The Bulletin Thanks The Scholastic.

As the local guardian of the interests of the Bengal Mission, it is the pleasant duty of The Religious Bulletin to acknowledge the receipt of $301.25, the net profit realized by The Scholastic on the recent Boxing Show. At the same time the Bulletin congratulates the student paper on its initiative in venturing into this new field, and on the unqualified success which crowned its efforts. A great deal of hard work went into the preparation of the show, and the boys who sacrificed their time for it should be told that it is appreciated. It was a splendid exemplification of Notre Dame spirit, and as such it will hearten the missionaries who have given their lives to the cause.

By-Products of the Show.

One student who was unable to attend the bouts sent in a dollar as his contribution; other gifts stimulated by the publicity attending the show netted $17.75. Mite boxes about the campus have also been receiving gifts, but Sunday's Bengal collection amounted to only $44.98. It all helps to tide over a very bad year.

Other Works of Charity.

In addition to the gifts for the missions mentioned above, contributions for the poor since the last request was made have totalled $34.40. Cast-off clothing has also been brought in; it is still needed.

Shrapnel.

"Marriage is an old and time-worn institution, Columbia undergraduates have been informed in a course required of all freshmen and sophomores, and a freer conception of the relations of the sexes, unhindered by religion or law, should take its place." - Brooklyn Eagle.

Wasn't it Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia, who in his last report deplored "the steady decline in the practice of good manners.....not among the younger generation alone by any means, but also on the part of their elders?" And didn't he, in his assignment of causes for this deplorable condition, blame "the anti-philosophies and the pseudo-psychologies which are so widely diffused just now?" Has academic freedom gone so far that the erudite and scholarly gentleman who rules Columbia University can't stop the imposition upon the freshmen and sophomores of a required credit in concubinage?

"'Take the fads, frills, and thrills out of the public schools,' Henry C. Morrison, professor of education at the University of Chicago, told an audience of teachers, club women, and representatives of civic organizations..." - Chicago Tribune.

This comes with good grace from the University of Chicago, for, after Teachers' College at Columbia University, we know of no institution in the United States which has done more than Chicago to put the fads, frills, and thrills into public school education. We congratulate Prof. Morrison, and we hope that he will have enough influence within his own department to cause an about-face in its teacher-training.

PRAYERS: During the next nine days address your prayers to Our Lady, Health of the Sick, for protection against further sickness this year. - Jas. R. Ross, of Lyons Hall, underwent an operation for appendicitis Sunday. Walter Dillon's uncle, Fr. Kelley, died Saturday morning. Herbert Hasher's mother was seriously injured in an auto accident a few days ago. Yesterday was the first anniversary of the death of Wm. C. Brown's brother. A cousin of Jim Glonson is very ill. Deceased relatives of John Carney and Robert Byrne. A sick person; three special intentions. Mrs. Wm. Nancy, one of the oldest members of the local parish, died suddenly last Friday. A relative of the Prefect of Religion is seriously ill.