A Letter From India.

"At Biroidekuni we have a high school, a boarding school for boys, one for girls, fifteen primary schools scattered among our many villages, ten native catechists and three catechist sisters, but never a doctor nor any real medical treatment except for the little first aid the missionaries and catechist sisters could give. That was the situation until a few months ago when at long last Mother Marthe of the Catechist Sisters was able to bring a sister doctor from France, Sister Emmanuel, fresh from the battlefields and refugee camps of France. She is experienced and capable. She works cures so constantly and so quickly that it seems nothing less than miraculous to us one-time pill distributors. There is none of this helpless standing by and watching them die for her.

"Lepers are her special weakness. She cannot do enough for them. In a few days she had discovered all the lepers within range, and had bathed and disinfected their wounds. Taking Father's horse she was off to distant villages to care for especially bad cases that the other missionaries could not heal. One day she was thrown from her horse, trampled upon and suffered several broken ribs. But she would not be stopped. She bandaged her wounds, climbed back on the horse and continued her journey, not admitting for a moment that this could be any obstacle to her work.

"In less than a month she had commandeered all the available shacks on the compound, scrubbed them clean and voila, the mission is in the hospital business ....a woman's ward and a men's ward of two beds each. Now she says that we are going to build a twelve bed hospital, just for a start, n'est ce pas? I agree with her and wonder where I am going to get a couple acres of land and a couple thousand dollars for the furnishings and buildings.....just for a start, n'est ce pas? She seems to read my mind and replies: "Don't worry, Father, the Little Flower will get it for us." I'm just wondering what soul in America the Little Flower is going to work in order to give Sister Emmanuel and her Lepers their new hospital........."
