they both went on to make fine reputations for themselves with the Georgia Tech Basketball Team. In fact is still playing basketball with an Eastern semi-pro team.

There is another son and his name is Tom and he is our success story. He played against Indiana and played well and will be the team's leading scorer. He averaged 17 points and a solid 15 rebounder per game.

Tom Caldwell's "Jacks" aren't anything spectacular. And his personality is "spectral" anywhere but on our campus. He gave us a taste of the game welove so much and we are sorry to hear of his recent departure.

The "Irish" could not be called successful, nor his second.

When Tom returned to school, this fall the picture was not very optimistic. Though the basketball team was wide open, Tony Vignali and Tom Sernhore were still at least, ahead of him psychologically. It looked like another long and disappointing season. But something happened to Tom Caldwell. By opening night of the season he had pushed, jumped and played his way into consideration for a starting berth. It was a new Tom Caldwell and he became known with his 35-points against St. Murray. It was the sign of the trend to come.

Coach Deo announced he would receive a scholarship.

It is quite uncertain just what he will do now. By putting him on the court he has been able to keep to a level without, on the two teams.

Today's Irish team is a veritable force to the man, a force to be reckoned with. They are all fit and healthy and ready to go. They are the team to beat in the conference and in the nation.
Registration Still Imperfect

Administration officials report that they are not satisfied with the new registration procedures. Few students would agree.

Registration and preregistration have taken place in the past three years that determining the method of registration has been tedious and difficult as registration itself. The old "registration method discussed in 1964 in favor of a computerized preregistration system. This year, 1,107 assigned students to their chosen courses. However, the result was too often in competition with some other course or the computer when the student's choice was rejected.

This year's method, though, may have advantages. Students who are busy, will have a chance to work on other assignments. Students may suffer through the entire process of making a course wish list, completing their schedules, and obtaining authorizations to move sections or courses in closed or that the process was conducted in a similar manner with some 59% of the Liberal Arts college yet to register. Many of the more popular courses were unavailable, and had been since the previous Tuesday.

This is the first time the method has been tried, and the solution lies in giving everyone a fair chance at early registration, either through a machine crisis or a staggering of the alphabet. Whatever the solution, Academic Affairs should realize that they haven't even started to solve the problems of registration.

Across the Road

by Barbara Gibson

Today, I decided to stick to the point of this column and discuss exactly that. Believe it or not, some things are going on at that nearby institution. For instance, last Saturday night the Missions Club sponsored the annual Charity Ball. The dance brought many Notre Dame gentlemen their first opportunity to see just what's behind those doors in the foyer of Leblanc Hall. They found the long hall of administrative offices and main entrance, and Skullton Lounge, the college's formal dining room. The ball itself was held in the former dining room, which is also the former ballroom, Following a "Palais de Roi" theme, the padded, marble floored hall glowed to the French theme around a rotating fire in the fireplace. The old dining hall has proved to be an excellent place for dances, more will be coming up this year.

Several Saint Mary's girls are getting the Bobbies-G.O.H., and are writing to soldiers in Viet Nam. I suppose this is the girls' version answer to turning draft cards. The Cruz received a letter from three Marines in Viet Nam (complete with vital statistics and descriptions of themselves) who wanted Saint Mary's girls for pen pals. I don't know how they decided on Saint Mary's. We don't have an Alumni Association in Selenge, perhaps they went to Notre Dame at one time. However, they will probably get at least 300 letters in response. At least we can say Saint Mary's is ignoring the war in Viet Nam.

The first snowfall this year is bringing thoughts of ice skating on Saint Mary's lake. It was only frozen once last year, during finals. A Winter Carnival near the end of February is being planned, although plans are still tentative. It will include an ice show, skating, snowball fights, and a dance afterwards. There was a huge snowman near the entrance of the North Shore on Sunday night. It could have been a boy frozen from Saturday night. Unfortunately, boys are always the first to freeze. The snowmen are only frozen once in a while.

Want to be a big hero? Then look for big challenges!

Come to General Electric, where the young men are important men.

Important responsibilities come to you early at G.E.

You could find yourself on the team responsible for marketing a new appliance. Or you could be in a laboratory, looking for applications for a remarkable new "artificial gill" that lets marine breathe under water.

This is a worldwide company that makes over 200,000 different products, from jet engines and weather satellites to computers and color TV. In this kind of company, you have to be very good to get very far.

If you are good, you'll be rewarded. With money, of course. But with responsibility, too.

The most important job you'll ever have is your first job.

And the most important job interview you may ever have is with the man from G.E.

Viet Nam Blood Drive Nets 105 ND Donors

Yesterday's blood drive for the American forces in Viet Nam was only partially successful. Only 105 donors were able to come to the phone bank, but the blood that was brought to the phone bank has since been used.

Mrs. Ruth Montana, chief Red Cross worker, said that the blood may not all go to Viet Nam, but will be available to the American forces in Viet Nam.

In contrast to yesterday's drive, a blood campaign conducted by Alpha Phi Omega before Christmas was highly successful. The drive was to help raise the blood deficit of the Red Cross, and it was successful.

An APO spokesman attributed the difference to individual recruiting, which was done on a one-on-one basis. Permission forms were used on postcards, and donors were given unlimited credit for blood for themselves and their families for the next year.

During the year, the university will continue to have blood drives, which will be open to all members of the community at the end of that period.

Farley to Get Phones

Student government is sponsoring a drive to have phones installed in each room on campus. There is a limited number of phones, and there will probably be phones in each student's room.

The student voice to be sought on New Calendar

An opportunity for students to express their opinion on a calendar change and the new semester will be taking place. Student government, in conjunction with Corbaci's office, is preparing to move to a new calendar for the upcoming semester.

If the vote passes, the new semester would begin in January, and the second semester would be in May. The school year would be extended, but students would be able to complete their courses.

In the Farley vote, which was taken in the Library, 77% voted for the new calendar, and 23% were against it.

Beda, Welch, Lyons, and several other members of the Student Affairs Committee, under Tom Lehman, are working on the new calendar.

Honor Council Opens Offices

This evening the Honor Council meeting will open at 8 p.m., at the library. The council will meet in the new offices on the fourth floor of the Library.

Honored guests were the parents of the student council, who died on April 24.

Father Theodore Husthberg and the parents of Larry Kellerman admire a portrait of Larry, which they donated to the honor council.

The council focused on the success of Larry's work on behalf of the community.
